ALI JINNAH NAMED PRESIDENT

Karachi, India, Aug. 12—(AP)—The Pakistan Constituent Assembly elected Mohammed Ali Jinnah as its president yesterday and heard from him a plea that the lawmakers forget the past and carry the Quaid-i-Azam in order to achieve peace and prosperity. As Governor-General of Pakistan and president of the Assembly, the Moslem League president will have control over the projected Moslem Indian Dominion and the framing of its constitution.

Marmora

43rd Anniversary Of Wedding Is Celebrated

Marmora (Special) — Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gray celebrated the forty-third anniversary of their marriage Sunday. Marriage took place at the home of Mr. Gray's parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. John Gray, on North Hastings Avenue in the residence now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Otto Osbourne. The late Canon C. M. Harris was the officiating clergyman. The bride was formerly Mildred Hope Davis, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Davis of Rush Point. The attendants were the late Mr. and Mrs. William Gray, brother and sister-in-law of the groom. The wedding took place on the same day that the corner stone of the present Marmora (Orange) Hall was laid.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray who enjoy good health have lived in their present home on Hays Street for the past, thirty-six years. Among other occupations, Mr. Gray has worked for the Fraser Company and the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company and is the present caretaker of Marmora Protestant Cemetery.

SEES 20 P. C. INCREASE

Port Arthur, Aug. 13 — (CP) — A 20-per cent increase in the number of old age pensioners can be expected in Ontario as a result of new legislation now in effect, Welfare Minister W.A. Goodfellow said in an interview yesterday.

WHOLE TOWN COLLAPSES LIKE ACCORDION

These two young ladies of Welch, W. Va., Imogene Thompson, left, and Opal Sutherland, display plenty of courage as they stroll along one of the town's buckled pavements. Many of Welch's streets have started to sink following a mysterious shifting of the earth and large cracks have appeared in many of its buildings. Authorities believe an underground river or extensive mining operations have caused the settling.

Frankford

Miscellaneous Shower

Frankford. (Special.)— On Thursday evening a miscellaneous shower of household articles was held in the Frankford Community Hall, by friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Slingerland, who were unfortunate in losing their home by fire during an electric storm two weeks ago. Mr. Walter Morrow was chairman for the evening, and Mr. H. J. Carter opened the program with community singing with Mrs. S. Martin at the piano. Readings were given by Mrs. J. Finnigan "It's a Man's World—Maybe" by Mrs. Fred Charlesworth, "The Rejected Suitcase", and by Mrs. Raymond Rowe, "Suggestions For Men", vocal solos by Beverly Acton and Kathleen Carter were much enjoyed. Mr. E. Wallace also contributed a vocal solo supplying his own guitar accompaniment and Mrs. Walter Morrow sang "My Task".

Mr. and Mrs. Slingerland then opened the many varied gifts and both expressed their thanks and appreciation to the many friends who had helped them at the time of losing their home and for the final array of articles given them on this occasion. Refreshments were served by the ladies.

Personals

Mr. M. Bowen of Long Island, N.Y., is the guest of his sister, Miss Margaret Bowen this week.

Hydro to Build $20,000,000 Plant At Chenaux Site

Toronto, Aug. 13 — (CP) — Emphasizing that since the end of the war demand for power in Ontario has increased by 25 per cent, the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission has announced plans for immediate construction of a $20,000,000 plant at the Chenaux site on the Ottawa River, expected to develop 160,000 horsepower.

The Chenaux site is about 10 miles from Renfrew, and is only one of six projects which when completed will add something like 900,000 horsepower to hydro's present capacity, or an increase of 50 per cent.

The other five are the 70,000 horsepower addition to the De-Cew plant, an 81,000 horsepower development at Stewartville on the Madawaska, a 63,000 horsepower plant on the Aguasabon at Terrace, a 56,500 horsepower plant at Tunnel site on the Mississagi 50 miles east of the Sault, and the big 480,000 horsepower project at Des Joachims on the Ottawa River.

The Chenaux building will be done by contract because the Commission's field forces are already fully occupied with the other developments. Each province will employ its own workmen on its own side of the river with the Ontario Commission directing the work in consultation with Quebec authorities.

From the outset all power developed will be available to Ontario but when Quebec requires its share it will have the right to draw half of the power and at the same time assume half of the capital cost.

The Commission here estimated that the Chenaux development will be in service in 1951. It involves construction of a 60-foot dam extending 3,000 feet across the Ottawa River, which requires 200,000 cubic yards or 500,000 tons of concrete.

"THE MASKINONGE" after a painting by Shelley Logier.

The Maskinonge, king of Canada's fresh-water fighters, is fast disappearing from many of our lakes. As a result, thousands of fishermen are availing themselves of modern transportation to reach hitherto inaccessible northern waters. True sportsmen at the same time realize that even in these new areas, the supply of fish is limited. They welcome and conform with legislation providing for the conservation of the "muskie".

"Boatmen and boatmen, hotel-keepers and guides feel the pinch when the fisherman drives further north because he can catch nothing but perch and sunfish in the lake that used to teem with bass and maskinonge."

"PLAYFUL" PILOT KILLS THREE, INJURES THREE

Death rode into crowded Ladera Park at Inglewood, Calif., when the light plane, piloted by George Porter, 33, "buzzing" the park, struck a tree top and smashed to earth. A baby, a woman and the pilot were killed and three others were seriously injured. Pilot Porter twice "buzzed" the park's amphitheatre where almost 1,000 children and employees were gathered at a picnic. His third try proved fatal. Deputy Sheriff W. J. Droter, right foreground, inspected the mangled remains of a baby carriage, in which a child was injured. Two mothers were walking their children when the plane pidnged into them. Wreckage of the plane can be seen in the concrete-lined ditch where it came to rest after tearing across the walk.

MOTORSHIP SINKS AFTER COLLISION, CREW ALL SAFE

Carries Down Cargo Of $3,000,000 Worth Of Salmon in Juan De Fuca Strait

Victoria, Aug. 13 (CP) — The 5,525-ton Seattle motorship Diamond Knot, sliced almost half way through in a collision with the freighter Fenn Victory, early in the fog-bound strait of Juan de Fuca at 4:30 a.m. today, Royal Canadian Navy officials said today.

The 325-foot vessel, owned by the Alaskan Steamship Company had a $3,000,000 cargo of salmon aboard as it disappeared below the water while in tow by two tugs. But no casualties or deaths by the 10,681-ton freighter shortly after daybreak.

Captain Thomas of the tug Salvage Chieftain told the Canadian Press by radio telephone that the 36-man crew of the Diamond Knot had been taken safely aboard the big ship.

"There are no casualties on either vessel and the entire crew of the Diamond Knot is safe," Captain Thomas said.

The Fenn Victory, heavily damaged above the waterline, is proceeding slowly under escort to Seattle escorted by United States coastguard vessels.

Rainfall Provides Relief To Firefighters Battling 35 Forest Fires in North Ontario

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Aug. 13 (CP) — Rainfall early today provided some relief to several hundred firefighters battling scattered blazes throughout Northern Ontario and the weather forecast predicted further showers during the day as the fire total rose to 35 during the night.

Heaviest rainfall in the Cochrane area, the maximum reported as two inches, and all fires in that district are under control, officials said. In the area south of this city, there was about three-quarters of an inch of rain and the wet weather was responsible for an improvement in the general condition.

A crew of 125 men with nine pumps fighting scattered fires over a 3,000-acre area in the Chapleau district had had slight relief with showers and more were expected this afternoon.

Officials reported also 25 small fires ranging from five to 40 acres were still burning but most were under control. In the 35 fires to date, the total burned over is reported as only 300 acres.

The Ontario government yesterday closed to travellers 36 townships in a wide area around Timmins and Kirkland Lake. No logging operations are affected by the order but it was designed to prevent travel and camping in a large circle in the Cochrane territory where the fire outbreaks are causing concern.

Apparently the most serious fire was that covering a section four miles long and nearly two miles wide near Chapleau. This was in slash and cut-over timber and 35 men with full equipment had if surrounded. Two planes were servicing the crews on this fire and nine power pumps were in operation. District Forester Wm. Lyman said that this one appeared checked.

More than 300 firefighters were engaged in the battle against blazes north of here. Outbreaks near Wawa and Ministerial were said to present the worst threat in the district. Deputy Minister Parker Burwash and District Forester Arthur W. Leman said the situation was "generally better." The Minister said he was expected to be controllable within the next 24 hours.

In the Sudbury district four fires were reported out last night but a new one is being fought.

BRITISH HOUSE ADJOURNS UNTIL OCTOBER 20TH

Last-Ditch Effort Made By Conservatives To Shorten the Summer Recess Defeated

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 13 —(CP)— Parliament adjourned today until Oct. 20 while government officials met with trade union leaders and industrialists, to plan for combatting British economic ailments with the newly-voted and extensive controls over labor, industry and wealth.

The controversial Supplies and Services Bill embodying these powers received the Royal assent shortly after the House of Lords gave it third reading today. The "drastic" bill empowers the Labor Government to muster all British resources and guide labor into essential industries to achieve economic recovery.

Motion Defeated.

A last-ditch effort by the Conservative opposition in the House of Commons to shorten the recess in view of the economic situation was defeated when the House accepted by a vote of 161 to 84 a government motion for adjournment until October.

The Conservatives wanted the House to adjourn until Sept. 16.

However, the Conservative-dominated Upper House passed a third day bill which money has cause he is prevented from occupying their own homes.

The board said: "Grievous hardship" will be given a restricted meaning. The fact that a landlord may be in financial need will not in itself be considered the cause of grievous hardship.

On the other hand, severe crowding to an extent which interferes with the maintenance of morality and sanitation may disclose hardship of a grave and serious character. It is also intended that relief be granted to old people no longer able to care for themselves whose lives may be shortened, made uncomfortable and unhappy if they are not permitted to occupy their own homes.

If a commissioner grants a landlord's petition the landlord may repossess his house at the expiration of the lease, but petitions are granted for special prices board order will be issued requiring the landlord to refrain from selling or renting the accommodation for one year. This, it said, is the suggestion that Parliament should adopt. The board report of October was "unacceptable".

Not Told of Reductions

"We have not yet been told what relation the government proposes to make in the present estimate of capital expenditure; that is, whether it is going to meet the current inflationary trend in part by a reduction in the greater inflation when the loans can only increase the scale and the effects of further cuts in consumer goods make themselves felt," he said.

Winston Churchill, Conservative leader, declared in the House that the power sought by the Government Bill was "a blank cheque for totalitarian government," scheduled a 10-hour debate tomorrow and Saturday night. It was expected to give Sir Stafford Cripps, opposite number in Britain's stringent economic recovery program, the government's plans to overcome them. Churchill will go on the air at 9:30 p.m. (4:30 p.m. EST. E.D.T.) Conservative party headquarters announced tonight that he would speak Sunday night.

Churchill's bitter attack at the end to oppose the Supplies and Services Bill was announced last night by Conservative Party Whip Commander Lord Salisbury said, however, that the Conservatives would meet again in three weeks and other Conservative party rallies behind a motion for a special summer session to guard against the worst of the government's crisis powers.

Today's scheduled adjournment comes after one of the most momentous sessions in British parliamentary history during which more than half of the Labor Government's 5-year program of nationalization was completed.

Adjournment — not prorogation — also called a "recess" — allowing members to be called back by Westminster if world politics if home economic difficulties or international developments require such a step.

Tentative date for resumption has been set for Oct. 21, but many members urged an earlier meeting. Already the government majority has been prolonged three days because of the crisis powers legislation.

Govt. Takes Steps To Provide Relief For Landlords

Commissioners Will Hear Petitions of Hardship

Ottawo, Aug. 13 (CP) — The Prices Board announced today that steps have been taken to provide relief for landlords of tenanted-dwellings who are suffering "grievous hardship" because they are prevented by rental regulations from moving in to their own homes.

The relief, to apply to those who became owners of tenanted dwellings up to Dec. 31, 1946, will be provided by commissioners appointed by the Prices Board at main points in Canada to hear cases of hardship.

Will Hear Both Sides

Both landlords and tenant will be heard by the commissioners in balancing the merits of each case.

"No purpose would be served by relieving the hardship of the landlord at the expense of an even greater hardship to the tenant," said the board.

The commissioners will receive petitions from landlords of tenanted-dwellings who with their families are, or claim to be, suffering grievous hardship because they are prevented from

PICKERING BANK LOOTED

Pickering, Ont., Aug. 13 —(CP) —Two gunmen today forced five members of the Canadian Bank of Commerce to march their heels the vaults and escaped in a packed automobile with a loot estimated at $17,000. There were no witnesses to the bank at the time.

After ordering out the vault and the teller's cage the gunmen forced the staff of five to lie stretched in the vault and closed the doors. As they walked into the bank the bandits drew their guns and ordered the staff to line up against the wall and "nobody make a move for the phone."

...Licence number of the vehicle believed used in the getaway was broadcast in error by authorities. The actual number was not known immediately.

One gunman was described about 25 years of age, with dark trousers and white shirt. He had an impediment in his speech. The other was dressed similarly and his face is pock-marked.

Three Children Swim Detroit R.

Windsor, Aug. 13 (CP) — Pushing along an inflated inner tube "just in case," three Windsor children — two boys and a girl — swam across the busy Detroit river yesterday.

The girl was wondering for weeks if they could do it — and decided on the only sure way to settle their doubts.

She landed safely at Detroit's Third Street docks after a jaunt of almost a mile, and Ted Smith, 13, and Kenneth Fox, 11 — were within a few yards of the Michigan shore when an equally daring return trip was begun by a United States mailboat underneath the Ambassador Bridge.

The girl, Miss Harold Joanne Heinfer, passed up the idea of going home by car and was suddenly surrounded by a squad of newspaper reporters and told to put an end to the shenanigans.

Freight Trains Collide, Engineer Severely Scalded

Toronto, Aug. 13 —(CP)— Two southbound freight trains collided at a railway siding in Scarborough Township this morning in the injury of Alonzo Marshall, 56-year-old C.N.R. engineer of Stratford. Engineer of the second train, Harry Bider of 1270 King St., Kingston, was unhurt.

Marshall was severely scalded about the lower part of his body and suffered a fractured right shoulder. Both engines and 10 steel rails were overturned and wrecked and it was estimated more than two hours to get the cars back on the rails.

Police said there were no injuries.

Fire Ravages Cape Breton Village Burning 28 Homes And Races on Unchecked

Cheticamp, N. S. Aug. 13 — (CP) — Licking tongues of fire advanced on Cheticamp and other settlements on the northern tip of Cape Breton today after flaming down a mountainside and destroying half the village of Pleasant Bay and then sweeping on unchecked.

Lying offshore, ready to evacuate the some 200 residents of Wreck Cove, Meat Cove, Money Point, Margaret's, and Cape North were the R.C.M.P. patrol vessel Vigilant and a host of small fishing vessels.

Cheticamp, the last communities similar to that at Pleasant Bay in which 100 persons were taken off Monday night by the scurry of the vast forest fire raged north and east, driven by a 45-mile-an-hour wind.

Lafleur reports put the front wall of the fire about 12 miles from the settlement, and it was moving fast. It moved about six miles yesterday.

More than 200 firefighters attacked the blaze from the rear — the only point from which they lines were down.

could get at it — but with little hope that the forest rangers said only a 48-hour downpour could halt it.

The fire has laid waste at least 20 square miles of spruce and pine in the northern-most tip of the Cape Breton Highlands National Park and levelled at least half of the buildings in Pleasant Bay, 20 miles north of here. The flames apparently jumped off from the top of MacKenzie Mountain southeast of Pleasant Bay and then raced down the glens of the highlands to cut off Meat Cove and Trais around Northern Cape Breton.

Most of the 1,000 refugees in Cheticamp poured in by truck and motor launch last night. Jos. R. Lafleur, M.P. for Victoria, K.C., 110 miles to the south arrived with Cheticamp's first refugees and an army unit pitched five tents.

Mrs. Lafleur said there was becoming a problem as stores in Pleasant Bay were demolished. Residents report the head back from the fire front as telephone lines were down.

CANADA EMBARGO ON U.S. NEWSPRINT MAY BE IMPOSED

This Would be Counter-Move to Embargo Placed on U. S. Coal Shipments by C.N.R. Crews

Ottawa, Aug. 13 — (CP) — An embargo on shipments of United States coal to Canada over Canadian National Railways lines was ordered today to go into effect at midnight tonight and official quarters here, perturbed about the situation, declared that the embargo of a Canadian embargo on shipments of newsprint to the United States as a counter-move.

Transport Minister Chevrier was expected to make a statement today on the Washington action ordered by the Interstate Commerce Transportation which said Canada Railway is not affected by the embargo.

Meanwhile, a high government official here said the C.N.R. is a Canadian embargo on shipments of newsprint to the U.S. This statement issued yesterday at Montreal by R. C. Vaughan, president of the C. N. R. Mr. Vaughan said the U. S. embargo had been made "effective by the without careful weighing of factors involved." He said the U.S. action was failure to return C. N. R. box cars to Canada and hoped this would not result in any inability to provide all the cars needed for paper

KING OF STRIKE-BREAKERS DIES

New York, Aug. 13 — (AP) — Pearl Bergoff, 73, whose activities as "king of the strike-breakers" brought him reputed $10,000,000 in more than 20 years of bloody labor battles, died Monday night. He started his strike-breaking career in 1907 against New York longshoremen, and led armed forces against workers in approximately 300 strikes.

PETERBOROUGH GETS FRANCHISE IN BORDER LOOP

Dit Clapper Will be President and Team to be Owned by Toronto Jaycees

Toronto, Aug. 13 —(CP)— President Peter Campbell of Toronto Maple Leafs announced tonight that the Canadian Amateur baseball club had obtained a Peterborough franchise for entry in the Class "C" border league next year.

The announcement followed a statement issued by Campbell earlier terminating the Leafs' agreement with Boston Red Sox of the International league at the end of the season. In his statement Campbell said he was interested in developing a farm system in Canada.

The Toronto baseball club will own 100 per cent of the Peterborough entry, Campbell said, adding that Dit Clapper, Boston Red Sox star, will be field manager president of the organization with Campbell himself as vice-president.

He will encourage baseball and provide an opportunity for young Canadian prospects and there are many, he said, in the Peterborough area."

Campbell said that Riverdale Park in Peterborough would be made available for Toronto farm team's home games. The Toronto club would advance $10,000 toward improvements in the park and installing floodlights. Peterborough's city council would assist in making the park suitable

78 SENT TO HOSPITAL

Canon City, Colo., Aug. 13 — (AP) — Seventy-eight officers and prisoners at the Colorado penitentiary were sent to hospital with serious food poisoning but quick action by Canon City physicians prevented what Warden Harry Tinsley termed "a possible loss of life." One guard, Ernest Hightower, remained in critical condition early today.

Several Ontario Centres Face Crisis in Water Supply

(By The Canadian Press)

With the mercury soaring into the 90s again today, parched throats and parched lawns imperilled the water supply in a number of Ontario centres, while officials in other municipalities keeping an eye on growing consumption figures were ready to issue "must use" appeals at any moment.

Severest hit was Kitchener, a Canadian Press survey showed, and aid from the Provincial Health Department was promised should the water shortage continue much longer. Water-saver pressure in the city was reported at zero and the situation was said to be the most critical in the city's history.

A municipality of some 40,000 persons now addicted by the city of Waterloo with about 10,000, Kitchener's water supply is from artesian wells and the use of 9,000,000 gallons a day is five-day ban on drinking water to conserve supply was said unfit for consumption.

Hardest hit were manufacturers who depended upon water pressure for certain forms of manufacturing.

Danger from fire was faced in the St. Catharines district, where pressure fell almost to zero, in spite of special warnings issued by civic officials yesterday. 50,000 gallons more were used Tuesday than the record 4,140,000 gallons used the day previous. Besides affecting fire fighting equipment the low water pressure was noted on the top floors of apartments and the city hospital which in many cases were without water.

In suburban Windsor and Toronto residents have been under daily lawns during daytime hours were put into effect. A warning against undue use of water was issued in Hamilton though the situation has not become serious.

Record water consumption figures were recorded in Brantford, Woodstock, Galt, North Bay, London, Kingston and Ottawa, but serious shortages in these cities were not anticipated.

Berlin, Aug. 13 (AP) The United States military government said yesterday British and American taxpayers had paid nearly $300,000,000 since Jan. 1 to help feed Germans in the British and American zones of Germany.

FREIGHT TRAIN DERAILED

Elizabeth, N. J., Aug. 13—(AP) —The Pennsylvania railroad was blocked here early today by the derailment of a freight train which sent coal cars sprawling over the four mainline tracks.

Elizabeth police said the derailment probably would block traffic most of the morning and would delay thousands of commuters headed to Manhattan as well as mainline trains to and from Washington.

Police said there were no injuries.

London Barmaid Says "Fiddling" In the Trade is Quite Common

By NORMAN LEBRENZ
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 13. (CP)—London barmaids, most of whom rule their customers with an iron hand, have been known to down their quarterly tresses and moan about the hardships of their profession.

"We get 35 bob a week, a bit more if you're lucky, ... and you live in," said a fair-haired teller in a Fleet Street tavern as she ducked through a hole in the counter. "But that's the good side of it."

She popped up behind the three beer pumps that distinguish every British tavern and patting her peroxide curls added glowingly: "You exist for one half-day off a week, from 11 in the morning till 11 at night, and you're off in the afternoons from 3 till 5. It's a poor life. That's why there's so much fiddling in the trade."

Fiddling she explained, was a trade term for drinking at the tavern keepers expense. Generally it meant taking a surreptitious sip of whisky or gin while out ringing it up on the till; occasionally accepting a drink from a customer and pocketing the money.

"Every now and then you hear of a barmaid carrying things a bit too far. There was one. I knew used to drink half a bottle of gin between closing time and 11 to help feed Germans in the British and American zones of Germany.

long as it comes out of a bottle," she said, who worked at the same place for 25 years and who took the job so seriously she wanted to be with the publican under the her bed and a revolver under the pillow. But such types are rare nowadays.

"In most pubs," she added, "the landlord checks the till himself after closing time and puts the money in a safe. Then the morning he gets out of the barmaids to take it down to the bank. But not every everything's shown on the register itself's left to the boss to check on."

Another source of loss to the landlord is the barmaid who offers free drinks to favorite customers. These are generally limited to "a drop of the hard stuff" and by the time they've had a few drinks the landlord puts them out of his own pocket.

Publicans usually get caught out in the end or they have to be pretty smart to keep it up for more than a few months. They caught one barman because his cash register didn't work. The landlord peeped inside he found a full bottle of silver picked off a wet counter.

"The landlord knew it wasn't the barman's because the rule is that people serving behind the bar should not have any of their own money in their pockets.

"Most landlords know that a certain amount of fiddling goes on. ... All the same," she added says they'll drink anything so "I wish I had a pub of my own."

'Dandy' New Monster in Albany R. Rivals Ogopogo and Scots' Serpent

Lake Minniska, Ont., Aug. 13 (CP)—British Columbia's Ogopogo and Scotland's Loch Ness monster better look out—there's a new sea serpent and he's a dandy, by all accounts.

The latest serpent is unnamed as yet, but he's becoming a familiar character to those permanent residents of the 100 odd miles on the Albany River on the west side of Hudson Bay. He's also the subject of the Canadian National Railways' announcement today.

Discovery of the monster can be credited to a Toronto newspaperman and a Lands and Forests official.

Today's scheduled adjournment comes after one of the most momentous sessions in British parliamentary history during which more than half of the Labor Government's 5-year program of nationalization was completed.

Weather Synopsis

Over Southern Ontario yesterday, temperatures soared to new highs for the season. Hot and humid heat wave continues unabated. Little relief from the oppressive humid heat was experienced during the night and temperatures in most districts held above 70. Cool air now covers most of the White and Arctic areas of the continent. The southward movement of this cool air mass is being retarded, and it appears that Southern Ontario will be treated two more days of the hot weather.

The Indian braves naturally were skeptical. So Daniel Wawrzyn went out in a freighter canoe with an outboard motor, to look for the speed records coming back. He said: "I saw the thing with my own eyes, and that it was too horrible to describe.

Mike Lewicky, who has retired from service as an army lieutenant, is one of the Indian band. He was overseas for two years and considers himself an expert with rifle or revolver. He took both weapons with him and didn't see a thing. But Lewicky prevailed on Chief Joseph Wawrzyn and Tank MacDougal, Ontario Deputy Minister of Lands and Forests, to take a trip down the lake.

Lewicky said: "Eli route back to camp all four saw a terrific splashing in the water. It was not a moose. It was a sturgeon it must be a monster, a terrific one.

"Whatever did the splashing was twenty feet long. I'm serious and there is a nani-bouo on the river and are very much afraid they are travelling in their canoes."

HASTY PEES TO HOLD ANNUAL REUNION

The first official annual reunion of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment will be held in this city on October 4 and 5 according to officials of the Regimental Association. A tentative program calls for a banquet, dance, parade, drumhead service and an association meeting. The local company of the regiment will be hosts to their comrades.

ERROR IN AD

In the advertisement of Walker Stores Limited that appeared in Tuesday's issue of this paper an error occurred in an item listed under 'Short Supply Items' reading "Flannelette Sheets," 93 cents, 96 cents, and $1.09. This should have read "Flannelette Sheeting" 93 cents, 96 cents, and $1.09.

MORE WATER BEING PUMPED EACH DAY

Thirsty Bellevillians consumed 190,000 more gallons of water yesterday than on the same day last year, officials at the Belleville pump house stated today.

One year ago 3,146,000 gallons of water were pumped into the city for parched lawns and throats. Yesterday the volume was 3,336,000 gallons pumped or an increase of 190,000 gallons.

This is not a record volume of water pumped by officials point out that the volume is increasing every day.

WATER LEVEL IN BAY BEGINS TO DROP

The water level in the Bay of Quinte has begun to drop from its record high set this year, states Mr. George O. Tice, harbormaster.

The water has gone down six inches during the past few days. Even yet, however, cottages and boat docks along the bay shore are flooded. Several houses at Rossmore continue to be inundated.

SEVERAL CASES DOG ILLNESS REPORTED

Several dogs in the city are suffering, with one already dead, from a disease that has been termed poisoning by certain veterinarians while others and non-professional dog experts are of the opinion the malady is a severe form of abdominal influenza.

Five other cases have been reported, with the animals bordering between life and death. It is reported that no symptoms of distemper accompany the disease. The dogs become lethargic and gradually become weaker until they are hardly able to get around.

They are unable to maintain food in their stomachs, and refuse to take any nourishment. One dog owner stated that the only nourishment his dog was able to "keep down" was an eggnog containing a tablespoon of whisky.

Sales of Radio Licences Higher

Radio inspectors of the Federal Department of Transport will be in the city shortly to start a systematic check of radio licenses, Mr. A.G.E. Argue, of the Department said today. Mr. Argue was en route to Picton to organize a check-up in that town stated that sales of licenses in this district up to the present time, was greatly in excess of the number for the same period in 1946.

Sales in the Belleville District thus far have amounted to 3,200 as compared to 1,800 last year.

Urging that delinquent radio owners purchase their licenses as soon as possible, the government representative said that the department was not anxious to press charges against delinquents without first giving them a chance to secure the licence.

He also reminded persons with radio equipped automobiles that a separate licence was necessary if they had a radio in their homes as well as the car.

President Chosen As Delegate To Legion Convention

The regular monthly meeting of the Canadian Legion was held at 34th battery armouries on Church Street last night and the members decided to again observe Armistice Day on November 11th with a monster banquet, parade of veterans to the Cenotaph and an outstanding speaker, possibly General Price, president of the Canadian Legion will address the banquet members.

President Angus Duffy was elected as delegate to the Legion convention to be held in Windsor in September, while Everett Liddle was chosen as alternate delegate. Two new members were initiated and reports were given on the Poppy Fund by Ernie Dainard and boxing and baseball by Walter Harden. The Legion will sponsor along with the Kiwanis Club a floodlight game of baseball with an all-star team from the city and district competing against the House of David nine.

At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served.

Marmora

Mercury Hits 92 in Shade

Marmora—Tuesday was doubtless the warmest day experienced in Marmora and Deloro this summer. It was 92 in the shade shortly after noon at at 6 p.m. it was still 90.

Refreshment counters did good business with ice cream and soft drinks.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Cuddy of of Toronto, spent last week with relatives here.

A miscellaneous shower was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wiley in Marmora town hall Monday evening. George Wiley's Wildcats furnished music for dancing. The young couple received many choice presents.

Mrs. Dan Osborne had the misfortune to sprain her left wrist about 8 a.m. on Monday through falling on the back steps of her residence. She was attended by Dr. W. J. Donevan. She attributes her fall to being slightly affected by the heat.

Mr. Frank Clemens has returned to Peterborough following two weeks' vacation with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Clemens during which time they visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank VanDoosen at Falconbridge.

BETTER IN AFRICA

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 13 (CP)—Back home in Africa, Walter M. Pengelley remarked yesterday, "we never have weather like this."

"In Southern Rhodesia it is usually around 85 degrees in the summer, and the temperature never goes above 90 degrees at noon."

Pengelley, here on a business trip, was sweltering in 94-degree weather.

W.P. Youdale, Belleville, Given Preceptory Jewel

Saint John, N.B., Aug 13 (CP)—Dr B S Bailey of Winnipeg became Supreme Grand Master of the Sovereign Great Priory of Canada (Knights Templar) as the religious and military order concluded its 64th annual assembly here yesterday. He succeeded James Stanley Hoyt, Saint John, who completed a two-year term.

Other officers elected and installed included Fred G. Mann, Peterborough, Ont., to the Grand Council.

The 25-year-jewel was awarded to W. P. Youdale, Belleville, Ont.

Picton

Anti-Aircraft Camp Concludes Season's Work

Picton Aug. 13 — Activities at Point Petre anti-aircraft camp have concluded for the season. Groups of men from several parts of Canada came here for the training, including the firing of huge anti-aircraft guns. Courses at the R.C.A. station here are continuing. To mark the close of camp, a picnic, with sports is being held at Point Petre. The R.C.R. Band of Brockville is providing music.

Communities Hold Showers

Two communities are holding showers to assist Mr. and Mrs. Jack VanDusen who lost all their material possessions when fire destroyed their Royal Street home. There are five children under 13 years of age. Thursday night at Cherry Valley Hall, Athol township friends will give a shower of all kinds of house furnishings. Councillor Clinton Green and Floyd Carnahan, with Philip Dodds are in charge.

At Milford hall, Friday night South Marysburgh residents will hold a similar shower. Reeve D. Thompson and Councillor W. Striker are in charge.

Picton merchants are also generously responding to aid the striken family.

Canada's Navy Building Reserve

Ottawa, Aug. 13 (CP)—Canada's navy is building a reserve that could immediately go to sea in time of war.

From the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve and from University Naval Training Divisions, seaminded men are reporting to the reserve training base at Halifax and the navy estimated today that some 800 will have had at least some sea duty by September.

The officers and men have been reporting to Halifax since the middle of April for two weeks' summer training aboard Canadian warships including the algerine minesweepers Portage and New Liskeard, the tribal class destroyer H.M.C.S. Haida and until recently, aboard the aircraft carrier Warrior.

During the sea cruises the men stand regular watches in engine rooms, boiler rooms and on lookout. While off watch they attend lectures.

The main object, the navy added, is to provide a naval reserve that in time of war would be prepared to go to sea on the first ship out of the battle areas.

Intense Heat Causes Early Closing Govt. Offices

Toronto, Aug. 13 — (CP) — With government action to alleviate the situation impossible, officials at Queen's Park took the next logical step — they quit.

The "impossible situation" was the same that is bothering the rest of Eastern Canada—the heat. Civil Service Commissioner C. J. Foster informed all employees in the government buildings that three o'clock was "quitting time" today due to the intense heat and humidity.

Before the order was issued, the authority of a cabinet minister was required and Health Minister Kelley, the only member of the cabinet to show at his office today, ordered the buildings closed this afternoon.

"It's only what I would do in my own office in heat like this," he commented.

J.A.D. McCurdy Lieut.-Governor Of Nova Scotia

Ottawa, Aug. 13 —(CP)— John Alexander Douglas McCurdy, a 61-year-old Cape Bretoner who 38 years ago became the first man in the Empire to fly a plane by taking a flimsy aircraft aloft for a few minutes at Baddeck Bay, N.S., has been named lieutenant-governor of his native Nova Scotia.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King made the unheralded announcement here last night and said Mr. McCurdy, who during the war helped map Canada's aircraft production program, would succeed Lt.-Col. Hon. H. W. Kendall. Col. Kendall, Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia since 1942, has been ill for two years and has tendered his resignation which has been accepted.

Even Mr. McCurdy was caught by surprise. At his birthplace and present home, Baddeck, N.S., he said that he greatly appreciated the honor and would serve as "well as a country boy from Cape Breton could."

In his early days of pioneering aviation, he became associated with Alexander Graham Bell, the inventor of the telephone, who helped finance his venture which led to the first flight in the Empire.

Jammed Throttle Latest Theory On Cause of Wreck

Kingston, Aug. 13 — Post mortem on the bodies of the engineer and fireman who lost their lives in the train wreck at the C.N.R. station here Sunday night showed that death had been caused by asphyxiation by steam and from severe burns. There was no evidence to suggest that either of the men died before the accident occurred, Dr. G. C. Lindsay, coroner said yesterday.

An inquest will be held into the death of the two men, Biard Embury, engineer, and Charles Henry White, fireman, both of Belleville. Coroner Lindsay said that no date for the inquest had been set.

Announcement of the result of the post-mortem spiked rumors that the engineer had died of a heart attack just before the engine of the Ottawa-Toronto section of No. 15 passenger train went out of control.

Traffic was back to normal today with the engine and the damaged coaches removed. Theories of a broken rail and loose wheels seem to have given way today to the suggestion that the throttle had seized, and thus had rendered it impossible to reduce the speed of the engine. The latest theory was advanced following the report of an unidentified observer near Findlay Station, who said he had noticed the engineer working "frantically" with levers as the train passed through there.

Teacher Shortage Said Due To Several Factors

Halifax, Aug. 13 — (CP) — Among the reasons for the current shortage of teachers were community "interference" in the teacher's life, low standard of training and low salaries, a committee report presented to the annual convention of the Canadian Teachers' Federation says.

The report. presented at the opening session of the four-day convention yesterday, followed studies of the teaching problem in Canada, the United States, Britain and New Zealand by a committee under chairman E. A. Crosthwaite of Yorkton, Sask.

Poor working and living conditions, particularly in rural areas, along with the "low prestige" of the profession also were blamed.

Solutions offered in the report include: A floor under teachers' salaries with a national schedule of wages; sabbatical leave and "a change in the present summer school slavery;" a year's leave with full pay every 10 years to improve qualifications; institution of satisfactory and generous pension schemes.

BODY RECOVERED

Chesley, Ont. Aug. 13 (CP) — Norman Malcolm McKillip, 25, of Chesley drowned in the Saugeen River near here last night as he and an eight-year-old companion, Madeline McDonald went beyond their depths. The girl was rescued by her father. The body of McKillip, said to be a non-swimmer, was recovered later.

DUST TOBACCO CROPS

St. Thomas, Aug. 13 — (CP) — Those big, green, horned worms that attack the bright tobacco leaf are being fought from the air in this district. Employing a method similar to cotton dusting in the southern United States growers have been using airplanes to dust crops here with DDT. Cost of dusting is about $2 an acre.

PETERBOROUGH

for professional ball which has not been played there since the Canadian league broke up in 1914.

It is understood here that next season the border league will be enlarged to embrace eight clubs — Ottawa, Kingston, Auburn, Geneva, Watertown, Ogdensburg, Peterborough and one other centre — probably Belleville.

Council Expresses Approval

Peterborough, Aug. 13—(CP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs will contribute $10,000 to the cost of putting Riverside Park in shape for professional baseball here next summer Pete Campbell, president of the Leafs has informed the city council and the council has expressed its approval of the club using the park.

A citizen committee consisting of Vern Dawson, Hugh Campbell, George R. Clarke, Dit Clapper and Harry Baptie has been working on the project and it is hoped that sufficient money will soon be raised to provide for the night lighting and other repairs to the park.

Alderman John A. Sullivan has been named chairman of a council's committee to co-operate with the citizens committee.

Mr. Campbell has a 60-day option on one of two new berths in the Border League, increasing it from its present six to eight teams, and is offering the opening and opportunity to Peterborough, the home of his youth.

Good Sports Town

"The president of the league would like to see two more entries from Ontario, and gave me 60-day option on territorial rights," said Mr. Campbell. "My first thought was Peterborough because it used to be my home, it has always been a great sports town, and it is in fairly close proximity to Kingston and Ottawa. If we could have a club here Dit Clapper would be president, we'd have a group of directors and I would be vice-president. We would also have a general manager."

Hugh Campbell, president of Outboard Marine Mfg. Co. said it was definitely intended to help the "kids" especially bantam, juvenile and juniors.

"Young amateur players in Peterborough and Central Ontario will be given every chance to catch places on this class 'C' pro team," Dit Clapper who will be president of the Border League Club here, said today. "That is one of the reasons the Toronto Leafs are sponsoring the club, to develop more Canadian players. I believe it will be a fine thing for Peterborough sports."

CANADA EMBARGO

loading to the United States."

The official said that while Mr. Vaughan's statement could be interpreted as a "threat," the C.N.R. had not communicated it as such to Washington authorities so far as was known here.

It was conceded here that the U. S. coal embargo would jeopardize Canada's reserves of coal for home, industrial and railway purposes because the C.N.R. handles the greater amount of the import. But it was pointed out that any action by Canada banning newsprint shipments to the U. S. also would hit hard at a major American industry.

Transport Minister Chevrier said he knew of no move to embargo Canadian newsprint shipments and declared it probably would be a government matter in which the trade department would have something to say.

He was hopeful that the situation would be cleared up but said the embargo was the result of a dispute over the number of open top coal cars now in Canada. He said Canadian figures showed these cars in Canada had been reduced from a peak of 17,000 to 8,120 but the U. S. Office of Defence Transportation claimed Canada had not returned 16,000.

JEREMIAH VAN MEER
Ajax, Ont.

Madoc — An aged and highly respected resident of Madoc and vicinity for many years in the person of Jeremiah Van Meer died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. F. Scott, Ajax, Ontario, after a lengthy illness. He was born in Thurlow Township, 89 years ago, being the son of the late Jeremiah and Palma Van Meer and through his early life followed the occupation of farming near Madoc and vicinity. He retired some years ago and has been living with his children. His wife, the former Margaret Anne Black, predeceased him 13 years ago.

A member of Actinolite United United Church he is survived by one son, Fred Van Meer of Tweed, three daughters, Mrs. Lillian McClary of Huntingdon Park, California, Mrs. F. (Bessie) Scott of Ajax, Ontario and Mrs. Dave (Alma) Kernahan of Madoc.

The funeral notice will be found elsewhere in this edition.

LEWIS ALCOMBRACK
(Springbrook)

Another link between the colorful agricultural past of Hastings County and her modern present was broken in Springbrook on Tuesday morning with the death of Mr. Lewis Alcombrack, highly esteemed resident of that village, whose name was synonymous with farming in the southern part of the county for the past three and one-half decades.

The late Mr. Alcombrack who was in his early eighties, had been in slightly failing health for the past few months, but not seriously enough to confine him to his bed. On Tuesday he arose dressed and ate his breakfast. Later he lied down to rest and quietly passed away.

Born in Huntingdon township over eighty years ago, Mr. Alcombrack devoted his entire life to farming. An industrious indefatigable worker, he was well liked and down through the years enjoyed a well deserved popularity with all with whom he came in contact.

Mr. Alcombrack never married He was a member of the United Church.

The only surviving relative is a half-sister, Miss Ethel Peake, with whom he resided in Springbrook.

The funeral will be held from the late residence. Springbrook, to Springbrook United Church with service at 2 p.m. Interment Mont Nebo Cemetery.

'SHAKE-UP' FORECAST

Port Arthur, Aug. 13 — (CP)— A "shake-up" in the administration of the Port Arthur district jail was forecast by Hon. George Dunbar, Ontario Municipal Affairs Minister, who said in an interview yesterday that conditions there would be investigated after he found them generally unsatisfactory.

"There is considerable overcrowding," he declared, adding that on his visit he found prisoners with "a week's growth of beard" who told him they were not permitted to shave or bathe more than once a week.

IN MEMORIAM

McCURDY—In sad and loving memory of a dear husband and father, "Sandy" McCurdy, who passed away suddenly, August 13th, 1946.
A beautiful memory, dearer than gold
Of a Father whose worth can never be told
At night the silent stars look down
On a grave not far from here,
There sleeps a Father we can't forget,
A Father we loved so dear.
The dearest Father this world could hold,
The cheeriest smile and a heart of gold,
For those who knew him all will know
How much we lost one year ago.
—Ever remembered by wife and family. A13

LANG—In loving memory of Hilda Bell Lang, who passed away Aug. 13, 1942.
Five years have passed and gone,
Since one we loved so well
Was taken from our home on earth
With Jesus Christ to dwell.
The flowers we placed upon her grave
May wither and decay,
But the love for her who sleeps beneath,
Shall never fade away.
—Ever remembered by J. Ernest Lang and sons Franklin and Eugene. A13

American Tourists Absorb Surplus Canada Currency

By R. K. CARNEGIE

Ottawa, Aug. 13. (CP)—Reports from Buffalo, N.Y., of a heavy demand for Canadian dollars by American tourists planning to visit Canada, confirm forecasts made yesterday by banking officials here that the tourist season would tend to wipe out any surplus of Canadian currency in the United States.

Buffalo despatches say the demands upon banks there for Canadian dollars has been so great that one bank which often held as much as $60,000 in Canadian bank notes had less than $1,000 one day last week.

The reason for this great demand is that tourists can buy Canadian dollars in United States at the discount fixed in the open market in New York, which today was 7 7-8 per cent, whereas if they paid their expenses while in Canada in United States funds they would only receive par, the official rate for Canada's exchange Control Board.

The board does not allow Canadian dollars bought at a discount in the open market in United States to be used to pay for Canadian imports into that country but does permit a tourist to use such Canadian currency to pay his expenses while visiting Canada.

Exchange experts here say there is no great amount of Canadian currency in United States because the board is strict in allowing Canadian dollars to be exported. In the off-season for tourists, however, the dollars are quite equal to six open market demand. Canadians visiting United States may occasionally run out of American dollars and have to use Canadian dollars at a discount but as a rule they get sufficient United States at par here before they leave.

Buffalo despatches are advising their clients to buy drafts on Canadian banks instead of bringing in the actual Canadian currency. This would mean that a Buffalo bank would sell a tourist a draft, say, for $1,000 on a Canadian bank, knowing the payment somewhat less than $1,000 in United States funds. The Buffalo bank would then have to buy Canadian dollars to cover the amount. In other words, the bank is not permitted to sell short on Canadian dollars. This short would be caught in this country by the Foreign Exchange Board.

During the off-season in the tourist trade United States bank deposits frequently charged a greater discount than charged in New York to cover cost of shipping the currency to that financial center.

Husband Admits Killing Wife And Cutting up Body

Detroit, Aug. 12.—(AP)—A middle-aged machinist and former butcher has signed a statement prosecutor James N. McNally reported today, admitting he killed his 39-year-old wife and hacked her body to pieces.

McNally said Harry Treski, 50, gave up last night after trying to tempt to implicate two others in the Saturday slaying of his wife, Jean, and finally took full responsibility for the act in a formal statement signed after lengthy and intensive police grilling.

The business done earlier had been quoted by police as calling his wife a "no-good woman," and in the statement he was infuriated because she was "chasing around" with one men, the prosecutor added.

Treski admitted, according to McNally, that he struck the fatal blows with a meat cleaver handled in the dingy room the couple had occupied for 11 days since their marriage, then stabbed his wife with a beer can opener, used a small knife to dissect her body and then disposed of it in three bundles in the alley behind the Third Avenue rooming house.

No formal charge has yet been placed against Treski, McNally said.

Police, who had located all the parts of Jean's body by Monday, arrested six of her male acquaintances, but questioned the husband most extensively.

UNCLAD MAN ANNOYS WOMEN

London, Ont., Aug. 13 (CP) — It may have been the heat which drove the man to disrobe, but women on Meadow Lily Bridge district frowned upon the sight last night. Three of them phoned police but Provincial Constable Reb Benan could not locate the nudist. It was the fourth time police were asked to search the area for unclad men.

The late Mr. Hughes was a member of St. Michael's Church from whence the funeral will take place Friday morning.

Rebel Forces Flee From Positions Around Asuncion

By LAURENCE F. STUNTZ

Buenos Aires, Aug. 13 (AP)—An official Paraguayan source here said rebel forces were fleeing from their positions around Asuncion today after suffering a sharp defeat at the hands of loyal Paraguayan troops in the latest action of a five month old civil war.

This informant said the loyalists were "tenaciously pursuing" the retreating insurgents in the direction of Piquete Cua and Villeta, north of the capital. An earlier official announcement last night said a loyalist relief column — pressing down from the north, where the rebel capital of Conception was captured on July 26 — had reached a point only 12 miles from Asuncion.

On the other hand, rebel sympathizers in the border city of Pedro Juan said they heard a broadcast rebel communique last night which said the insurgents were fighting in the centre of Asuncion and advancing steadily despite General Morinigo's resistance." They said the communique stated that the fall of Asuncion was only a "matter of hours."

Paraguayan refugees reaching Argentina said that when they left the government was preparing Asuncion strongpoints for a building to building defence in the event of a break-through by the rebels.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Aug. 13 (CP)—Golds jumped sharply in the early session on the Toronto Exchange today while action prompted by a rumor, subsequently denied in London and Washington, that London would raise the price of gold to $50 an ounce.

Industrials generally were firmer although steels weakened.

Volume for the first three hours was 490,000 shares, about 170,000 above yesterday's similar period.

Only a few of the golds posted losses while gains for the penny stocks ranged as high as 50 cents.

Senior golds were ahead for all trading including Bralorna, 5-4 at 11 1-4, Kerr Add., 1-4 at 15 7-8, Hollinger 1-2 at 10 7-8, Kerr Addison 5-4 at 15 1-4, Lake Shore 1-4 at 15 1-4, McIntyre 1 1-2 at 62, Teck Hughes 1-2 at 13 1-2, Wright-Hargreaves 2-5 at $3.19. Gains of 10 cents and more were common among the junior producers with Pioneer topping the at $4.00.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Aug. 13.—(CP)—Cattle trade was dull with prices 25 to 50 cents a hundredweight lower for the week on steers and heifers, 50 to 75 cents lower on cows and bulls and the livestock market here up to mid-session today. Veal calves, hogs, sheep and lambs were steady. Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were: Cattle 450, calves 300, hogs 300, sheep and lambs 400.

Butcher steers were $12.50 $14, heifers $10.50 to $13.50, bulcher cows $7.50 to $9.50 with tops at $10 and canners and cutters $5 to $7.50, bulls $7.50 to $10, top veal calves $15 to $15.

Veal calves were $15 to 16 for choice with plains downward to $10.

Tented Village Will House 225 Fire Evacuees

By DON MACKENZIE

Chetlemp, N.S., Aug. 13. (CP)—With a small tent community springing up in Chetlemp to shelter 225 evacuees from a forest fire raging 20 miles north of here, this Cape Breton Acadian village took on the appearance of a refugee service base.

At least 18 families saw their homes ablaze in Mulgrave Aug. 12 as they climbed into rescue craft Monday night to be evacuated by sea when the fire cut off highway escape routes.

One hundred evacuees who were sheltered in homes of the Chetlemp people were children, the youngest only ten days old.

The baby's mother, Mrs. Ernest Timmons, left Sacred Heart Hospital here Saturday for her home in Pleasant Bay. With her child Mrs. Timmons was one of the last to leave the village Monday by motor as the road was closed behind her.

Mrs. Timmons described the fire and the smoke which swept over the highland hamlet as "a horrible nightmare."

"I just had to hold my nerves and protect my baby from smothering," she said.

The mother and child were sheltered by one of the Chetlemp families who heeded the pleas of Rv. Pat Leblanc, Roman Catholic parish priest here. He has worked ceaselessly to provide help and care for the evacuees since the fire began to threaten their homes Aug. 9. With her sister-in-law, Mrs. Walter Moore, another evacuee, Mrs. Bert Moore had to run to safety as the fire swept down Mackenzie Mountain toward Pleasant Bay.

"The thought of being trapped in that village with fire surrounding it on all sides was unforgettable," said Mrs. Bert Moore.

As the evacuees settle in their new hostes waiting for the fire to be halted, the Red Cross sent in supplies of food by an R.C.A.F. rescue launch to augment the diminishing supplies in grocery stores of this community of 2,700.

Tents brought from Sydney 70 miles away across Cape Breton Island were put up in Sacred Heart Parish Hall while R.C.M.P. helped Red Cross workers direct operations.

Brig. Playfair Dies at Hamilton

Hamilton, Aug. 13 — (CP) — One of the most outstanding of the Canadian Army's brilliant group of soldier-physicians of the Second World War who carried his wide experience gained in medical services organization into civilian life with his appointment in 1945 as medical superintendent of the Hamilton Sanatorium, Brigadier C. F. Playfair, C.B.E., D.S.O., M.D., C.M. died early today in his home on the Sanatorium grounds. He was 47 years old.

It was Brig. Playfair who out of the bitter lessons of the Allied defeats in France in 1940, and later in Norway and the subsequent Allied seizure of Spitzbergen which he accompanied the Canadian forces, was mainly instrumental in forging the organization of the Canadian forces' medical services to the field during the Sicilian and Italian campaign.

Brigadier Playfair's brilliant administration, work did not go unrecognized. He was early an original officer of the Order of the British Empire and mentioned in dispatches in 1944 for gallant and distinguished services with the Canadian forces in the grueling Sicilian and Italian campaigns. The surgeon of a distinguished career was reached on June 29, 1946, when His Majesty at an All-Canadian investiture at Buckingham Palace, conferred upon him the decoration, Commander of the Order of the British Empire.

Heat and Humidity

People have had a year in which there has been one steady opportunity for criticising the weather by those who take offence if it is too hot or too cold or even for being moderate.

By the law of natural averages it might have been visioned by many that following upon the spring and early growth a change would come and the swing of the pendulum would be to very warm weather. Already the warm and humid spell has lasted long enough to upset all who crave more moderate temperatures and fear of that condition known as "humidity."

The present heat wave has hovered and breathed over the land with a persistence not always experienced. Many of course remembered that not early summer about ten or eleven years ago when it was even warmer than it has been these days. In that season there was a combination of precipitation and deaths were laid to the severely warm weather. This summer has not equalled that achievement. As it is recalled, there were then in that season three storms. There is that much to be thankful for this year—there has been only one heat wave.

It is a very irritating matter to learn that there may possibly be a shortage of coal next winter as a result of an embargo because of the large number of coal and freight cars from the United States now in Canada. In the midst of the warmest season of the year, the question arises of saving up and make people wonder if the time will ever come when it will be possible to store away some of the heat from the sun, so recklessly and recklessly wasted in this nature when it might be put away for next winter's use. But nature was not built just that way. Only in some tropical habitations are there solutions which include the art of utilizing the sun's rays to warm homes. But that is not heat storage in the sense in which people often wish they could store up the sun's heat.

In coal and wood man is getting bottled sunshine, stored aeons ago in the mines and in the soil by nature as if she knew man would have need of it some day. The earliest civilizations were the homes almost of a god to the hero who is supposed in mythology to have first brought fire to man's use. Today the world is using in great quantities another fuel, mainly for the transportation, manufacturing and for heating. Nature's provision against man's need is not to be overlooked. And modern science is now on some day to be the all-far-off future to apply atomic heat and power, used not for war's bombs but for aiding the work of man and lightening the burdens he has had to bear on his shoulders. Heat can still be one of those benefits to be derived from atomic energy. That the future will reveal. And if not that there may be some other new benefit to ease mankind's labors and heat his homes when cold.

Adventure of Science in East

Canadians like adventure and "there are still jobs in out-of-the-way places for those in whose veins burns the bright light of adventure," notes the Ottawa Journal in, reference to an advertisement in that paper calling for Canadian entomologists to go to Iraq to engage in pest control work.

This well known formerly as Mesopotamia is dear to the heart of humanity for it is believed to have been the birthplace and cradle of the human race. Biblical reference to it has a great flood of light on that land just after the dawn of written history. Here live the descendants of the people of Bagdad and other cities of very ancient times. This part of the world as said before probably saw the dawn of the human race and its climb to civilization just before the full light of historic times.

The mind of man would be interesting indeed if Canadians, men of the New World, were chosen to carry on war against the locusts — a battle which has been waged carelessly for thousands of years. At least the opportunity is being given Canadian to look into the question of introducing the latest in modern science in control of insect pests. Readers of the Bible know how deeply the locust figures is Imprinted the record of the havoc caused by plagues of locusts.

The ancients have been the object of archeological study for long years and many important discoveries have been made which throw light on the long-departed ancient civilisations of pre-historic times. Canadians, trained in a far younger world, may well have a share in bringing modern science on pest control to the Middle East and along development. That part of the world brought forth a civilization which helped to build western civilization and it is but fair that men of the young western peoples should return in some measure the debt the Occident owes to the Near East in carrying on and directing the way of civilization.

Midsummer Memory

On a hot day when a lad had been hoeing corn or potatoes, pulling weeds in the garden or working in the hay field it was good news to hear Father say, "Son, why don't you run down to the store for ice? We will have a freezer of ice cream for supper." In the days at the turn of the century farm families made ice cream in four or six quart freezers and Mothers who understood cream, sugar and flavoring up to perfection pleased. When strawberries were ripe, Father expected a generous amount of crushed juicy berries to go with his ice cream.

The process followed a familiar pattern. While Mother mixed quarts of thick yellow cream, vanilla, eggs and sugar it was a boy's task to get a big cake of ice from the old icehouse. After it was washed with water from the barnyard trough big chunks were put in an empty corn meal bag and pounded to pulp with the broadside head of an old axe. When the mixture was in the freezer and alternate layers of ice and salt packed around the cylindrical can, came the work of turning the crank.

For the first few turns it was easy. One could hear the wooden paddles sloshing around in the cream. Gradually the cream began to harden and the work began. A lad kept turning. From time to time the can was taken down. Water ran from the little round hole near the bottom of the wooden case. Harder and harder grew the turning. Now and more muscle was needed. Just when it seemed one could go no more, Father would appear and casually say, "Let me give it a few turns." A boy always expected to kick the dasher when it came out and a generous Mother always left a generous quantity. Then, for supper dessert, the real feast came. A big helping of ice cream with a cup or more of crushed strawberries over it is an excellent conclusion to a day of summer living. — New York Times.

"Unconquerable"

"We shall ride out this as we have ridden out other storms in war and peace and we shall come through unconquered and unconquerable," declared Sir Stafford the exchequer in opening the resumed Commons debate on the British and world economic crisis.

That is the spirit of all parties whether they agree with the austerity program of Prime Minister Attlee or not.

This is the theme of every Briton who speaks and it is a spirit that is the staunch underlies the British structure is rooted in the courage and spirit of the people and will stand.

First Postwar Expedition

The first Arctic expedition to leave Britain since the war sailed recently. It is sponsored by the Oxford University Exploration Club and consists of a team of eight scientists and a medical officer as well as a film unit compromising a director with two photographers. The destination is Jan Mayen, a bleak windswept island off the east coast of Greenland rarely visited hitherto. One of their main tasks will be to retrieve and examine the scientific recording instruments deposited there years ago for the purpose of registering the effects of the cosmic rays. The film unit will produce documentary and educational films of Arctic animal and plant life.

Take the case of the bird that set a new speed record for homing pigeons at Goderich the other day. Where did its ability effort get it? The speed record set by the Goderich pigeon was 51½ miles per hour. A couple of days previously an American jet plane had streaked through the air at 623.8 miles per hour. What a chance has a hard-working pigeon against competition like that? asks Sault Daily Star.

LOVE AFFAIR

It's rather nice, I must confess—
When you're a featherbeaten chap—
To have a bit of loveliness
Insist on sitting on your lap.

Let spinster prudes think what they will
And tales of gossips scandalous be,
I find it an exquisite thrill
To hold a lady on my knee.

"There's none so foolish as the old!"
How many times has that been said!
But must an old man's blood grow cold
Before the time he joins the dead?

A grandpa knows no greater bliss,
No sweeter fount of joy to tap
Than this: a six-year-old to kiss
And hold awhile upon his lap.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What does "forlorn hope" mean?

"Forlorn hope," now popularly used in the sense of a vain or faint hope, an enterprise with little prospect of success, at most hopeless undertaking or a hope against hope, is a product of "folk etymology."

Originally the phrase had no reference to either "forlornness" or "hope."

It is derived from "verlioren hoop," an obsolete Dutch phrase meaning "lost troop."

In old Dutch "hoop," akin to "heap," signified squad, troop or band.

The phrase was picked up by military men. What a chance has a hard-working pigeon against competition like that? asks Sault Daily Star.

Members of the attacking party or skirmishing line were the first men in an army to come into contact with the enemy and they were particularly likely to be killed than those who followed. They were the men who met the enemy's first onslaught and took the edge off his sword at the risk of their lives. These men were known as the "lost troop."

Such a detachment was called "enfans perdus" in French and "verlioren hoop" in German. Both phrases literally mean "lost ones."

In "A History of the World (1614) Sir Walter Raleigh wrote of the unruly horse. Veiling a loose troops, answerable in a manner to that which we call now by a French name Engans Perdues, but when we use our English name The Forlorn Hope."

"Forlorn hope" in this sense occurs in English as early as 1548.

From military usage the phrase has taken over into everyday English speech to mean any desperate undertaking or hopeless enterprise, the Dutch "verloren hoop," through error or an effort to be humorous, having contributed to the English "forlorn" and "hope."

Seamen to Strike Unless Govt. Acts Quickly

Montreal, Aug. 13 (CP)—With Canadian Seamen's Union Vice-President Harry Davis having warned that strike action will be taken "unless the government acts" and with C.S.U. secretary, G. G. McMaster, in Ottawa for discussion point in the possible Great Lakes strike against the Canada Steamship Lines and the Sarnia and Colonial steamship lines moved to the Federal capital, tie-up threat loomed.

The Union president's radio speech set pressure on the government shipping controller to handle the lines affected has been backed up by the city council of Cornwall which sent a telegram to Labor Minister Humphrey Mitchell and Transport Minister Chevrier urging the application of the government taking tie-up.

Plans are proceeding, Mr. Davis revealed, for the opening of strike headquarters in Toronto this week. He dates have been announced though for start of the strike and the Union said was up for government action to avoid it.

At Ottawa a labor department official stated that a conference to discuss the dispute "is a possibility" with the department sitting in on it. The department is studying the report of Leonard Brockington who was appointed conciliation officer in the disputing parties. There has been no indication as to Mr. Brockington findings.

The C.S.U. threatens to call the strike because the union companies "refusal to abide by their contracts with the C.S.U. their refusal to abide by an arbitration board finding." It alleges that the companies "refusal to dismissal of its members and hiring of members from the C.S.U." Port Sullivan's rival Canadian Lake Seaman's Union.

The C.S.U. has charged that Sullivan's union is company threatened, and it formed in 1944 after resigning as president of the C. S. U. which he charged was Communist-dominated.

Cooler Weather, Beneficial Rains Help West Crops

Ottawa, Aug. 13 (CP) — Cool weather and beneficial rains in the west have halted the general deterioration of the wind Prairie grain crop and today the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said it has in fact estimated that Canada's 1947-49 production of wheat last will help make a bumper crop world.

The estimate — earliest ever made by the Bureau in any crop year, will show the approximate expectation that the new crop is compared with the estimated 418,000,000 bushels harvested in 1946-47. Officials emphasize however, that this first estimate is based on conditions prevailing at present and the actual yield may be more or less, depending on future crop conditions.

Yesterday the Bureau in its ninth telegraphic report covering crop conditions throughout the country said rainfall during July coupled with rain had checked drought prospects and brought widespread improvement in crops of the prairies.

Wheat prospects in Manitoba were described as generally good to excellent although coarse grains, pastures and hay were not so promising. The rapid development of prospects in Manitoba had been checked by moderate temperatures and widely-scattered showers. Crops in old Ontario drought baying almost to completion, the Bureau said, with tario about 50 per cent of the hay crop has been harvested. Fall wheat was slightly above average. Harvesting of fall wheat and rye was practically over with the yield averaging 27 bushels to the acre with 29.8 bushels a year ago.

In the past few days several persons have encountered difficulty in the Bay of Quinte and were rescued.

The fatality brought expression of "deepest sympathy to the parents" from Mayor Saunders who said he was "doing everything in my power to obtain better protection for the children bathing on the beaches."

Many of the former lifesavers, however, are understood to have taken other jobs and will not consider returning to the beach patrol.

Wages for lifeguards for a 56-hour week were $23.40 for the first year of employment and the contract includes a clause in which the guards agree not to strike during the season.

Striking Lifeguards May be Re-Accepted Says Mayor Saunders

Toronto, Aug. 13 (CP)—With added significance attached to the five-day-old strike of Toronto's lifeguards by the drowning of an 11-year-old boy, the way was cleared today for any of the 45 who walked off the beaches Saturday to make application for return to their jobs.

Mayor Robert Saunders said the lifesaving and police patrol services would consider applications from any wishing to come back, and that if accepted they will be given the 10 per cent wage increase originally offered by the harbor commission.

Only the permanent staff of lifeguards was left to patrol Toronto's miles of Lake Ontario waterfront when the summer staff quit Saturday over demands for a 20-per cent boost.

Since then six new guards have been hired and are being given instruction.

Meanwhile, the first drowning since the walkout occurred when Ronald Rene Thomas, 11, lost his life in six feet of water. His sister was rescued by Eddie Cesnicki.

Since most of the lake is patrolled the children were swimming in a prohibited area which ordinarily would not have been patrolled by lifesavers.

However, John Fydell, one of the striking guards who gave assistance, said "it would never have happened if we had been on the job. We never would have permitted the children to swim out with an inner tube."

ITALIAN TASTE AND AMERICAN NUTRITION

More than half of the children from 11 to 15 years of age in four cities in Italy had teeth free from decay, according to investigation, made during the occupation of the region forces after the war. In Yankeeland only one out of ten children of the same age have teeth sound.

A team of medical and dental investigators sent from the United States to study the effects of malnutrition on the Italian people found that more than one-third of the Italians 16 to 30 years of age had caries-free teeth, as compared with less than one person out of fifty of the same age in the United States.

The report of these investigators does not say whether tooth brushing is as popular in Italy as in the United States. Also nobody want to bet?

The report does say that the post-war diet of the Italian people consists predominantly of carbohydrates, such as macaroni, macaroni and bread, but it includes much less protein and carbohydrate than the ordinary diet of most Americans. It seems to that the investigators attribute the better condition of the teeth of the Italians to the fact that the per capita consumption of sugar was 15 pounds a year in Italy, 100 pounds a year in Yankeeland.

It would be safe to infer from this that sugar or sweets cause decay of the teeth. The truth of the matter is that when half or more than half of the daily calories are obtained from refined carbohydrate foods, as is too often the case in this country, then the individual is unlikely to get enough vitamins and minerals, from other food to maintain good nutrition.

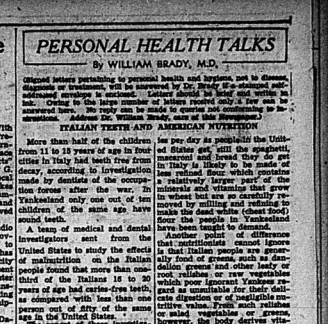
When a child or youth becomes tired or weary and takes for refreshment, restorative or quick energy sons sugar, candy, ice cream, cake, pastry, sweetened chocolate, cocoa, tea or carbonated beverages, the need for starch satisfies the immediate need and little appetite or desire for real food remains. Again, sugar and starch is excellent fuel food, yields plenty of calories and is very easy and quickly assimilated as any other food—but it is dead food, nevertheless, for death from nutritional deficiency diseases (beriberi, pellagra, scurvy, rickets) would be but a matter of time if one's diet were restricted to refined carbohydrates.

So the significant difference between the children and youths in a war-free Italy and the same age group in this country is not that Italy's Italian youths consume as much less refined carbohydrate and have so much better teeth. That is the point estimated. The fact is that even though people in Italy may not get as many calories per day as people in the United States they still get the spaghetti, macaroni and bread they do get in Italy in the form of the less refined flour which contains a relatively large part of the minerals and vitamins that grow in wheat but are mercilessly removed by millers and refining to make the dead white (chest food) flour which Yankeeland has been taught to demand.

The explanation of Americans that antivitamin cannot ignore is that Italian people are generally fond of greens, such as dandelion greens and other leafy or root relishes or raw vegetables which poor ignorant Yankees regard as unsuitable for their delicate digestion or of negligible nutritive value. Instead, such relishes or salad vegetables or greens, are rich in the body destroyer antimin A, vitamin B complex, vitamin C, calcium, iron and other essentials of good nutrition.

Two inference the reader may draw from this data. One is with general nutrition, vits and longevity, Italians just building sound teeth. They are.

(1) Salad—a dish of raw herbs or vegetables being indispensable part of every dinner or lunch.



(2) Fish: wheat, just as it comes from the thresher, should be a daily staple in every American home. Urgent reasons why unrefined wheat should be used in the bread, cereals, pastry and various simple ways of using it, are given in a pamphlet which I send to Ext. On written request (not a clipping) and if you inclose stamped envelope bearing your address, you may have a copy of the pamphlet.

SOVIET M. G. ORDERS SALVAGE OF SHIPS

Hamburg, Aug. 13 — (Reuters) — The Soviet military government has ordered German shipbuilders in the Baltic port of Stralsund to prepare for salvage of three former Hamburg American Line steamships sunk in the harbor there before the end of the war, the German news service in the British zone said yesterday. When salvaged, the ships will join the Soviet Mercantile Marine.

Ill-temper, nervousness, sleeplessness with some people all of these can result from caffein in the tea and coffee they drink. They should drink caffein—no other stimulants—and a good Postum. Let that be the right in the cup with boiling water and let it cook a cent a serving.

WEDDINGS

ROYLE—CHOINARD

At four o'clock on the afternoon of August 2, a quiet but very pretty wedding took place in Christ Church, Belleville, with Rev. J. Grant Sparling as the officiating minister, when Dorcas Fay Choinard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Choinard, of McArthur Mills, became the bride of Wilfred Mackenzie Royle, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Royle of Belleville.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, entered the church to the strains of the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin, played by the church organist, Mr. Gordon McCully Black. She was gowned in embroidered white nylon, and wore a fingertip veil. Her bouquet was of Talisman roses. Her only ornament was the groom's gift, pearl earrings and a matching bracelet.

Miss Josephine Pearson of Belleville, was the bride's only attendant in a gown of azure blue taffeta, with matching headdress. She carried a nosegay of sweetpeas.

Mr. Clifford Bedard, of Belleville, was the groomsman, and Mr. Alywin Royle, brother of the groom, ushered the guests.

Following the ceremony a family dinner was held in the Queen's Hotel, where the bride's mother received the guests in an ensemble of poudre blue net with white accessories and wearing a corsage of carnations, while Mrs. John Royle was gowned in poudre blue silk jersey, with white accessories and wore a similar corsage.

For travelling to Watertown and Bolton's Beach, N.Y., and to McArthur's Mills, the bride chose a figured white silk jersey dress, with matching accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Royle will reside on Coleman Street, in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Caverly of McArthur's Mills.

THOMPSON—FREDERICK

Picton.—Picton United Church was the scene of a pretty wedding Tuesday afternoon when Rev. J. U. Robbins united in marriage Lois Maxine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Frederick, and Alfred Charles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thompson, all of Picton.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a frock of white silk jersey, white halo hat and corsage of red roses. She was attended by Mrs. Ray Hunt, sister of the groom, wearing blue silk jersey with halo hat of blue feathers and corsage of Dream roses.

R. Hunt was groomsman.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Frederick was in black crepe with sequin trim, and Mrs. Thompson in black and white checked jersey. Their corsages were sweetpeas. The assistants were Mrs. H. Hammill, Mrs. N. Howes and Mrs. Roy Breakenridge.

For travelling to Niagara, the bride donned a grey suit and white accessories. They will reside in Picton.

HART—WILLIAMS

On Saturday, August 9, in St. Charles Borromeo Church at Read, there was solemnized a pretty wedding when Rev. Francis Meagher united in marriage, Margaret Regis Williams, daughter of Mrs. E. Williams and the late Mr. Joseph Williams of Read, and John Patrick Joseph, son of Mr. Peter Hart, and the late Mrs. Hart of Point Anne.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Michael Williams, wore a gown of white moire, having a fitted bodice with sweetheart neckline, the full skirt forming a slight train. Her three-quarter length veil was held with a coronet of orange blossoms. She wore a pearl necklace and matching earrings, a gift of the groom, and carried a cascade of American Beauty roses and baby's breath.

Misses Frances and Nora Williams, sisters of the bride, were her attendants and were dressed in similar gowns of silver brocaded satin, with floral designs of mauve and green respectively and wore hats of the same material.

The groom was attended by Mr. Douglas Bennett of Point Anne and the ushers were Mr. R. Callaghan and Mr. B. Hadyn.

During the ceremony the "Ave Maria" and "Panis Angelicus" were sung by Miss Dorothy Anne Williams, sister of the bride, accompanied by Mr. W. Hanley at the organ.

During the reception which followed the ceremony, guests were received by Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Bowler in the reception room of the "Chez Henri' in Belleville.

The couple left on a wedding trip to the Laurentians via Ottawa, after which they will reside in Point Anne.

GRAY—McPHERSON

Ferns and Summer flowers formed the background for a marriage ceremony solemnized in Cannifton United Church, August 2nd., at half past one o'clock p.m. when Marjorie Joyce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McPherson of Corbyville, became the bride of Earl Frederick Gray, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gray, of Plainfield, with Rev. A. C. Campbell, of Plainfield, as the officiating clergyman.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride made a charming picture in a gown of white satin, featuring a brocaded bodice with net yoke and long sleeves ending in points at the wrists. Ruffles detailed the bouffant skirt of fine silk net over satin, and outlined the short train. Her embroidered veil fell gracefully from a coronet of tiny orange blossoms. She wore a single strand of pearls and carried a bouquet of red roses and baby's breath.

Miss Edna McPherson was her sister's maid-of-honor, wearing a gown of heavenly blue with brocaded satin bodice, and skirt of nylon marquisette over taffeta with matching lace mitts and shoulder length veil falling from a floral headdress. Her bouquet was of pink roses and baby's breath.

The bridesmaids were Miss Gwen Birdie and Miss Verna Olmstead of Belleville, wearing delicate peach and soft lilac shaded gowns, similarly fashioned to that of the maid-of-honor, with matching mitts and headdresses. They carried Colonial nosegays.

A niece of the groom, June Reid, was flower girl, wearing a dainty frock of Norway green nylon marquisette over taffeta, with floral headdress, and carrying a basket of sweetpeas. Ross Parks, a nephew of the groom, was the ring bearer.

Mr. Don Sills of Plainfield, ably performed the duties of groomsman, and the ushers were Messrs. Orley Parks, brother-in-law of the groom and, Harry McPherson, brother of the bride.

Wedding music was supplied by Miss Joy Osland, of Belleville, and the soloist was Mrs. Wesley Mifflin who sang "I'll Walk Beside You" before the ceremony, and "Sweet Mystery of Life" during the signing of the register.

Following the ceremony a reception was held on the lawn of the bride's home, where a buffet luncheon was served to approximately seventy guests. Mrs. McPherson received the guests wearing a dress of pale green mesh with white accessories, and a corsage of fuchsia gladioli. She was assisted by the mother of the groom, who wore a dress of grey crepe, with black accessories and a corsage of pink gladioli.

Serving the guests were Misses Betty Mumbay, Mary Sagriff, Patricia Nolan, and Mrs. Jean Chisholm.

The bride's gift to the maid-of-honor was a gold hair clasp; to the bridesmaids, colored pendants; to the soloist and pianist, earrings and to the flower girl a birthstone ring. The groom's gift to the bride was a chest of silver; to the groomsman, ushers and ring bearer, gold tie sets.

For travelling to Crystal Beach and Buffalo, N.Y., the bride chose a dress of dove grey, with white accessories.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Gray will reside near Plainfield.

KERBY—BYRNE

At ten o'clock on the morning of August 9, St. James' Church, in Stirling, decorated with pink gladioli and ferns was the scene of a very pretty wedding when Phyllis Mary Gertrude Byrne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Byrne, Harold's Cross-road, Dublin, Eire, became the bride of Joseph James Kerby, son of Mr. Michael Kerby, of Ivanhoe, and the late Mrs. Kerby, with Rev. S. LeSage performing the ceremony. Miss Pauline Shea presided at the organ, and the soloist was Mr. Vincent Farrell singing, "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother", "Mother, Dearest, Mother Fairest" and "Panes Angelicus".

The bride made a charming picture in a gown of white satin, featuring a sweetheart neckline her full length veil of French tulle being held with a flowered coronet, and she carried a sheaf of red roses.

Miss Helen Kerby, sister of the groom, was the only senior attendant. She wore a gown of blue sheer with matching shoulder length veil of net.

Jean McAvoy, a cousin of the groom, was flower girl, in a quaint floor length gown of pink taffeta. Both attendants carried Colonial nosegays of mixed flowers.

Mr. Gerald Kerby was his brothers groomsman, and the usher was Mr. John Stewart, of Madoc.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at 'Chez Henri" in Belleville, and immediately Mr. and Mrs. Kerby left for a wedding trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls.

For travelling the bride chose a suit of white Irish linen, with navy accessories, and she wore a corsage of red roses.

Out-of-town guests were from Stirling, Madoc, Toronto, Fuller and Ivanhoe. Mr. and Mrs. Kerby will later take up residence on the groom's farm, Ivanhoe.

The groom's gift to the bride was a chest of silver. The bridesmaid and soloist received cups and saucers, the flower girl, a silver cross and chain, the groomsman, a billfold, and the usher a pen and pencil set.

Women's Activities

TYENDINAGA EAST W.I.

The meeting of the Tyendinaga East W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. S. E. Winter on Aug. 8 with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. G. Provins, opened the meeting. The Institute Creed was read by Mrs. R. Harvey and the roll call answered by "Short Cuts for Threshing Day." The subject "Why young people leave the farm" was discussed by Mrs. C. J. Akey. Miss Geraldine Mowers had charge of the program for Children's Day; so the children very delightfully entertained the members. A recitation was given by Bert Winter and a song by Joyce Martin. More recitations were given by Paul Sweetnam, Mary Harvey, Phyllis Sweetnam and John Sweetnam; a solo by Margaret Crooks. Miss G. Mowers conducted a "Planting Contest" with Mrs. C. J. Akey as the winner. The meeting was closed and dainty refreshments were served with a special treat of ice cream

Farewell Party To Mrs. H. McKee

Friends of Mrs. H. McKee, Warham Street, will regret to learn that she will shortly be leaving the city to reside in Deseronto, where her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Al Ross, have purchased a business.

To give expression to this regret in a tangible way, a few intimate friends gathered on the lawn of Mrs. M. B. Weese, Cedar Street, on Saturday afternoon.

A shower of gifts, each with its own personal message completely surprised Mrs. McKee.

On behalf of those present Mrs. Denton spoke briefly of Mrs. McKee's former residence some years ago on the Trent Rd., and of her faithful service in the church and community life of West Belleville.

Mrs. Leonard Reid, past president, and Mrs. Kilbank, president of Holloway Street W.M.S. paid tribute to the work of Mrs. McKee, as vice president.

Mrs. Frank Lent, representing the Tabernacle Church, referred to Mrs. McKee's association in that church for several years and added many good wishes for her success and happiness in her new home.

As a member of the Prince Edward Women's Club she will still be able to attend.

Both Mrs. McKee and Miss Laura McKee graciously thanked the ladies for their gifts and kind thoughts and invited all to visit them in their new home.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Moynes and Mrs. Denton.

NEW ANGLES DEVELOPED

Fort Erie, Aug. 13 — (CP) — This business of picketing is developing new angles all the time. William Lennox was being held in jail today after being charged with watching and besetting. The charge laid by his wife accused him of picketing his own home. Lennox had been placed on $500 bond several weeks ago after an altercation between the couple. He was warned that he must not annoy his wife.

Veteran Canoeist on Ancient Route Across Continent

Ottawa, Aug. 13 (CP)—To cross the continent by train or car is a matter of a few days, but by canoe through the treacherous waterways of the old fur-traders and explorers—well it's taken 67-year-old Otto Smith a year and a half and he's still paddling, headed for New York city.

The tall, lean prospector from Cripple Creek, Colo., reached the Canadian capital recently from Vancouver in a 18-foot plywood canoe which he paddled, poled, tugged and dragged along with 350 pounds of equipment from the mouth of the Fraser River on the Pacific Coast.

Sun-bronzed and fit, Smith told how he retraced the canoe route of La Verendrye and Alexander Mackenzie 4,500 miles across the continent. And he did it "all for fun".

Ottawa wasn't Journey's end. After a day here, visiting Mayor Stanley Lewis and seeing the sights as he has done in every place along the way, he was off again, down the Ottawa River toward Montreal. From there he took the Richelieu-Hudson river route to New York.

It was in his Cripple Creek home that Smith got the wanderlust. An experienced woodsman and prospector, he read the chronicles of the old explorers and decided to try himself. Equipped with canoe and supplies he set out for Vancouver and started up the Fraser river from its mouth April 7, 1946.

He found the western slopes of the Fraser with its raging torrents, yielding the most trouble. The Hell's Gate Canyon was the hardest haul of the trip. But after he got over the Rocky Mountain watershed it wasn't so bad. In fact he found it all "stimulating".

He twitched from the Fraser to the Parnip River, another British Columbia river which Mackenzie followed to the Peace and the sea. He traversed to the Peace River, following the South Hart-Pack-Lesser Slave Lake-Little Slave River-Athabaska route to the Saskatchewan.

From there he got into the old, popular trade routes of New France—Lake Winnipeg, the Winnipeg river, the Rivard-like waterways of the Minnesota-Ontario border. Slipping through Grand Portage, he coasted the north shore of Lake Superior and entered the French river. Then, following the shore of Lake Nipissing, he came down the Mattawa to the Ottawa river and the capital.

It was a long haul and sometimes the flies were bad—the flies were terrible, on Lake Superior, but I ran out of them about 50 miles from the Sault Ste. Marie.

Some of the portages were "back-breaking", especially the nine-mile grand portage in Minnesota which took him two days to complete, with all his equipment. Sometimes he slept out, sometimes he found lodgings in settlements at night.

He made a point of visiting the mayors of all the towns and cities he passed through. Now he has a volley list of their signatures. In New York he'll present the collection to Mayor O'Dwyer along with greetings from former Mayor Cornett of Vancouver.

He figures his expenses have run something like $50 a month "a lot cheaper than I could live in a city."

When he gets to New York he's going to look around the big city for a few days and then it's back home to Cripple Creek canoe and all—but this time, he's going by train.

Vienna Still Glum Though Lights Are Back on and Trams Run Again

By JOHN PEET

Vienna, (Reuters)—The two years of quadripartite occupation of Vienna, since British, French and United States troops joined Russian liberators in the city in July, 1945, have brought great improvements in the life of the ordinary citizen.

But the basic improvement which the Viennese swalle—more food—still seems a long way off.

When the Western Allies marched in, three months after the end of the fighting, Vienna presented a miserable sight. Main streets were still blocked and with rubble from bombed houses, scarcely a single shop was open, a few trams ran tididly on provisionally repaired lines, and almost no one ventured out of his house after dark.

Today, at least superficially, Vienna looks normal. Trams are still badly overcrowded, but nearly all the pre-war lines are back in service.

Most shops are open and one can buy useful things in themthough food, clothing and shoes are still conspicuous by their absence. Street lighting has long been restored, and nearly every house has gas and electricity again—though gas is strictly rationed and can only be used for about four hours daily. Nearly all theatres are open.

Above all security has improved out of all proportion. Murders and armed attacks are still not so rare as they might be and mysterious kidnappings still take place; but a kidnapping or murder is today the occasion for newspaper headlines, whereas when the Allies first drove into the city, acts of violence were so frequent that newspapers scarcely mentioned them.

Police Reorganization

Mainly responsible for the increased security is the reorganization and rebuilding of the Vienna police force, once one of the best in the world.

Trained at police schools set up by British initiative, police managed to break up and arrest members of many of the bands which roamed the city in the first post-war months.

Most streets now are properly patrolled at night, though police still complain that they are too lightly armed to deal with desperadoes who are liable to shoot on sight.

trams returned to the streets. Now things may not be getting worse; but the general feeling is one of stagnation and hopelessness.

"FIRE" JUST A RED PARACHUTE

Easton, Wash., Aug. 13 —(AP) —A forest service lookout excitedly reported by short wave he had spotted a fire burning high in the mountains.

Seven fire fighters toiled four hours over tortuous trails to the scene, while the lookout kept up a running commentary on the "blaze."

Finally they found it.

A red weather balloon parachute was flapping gently in the wind atop a tree.

NETHERLANDS SOLDIER IN ATTACK ON JAVA POSITION

Dutch troops, in full battle gear, resembling the U. S. G.I., are shown alighting from their landing barge at Pasir Poetih, 60 miles east of Probolinggo, Java, to battle against the republican Indonesian army. The action took place before the Indonesian and the Dutch forces called a truce on the ceasefire request made by the United Nations.

Marmora

Marmora.—Mrs. Anson Delina quietly celebrated her seventy-sixth birthday on Sunday. For this occasion she was visited by her daughter, Mrs. F. McGowan and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bennett and Mrs. Donald Newton all of Campbellford.

Mrs. James Nobes has purchased Nathan Mumby's residence in Madoc Street.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Clarke, of Peterborough, spent last week with the latter's mother, Mrs. G. W. Henderson.

The following from Toronto have been visiting Mrs. John O'Brien,—Mr. and Mrs. Lou Fielding, Mr. and Mrs. E. Glenfield; Mr. and Mrs. Busker Pickup, Patricia, Norman and George, Arlene Cooper and David White.

FAMILY TREES GET SHAKING IN AUSTRALIA

Written for The Canadian Press
By LEONE HARTWOOD

Sydney, Aug. 13 — (CP) — Many Australians are shaking their trees to see what they hold. Genealogists say there is a marked increase of interest, particularly among young people, in the ancestry of today's Australians.

They figure this interest is regulated by an inexplicable cycle. As in Canada, until the turn of the century, most kept careful notations about births, marriages and deaths in the family Bible. From then until about 1930, there was less interest in family background.

The Society of Australian Genealogists, with a membership of 400 compared to 300 a year ago, annually receives about 6,000 letters all hunting for information.

The society is strict about inquiries. No information is given until the inquirer proves honorable intentions. This step is taken, the society says, to guard against anyone who might have blackmail in mind and a ward off those seeking only gain of money or kind from old wills.

Occasionally, a woman stalks into the society's three - roomed basement office and asks for information about another woman's progenitors. It usually turns out that the inquirer wants to discover a skeleton in a neighbor's ancestral closet.

Role of Convicts

One reason for genealogists' reticence is the role of convicts in Australian history. Everyone knows that Capt. Arthur Phillip arrived in Australia in 1788 with 11 ships carrying about 1,500 persons including 720 convicts. But no one knows exactly how many Australians are descended from these "First Fleeters." The society has records of all those who came in the First Fleet but lacks information about many of their descendants. These blanks are partly due to misspelling of names and the fact there was no compulsory registration of births before 1856.

It is estimated that thousands of Australians were born without being registered and thousands more died unrecorded deaths. To add to the confusion, early convicts, settlers and officials were never legally married.

However, about 50 per cent of Australians haven't need to check back that far. These trace their great-grandparents back to the British Isles in the more recent years.

Because 95 per cent of Australians are of British stock, this country's genealogical library in Sydney is stocked with English parish records and lists of pupils who attended most of England's famous schools and universities.

Some genealogical queries come from abroad. In England, Canada and the United States. During the war, many American servicemen hunted up descendants of genealogical relatives who left the United States for Australia in the late '80s.

FOUR AIRCRAFT DESTROYED

Barrie, Aug. 13 — (CP) — Barrie airport was ravaged early Tuesday by fire which destroyed four aircraft, valuable equipment and a hanger inflicting damage estimated at $50,000.

Firemen were unable to check the blaze — of undetermined origin — as it was fed by high octane gasoline kept in the hanger. Planes outside the hanger were saved.

CANADIAN-U.S. ARCHITECTS STUDY U. K. TOWN PLANNING

Six American and Canadian architects who went to see what sort of towns the United Kingdom countries are going to build, finished their study of Stevenage, which is expected to be one of the first satellite towns planned to be built around London. They went to Stevenage from London airport and toured the district, listening to informal lectures about the scheme. Housing and traffic difficulties encountered are being explained by L.C.C. architects and planners to the visitors, who include Mr. William Carey, assistant dean of Harvard University, and Mr. Frank Howard of Massachusetts State Planning Board. Behind the group from left to right are Mr. Othèrs in the party are from Boston, New York and Canada. Left to right: Miss M. Imrie, Miss J. Wallbridge, both of Edmonton, Canada; Mr. P. Howard, Boston; Mr. H. Field, New York; Mr. H. Cobb, Boston; Mr. I. G. Dunn, New Zealand; Mr. Van Meiel, Mass. Mr. J. Rawlinson, chief engineer of the L.C.C. is showing the visitors the plans for the rebuilding and road system of the Elephant and Castle, London, of when they visited county hall.

WAR EQUIPMENT SEIZED IN GERMANY

Manufactured in violation of Allied control authority laws, this illegal war equipment was among the stockpiles found in the Nazi plants in the Mariendorf section of Berlin, in the U. S. zone. Shown are submarines and tanks. A statement from the U. S. military government indicated the war material may have been manufactured for a foreign power, but declined to name Russia as the suspect nation. The parent company is in Soviet zone.

Prospectors' Absence Causes Some Concern

Rimouski, Que., Aug. 13 (CP)

The forest fatality of 380 miles inland from Forestville on the north shore of the St. Lawrence River, opposite this town, held the fastest tempo as to Whether the prospectors from here unreported for three months were actually missing or whether they had simply been late for "rendezvous" and would turn up later.

Maurice Banville, one of four prospectors flown into the Forestville region last March 31 in a plane operated by Rimouski Airlines Ltd., reported on his return to Rimouski in mid-July that his three companions had failed to keep a "rendezvous."

However, Provincial Police in Quebec said it was not unusual for men on prospecting trips in the region to remain in the woods weeks and even months longer than actually planned. A Provincial Police Officer said that no investigation was contemplated immediately.

Admits Killing Wife in Detroit

Detroit, Aug. 12—(AP)—Senior Inspector Martyn Lane of the Detroit police said early today that Harold Treski, 30, had admitted killing Mrs. Ivy Jean Treski, 20-year-old woman identified as his wife, and cutting her body into five pieces.

Lane said officers obtained a "verbal" statement from Treski after 11 hours of intensive questioning in the grisly killing. The middle-aged machinist and part-time cook had made no formal statement, Lane added.

The husband admitted, according to Lane, that he struck the fatal blow between 3:30 and 4 p. m. last Saturday, but insisted he hit the woman with his fist.

The inspector said Treski gave no reason for his action, stating it would "look pretty crude" on paper.

Mrs. Treski's dismembered body was found in three suitcases. Police located a blood-soaked handle containing the head and lower legs early yesterday in a Third Avenue alley after a close search of the area when packages containing the other parts of the body had been picked up the day before.

Five other men had been arrested since parts of the body were found and the victim was identified, but during the last 13 hours before Treski's statement he was the only one questioned extensively.

100,000 WIGS BOUGHT EVERY YEAR

Baltimore, Aug. 12 (AP) — A beauty secret was bared yesterday at a convention of the National Beauty Culturists League.

American women buy more than 100,000 wigs a year, said Charles Richardson, Philadelphia wig maker.

Richardson himself sells about 200 pre-fabricated hairdos a year to beauty parlors, at $40 apiece.

Gasoline Famine Looms in Detroit

Detroit, Aug. 13 — (CP) — Richard A. Sullivan, general manager of the Detroit Street Railways, predicted last night that gasoline stations be closed, except between 8 a.m. and noon, as a measure to preserve dwindling gasoline supplies.

Meanwhile, Mayor Edward Jeffries instructed Sullivan to seek an inquiry into the alleged shortage by the United States District Attorney.

City officials said earlier that the city might be forced to ration gasoline supplies Thursday if police, fire and street railway vehicles were to be kept in operation.

MAN SLASHED TO DEATH SAY MOTHER CONFESSED

Schenectady, N. Y., Aug. 13 — (AP) — Burton Grabo, 41, was found stabbed to death in the home of his mother, Beasie, 63, shortly after the woman her throat cut, was found along the Mohawk River at Scotia and taken to hospital here.

Police said attendants at the hospital reported Mrs. Grabo told them she had slain her son.

The hospital said Mrs. Grabo's condition was good. The throat cut was superficial, attaches said.

No reason was given for the slaying.

Future of Jap Emperor Causes Much Speculation

By FRANK WHITE

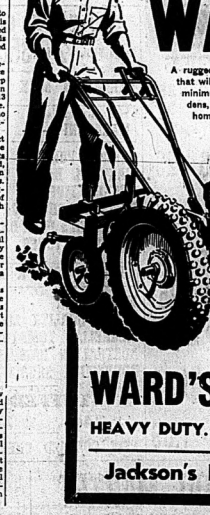
Tokyo, Aug. 13 (AP) —Approaching of the time for writing a Japanese Peace Treaty has aroused new speculation in both Allied and Japanese circles on the future status of Emperor Hirohito.

Some Allied sources estimate unofficially that the quiet little Emperor has been worth 1,000,000 occupation troops in maintaining order since the surrender.

On the surface he has been set to continue as monarch with his once-absolute powers stripped away by the constitution and his presumption of divinity tossed into the ash can.

There is nevertheless, a renewal of talk that, after a peace treaty is signed, the meek step down in favor of the crown prince Akihito, who now is 13. All this is speculation, of course. Hirohito himself has given no indication that he is even thinking of retiring.

Those who consider the subject say that "face" and a Japanese sense of the fitness of things Hirohito, who at 46 has ruled, first as Prince Regent and then as Emperor, for nearly 26 years. "Face," the term for intangible Oriental considerations of prestige, may apply from both sides.



For the Allies, seeking to stabilize peace, there is the question what sort of impression will be made upon the Japanese by leaving as symbolic head of the state a man who was in power when his subjects over-ran a quarter of the globe.

Hirohito may consider his own "face" affected because Japan was ruled under his rule, because he has been short of personal power, and because he has been the organ for carrying out Allied occupation directives.

DOUBLE-SEATER BIKE FOR BLIND

Toronto, Aug. 12 (CP) —New fields of bicycling, exercise and transportation for the blind may be opened by the first three-wheeled, two seater bicycle designed especially for sightless persons, the Canadian National Institute for the Blind said yesterday. An institute statement said the bicycle will enable sightless persons to get the full exercise and enjoyment of cycling with a sighted companion to guide the machine.

Bridge is really going to town. When players from smaller cities visit the metropolitan centres they seek play in bridge clubs. The open and invitational clubs are being crowded to their capacity.

You meet in such places all shapes and sizes who call themselves bridge players. Each new partner seems to have characteristics of his own. It behooves you to adjust your game to theirs.

Recently I sat east in such a club with a strange partner when up jumped this deal:

NORTH
♠K 10 5
♥A K 10 9 2
♦10
♣K J 9 6

WEST
♠7 4
♥5 2
♦Q J 9 7 5 4 3
♣8

EAST
♠9 8 6 3 2
♥Q J 5 4
♦6
♣Q 7 3

NORTH
♥8 7
♦A K 8
♣A 10 5 4 3

The bidding went like this:

South	West	North	East
1 C	Dbl	Redbl	1 S
Dbl	1 NT	Dbl	2 H
Pass	Pass	Dbl	Pass
Pass	2 NT	Dbl	Pass
Pass	3 C	Dbl	Pass
Pass	3 D	Pass	Pass
Dbl	Pass	Pass	Pass

Get not the idea that the bidding by my west partner follows any rules. He was an expert who plays an aggressive game. It was soon evident to me that he was manoeuvering. Fall in, I must.

Such a player usually has an out. Or, if left alone, knows of a chance to take a worthwhile sacrifice. All his partner can do is enter into the spirit of the thing. He'd better.

Three diamonds doubled was down three tricks; a minus of 500. Opponents could have made slam for more than 1000. We saved 500.

What if he was passed out an earlier bid? Undoubled, we would have been down eight or nine tricks at 50 each; less than 500. Still a save.

You may not like it. But it is good clean fun.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 13. (AP)—At a time when Anglo-American film relations are at their lowest ebb, Rex Harrison comes forth with the statement that "Hollywood can well take a bow for creating the big-name British stars".

The actor paused between finishing "The Foxes of Harrow" and taking off to his native England to comment that world-wide fame came to British stars "only after they made films in Hollywood or for Hollywood picture companies.' What's more, he mentioned names.

Ronald Colman and the late Leslie Howard reached acclaim after their American films, he said, and David Niven "is entirely a Hollywood-made star." Robert Donat became the star he is today "through 'Good-bye, Mr. Chips,' a film he made for a Hollywood company." Greer Garson also achieved eminence in that film, "and enhanced her fame with such Hollywood films as 'Mrs. Miniver.'"

No Chance?

"Laurence Olivier would probably not have had a chance at his present eminence if he had not made "Wuthering Heights" and "Rebecca" in this country," Harrison added. "Vivien Leigh was acclaimed at home after she made "Gone With the Wind" in Hollywood.

The reason for this, the actor continued, "is that in the past our British pictures did not have the standard or the standing they have today. Actors had to come to Hollywood if they wanted to attain top star status.

"That is true with the single exception of James Mason, the only British actor who has become an American and World-wide idol without ever appearing in a Hollywood film. Fortunately our films are improving so greatly that we will, as in the case of Mason, be able to create in England stars who will have world-wide appeal.'

The actor declared that England hasn't been able to reciprocate in building American stars, except in aiding unknown American stage personalities. But that matter might improve with the improvement of British films and their distribution, he said.

"The best way we can achieve that reciprocity is by a free exchange of talent," Harrison said. It remains to be seen how that idea can be furthered, now that Hollywood and London are reaching the state of open warfare.

SCOTTISH PREDICAMENT

The expression "between the devil and the deep blue sea" originated in 1637 when a Scottish regiment was trapped between the ocean and Swedish artillery fire.

TORONTO RINKS IN THE FINALS FOR EATON CUP

Week-Long Tournament Down to Finals in Two Events

Toronto, Aug. 13 (CP) — Victor in seven consecutive games against the cream of lawn bowlers in Eastern Canada and the United States, two Toronto rinks skipped by Alex Mackenzie and Edward Cockshoot squared off today in the final for the Eaton Gold Trophy, premier event of the Ontario Lawn Bowling Association's week-long tournament.

The two rinks entered the final round last night, Mackenzie knocking out T. Mead of Toronto 19-14 in one semi-final and Cockshoot eliminating S. Arnott's Buffalo foursome 20-5.

Another final — for the top consolation event, the Marshall Trophy— was scheduled to be played today with D. Taylor of Toronto meeting the winner of the semi-final between Dr. H.L. Chenney of Ottawa and I. Craig into the final by eking out a 12-11 victory over R. H. Reid's Toronto quartet yesterday.

The remaining two events of the tournament were still in early stages with the Remington Rand trophy down to 16, and the Simpson down to 32 competing rinks after yesterday's play.

That left an overall total of 52 of the original 136 teams still in the running for one of the 4 trophies.

JERSEY GIANTS ONLY TWO GAMES BEHIND ROYALS

Defeat Toronto Leafs in Twin Bill by 7-2 and 8-2 Scores

(By The Associated Press)

Jersey City Giants are breathing hard on the necks of the pace-setting Montreal Royals today in the torrid battle for the International League pennant.

Manager Bruno Betzel's Giants trail the Royals by only two games as a result of their double triumph over Toronto Maple Leafs last night while the Royals scored a 10-3 victory over Newark Bears.

Southpaw Jim Goodwin and Jake Wade, who featured the Giants' early season triumphs, turned back the Leafs, 7-2 and 8-2 respectively.

Goodwin held the Leafs to six hits in the opener and Wade scattered 10 in the nightcap which the Giants won with a six-run ninth-inning rally.

Shortstop Virgil (Red) Stallcup, spearhead of the Giants' stretch drive, collected four hits, including a homer and drove in four runs during the two games.

The Royals, led by Walt Sessi who drove home four runs, had a tough time against the Bears until the seventh frame when they scored five runs to sew up the game. Johnny Van Cuyk and Walt Smolko divided the mound work for the Royals.

Syracuse's third-place Chiefs slammed out 21 hits but dropped an 8-7 12-inning decision to Rochester Red Wings to fall eight games off the pace.

Roy Yochim, who worked 10 2/3 innings for the Wings, was pounded for 20 of the Chiefs' safeties.

In a slugfest at Buffalo, the Bisons swamped the last-place Baltimore Orioles, 18-7, collecting 18 base knocks including homers by Dutch Meyer, Johnny Bero and Anse Moore. Meyer highlighted a nine run first inning uprising with a bases-loaded four-bagger.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By The Associated Press)

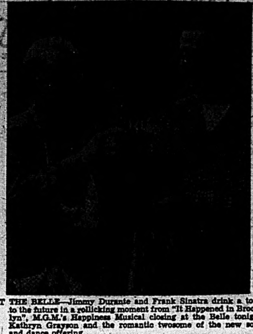
Johnny Mize, Giants — Doubled off the right field scoreboard in the first inning against Phillies' Dutch Leonard, popped out in the third, struck out with men on first and second in the sixth, and singled in the ninth.

Ted Williams, Red Sox — Walked in the second inning, popped to short in the fourth, grounded out to first in the seventh and popped to second in the ninth against Early Wynn of the Senators.

Stan Musial, Cardinals — Failed to hit safely in three official times at bat against southpaw Johnny Schmitz, but managed to wrangle a base on balls. He had 14 fielding chances at first base, participating in two double plays.

Jackie Robinson, Dodgers — Popped up, singled to left, flied out and grounded out in four times at bat.

Lou Boudreau, Indians and Joe Dimaggio, Yankees — did not play.



FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press)

Elizabeth, N.J.: Tommy Bell, 149 1-4, Youngstown, O., and Bobby Farrell, 157 1-2, Newark, N.J., drew (10).

Brooklyn (MacArthur Stadium): Irish Bobby Plant, 141, Brooklyn outpointed Joe Carney 135 3-4, New York (8).

Fresno, Calif.: Tony Olivera, 123, San Francisco, outpointed Jerry Ramsey, 127, Vancouver (10).

FIELD OF 64 AFTER CROWN

By W. R. WHEATLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Royal Quebec Golf Club, Que., Aug. 13 (CP)—A field of 64, bolstered by a galaxy of highly competitive golfers who drew byes in the first round, took up the challenge today in the 43rd Canadian Amateur Golf Championship to unseat champion Henry Martell, of Edmonton. It promised to be a difficult job, but there were those in the gallery who still predicted an all-American final next Saturday.

Martell went easily through his first round yesterday with a 5 and 4 victory over Antoine Huot or Royal Quebec and was given the nod over Gordon Beattie today in the second round.

Still in the running were five Americans, headed by Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, Skee Riegel of Upper Darby, Pa., both Walker Cup winners. On form they were expected to be right up there at the finish Saturday.

The Canadian representatives in yesterday's first 18-hole round of match play came through largely as expected. But even Martell himself, winner for the first time last year at Edmonon, figured Riegel the man to beat.

Mike Sharpe, O'Connor Here Friday Night

A big night of both scientific and also the more rugged type of wrestling is expected on Friday in the Memorial Arena ring when Walter Gerow's three-ply heavyweight card gets under way. Gerow has the Hamilton Hercules, Mike Sharpe, wrestling the unruly Dan O'Connor of Ireland by way of Kansas City. The beautifully built and magnificently-muscled Michael is just the laddie to test the red-thatched O'Connor. Dangerous Dan is confident that he can gain a victory over the younger, larger, Sharpe and it is well within the bounds of conjecture that the shady tactics in which O'Connor specializes might prove too big a trap for Mike. One thing is sure the fans will see action in this match.

Mike's equally energetic brother Ben Sharpe gets a hard task in the semi-final on Friday's card when he meets the handsome Frankie Taylor of Hollywood. The former movie stand-in is a smart clean-cut athlete who rates close to the top of the wrestling heap this year. It will take all of Big Ben's power to stave off the tackling drop-kicking Taylor.

In the third bout Terry McGuinness who had some terrific bouts here last year, meets another new-comer in Dr. Ed Meske. Dr. Ed is an outstanding college mat star who turned to the professional game several seasons back because of his love of the sport. The wrestling osteopath knows his leverage and pressure points and may be more than a match for even the starry McGuinness. It's a fine card of big names and the fans should have a whale of an evening before it's all over.

WHEAT ESTIMATE LOWER

Winnipeg, Aug. 12 —(CP)— Western Canada's 1947 wheat crop was estimated today at 363,500,000 bushels, a slightly under-average harvest and well below last year's 418,000,000.

Saskatchewan's likely yield was given as 181,000,000 bushels, Alberta's as 115,500,000 and Manitoba's as 67,000,000, the latter the best since 1915.

The estimate was contained in the current issue of the Free Press Weekly.

Seven Games Between Cards And Dodgers Will Likely Decide Nat. League Flag

Each Club Frittered Away Opportunities on Other Tuesday, Both Being Beaten

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

It looks as if the National League pennant race will be settled in the seven games which Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cards still have to play with each other.

Each club frittered away an opportunity to gain on the other Tuesday as the Dodgers and Cardinals were idle. The Redbirds lost an afternoon game to Chicago Cubs 3-1. The Brooks with a chance to boost their three-game first place margin fell before Boston Braves in a night game at Ebbets Field 6-2.

The schedule is very much in favor of the Cards. Although the Dodgers had two games less to play than St. Louis, 44 in all, half of them are against first division outfits — seven with St. Louis, nine with New York, and six with Boston. Of the Cards' 48 remaining games, 21 are with clubs of the first division.

The Giants and Braves of course, aren't out of the fight by any means, but they show no consistency with their meagre pitching staffs.

Knuckleball artist Dutch Leonard won his 13th game against 7 defeats when he pitched Philadelphia Phils to a 5-0 shutout over New York Giants in Philadelphia.

Blackwell Falls Again

Ewell Blackwell failed in his fourth straight attempt to gain his 19th victory as Pittsburgh Pirates topped Cincinnati Reds 3-2 at Cincinnati.

Boston Red Sox reduced the American League-leading Yankees' margin to 11 games when Mickey Harris whitewashed the Athletics 1-0 in the last half of the ninth to nip Washington Senators 2-1. Allen Gettel, 20-year-old right-hander, pitched a one-hitter as Cleveland Indians swept a doubleheader from the third-place Detroit Tigers in a twilight-night affair 3-1 and 11-0 in Cleveland, the lone tilt being a double by Eddie Mayo in the first inning of the second game.

Glen Moulder, who previously had won two games in 24 relief assignments, won his first major league game as a starter when St. Louis Browns defeated the White Sox in a night game in Chicago 5-3.

The Yankees and Philadelphia Athletics were not scheduled.

DROWNED AT COBOURG

Cobourg, Aug. 13 — (CP)—Exhausted only 20 feet short of a raft toward which he and a companion were swimming in the early evening darkness, 17-year-old Walter Spry of Cobourg was drowned in Lake Ontario Tuesday.

His companion Kenneth Young of Cobourg had gained the raft after a 75-yard swim from the shore when he heard Spry's calls for help.

Under the terrific sun and heat of a Monday August day a little while ago runners streaked around the baseball dials on the Guelph mats. Then there was a spurt in the yards, what the yards are for we don't notice; they're for bending fingers (in the opposite direction). By among the fray leaders Al Fiddler, a dark mark can a determined looking youth, running with the easy stride of the experienced track man.

He was Charlie Newson of this city, who won the three mile race here during Old Home Week and who has aspirations to not only make a game for himself in the running game but also to start a track and field club here.

Charlie, who started the race with a handicap, had no trouble which, he says, he never had. Cleveland at Chicago; Detroit at St Louis (2); Washington at Boston.

The Daily Is a Lady

"The night editor says he 'puts her to bed,'" says Uncle Dick, writing about a Daily Is a Lady," in the Wall Street Journal, "and in all of their hourly contacts with her the boys in the news room personalize her in a feminine sort of way. She may be a lady, but she has been known to sell Reds by the carload, a mamma dog to work for, but sometimes she's almost a modern. . . Certainly at all times there is a great deal of similarity between a newspaper and a woman and I'll tell you why:

. . . "They both have forms. They always have the last word. They can be very well worth looking over. They have a great deal of influence. They carry the news wherever they go. Every man should have one of his own and not borrow his neighbor's."

Kansas City, Aug. 12 (AP)—Co-owners Tom Baird and T. Y. Wilkinson Monday said Monarchs declare the Major League have only scratched the surface of outstanding talent in The Negro American and National baseball circuits.

The Kansas City promotors here in the persons of the four Negroes now in the Majors, Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson and Willard Brown and Henry Thompson of St. Louis Browns.

Satchel (Satchel) Paige, still the most cherished asset of the Monarchs, Baird and Wilkinson in the Negro American League, has been nominated to the National Baseball Congress to throw out the first ball, make the first pitch, or do just about anything he would like on the night of Aug. 20 when the 28th all-Dixie Negro team makes its start in the Congress' 13th semi-pro tournament at Wichita, Kas. Paige's 60 strikeouts in five games for the Bismarck, N.D., team in 1935 in the first national tourney, is still a record for the big tournaments.

Regina, Aug. 13 — (CP)—When a Winnipeg columnist recently predicted it was this year or never for Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the grid wars, he drew echoes from further west where Saskatchewan Roughriders are smoothing out the wrinkles before their Eastern trip.

Dave (Regina Leader - Post) Dryburgh suggests that unless the Riders hit pay dirt this year, it may be a long, long time before there is another senior entry from these parts.

"Riders have tossed everything but the city hall into the pot and if they can't come close to the top this year, it will be a good many years before local citizens make another stab at it," he said. "The price comes too steep." Mr. Ripley Please!

Anything can happen in a ball game.

Mr. Moose Jaw, apparently, it usually does.

Within one week recently, Murray (Moose Jaw Times-Herald) Brown came up with these entries for the 11-shouldn't-have-happened-but-it-did department:

1. A home run scared as an unearned run.

2. A batter called out on a ball. The home run happened when Max Bentley — who winters with Chicago Black Hawks in the National Hockey League and summers with four ball-playing relatives pitching for Delisle, Sask., Commandos — grooved a pitch for right fielder Lloyd Lowe of Moose Jaw in an exhibition game.

Carr knocked it several miles into left field, driving in third baseman Art Ryall.

The catch was that Ryall made first base on an error and the next two batters were thrown out. The book says there should have been three out and Carr should never have come to bat.

Just a few days previously a batter was called out on a ball in a local softball tilt.

The umpire, apparently, jumped the gun a wee bit and hollered "ball" at an obviously high pitch when it was still three feet from the plate. The batter swung anyway — and grounded out.

LONDON MAJORS, WATERLOO TIGERS WIN AT CONGRESS

Waterloo Upsets Stratford Nats 4-3 and London Edges Owen Sound 2-1

London, Ont., Aug. 13 (CP)—London Majors and Waterloo Tigers posted wins at the opening of the last night of the Canadian Senior Baseball Congress, annual jamboree of top-ranking amateur ball teams.

Some 3,000 fans saw brilliant hurling battles in both games as Waterloo upset Stratford Nationals 4-3 in the opener and London edged Windsor Kyanites 2-1 in the nightcap.

Bill Wylie, London's ace moundsman, held the Kyanites to last year's Congress crown to seven hits, while his mates hammered Billy Russ for 12 safeties. Sweetened by Wylie's pitches, retained his control throughout, enabling Londoners to whip and whiffing seven.

Kyanites, who had not threatened for eight frames, sprang to life in the ninth to score their single run. Two were on the wing rest on first when the final out was made. The other two runners came in the third when catcher Ron Rowswell belted a homer into left-field sending Red Kaye and Ken Hall across.

Majors monopolized the batting honors, Johnny Lockington, Ken Wylie, Russ Ryon and Gil Robertson checking in with two for four.

Al Dumouchelle, who hurled Windsor to their Congress title last year, gave up only seven hits as he defeated the hard-hitting Stratford Nats. Earl "School-master" Craig started for Stratford, but was replaced in the seventh by Val Vaillancourt.

It was a see-saw battle all the way. Tigers took the lead in the first inning when Milt Schmidt blasted a hard single to centre to knock Jerry Mayer in for the first run of the game. Johnny Bain's homer made it 2-0 for Waterloo in the top of the fifth, but the Stratford hits and a walk evened the count in the sixth as Irish Mickimmons and Ken Robitzkek provided the run-scoring blows.

Stratford had the tying run on second when third-baseman Johnny Bain went into the crowd for the circus catch, that ended the game.

The series continues tonight, with Kingston Giants and Toronto clashing in the opening game. The nightcap brings together last night's losers, Stratford and Windsor, the loser of tonight's battle being eliminated from the series.

AMMUNITION FLOWN IN TO RESCUERS

The Pas, Man., Aug. 13—(CP)—A cargo of ammunition, fishing nets and other supplies has been flown in to Nueltin Lake in the southwest segment of Keewatin, N.W.T., for a tiny colony of Eskimos consisting of seven families. A dispatch from Ottawa Sunday night said a switch in the migration route of the northland's Caribou herds had left the colony threatened with starvation, but information here was that they appeared to face no shortage of supplies because fishing was good.

HOME RUN BAKER SAYS YOUNGSTERS NEED MORE WORK

Not Getting Enough Coaching in Way to Slide, Bunt and Hit and Run

Salisbury, Md., Aug. 13—(AP)—Frank (Home Run) Baker, one of baseball's greats of yesteryear, recommended yesterday the inability of youngsters to obtain coaching on "inside baseball" in the minor leagues.

"I don't think enough emphasis on inside baseball is made by our present minor league managers," the one-time king of the home run sloners told the Salisbury Kiwanis Club.

"For instance, proper bunting, sliding, hit and run, and general baseball knowledge that youngsters should know," he added.

The 61-year-old Baker hastened to explain the fault was not entirely with the managers.

"I do not know whether it is the fault of the sponsoring major league groups, or the managers themselves, who are apparently qualified."

Baker pointed out in further explanation that many of the minor league managers are required to play with their teams, thus lacking the time to develop rookies properly for the major leagues.

He intimated the major league clubs should send full-time and experienced managers to their farm teams to teach the finer points of baseball.

"There's more to playing baseball than just hitting and running" he said.

Baker said his observations were made from watching play in the class D Eastern Shore League and other minor loops.

Baker, who led the American League inghome run hitting in 1911, 1912 and 1913 while with Philadelphia Athletics, also took a crack at pitch baseball. He claimed the ability of players — particularly pitchers, who he said "is a special advantage over batsmen at night — could not be judged under the lights.

Ryder Cup Games Will be Played On November 1st

(By The Canadian Press)

Renewal of the Ryder Cup games between golfers of the United States and Britain will take place at the Portland Ore., Golf Club next Nov. 1st, the U.S. Professional Golfers Association made the announcement today, the British P.G.A. had left the date up to the American Association.

Tommy Henrich, New York Yankee outfielder, will be out of the line-up for a few days with an ankle injury.

German sports leaders representing 1,500,000 of the country's young athletes plan to ask Gen. Lucius D. Clay, commander of the American occupation zone for a chance to compete in the 1948 Olympics at London as special "guest" contestants, to the Interim Olympic committee has ruled that Germany is not eligible for entry on the grounds that she has not an Olympic committee of her own.

Harry H. (Jasper) Davis, one of baseball's greats in the 1900's died at his Philadelphia home Monday.

Frank (Lefty) Colman, London, Ont., outfielder who left the Newark Bears of the International League after he was released to them by the parent New York Yankee Club 10 days ago, is reported to be ready to return to the Bears, although Colman, at his London home, has not confirmed this statement.

Forty-six thoroughbred hopefuls brought a total of $230,000 as Saratoga's yearling sales opened last night, both the total and the $5,018 average surpassing last year's figures when the first night total for 43 animals was $106,100, an average of $2,467. Prices last night varied from $900 to a top of $28,000, paid by Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane for a bay colt.

Jean MacArthur of Gergus, Ont. and Fred Carter of Winnipeg last night were scratched on Doctor's orders from further competition in the 100-yard free style events for Junior women and Senior men respectively in the Canadian swimming and diving championships at Victoria. Carter took place after swimming in the afternoon preliminaries and was ordered to rest while Miss MacArthur was scratched because of water sickness.

Windsor Sterlings set a league scoring record and strengthened their hold on first place with a 9-3 victory over Wallaceburg in a Canadian-American Lacrosse League game last Tuesday night. Ken Hayward and Stan Matheson sparked the Windsor attack, each scoring four goals. The victory put the Sterlings five points ahead of the second-place Sarnia Imperials.

PITCHING AND BATTING STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Pitching, Allen Gettel, Indians — Shut out the Tigers 11-0 with one hit, a double by Eddie Mayo in the first inning.

Batting, Bob Elliott, Braves — Drove in three runs with three hits, his eighth-inning two-run homer breaking up a 2-2 tie with Brooklyn as the Braves went on to win 9-2.

FINDS SHELLS WIRED TO EXHAUST

San Pedro, Calif., Aug. 12 (AP) —Somebody, police told Claude Ferguson, 35, was trying to give him something more than a hotfoot.

Ferguso was driving to work yesterday when he heard a rattle in the rear of his car. He stopped and found two 20-millimetre antiaircraft shells wired to his exhaust.

Sports Shorts from Britain

London, Aug. 13. (CP)—Canada is among 14 countries invited to compete here for the Britannia Shield during the Battle of Britain Week, Sept. 15-21, in a five-sport tournament which may throw considerable light on next year's Olympic prospects.

The shield, won last year by Czechoslovakia, commemorates friendship among countries whose young men took part in the 1940 air battles of Britain. Competitors have been asked to send teams to represent them in boxing, running, fencing, shooting and swimming.

Countries expected to take part are Great Britain—represented by R.A.F. teams — Australia, Belgium, Canada, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, France, Greece, Holland, India, New Zealand, Norway, South Africa and the United States.

Meantime, preparations for the Olympic Games are going ahead briskly.

Passers-by who noticed two men walking through North London streets last month, painstakingly pushing a large wheel along the centre of the road, said every now and then pausing to make tricky mathical calculations on a notebook while referring to a large, woodcarved what was going on.

The men were measuring and marking the course for the marathon race—an exact 26 miles, 385 yards—the classic distance said to have been covered by that speedy Greek, Philippides, carrying news of the Battle of Marathon to Athens in 490 B.C.

The course, runs north from Wembley Stadium—where the race starts and finishes—about seven miles, where a 13-mile circuit is drawn up over which the local Indian Army post, before making the seven-mile trip back to the Stadium. A few laps of the Stadium's track complete the event.

Technicians are having a field day getting setfor the games and a number of new gadgets are expected to lead to better performances all round, with records falling.

In the high jump, for example, a electric "eye" apparatus will be used to show exact height jumped by a competitor—including clearance of the bar, which, as previously, will be employed as a target for the jumper.

But now, instead of having to jump each time the bar is raised, a competitor can wait until it is raised above the point actually cleared in his last jump, thus conserving energy for bigger and better leaps as the competition enters its closing stages.

Another device expected to be employed in the games is a remote-control pistol set to an equal distance from all runners in a track event. It had been considered the old system of having the starter fire the pistol from his post beside the track gave a split-second advantage to the man on the inside who heard the gun first.

Take the Laughter

By Karen De Wolf

CHAPTER 5.

Sherry read it again; then she opened Mona's dresser drawers. They were empty. She looked in the closet. Mona's clothes were gone, and her suitcase off the top shelf.

She opened the front door and went out. She did not notice that it was raining or that the wind tossed her hair. In a minute she was at the boys' house.

She walked in without knocking.

Tony said, "Didn't you wear a coat, Sherry? You'll catch cold."

Sherry said, "Mona's gone."

Tony said, "Then eat with us."

A sudden spasm of fury possessed Sherry. She whirled to face Tony.

"Mona's gone, I tell you! She's gone away! She isn't coming back! She isn't ever coming back!"

Suddenly the band around her chest snapped. She took a long hysterical breath and burst into sobs.

Kris took her over to the davenport and sat down and held her in his arms while she cried.

"Whoever's going out tonight better get a loaf of bread," Sherry told them, "or there won't be any toast for breakfast."

Sandro said, "Tony is going out with the blonde."

Sherry opened the bedroom door a bit and called in without looking.

"Tony, can you get a loaf of white bread without ruining your impression on the blonde?"

Tony said, "Sure. I'll get it before I get her."

Kris stretched on the davenport and looked over the top of his book.

Sherry shut the door.

Sandro said, "Now I will help you with the dishes."

Sherry laughed.

"They're done, you idiot! While you were studying your lines."

"Line," Kris corrected. "One line."

Sherry bristled defensively, "There's one in the last sequence, too."

She moved a floor lamp nearer the fire and sat down and started darning socks.

Sandro said, "What do you think, Sherry? Should I read it, 'Did somebody call me?' or 'Did somebody call me?' "

Sherry smiled. " 'Did somebody call me?' Sandro, just naturally like that."

Tony came out of the bedroom looking very nice.

"For Pete's sake stop worrying about it!" he said to Sandro. "The director'll tell you what to do. He won't expect an actor to think."

Sherry said "Take your topcoat, Tony. It's cold as Greenland."

Tony looked doubtful.

"The cuffs are frayed."

"Then take it off when you get out of the car. Tell her you're too warm and lock it in the rumble seat."

Tony put on the topcoat.

After he was gone Sandro said, "I think I will go to bed. My call is for half-past eight with make-up."

Sherry said, "The shirt's in the top drawer on your side."

Sandro thanked her and kissed her good night.

When they were alone Sherry turned to Kris.

"You're mean to ride him. It's his first good bit."

Kris snorted and continued reading his book.

Sherry looked at Kris for a minute and thought of the night he had held her while she cried.

After the first few horrible days she had begun to tell herself that Mona would come back after all, that she would let Brothers buy her a lot of clothes and things that she wanted, and then, when he returned to town, Mona would come back to Hidden House.

But the weeks had passed dull and rainy, and there had been no word. Brothers was back now. Sherry had called him and asked for Mona's address. He had said, "Why, my dear little girl, I don't know what you're talking about!" And Sherry had known then that Mona did not want to see her. It was really all over.

Marcia had been away, still was for that matter, and little by little Sherry had grown nearer the boys.

There was no silly romance now she told herself. She did not fancy herself in love with any of them. They were just good, kind, affectionate brothers to her. They could never take Mona's place, of course, but they occupied her thoughts. Besides, they needed so much done for them.

Gradually Sherry had taken over the running of their house, and with the cleaning, cooking and sewing she kept busy. Of course the boys helped, too they could all cook and insisted on doing the heavy cleaning. Sherry could not feel lonely when she was with them; although there were nights when she still cried herself to sleep in Hidden House.

Sherry looked up suddenly to see Kris staring at her.

She said, "Why are you looking at me?"

Kris said, "I was thinking I'd probably marry you when you grew up."

Sherry laughed. "I'm quite grown up now. You three are the ones who need a mother!"

Kris smiled and would have said something only Sandro came out of the bedroom with a purple brocaded lounging robe over his payamas.

Kris raised his eyebrows and held his underlip with his teeth.

He said, "Whoops! Did somebody call me?" and slapped his own wrist.

Sandro said, "There is no use of me trying to sleep."

He picked up his script again and sat down and began to read it studiously. Sherry watched him with a little smile. It was the first time a bit of Sandro's had warranted his having a script.

Her smile faded when she remembered the night she and Sandro had rushed to the boulevard to see the picture in which he had spoken his first line. They had held hands and waited breathlessly for the scene. It had been cut out.

Sherry knew how heartbroken Sandro had been beneath his smile. She had told him, though, that since the line had been in French, it would not have done him any good with the producers anyway. He had brightened at that, but Sherry had had her first taste of the tragedies of a career.

While Sherry was thinking about Sandro and his acting, Tony came in. He wore his topcoat and threw the loaf of bread on the table.

Kris said, "The quickest toss on record."

Sherry said, "What happened, Tony?"

Tony sniffed. "She'd gone out. Probably with someone who could spend some money on her!"

Sherry said, "Oh, Tony, I'm sorry."

He took off his coat.

"Well, don't be. She isn't worth wasting an evening on! What makes me mad is that I'm such a poor bet that even an extra girl can do better for a date."

Sherry said, "Oh, don't talk like that, Tony! You've got a good job. The picture'll run a while longer and $75 a week isn't to be sneezed at."

Tony said, "Well, I'm sneezing at it! I get so far behind between jobs that a picture never lasts long enough to get caught up. If it lasts two weeks more I'm out of debt and have my third of the house expenses and that's all!"

Sandro said, "You should be glad you do not have to buy clothes like me."

"But you'll get something else right away!" Sherry told him.

Tony said, "Last time it was 10 weeks between jobs."

Kris said, "I haven't worked in 12."

'Oh, you get money from home," Tony told him. "Anyway, you're not trying to make the grade here. When your time's up you'll go back and be a millionaire count when your uncle dies, so shut up."

Sherry was surprised. She wanted to know what Tony meant about Kris's time being up.

Tony said, "Oh, he's exiled for four years because of a duel."

Kris said, "And the rotten luck of it is I can't get any of my money out of the country. My lawyer sends me dribs and drabs when he can manage it."

Sherry stared.

"You're joking, aren't you?"

Kris was surprised.

"You don't think I'd be living like this if I could get any of my money, do you?"

Sherry said, 'No, I mean — I mean about the duel."

Kris said, "No, I'm not joking. Why?"

Sandro said, "He is one of the most famous swordsmen in Europe."

They started to talk about the duel. Sherry listened in silence.

This was the strangest thing that had ever happened to her, to be sitting right in the room with a man, someone of whom she was very fond, who might have been a murderer.

Kris had gone out in a gray mist to kill a man, just like you read in books. His antagonist had been a famous duelist too, and had given Kris that long gash down his face.

Kris had not killed this man but because duelling was against the law he had been temporarily stripped of his rank and exiled gor four years. The other man had been exiled, too.

Later Kris would go back and be welcomed by important people as if nothing had happened. He would resume his position in the world and then inherit a title when his uncle died.

Tony said, 'It was about a woman, wasn't it?"

Kris said, "Naturally."

Sherry did not want to hear any more about it right then.

She said, "Now that you're all together I want to talk to you about something. I've got to get a job."

There was a moment of silence.

"You see, since Mona left I can't keep Hidden House on what I get from home. Besides I came to Hollywood to work." She smiled. "I was 'going in the movies'."

Sandro was excited.

"Why don't you?" he wanted to know.

Sherry shook her head.

"I don't want to," she told them. "I'd hate it. I'd like to learn the writing end. That's what I wanted to talk over with you."

Tony said, "Can you type?"

Sherry said, "A little."

"Maybe I can get you something in the stenographic department at my studio. Typing scripts would give you a good idea of what it's all about."

Kris said, "She doesn't want to be a stenographer, you fool. I know a reader out at Culver City. I'll ask him about it"

Sherry said; "Oh, I'd love that!"

Sandro jumped up.

"I have the idea magnificently!"

Tony said, "I'll bet you have."

Sandro spoke eagerly. "Mrs. Drood where I am working tomorrow! She likes me. She invites me to her house."

Tony and Kris looked surprised and pleased.

"She's the story editor out there," Tony explained.

Sherry was delighted.

Finally plans were made. Sandro was to see Mrs. Drood on his lunch hour. He was to tell her about Sherry and make an appointment for the afternoon. Then he was to call Sherryn immediately.

They talked about it for a long while.

Sherry went to bed happy for the first time in weeks.

By noon the next day Sherry was waiting for Sandro to call. She knew that his company had probably not even broken for lunch yet, but she waited.

It wasn't until ten past two that the telephone rang.

It was Sandro. He was excited.

He said, "But I have seen you. She can be here by three, can you not?"

Sherry got him straightened out. It was Mrs. Drood he had seen and the appointment was for three.

Sherry said, "Oh, Sandro, you're a darling!" and banged up the receiver.

By ten minutes to three Sherry was at the studio desk telling the man she had an appointment with Mrs. Drood at 3 o'clock.

DRIVERS ON STRIKE

Toronto, Aug. 13 — (CP)—Car drivers for a Toronto firm, only official ground transportation here between downtown sections and the Trans-Canada Air Lines and American Air Lines went on strike last night. The strike followed alleged dismissal of five drivers for union activity and agitation for a $5 weekly increase. The men, who joined the A.F.L. Street Railway and Motor Coach Employees Association, claimed inadequate their salary of $29 for a 60-hour week. The taxi company owner claimed the strike was illegal.

FIVE MORE DEATHS

London, Aug. 13 (Reuters) — Five more deaths in the growing infantile paralysis epidemic occurred yesterday and more than 50 new cases were reported. Three of today's victims were children. Nearly 500 confirmed cases were announced last week, highest figure yet. Swimming pools, nursery schools and playgrounds were closed and thousands of children kept at home by anxious mothers.

Sheridans Defeat Dulmage Motor Nine By 6 to 3

In one of the most closely-contested games of the season the Sheridan Billiards team defeated the Dulmage Motor nine 6-3 in a Commercial League Softball game at the Alemite Field last evening.

Sheridans scored three runs in the third inning on four hits. Semark started the rally with a single, with one man down. Carson popped out to the pitcher and Woods hit a single. Murray connected for a double, bringing in two runs. Mattis singled, scoring Murray and Browne grounded out to retire the side.

The Billiard team came back with a three-run rally in the 6th frame to sew up the game. Browne singled with one batter away. Harris got on on a fielder's choice. Browne went home on errors and Harris went to third. Young singled, scoring Harris and he came in on errors. Shore and Semark went down to the shortstop to retire the side.

Peters scored the lone Dulmage tally in the third inning. He got to first on a base on balls and was sacrificed to second. He came in when Whiting singled. Whiting led off the sixth inning with a single and advanced to second on a hit by Clark. He made it to third on a passed ball and scored on a long fly to the outfield. Clark and Nichol were erased by a double play.

Dulmage's scored another run in the seventh on a double by Theobald. He came home on errors.

Harris went the distance for the winners striking out nine, walking one, and giving up four hits for three runs. McGuire pitched for the losers striking out two, walking three, and allowing eight hits for six runs.

Best at bat for Sheridans was Wood who had two hits in two official trips. Whiting for the losers was the best at the plate getting two of the team's four hits in 3 official tries.

The line-ups:

Sheridans: Young c; Shore ss; Semark 2b; Carson lf; Woods 3b; Murray 1b; Mattis cf; Browne rf; Harris p.

Dulmage Motors: Whiting 3b; Clark lf; Nichol rf; McGuire p; R. Nolan ss; Theobald 1b; Peters c; Adams cf; B. Nolan 2b.

FIND PROFESSOR'S BODY

State College, Pa., Aug. 12 — (AP)— A widespread search for Dr. Raymond Haber, 59-year-old Pennsylvania State College professor, ended in the discovery of his body hanging from a branch of a pine tree four miles from the college campus. The badly decomposed body of Dr. Haber, who disappeared June 3 just before he was to have conducted a final examination, was found by a student.

The R.C.M.P. Said No — Here's the latest conveyance to turn up at the Alaskan Highway at Edmonton. Jovial James (steering) and Silent Joe Stubbins of Phoenix, Ariz., were seeking a permit to travel north over the highway on a visit to Joe's son at Anchorage, Alaska. The R.C.M.P., who didn't think the vehicle was capable of safely making the trip, said no.

Widely Believed Only Inflation Can Provide Solution

BY SYDNEY GAMPELL
(Reuters Financial Editor)

London, Aug. 13 — (Reuters)— British government securities dropped on the London Stock Exchange yesterday to the lowest levels since the Labor government took office, leading to speculation concerning a possible increase in the price of gold.

Continuance of the world dollar famine would, in London's view, cause an international price slump. Among many less desirable results, this would deflate the costs of gold mining. This is the prime need of the gold mines. Ever since the outbreak of war their profits have been progressively squeezed between mounting costs, and the fixed selling price of gold.

It has come to be widely believed that only deflation can prevent a slump was accompanied by widespread declines in British industrial shares, and, by contrast, a strengthening in South African gold-mining shares.

The latter was ascribed to switching by British investors from British shares to South African, to provide a real solution for Britain's crisis.

The British attitude to devaluation has clearly changed. Formerly British authorities insisted that Britain would never do it, because it would financially as well as economically disruptive for the world. During the last few days British officials have come to feel it would inevitably come about as the signal of disruption, unless Washington provides the resources to enable Britain to maintain convertibility after the loan is exhausted.

Sweltering Heat, High Humidity For East Ontario

(By The Canadian Press)

There was little hope for relief from sweltering heat for eastern Canadians today.

"It's going to be hot—but hot," the weatherman told The Canadian Press. And to the weatherman's seven words of prognostication, millions of Canadians added "and humid, too."

Yesterday's heat and humidity were of near-record intensity throughout Ontario and Quebec. The 1947 thermometer mark was reached in Ottawa at 2 p.m. when the mercury showed 92.1. But it had cooled off by 8 p.m. with the reading at 91.

The only relief in sight-until Friday when there "may be thunderstorms"—was the nearest air-conditioned restaurant or department store or the beach—if you can get the time off.

Montreal led the temperature parade in Quebec with a 91 reading accompanied by a humidity of 93. Despite the heat, no prostration cases were reported but city health officers warned against overwork and tiring from exercise.

Many communities warned householders against using water for sprinkling lawns and in Kitchener, Ont., the water-pressure situation was termed "serious", "many plants depending on water pressure from their manufacturing processes shutting down.

Factory workers in some centres were given the day off when the temperature and humidity rose to uncomfortable heights.

Last night's official weather forecast promising clear, hot and humid weather Wednesday for Quebec and Ontario, estimated temperatures would rise as high as 95 at Ottawa, 90 at Montreal, 92 at Quebec City.

Temperatures above 90 degrees were also in sight for Ontario cities Wednesday, with the official estimate being a maximum of 93 at Windsor, 92 at London and Toronto and continued humidity.

Emergency Landing After Plane Rams Into Flock of Geese

Philadelphia, Aug. 12 — (AP)— A National Airlines Skymaster with 25 passengers and crew members aboard made an emergency landing at Southwest airport early today after running into a flock of geese on takeoff. The pilot reported—at least five geese struck the big plane, one making a hole "large enough to stick your head in" in the leading edge of the wing and another striking the giant rudder.

TWO FIREMEN INJURED

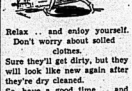
Cincinnati, Aug. 12 —(AP)— "It will touch and go for awhile," said Fire Marshal John Hall, before firemen extinguished a blaze yesterday aboard a pumper vessel moored to an Ohio River bar loaded with 250,000 gallons of gasoline. Two firemen were burned. Fearful that the gasoline-loaded barge would be ignited by the windswept flames, several firemen jumped into the river and swam 50 feet to shore as two minor explosions occurred.

FARM PRODUCT PRICES

Ottawa, Aug. 12 (CP) — The Dominion Bureau of Statistics said yesterday prices received by Canadian farmers for agricultural products at June 15 averaged higher than on the corresponding date in 1946. The index number of prices received for all products, on the base 1935-39 equals 100, stood at 194.3, or 7.8 points above the index number of 187.0 a year ago.

CHARGES MURDER

Rev. John Stanley Grauel, 29, former Methodist minister of Worcester, Mass., who sailed as mess boy on the Haganah ship "The Exodus 1947" is shown during a press conference in New York. Grauel accused the British of ramming the Exodus 14 times off Haifa and charged the British naval forces with "deliberate murder" of passengers and crew members of the crowded vessel.



THREE STOREY TENAMENT COLLAPSES

Saint John, N. B., Aug. 13 — (CP) — Eleven persons were left homeless yesterday when the foundation of a three-storey frame tenement on River Street collapsed, dropping the building nearly six and tilting it toward the creek. Most of the residents were away at the time and no one was injured.

HUDSON BAY WATERS MORE NAVIGABLE

Saskatoon, Aug. 12 (CP) — Walter Streeton, President of the Hudson Bay Route Association, yesterday quoted the captain of the Essex Trader — first overseas freighter to reach Churchill this summer— as saying that the waters of Hudson Bay are more easily navigated than those of the St. Lawrence.

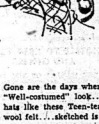
New York Times Says Gold Price Will be Raised

New York, Aug. 13 (AP)
The New York Times today carried a despatch from London saying that reports persisted in British financial circles that the United States shortly would increase the price at which it buys gold from the present level of $35 an ounce to $50.

London circles saw the effect of such a move as providing Britain, France and other European nations with enough dollar credits to bridge the gap until the Marshall plan is operative next year.

Informed quarters at Ottawa termed the New York Times' London report the revival of an "old" rumor and said as far as was known in the Canadian capital it had no basis in fact.

DIES OF INJURY



Toronto, Aug. 12 — (CP) — Injured when a jeep in which he was driving turned over three times on the Lakeshore Road near Port Credit last night, Pte. Arthur Williams, 23, of Port Credit, died in military hospital here today.

With Pte. Williams were three fellow soldiers, Jack Holmes, 22, Jack Griffiths, 26, and William Johnston, 25, all of No. 2 district depot and 17-year-old Joyce Akerman of Lakeview, Ont. The four passengers received minor injuries in the accident.

Britain Surrenders Reins of Power To Moslem Pakistan

Mountbatten Gives Farewell Address at Karachi

Karachi, Aug. 14 —(AP)— Viceroy Viscount Mountbatten relinquished the reins of British power today to the new Moslem Dominion of Pakistan, the birth of which at midnight tonight he called "an event in history."

Even as he spoke in Karachi, blood was being spilled in communal strife in the Punjab, where fighting between Moslems on the one hand and Sikhs and Hindus on the other reached new heights of destruction and violence.

Lahore, the capital of the vast northern province which has been split between Moslem Pakistan and Hindu India, counted its casualties in the hundreds after long hours of rioting and sniping and through much of the city. Fighting also fanned out into Amritsar and other outlying areas of the Punjab.

New Sovereign States

"Tomorrow," the Viceroy declared in a farewell address before the Pakistan Constituent Assembly, "two great sovereign states will take their place in the Commonwealth, two great nations but heirs of an old and proud civilization, full independent states whose leaders' statesmen already known and respected throughout the world . . . not immature governments, for weak, but fit to take their great share of responsibility for peace and progress in the world."

The Viceroy returns to New Delhi Friday to surrender British power to Hindu India and become governor-general of that new Dominion.

In this predominately Hindu city, thousands of cheering persons lined the route from Government House to the Constituent Assembly Hall, waving green and white Pakistan flags as Mountbatten passed. The hall in which the official cars entered the assembly building was decorated named for Mahomed Ali Jinnah, while the car was escorted by Liaquat Ali Khan. Both are leaders of the Moslem League.

Mahomed Ali Jinnah, president of the Moslem League and the leading advocate of Pakistan, already has been chosen governor-general of the Dominion and president of its constituent assembly.

Two New Countries

The teeming sub-continent which has been a rich jewel in the British Crown for so long a time now becomes two countries, a Hindu Dominion of 227,000,000 stretching from the Himalayas to Calcutta, and a Moslem Dominion of two parts separated by 99,000,000 Moslems. Sikhs, Parsis and countless other communities of India, numbering 100,000,000 more, are divided between the two.

But whether self-government will bring peace to the tormented land is another question.

In Karachi, a big, crowded city of 500,000 where Hindus predominate, the newspaper Dawn reported that the advertisements by Hindus offering to sell their homes, businesses, businesses or to exchange them with Moslems in business cities like Bombay India who wish to migrate to this new capital of Pakistan.

In Lahore, police and morgues estimated that 25 per cent of the Punjab capital's 500,000 Moslem and Sikh population had fled the city and that more it was populated by Moslems.

Fires raged today through five Sikh temples, a Moslem girls' high hall bazaar and elsewhere in the city and official reports said that Hindu and Sikh shops had been looted. Police and troops already placed the dead at more than 150.

Nevertheless, officials have taxed their ingenuity to the utmost to devise something special enough to celebrate the end of British rule and the advent of freedom.

The criminals of some provinces have been promised that their sentences and fall terms will be remitted as part of the festivities. The poor will be given sweets. There will be a holiday, with speeches and fireworks. There will be prayers and offerings by thanksgiving to gods strange to Christians.

EVERYTHING SLIPPED

Winnipeg — (CP) — One man had a disconcerting experience in a Winnipeg street-car recently. The car stopped at a safety island with a jolt. The man lost his balance, his hat fell over his eyes, his glasses slipped down his nose and his false teeth fell out in the lap of the passenger next to him.

Lies in Hospital Bed for 27 Years

Winnipeg, Aug. 14 — (CP) — William (Paddy) Peredarzk, 57, who died Tuesday in the hospital bed where he had lain for 27 years, was buried today after a funeral mass at St. Mitodeus Greek Orthodox Church here.

A native of Rumania who came to Canada 39 years ago, he suffered a broken back in construction job when he was 30. In Winnipeg General Hospital where Dr. H. Relief in Sight From Heat Wave

(By The Canadian Press)

Relief after 11 sweltering days was in sight for Eastern Canadians. The long-range forecast early this week of cooler weather by Friday was borne out by the weatherman today as he wiped his brow and simply said: "Much cooler Friday."

Noon temperatures in Ontario and Quebec today were heading for the high 80s again with slight relief from the odd cool breeze that seemed to come from nowhere.

Two deaths from prostration were recorded today by The Canadian Press. These were the first of the heat wave which at times the wagon spell started last week.

At Chesley, Ont., 25-year-old Mervyn Ireland collapsed and died Wednesday night and in Toronto William Bell, 70, collapsed today and died en route to hospital.

Lowering of the temperature brought hope to water officials in many centres that the serious situation in water supply would be eased. At Kitchener, hardest hit city in Eastern Canada in regard to water, low pressure gauges were reported climbing today, though the pressure still was far below normal.

Showers reported yesterday had brief relief from two showers that were shortlived but the hottest spot in the Dominion was again Hamilton with 96 degrees recorded.

Lake Ontario too continued to get warmer with the temperature reaching 79 — abnormal for one of Canada's coldest lakes.

Canada's Wheat Crop 62 Million Bushels Below 1946 Production

Ottawa, Aug. 14 (CP)—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics, polling correspondents throughout Canada for its earliest estimate of any crop year, predicted that Canada will produce 358,786,000 bushels of wheat in 1947-48, or about 62,000,000 bushels below the 1946-47 crop production.

In its first estimate of the new crop year yesterday, the bureau said Canada's estimate included 320,696,000 bushels of spring wheat, principally in the Prairie Provinces, and 19,090,000 bushels of fall wheat which is principally produced in Ontario.

For oats grown in the present crop year, the bureau gave the following estimates:

Oats: 391,620,000 bushels compared with 400,069,000 bushels last year.

Barley: 154,554,000 bushels, compared with 159,834,000 bushels.

Combined output of spring and fall rye: About 14,900,000 bushels, about 100 percent better than 1946 production.

Flaxseed: 10,900,000 bushels compared with 6,384,000 bushels last year.

Breaking down its spring wheat estimate by provinces, the bureau expected that Manitoba would produce 50,000,000 bushels, Saskatchewan 183,000,000 bushels and Alberta 103,000,000 bushels for a total of 336,000,000 bushels. The other 6,000,000-odd bushels would be produced in British Columbia fields.

Of the prairie wheat crop the bureau predicted that the average yield per acre would be 16.5 bushels to the acre compared with a revised yield of 17.5 bushels per acre for the last crop year, and the long-time average yield of 16.8 bushels per acre.

The bureau said the total acreage of the 1947-48 wheat crop would be about 2,878,200 of which the prairies could claim 23,162,900 acres. Average yield on the prairies would be 16.5 bushels to the acre with Manitoba averaging 20, Saskatchewan 13 and Alberta 16 bushels.

TWO YOUTHS HELD FOR ROBBERY AT PICKERING BANK

Entire $14,000 Loot Taken Recovered By Toronto Police In Lightning Raids

Toronto, Aug. 14 — (CP) — In lightning raids conducted and city police late last night arrested two youths for the armed robbery of the Bank of Commerce branch at nearby Pickering, and claimed to have recovered the entire $14,000 loot taken from the bank.

Police raiding areas found about $7,000 in cash under the rear seat of a motor car parked on Palmerston Avenue in west-central Toronto. Also in the car were two revolvers taken from the bank during the hold-up and keys taken from the bank's assistant manager after the staff had been locked in the vault.

Owner of the car, Theodore Gregory, 19, was arrested on a charge of armed robbery.

Detective-sergeant police and a city detective then kept watch at the parcel wicket at Toronto Union station and arrested a man identified as Frank Polanski, 19, of Toronto, when he called for a parcel contained the other half of the $14,000 stolen from the Pickering bank.

Police following hold-up was carried out shortly after noon Wednesday by two men whose description apparently fitted the pair police by the bank staff.

The bank would not disclose where they got the tip that resulted in the arrests. They said Polanski had purchased a railway ticket for the west and that both he and Gregory had formerly been residents of the western provinces.

After Gregor's arrest police established a cordon around the Union Station while the two detectives posted themselves near the parcel wicket. They waited two hours before the suspect showed up and then arrested Polanski as he obtained the bag.

Sunninghill Park Given Princess By His Majesty

London, Aug. 14 (AP)—Buckingham Palace announced today that the King had given Sunninghill Park, 18th century mansion near Berkshire estate, to Princess Elizabeth, who will be married Nov. 20 to Lieut. Philip Mountbatten, former Prince Philip of Greece.

The clematis-covered mansion of Sunning Windsor Castle, one of the Royal residences, will be the country home of the Queen's heiress presumptive. No decision has been reached about a home for the bridegroom, the palace said.

"The King has been graciously pleased to give Sunninghill Park to Princess Elizabeth as a present and in favor of residence," the palace announcement said.

"Grace and favor residences are those in possession of the King which he bestows at his royal pleasure."

Mountbatten, who is an insepector of the Royal Navy, left London by plane today to join the Royal family at Balmoral Castle, its summer residence in Scotland.

End of British Rule Confronts Britain With New Economic Problems

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

London, Aug. 14 —(AP)— Britain, beset by an economic crisis at home, faced today the prospect of new trade difficulties stemming from the establishment of an independent India.

The Indian Independence Act, sealed by the King last month, does more than end the century-old direct British rule over this country's 400,000,000 people. It destroys the system, which the merchant-adventurers of London began exploiting 350 years ago under a Royal Charter granted by Queen Elizabeth.

It creates the two new independent "temporary" Dominions of Hindu India and Moslem Pakistan and for the first time since the 17th century gives the sprawling sub-continent's 400,000,000 people control over the economic destinies and economic resources.

Britons still hope that both new countries will choose to enjoy their independence inside, rather than outside, the Commonwealth.

However, the general expectation in London is that India will declare herself a sovereign republic and quit the Commonwealth, while Pakistan will remain a Dominion.

If both countries decide to leave the Empire, the consequences for Britain will be incalculable.

Economically, it will mean she will have to compete for the vast sub-continental trade market on equal terms with the rest of the world, including the dollar area.

Even if she were able to maintain Britain's present share, Britain's trade links with both states, which are certainly due for a more difficult to reap the advantages of the monopolistic two-way traffic in goods and raw materials which have accrued to her in the last 300 years.

India in the past has been Britain's principal supplier for jute, jute manufactures, cotton, tea, vegetable oils, ores and chemicals, spices and certain food items. In addition, more recently India has been buying uranium from Trancore State.

On the other hand the United Kingdom has been India's principal

22 ATTENDANTS OF PRISON CAMP WILL BE HANGED

Five Others Given Life in Trial, Which Has Lasted Four Months

Dachau, Germany, Aug. 14 (AP)

—An American War Crimes Court today sentenced 22 Buchenwald concentration camp attendants to be hanged for atrocities committed against American and other Nazi regime.

Five others were sentenced to life imprisonment, among them Hans Hie Sturmbannfuehrer of former Buchenwald commandant, who is expected to give birth next month to a baby conceived while a prisoner.

One defendant was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment, two to 15 years and six to 10 years.

The 31 defendants were convicted Tuesday after four months trial.

More than 30,000 prisoners died in the notorious camp, which was situated on the outskirts of Weimar, a few miles from Buchenwald Province famed as the residence of the German poet Goethe.

Among those condemned to die were Hermann Pister, a former camp commandant, and Max Schobert, former camp leader.

Those sentenced to life imprisonment included Edwin Katzenbichler, a former American citizen selected from among the ranks of Hitler's brutal youth, and former Prince Louis Waldeck, a Sturmbannfuehrer (Elite Guard) officer and the first German of royal blood to be tried for war crimes.

Eventual Peace For Good of All Seen by Truman

Washington, Aug. 14 (AP)

President Truman said today that he sees nothing on the horizon to indicate a special session of Congress, thus virtually eliminating possibility of legislative action this year on new funds to aid Europe's recovery.

Truman also said he still is hopeful of permanent world peace, which he regrets "has not yet been obtained."

On the second anniversary of VJ-Day, Truman told a press conference he had anticipated when he announced the formation of Japan two years ago that the peace would have been secured established by this time.

But he still has abandoned his belief, he added, that the countries will eventually accomplish a peace for the benefit of all the peoples of the world.

He said he has "never had any doubt about the wisdom" of dropping atomic bombs on Japanese cities since he figures it saved the lives of 250,000 Americans.

The President declined to comment on the current talks on increasing Ruhr coal production and on the general British financial crisis.

He said he would be unable to supply figures on how much the Marshall-plan will cost. Any estimate will depend upon surveys by the United States as well as the results of the Paris conference on the Marshall plan, he suggested, a suggestion that European countries get together on a self-help plan.

FARBEN CHEMICAL TRUST DIRECTORS PLEAD INNOCENT

Charged They Conspired to Plunge World Into War for Profit

By THOMAS A. REEDY

Nuernberg, Aug. 14. (AP)—Twenty-one directors of the billion-dollar I. G. Farben chemical Trust pleaded innocent before the American War Crimes Court today to charges that they had conspired to plunge the world into war for profit.

Without Farben, Brig.-Gen. Telford Taylor, the chief prosecutor, charged in a new indictment, 000-word indictment, Adolf Hitler would not have been prepared to start the war in 1939 and powerless to wage it successfully for so long.

Three other defendants were absent and it was announced they would be tried later. Max Brueggemann said Hitler was a monster in hospitals and Carl Lautenschlager was in a mental home at the moment because his son died last month.

The Farben directorate, which includes some of the biggest and richest industrialists in Germany, Europe, is charged with waging aggressive war, with plundering subjugated countries, with extermination, with concentration camp victims and with exploiting slave labor.

The 21 defendants barked out their "not guilty" pleas in the German language. Hermann Goering and other Hitler hench-men were tried.

Two Officials, Bookkeeper Found Guilty of Fraud

Barrie, Ont., Aug. 14. (CP)— Two officials and a bookkeeper of the War-McKee Engineering Company last night were convicted of false pretences and conspiracy to defraud the Dominion government of $26,000.

Ernest Edgar McKee, 34, president; Gerald C. McKee, 34, secretary, and Henry A. McKinley, 33, first pleaded guilty and elected trial by a magistrate. Magistrate C. R. Foster later registered conviction and said imprisonment would be imposed Saturday.

The charges arose from a contract between the company and the War Assets Corporation for a demolition job at the Camp Borden Army Camp. Government inspectors claimed the company falsified payrolls and listed trucks which were never used.

This was not a case of five per cent, it was cost plus 75 per cent," Crown Attorney Frank Hammond..."The public is concerned in this."

BODY RECOVERED

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Aug. 14 (CP) — The body of Adolphus John, 35, victim of a motorboat accident in St. Mary's River on Aug. 3, was recovered yesterday police said today. John disappeared when his boat crashed into the C.P.R. dock wall and wedged upside down between the boat and the SS Manitoba. The body was discovered in shallow water about a mile from the accident.

RUSSIA CHARGES U.S. INTERFERING IN GREEK AFFAIRS

Interpreted Immediately As Reference to The Truman Aid Program For Europe

By: LARRY HAUCK

Lake Success, Aug. 14. (AP) —Russia today charged that "the crudest interference into the internal affairs of Greece emanates at present from the United States."

This was interpreted immediately as a reference to the Truman Aid program.

Andrei Y. United Nations Security Council what he termed "the truth" in an answer to a speech made Monday." Soviet delegate declared that foreign interference was worsening the situation daily inside Greece.

He also charged that former Axis collaborators were holding prominent positions in the Athens government.

Gromyko told the council:

The situation in Greece worsens with every day because this foreign interference into the internal affairs of Greece not only is continuing but also is strengthened. It is the truth which everybody knows.

The appearance of the strategy was to force Gromyko into continued use of his veto to block action in the Council and then throw the onus for the 55-member general assembly in September.

This afternoon the Council was scheduled to take up the Indonesian case again, with Soviet Dmitri Manuilsky presenting a report prepared to make his first speech here on the question of the Dutch.

Syria won his right to speak over vigorous protests from British, French, Belgian and Dutch delegates.

The Council yesterday continued debate on Egypts complaint against British and heard Polish Foreign Minister Modzelewski. Russia's stand, express support for Dalro's demand that British troops be withdrawn from Egyptian soil immediately and unconditionally.

Canada Makes Vigorous Protest On Coal Embargo

Govt. Thinks U.S. Official Given Too Much Power

Ottawa, Aug. 14 (CP) — The Canadian government has made "vigorous representations" to the United States over exclusion of freight cars could be "settled in short order" by the United States Department of railway and government officials of both countries.

Last night's statement by Transport Minister Chevrier protested against the action of the O. D. T. in imposing an embargo effective from last midnight on United States coal shipments over the Canadian National Railways lines received almost no publicity here.

The O. D. T. spokesman said Mr. Chevrier's claim that the adverse balance of United States cars held in Canada was limited to 7,588 under the maximum of, 8,000 fixed by O.D.T. as a condition to calling off the embargo, was not correct.

He said the Canadian figures did not take into account nearly 2,000 United States box cars specially designed for hauling Canadian newsprint. He said had always been treated as box cars for O.D.T. purposes because of their design, but for any purpose ordinary box cars serve.

O.D.T. officials said the figures available but his spokesman said he believed Mr. Chevrier the residents at the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific and C.P.R. controlled lines also ran into out the difficulty in a short time if they got together.

asked for a speedy return of the cars to move wheat to the seaboard but took no drastic action against American roads.

Today's comment followed a statement by Transport Minister Chevrier in which he said that the government was ordered effective conversations in Washington with with regard to box cars, and that in the meantime Canadian railways were continuing every effort to move coal cars to the American lines.

The statement, issued last night, expressed the minister's "regret" at the U.S. embargo action and said neither the procedure followed nor the embargo itself was justified by the facts of the situation as they are understood in Canada.

Mr. Chevrier disclosed that the U. S. authorities had agreed until the total "adverse balance" of freight cars in Canada was reduced to 8,000 and would affect all coal shipments over C. P. R. and Canadian National lines moving in box cars.

The statement said that at a meeting in Washington in Aug. 11 between officials of the Canadian transport adviser reported an adverse balance of 8,124 cars, a figure which since has been reduced to 7,588 by Canadian railroads. The Association Railroad Association at the same time reported a decrease in cars moving in box cars.

The minister said that this discrepancy was due to the fact that the figures did not account for cooperatives of associations to sit in on inter-government conferences.

The government felt that the question of the ban should have been dealt by the United States State Department as it would affect the whole economy of Canada. It also was felt that the way in which the ban was imposed was not a "very friendly act" and could effectively affect the long-term trade.

Boy of Four May Hold Only Clue To Disappearance of Airliner

Sydney, B. C., Aug. 14—(CP)—writer.

A four-year-old Sidney, B. C., boy can relate vividly today what he saw from the window of a Quit or which disappeared last night of last April 29 when a Trans-Canada airliner disappeared and has never been found. He the only concrete clue to the fate of the missing plane and the 15 persons aboard.

David Wertover, the tow-headed youngster was visiting at the Portlock Point lighthouse along with his grandfather, Albert Wertover, who found him sitting up in bed. Divers and planes were unable to locate the object but are expected to continue the search soon.

Washington, Aug. 14 — (CP)—

As Air and Defence Transport Minister Chevrier protested the action of the U.S. Interstate Commerce Commission in ordering the embargo on coal shipments over Canadian National Railways lines, a senior government official said today.

The official, saying that Canada's case did not rise the "pushing around" she was getting from Col. J. Monroe Johnston of the United States office of defence transportation, said that the U.S. government now looked on the box car question as a political and diplomatic problem.

Two Important Per Snap Decisions

The government felt that enforcement of a ban which was likely to affect the economy of a country should not have been decided on by an official in Col. Johnston's position. Such action should have been passed on by officials in the State Department.

However, the American State Department was "loath" to interfere with an office that was not under its control.

The official said the question of retaliation by Canada did not enter the picture. While Canada could cut down on the number of and other shipments to the United States because of the shortage of Canadian boxcars held by American railroad lines, he said the government felt that would do anyone any good.

Going into the background of the question, the official said Col. Johnston appeared to have "extraordinary power" for an official in a Democratic country. He had told Canadian officials some time ago to get the coal cars back "or else."

The official were told there were 13,000 more American freight cars in Canada than there were Canadian cars in the United States. Col. Johnston said the adverse balance had to be reduced to 8,000 within a given period.

Balance Reduced

At a meeting last Saturday Canadian officials showed that the balance had been reduced to 8,124. A United States State Department official said surely that was enough—and Canada complied for the sake of 124 cars.

The Canadian Department had been reporting for months that the ban was imposed on the basis of coal, refrigerator and freight cars on C.N.R., C.P.R. and some of the minor lines and no complaint was made on this method of calculation.

The official said the Canadian representative at the Geneva Washington conference was surprised when told that Canada's officials, whom he thought to be Col. Johnston's assistants, were delegates to the International Railroad Association.

Officials were not normal for representatives of associations to sit in on inter-government conferences.

REVENUE OVER $100 WEEKLY IN SUMMER

Revenue from Cobourg's parking meters has been over $100 a week since summer. The most successful week to date was the one ending August 3, when $146.25 was collected.

It is believed that the Civic Holiday crowds and the number of American tourists using the meters on their stop-overs in the city were responsible for the record collection.

THREE BRIEF RUNS MADE BY DEPARTMENT

The city fire department made three brief runs last evening, none of them being serious.

The first call was to the city dump at 6.30 to quell a small blaze. A hay and brush fire on Church Street resulted in a call to run at 7.00 p.m. A recall to the dump at 8.00 p.m. concluded their operations for the day.

GIVEN FOUR MONTHS ON THEFT CHARGE

Robert Ross, 58, of Ottawa, was sentenced to four months definite, and three months to terminate by Magistrate T. Y. Wills in police court today, before being found guilty of the theft of property from the Martin Funeral Home, Belleville.

The convicted man was found in possession of a piece of leather luggage which with a gladstone bag, two suitcases and two cloth bags were stolen from the funeral home on August 1st.

He was charged with the theft of one black leather suitcase. The remainder of the stolen property has been recovered, Inspector Clare Hayes investigated the robbery.

Motorist Suffers Gashed Wrist In Accident

When his car swerved out of control, hurdled the sidewalk and ended up between a hydro pole and a verandah in Plainfield yesterday, F. W. Prudhomme, acting manager of the Royal Bank here, suffered a deeply gashed left wrist and other lacerations.

He was taken to Belleville General Hospital by one of the Martin Funeral Home's ambulances after being treated at the scene of the accident by Dr. Jack Empson. After the extent of his injuries were ascertained by Dr. George-H. Stobie and treated, Mr. Prudhomme returned to his home.

The car was badly damaged. According to information from the scene of the crash, the Prudhomme car was being driven and run at 7.00 p.m. A recall to the dump at 8.00 p.m. concluded their operations for the day.

Cannons Family Holds Reunion At Roblin Lake

On Sunday, August 10th, a picnic was held for a reunion of the Cannons family, which was 63 present.

The first of the family to come to Canada from England was Robert Cannons, Smallbridge, who came in the year 1911. Alice Grace of Frankford, followed in 1912, Ralph Cannons, Smallbridge, then age 14, in the year 1913, Rachel Mathews, Cannons, arrived in 1917. Charles Cannons, Melville, arrived in 1923 and Jessie Margetson, Melville, arrived in 1929. These are brothers and sisters. Percy Cannons, Smallbridge arrived in 1923.

All were present except Mrs. Alice Grace of Frankford, Ellen Thatcher of Georgetown, New Brunswick, and Hilda Mathews, who is now visiting in England.

Visitors and relatives were present from Trenton, Campbellford, Stockdale, Shannonville and Surrey, England.

The chief present was Ernest Margetson who arrived in the South African and Great War. He served 27 years in the Royal Marines.

There were seven returned veterans of the 2nd World War present, two with British medals.

After the bountiful lunch was served a meeting was held to elect a committee to arrange for a future gathering.

Mrs. Alice Grass was elected honorary president, Mrs. Archie Cannons, president, and Mrs. Gerald Istead, secretary treasurer.

Swimming and boating were enjoyed by the younger generation during the afternoon.

The party ended after arranging for another family picnic to be held in 1948.

Rural Dobbin Found Running Loose in City

Members of the city police force among their many other accomplishments, must have something of the cowboy in their make-up.

The yesterday call received by rural Dobbin was found running loose at the corner of Wellington and East Moira Streets, and the call was busy doing a little investigating of various places of interest in the city.

The police were notified and an officer located the wandering mustang using West Moira and Sidney Streets. The Dobbin's owner was located by the bloodcurdlements of the lad in his charge finally allowed himself to be roped, tied and led home by binder twine.

After that he meekly submitted to "arrest" and was given over to the care of Constable Thomas Thorne, who has the nag in "durance vile" with all round. No trace of the owner has been uncovered up till noon today.

Victims of Smooth Operator Now Believe Barnum Was Right

"There's one born every minute and the woods are full of 'em," quoth the late famous Mr. Barnum.

And a sound believer in the Barnum psychology, a gentleman of suave and polish, with various devices to extract the money from gullible victims lost a trail of deception at the city hall today.

It all started when Ernie Fish, of Brantford, discovered that his automobile had been stolen. He reported the matter to police and Fish alleged that a man named Sutton, a garage operator, was the culprit for he not only took the Fish car but $23 of the Fish money.

Mr. Sutton or Stewart had a disarming manner. He was affable, charming, in fact so much that he retrieved two other reluctants of $100 and 16 dollars respectively. It is believed that the gentleman in question was quite adept with the cards and was not averse to dealing his hand from the bottom as long as he held a straight flush himself, although he could stand the slightest trace of discomfort or extra effort on his part.

War Versatile

The "waffles" of the beverage rooms had another way with him. He found that posing as a detective inspector opened many doors of approach, while in reserve he had the role of a major, if the situation was of a military type, or if the victims were in a philatelic frame of mind, he slipped into the character of a returned prisoner of war with lurid tales of hardship and suffering at the hand of the enemy. Quite a lad, this Stewart Sutton.

And nobody's fool at that. He invited another prospect to look at his car, which had become scarlet, with all expenses paid. Another victim jumped at this potential host. Something clicked in his brain. He rubbed his chin reflectively for a minute, then came the light. He suddenly remembered that Sutton had met him with smiles and invitations to the punch-bowl was none other than Stewart Sutton himself. He met in a city hotel and by virtue of his charming qualities had separated him from fifty dollars about a year ago.

Recognized His 'Boss'

However, the potential victim kept his head. He did not give away by sign or word that he recognized his "boss." He suggested that they go for a ride around town. He gently but firmly forced the issue. Sutton thought unsuspecting Sutton toward the Fish automobile.

But he had reckoned without his friend. Sutton suddenly remembered he had forgotten that the "victim" out of the car and spot cash. The gentleman operator was taken by the potential "sucker" and later when he returned to the Fish automobile the City Hall he withdrew to a corner and said "Good Boss." But to his dismay, the gentleman who later claimed the car was a detective, was a major, in the right-hand, the rightful owner.

Mr. Stewart Sutton, is still on the loose, and probably readying himself for another foray on the purses of unsuspecting people.

Tomatoes Down In Price on Market

A wide range of prices in most lines of merchandise was noted on the market on Saturday as many vendors were asking various amounts for their wares.

Tomatoes were down in price on the Belleville market this morning with vendors asking 20 to 25 cents a quart and 75 and 80 cents a six-quart basket. Green apples were 40, 50 and 60 cents a six-quart basket and Jersey Lee sons was offering apples at 40 cents a half peck, or 75 cents a peck.

Yellow beans were for a quart while green beans were 10 and 15 cents a quart. Beets sold at 3 bunches selling at 10 cents a bunch, three bunches for 25 cents. Cucumbers were 5c each, three for 10c. Cabbage sold for 25c.

Prices for potatoes varied with vendors asking 50, 65 and 70 cents per peck; $1.25 and $2.00 a bag and $2.50 cents a bushel. Blueberries were for sale at 20c a quart and $2.50 a six-quart basket. Red raspberries were being offered at 40 and 50 cents a quart. Plums were offered at 25c a quart, and $1.25 and $1.50 a six-quart basket. Cantaloupe were for sale at prices ranging from 10 to 40 cents depending on size and quality. Red currants were 20c a quart.

Pop corn was also offered at 25c a dozen. Medium size eggs were for sale at 35c a dozen and large were 45c. Flowers were 25c a bunch.

FARBEN CHEMICAL

Taylor, in his indictment of the Farben directors, accused the gay and chemical trust—world wide in scope—of being the industrial heart of the Nazi war effort. He borrowed the German enemy expression for it, and called it a "state within a state"—because the government has given such a peculiarly independent status by personal orders from Hitler.

He accused the vast concern of helping to prepare the war by preclaiming its activities with the military high command and of stockpiling war materials during the peace years.

Taylor said Farben—its official German name is I. G. Farbenindustrie Aktiengesellschaft—consisted of 400 German firms and participated in more than 500 firms abroad, throughout Europe and elsewhere. It owned its own railroads and mines, and in its possessed power plants and coke ovens.

It was so well organized for war, Taylor declared, that only a telegram was needed from the military after Poland was invaded to put the trust in high gear.

Dr. J.A. Cummins Dies Suddenly In Muskoka

Suffering a heart attack late on Wednesday, Dr. James Antony Cummins, 24 Blake Street, Hamilton, and formerly of this city, died suddenly early today while vacationing at Muskoka with his family.

He was born in Belleville, 46 years ago, being the son of Mrs. Marie Effie Cummins and the late J. V. Cummins. All of his boyhood days were apparently spent in this city where he was well and favorably known and his sudden demise will be a shock to a wide circle of friends. He attended St. Michael's Academy in this city and then went to St. Michael's College, Toronto and returned to Belleville to attend Albert College. He entered Queen's University in medicine and graduated in 1923 and interned at the Hotel Dieu in Kingston and Water Street Hospital in Ottawa. He then attended the Ontario Hospital at Whitby and took up the practice of psychiatry in 1931 and took a post-graduate course in that subject in 1934. At the completion of the course he went to the Ontario Hospital at Hamilton in 1936 and remained with that institution as a member of the staff until 1944, when he opened a private practice in Hamilton.

The late Dr. Cummins was an active participant in sports in his school days specializing in hockey and rugby. He was a faithful member of the Roman Catholic Church and leaves to mourn his loss, his mother, his wife, the former Catherine Mitchell of Kingston, two sons, Ronald and John Edward and one daughter, Joan; also one brother, John Edward Cummins of this city and two sisters, Mrs. Robert Basserman of Malartic, Quebec, and Mrs. E. Harp, of Smithville.

The funeral announcement will be made later.

Police Blotter

Sneak thieves who pilfer the coin of the realm and are not adverse to snatching dollar bills if conveniently placed in their pockets are on the rampage, according to complaints received by city police. Early yesterday the loss of a dollar bill while others have been reported. Cigarettes, nickles and dimes have been reported by the early morning purchasers of the light-fingered fraternity.

The Farrar Furniture Store, Front Street was entered some time during the night of July 31st, intruders apparently were frightened away for nothing was touched. A small sum of money in the cash drawer was unmolested. An alert police officer discovered the rear door of the store forced open and reported the fact immediately to Mr. Farrar.

Margaret Wright, 83 Wallbridge Road, reported the loss of two rings valued at $115. She is of the opinion that the rings were taken from her residence during the past day or so.

OBITUARY

LATE BIARD D. EMBURY

Largely attended by former railway associates and friends the funeral of the late Biard D. Embury was held from the family residence, 119 Canniff Road to Elmwood Cemetery yesterday. The deceased man was killed in the car accident at Kingston last Sunday. The many floral tributes included one tendered only went to show in a measure the high esteem in which the deceased was held among his fellow employees and friends alike.

The bearers were all members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and included Harry Embury, Percy Embury, Fred Fisher, Charles Doran, William Gardiner and Michael Sheehan. Rev. Great Sparling of Christ Church conducted the services at the home and at the graveside.

LATE PHILLIP DERUSHIE

The funeral of the late Phillip DeRushie was held from the Vic. Wagner Funeral Home to Melrose Cemetery on Monday. Rev. Grant Sparling was in charge of the services.

The bearers were, Carl Anderson, Ernest Bowerman, Ernest DeRushie, John DeRushie, Delbert Crawford and Bayliss Evans.

Service School Will be Opened At Kingston

Ottawa, Aug. 14. (CP)—A tri-service defence college, comparable on a smaller scale to Britain's Imperial Defence College and the United States War College, will be opened at Kingston, Ont., next January, Defence Minister Claxton announced today at a press conference.

Mr. Claxton also announced that Royal Roads Military College at Victoria will re-open this Fall and operate on a basis very much similar to that of pre-war years.

The defence college will be located at Fort Frontenac, on of Kingston's historic military landmarks and will be commanded by Major-General Guy Simonds, Chief of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, whose title will be Commandant of the existing Canadian Joint Staff College, which will move out of R.M.C.

Royal Roads College in British Columbia will provide the Army and Air Force men courses similar to those given naval officer candidates at R.M.C.

Male, direct candidates for the new defence college will be selected from senior officers of the Canadian Army and Air Force. Enrolment is expected to total 150 officers and the initial course likely will last about one year.

The course will cover not only military aspects but economic and industrial mobilization.

The college will be under the command of Major-General J. M. Whiteley, of the British Army, who arrives by air from England to take up a two-year exchange agreement under which his place at the Imperial Defence College in England has been filled by Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds of the Canadian Army.

22 ATTENDANTS

Courtroom Jammed

The courtroom, where several hundred Germans have been tried for war crimes in the last two years, was jammed. Most of the defendants showed their accusers with outward calm.

A defence counsel objected for Frau Koch, because of her advanced pregnancy. The accused, widow of Buchenwald commandant, was accused of having prisoners killed so she could make lamp shades, purses and book bindings out of the skins obtained.

She tried unsuccessfully to escape trial because of her pregnancy, but was never been officially explained. Her husband was executed by the Americans years ago.

It has been estimated that approximately 250,000 prisoners were held at the Buchenwald camp at one time or another during the Nazi regime.

Before the court's surrender, the late Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., ordered 1,200 German civilians to view the scenes of horror that had been found in the camp in order to impress upon them the inhumanities committed by their Nazi leaders.

The same scene is in the Russian-occupied zone of Germany. Some weeks ago Walter Ulbricht, mayor of Hamburg, reported that Germans had been re-opened by the Russians and that 800 members of the German Social Democratic Party had been confined there on political charges.

FRENCH FISHING VESSEL SUNK IN COLLISION

FOUR SURVIVORS

Plymouth, England, Aug. 14—(AP)—A 48-ton French fishing vessel the Indifferent, sank early today after colliding with an Africa-bound British steamship, the 5,263-ton Mendercrest, off the Scilly Isles.

The Mendercrest reported she had picked up four survivors and that 13 other men apparently were

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Vance and family of Ameliasburgh, wish to thank many relatives, friends and neighbors for the many kindnesses shown and especially help given them since the fire that burned to the ground the home of Mrs. Vance's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hicks. Also for the many cards and letters received, which helped to mitigate the loss. The kindness is very much appreciated by all concerned.

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their many acts of kindness during the illness and death of our mother, in our recent and bereavement.

Mrs. E. S. Tickle wishes to thank her many friends, relatives and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy and floral tributes during my recent sad bereavement.

Entering Last Phase to Make Peace Secure

(By The Associated Press)

Two years ago today Japanese Hirohito thwarted the last, desperate plot of his die-hard militarists and told his people Japan had surrendered, and today Premier MacArthur told the occupation forces they were entering "the last phase" of their task — the task of making that peace secure.

The surrender itself was announced by the Emperor in a radio broadcast to his people after loyal guards had foiled a militarist plot to seize the transcript before it could be put on the air.

San Francisco, the city which blew its top when that happy news was first heard, with five dead and 500 injured in "victory riots," today was under consideration as the site of the peace conference and there were reports and other capitals has come evidence that the conference may begin within a matter of days.

MacArthur's anniversary message today told his people and civilian workers in Japan they were training for "a successful occupation . . . the vital campaign" to make peace secure.

LONGER HOURS FOR CANADIAN TROOPS

London, Aug. 14 (Reuters) — Longer hours for workers in British and dollar-saving measures are forced by the last night by the joint consultive committee which represents equally employers and trade unions.

The committee recommended that the order become effective on Aug. 18 and that each industry should work out its own plan through established machinery for increasing hours.

MARRIES KURUSU'S DAUGHTER

Yokohama, Aug. 14 (AP) — Pretty 21-year-old Pia Kurusu, former Japanese envoy at Washington while Japan bombed Pearl Harbor, was married today to former army Lieut. Frank White of Somerset, Pa.

Nuernberg Proves International Law Apace With Years

By KAY ROSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Aug. 14 — (CP) — In 90 degrees of heat delegates to the International Federation of University Women's Convention today scattered in little meetings around the University of Toronto campus discussing everything from the Nuernberg war crimes trials to art, archaeology and employment problems.

At last night's public meeting Dr. Frances Moran of Trinity College, Dublin, gave a detailed account of the Nuernberg trials which she attended. She said that any comparison between Nuernberg and the trials that followed the First Great War proved that international criminal law had kept pace with the years.

Trials which followed the first World War did not begin until three years after the 1918 armistice. Then only 45 of nearly 900 cases appeared in court, producing only two convictions. Four sentences were imposed but in none case did the war trials under way following Germany's surrender in 1945, she pointed out. In the last conflict there was a new concept in international law — the crime of genocide (destruction of nations), racial or religious groups.

Are university women pulling their weight . . . are they making the most of their opportunities?", asked Mrs. R. F. McWilliams of Winnipeg, the first woman to act, archaeology and employment problems.

At last night's public meeting Dr. Frances Moran of Trinity College, Dublin, gave a detailed account of the Nuernberg trials which she attended. She said that any comparison between Nuernberg and the trials that followed the First Great War proved that international criminal law had

Discuss Salvage $3,000,000 Cargo Of Canned Salmon

Victoria, Aug. 14 — (CP) — Overseas of the United States motorship Diamond Knot, which sank with $3,000,000 cargo of canned salmon off Cape Flattery following a collision in the fog-bound straits of Juan de Fuca, were slated today to confer with salvage officials in Seattle over the possibilities of saving the cargo.

The 5,525-ton vessel southward bound from Alaska, was sliced almost in half yesterday by the 10,381-ton freighter Fort Victory bound from Seattle to Port Alberni, but none of the 84 crew members of both ships was hurt.

Haggard Diamond Knot sailors arrived in Seattle last night with the almost unanimous refrain: "We're lucky to be alive."

Seaman Paul Costello, on watch when the collision occurred said he did that Victory ship had hit us just a few feet farther aft, it's doubtful if any of us would be here now."

Parts of the little freighters mashed tangled in the Victory ship's railing and hooked over the bow and were credited with keeping it afloat while the crew took to lifeboats.

Water poured into the Diamond Knot's hull when it was pulled loose, and it sank while under tow by two tugs — the stern still showing and the masts parallel with the surface.

Captain Harry Rhodes of the Royal Canadian Navy tug Heatherton said that the Diamond Knot was drawn in treacherous, wind-swept waters which were not too shallow to make salvage operations possible, adding that he believed divers would be able to retrieve a major portion of the cargo.

BURNS HOUSE DOWN TO GET RID OF TERMITES

Shurbridge, Mass., Aug. 14 — (AP) — George R. Martel got rid of the termites in his house by burning the place down on the hottest night of the year.

A crowd of 500 watched as the war veteran poured gasoline on a pile of timber on the first floor of the five-room dwelling and put a match to it. In 40 minutes the 125-year-old home was reduced to ashes.

Martel plans to build a new home and what can be salvaged from the foundation.

'Put Up or Shut Up' Says U.S. to Russia On Korean Unity

Washington, Aug. 14 (AP) — The United States gave Russia one week from today to "put up or shut up" in Assembly efforts to achieve a united Korea.

Stripped of its diplomatic language, that is the essence of State Secretary Marshall's letter to Foreign Minister Molotov, setting the Aug. 21 deadline for a report on the long-elastrated negotiations by a joint commission in Korea.

If the Russians fail to "put up" by then, Marshall said, each government may immediately consider what further steps may usefully be taken to achieve the objects of the Moscow agreement, namely the establishment of an independent, united Korea which can take its place among the United Nations.

American authorities who left no doubt as to the new "put up or shut up" attitude expressed Marshall as determined that the Korean negotiations must not bog down completely as have efforts to reach agreement with the Soviet on many other issues.

While the letter made no mention of what the United States or United States government might have in mind, some officials suggested the United States might take the line back to its four-power conference in quest of some other method for reaching an agreement.

As a last resort, they added, Washington might simply give up the project and concentrate on rebuilding southern Korea.

PRECIOUS STONES BASIS FOR LOAN

Tokyo, Aug. (AP) —Following a policy ruling of the far eastern commission in Washington, Gen. MacArthur today announced plans to use $137,000,000 worth of Japanese-owned precious stones and gold as a credit base for loans to Japan "which could eventually total upwards of $500,000,000." The stones and gold are in Allied custody.

BEES SWARM IN BARBER SHOP

Philadelphia, Aug. 14—(AP)—A swarm of bees gave Jensen a no great problem to Frank Jensen, Sr., unofficial apiarist of the Philadelphia Police Department—even when they set up hive keeping in a barbershop.

Jensen was summoned yesterday when a swarm began annoying the customers and neighbors of a Philadelphia tonsorial parlor. Removing the queen bee and smoking out the 70,000 others (Jensen estimated) did the trick in short order.

Mail Flown by Plane, Helicopter to the King At Balmoral Castle

London, Aug. 14 (CP) — State documents of importance heightened by the urgency of the economic crisis, are being flown daily from London to the doors of the Balmoral Castle, Scotland, where the King is on holiday.

A Whitley aircraft of the King's flight leaves London daily for Dyce airport, Aberdeen, where mail is transferred to an R.A.F. helicopter which completes the last 40-mile leg.

Mail which leaves London at 5 a.m. arrives at Balmoral in time to be on the King's breakfast table.

Considerable time is saved by the quick transfer to the helicopter and the service also gives a thrill of importance in handling that type of aircraft.

Balmoral is in the wooded valley of the Dee among hills and a landing for planes is not possible close by. The helicopter lands on the grounds of Queen Victoria's favorite summer residence.

The King reads the mail before grouse shooting on the heather-covered hills.

Mounted Police Keep Close Watch Of Waterfront

Cornwall, Aug. 14 —(CP)— Officers of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police kept a close watch on the waterfront in this canal town, today, with fears of a possible violent outbreak between rival seamen's unions.

The R.C.M.P. yesterday ordered men they believed to be members of the Canadian Lake Seamen's Union and of the rival Canadian Seamen's Union of canal property. Citizens here have noticed groups of seamen from both unions on property since Sunday and although there were no official report it was apparent that both the C.S.U. and the C.L.S.U. had supporters watching the locks through which all lake shipping must pass to and from Montreal.

Leonard W. Brockington of Ottawa has been appointed by the Federal Government to arbitrate the dispute between the C.S.U. and the shipping firms, the Canadian Steamships Ltd. and the Sarnia and Colonial Steamships Ltd. This dispute arose over alleged breaches of the agreement signed by the union and the companies following the lake seamen's strike last year.

Refuse to Issue Passes.

It was disclosed at Montreal last night that the companies had informed Mr. Brockington that they still refuse to issue passes to "Communists" or "Communist agents" to board their ships. One of the telegrams said that this was the only matter in dispute.

The C.S.U. had delegated authority to prosecute the companies in order to have it judicially decided whether the refusal is justified, but so far legal proceedings haven't started.

Cornwall city council yesterday asked the Federal Government to appoint a shipping controller to handle the situation, but Transport Minister Chevrier said the Government would not appoint a controller. The Federal Minister added however that the Federal Labor Department was "keeping an eye" on the situation.

100 Members in Town.

As far as could be learned here, about 100 members of the local C.I.S.U. which is headed by J. A. (Pat) Sullivan, and a smaller group of C.S.U. men were in the city. Sullivan resigned the presidency of the C.S.U. with a charge that it was dominated by Communists after he formed the C.I.S.U.

The Cornwall Trades and Labor Council last night heard an outline of the situation from Harry Davis, Montreal, president of the C.S.U., and then endorsed a resolution supporting the C.S.U. "nationally and morally" in any action the union might take in its dispute with the companies.

HAS BATTLE OF FISTS WITH DOCTOR IN HOSPITAL

Hollywood, Fla., Aug. 14 (AP) —A bit of fisticuffs with a 200-pound bear landed Russell Odham of Dania, Fla., in a hospital here where he was reported recovering today.

Spectators reported that the fight at a roadside refreshment stand started when Odham began to swing on the Brute, landing a haymaker at first sight.

The bear went into action after the other one-two punch by grabbing Odham and squeezing him, and clawing his leg, witnesses said. The bear was winded.

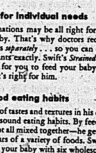
100% body-building meats complete baby's meal

Modern knowledge of nutrition added to mother's care gives your baby a good start in life. It gives your baby meat—the body-building protein food that's given with the greatest success by doctors. Swift's Meats for Baby provide only in life-giving meat, the part of baby's diet that's hard to supply. Meat is the best possible source to attain the great body and brain development baby needs. Ask your doctor about Swift's Meats for Baby. Get Strained Meats especially strained for baby's delicate digestion. Get Diced Meats—bite-size cubes so small you can't see them. Give baby the extra body-building benefits of meat and serve it often.

MOTHER! Here's why Swift's Meats for Babies meet the exacting requirements of infant feeding



1 Good nutrition—for growth
Your baby grows so fast he needs three to four times more protein, proportionately, than you do! He gets complete high-quality protein in Swift's Meats for Babies—important vitamins and iron, too, for good red blood! Remember, a small amount of meat in a mixture of foods does not meet baby's big protein need. Be sure—feed Swift's Meats for Babies . . . they're all meat.

2 Compact nourishment—baby's stomach is small
Your baby is so tiny he can eat only a small amount of food each day—yet he is building his body for life! Every day he needs the nutrients meat provides so abundantly. No other food is added to Swift's Meats for Babies. They furnish the body-building goodness of meat in compact form.

3 Controlled feeding—for individual needs
Ready-mixed food combinations may be all right for one baby—wrong for your baby. That's why doctors recommend feeding baby's foods separately . . . so you can control and balance the amounts exactly. Swift's Strained and Diced Meats make it easy for you to feed your baby the exact amount of meat that's right for him.

4 Variety—to form good eating habits
Your baby needs a variety of tastes and textures in his diet, to help form nutritionally sound eating habits. By feeding baby's foods separately—not all mixed together—he gets to know the individual flavours of a variety of foods. Swift's Meats for Babies acquaint your baby with six wholesome, distinctive flavours of meats he will be eating all his life.

Ask your doctor when to start your baby on Swift's Strained or Swift's Diced Meats. Your nearby food store has them now.

A Momentous Event

Midnight of August 14 marks a momentous time in the history of India. Two great Dominions come into being, the new Dominion of India and the Moslem Dominion of Pakistan. Power passes from the hands of Britain into the hands of these two new nations. At this time is seen something unique in history, more than four hundred millions of people become free. Thursday Lord Mountbatten, whose part in bringing about the arrangements through his post as Britain's Governor has earned him the undying praise of the people of India, of the Empire, and of the democracies of the world, will become the Governor-General of the new state of India.

About the world today are found the free nations within the Commonwealth, the product of the British genius for political development. The newest of the two new Dominions, which have come out of the old India, remain as members of the British Commonwealth and have the right after a time to decide on their course with or to stay in the Commonwealth or not. It is the dearest thought of the nations of the Commonwealth that India and Pakistan will go hand in hand and remain members of the British Commonwealth.

British genius for working out political problems by compromise and understanding has given the Motherland the high rank of statesmanship and impression upon the world by the way in which she uses the freedom which she has won by sacrifices and which she extends to the members of the Commonwealth and which she holds before the world as an ideal. One of the happiest points about the planning is the manner in which the people of India and their leaders have entered into the spirit of the plan of freedom. Nothing like it has been seen in history. India and Pakistan become free and will have all the problems to meet that free nations face. Between Britain and the two new Dominions plans have been worked out to mutual satisfaction, an achievement which sheds honor on Britain and on the peoples to whom she extends freedom.

N. S. Lieutenant Governor

Canada's first flier, John Alexander Douglas McCurdy, who flew the first aircraft plane in the British Empire on February 23, 1909, at Baddeck Bay, Nova Scotia, where he was born, has been appointed Lieutenant Governor for his native Province. The appointment will be hailed by the people of Nova Scotia for he has had a long record in connection with the growth and development of the airplane industry. During the recent World War II he was assistant director general of aircraft production at Ottawa, and supervisor of purchasing and assistant director general of the aircraft production branch of the Department of Munitions and Supply. He is president of the Montreal Aircraft Industries Limited, Montreal.

He has qualified as a pioneer flier and long ago had a glimpse of the future of the growth of the aircraft industry in its rise to what it means today.

Mourned

Two men who have held the public eye in Ottawa are mourned by Canadians, Senator Gerry McGeer whose outspoken attacks on matters of national interest made him prominent across Canada and Public Minister the Hon. H. F. G. Bridges, youngest member of the Canadian Cabinet.

Senator McGeer who as mayor of Vancouver and member of the Canadian Commons possessed independence of thought and expression and action, had been followed by many Canadians for the virility of his thought and his close attention to the country's business.

Trained in the school of work he was moulder, trained himself in the law and was honored by appointment to the B. C. Legislature and to the House of Commons. He was one of the colorful figures in Canadian public life and his zeal and enthusiasm in whatever cause he espoused were effective. His dynamic personality helped to mould Canadian opinion however stormy might be his attitude. He championed causes and thereby helped to clarify public opinion.

The passing of the Hon. H. F. G. Bridges removes one who had he lived would doubtless have made a large contribution to the life of the country. His kindly disposition won him friends. Observers tell how his courtesy and sense of good humor and good will won the co-operation of the members of the Opposition groups. Under his regime the Department of Fisheries was becoming of more and greater importance and had a profound interest in the men in the fisheries of Canada and sought a sound basis for the industry in the national life. Not long ago he secured an order of eight million dollars for fish as a part of Canada's contribution of $20,000,000 to the work of U.N.R.R.A. among the poverty-stricken population of Europe and among the children and adults of the continent, suffering from the ravages of war.

He died at barely middle age and in his short term in the cabinet post he had indicated that his work would have gone far in the national interest had he been spared to live and continue to serve the Dominion.

These two men have left their impression on the public life of Canada and have done their share in contributing to the national spirit.

The Crime of Genocide

Genocide — the word coined by the Polish scholar and Nuremberg trials adviser, Prof. Rafael Lemkin, to identify the crime of annihilating national, racial or religious groups — has come to the fore of the United Nations Charter. If the Charter, which reaffirms "faith in fundamental human rights, in the dignity and worth of the human person," means anything, it means that genocide, once and for all, must be recognized as an international crime. To many Americans, genocide, like shortages and the war, has already slipped into some vague limbo of history. To Europeans, its terrifying results are all too evident — the common graves of the massacred millions of former German-occupied countries, the emaciated faces of systematically underfed children, the sterilised men and women of "inferior" races, the D.P.'s in their miserable assembly centres, the looted museums and national treasures.

The United Nations now has a singular opportunity to show the world that it intends to back up its devotion to the "worth of the human person" with more than lip-service. The Social and Economic Council has just finished considering an international treaty, drafted with the assistance of Professor Lemkin, defining genocide as "a criminal act," empowering the U. N. to intervene to stop it, providing punishment for offenders, establishing an international court to try the criminals. Member governments have been asked for their comments. What is paramount is that there be no obstacles in bringing this treaty to the immediate attention of the General Assembly when it convenes in the next few weeks. President Truman has endorsed it in principle, and the American delegates are expected to press for prompt action. The prestige of the United Nations as a body devoted to good depends upon unanimous and speedy adoption of the genocide treaty. —New York Times.

For the Soviet Fans

The ardent exponents of all things Russian will not like the study of comparative prices and wages just released by the United States Department of Labor. According to that study the standard of living of the average American today is just about 1,000 per cent above that of the average Soviet citizen.

Two years after the war, the average Russian worker gets wages that will buy just about one-tenth of what can be purchased by the American worker.

While prices of food in Russia have soared 166 per cent, wages have advanced 25 per cent.

The Russian worker isn't only enslaved; he slaves in misery. — Financial Post.

The London psychologist who is leading an attack on Little Red Riding Hood as "sadistic" is probably not aware that it was an Ohio man, General Brock Chisholm, who tried to overthrow Santa Claus, says Ottawa Journal.

IN REVIEW

When men review their brief careers
And loss and gain retell,
The hardship overcome appears
The best of all.

The times when they were trouble tried
And difficult the way
They live again with boastful pride,
As well they may.

Men glory in all hazards met,
Once safely passed.
They talk with joy about the debt
They paid at last.

This present care, this hour of doubt
May hold the seed
Of triumph we shall boast about
Should we succeed.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What is a waygoose?

That is the name of an annual entertainment provided for the employees of a printing firm at their own expense or at that of their employers.

It sometimes consists of an indoor picnic with refreshments, but more often a picnic with outdoor amusements.

The origin of this odd word is lost in obscurity. There is no positive evidence that the word as it is now spelled is identified with the fowl known as a goose and the fruit even more puzzling. The word may be a corruption of some earlier word that has been lost beyond recovery.

"Waygoose" is an alteration of "waygoose," the form in which the word first appeared in print. Under the subject of printing in Mechanical Exercises (1683) Joseph Moxon wrote:

"It is also customary for all the Journey-men to keep every year, new Paper windows ... Because that day they make them the Master Printer gives them a Way-goose; that is, he makes them a good Feast, and not only entertains them at his own House, but besides, sends Money to spend at the Alehouse or Tavern at Night. These Waygooses, are always kept about Bartholomew-tide (August 24.) And till the Master-Printer have given (this way-goose, the Journey-men do not use to Work by Candle Light."

In his fifth edition of his "English Dictionary (1721) Nathan Bailey advanced a theory of the origin of this word that resulted ultimately in a change in the spelling. "Wayz," erroneously spelled "ways" by Bailey, is an old word meaning "bundle of straw." The lexicographer thought it also meant "stubble." He suggested that "waygoose" should be spelled "wayzgoose," and that it meant a goose that was fat from being fed on stubble and alluded to the fact that a stubble goose was the crowning dish of the dinner given by the master printer to his apprentices. Bailey actually spelled the word wayzgoose in his dictionary to conform with this theory, but no other lexicographer or writer seems to have followed his lead until about 1875 after which "waygoose" gradually became the accepted spelling.

The theory is far-fetched and highly improbable. Geese are often described by reference to the pasture on which they fed, but we have no evidence that a fat goose was traditionally the principal dish at the festivities by the forefathers of the printing fraternity, although it well may have been. Moreover, waygoose was the earliest spelling of the word and "wace," which Bailey incorrectly spelled "waz," seems to have meant a "bundle of straw" rather than "stubble."

SERVICE SCRUB-UP

Halifax — (CP) — Army cooks, clerks, tradesmen and specialists donned overalls in military canteens here to rake trash and whitewash fences in a general weekending "housecleaning" due to a shortage of caretakers and gardeners.

Duck Population In North America Only 54,000,000

Ottawa, Aug. 16. (CP)—The duck population in North America, reduced by hunters' guns and bad nesting conditions, has sunk to an estimated 54,000,000 in 1946, the lowest in history and has caused drastic cuts in bag limits in various parts of Canada announced today by the Mines and Resources Department.

An official said the 54,000,000 estimate of ducks in the United States this year compared with a total of 80,000,000 in 1945. That only years which showed a comparative decline in ducks was the "Pacific Flyway" along the western side of the coast range of mountains in the Pacific region and around the brooks nesting areas in southern Alberta.

All other areas showed a decrease in ponds, a degree that wild life representatives in both Canada and the United States were "very concerned about," especially duck bag limits had been cut considerably for the 1947 shooting season.

High Living Cost Worries Yukoners

Whitehorse, Y.T., (CP)—More settlers, new roads and lowered freight rates are wants for the Yukon to cut down high living costs, members of the Vancouver Board of Trade were told during a visit here.

They want a freight rate that will give them oranges in Dawson for 25 cents a dozen, eggs at $1.50 a dozen and milk at less than 25 cents a quart, Dawson Creek Mayor H. G. Hudson told the Whitehorse milk is 50 cents a quart.

Board members were told that since the Alaska Highway, except Whitehorse freight via the Haines Cut-Off—the highway from Haines, Alaska, to the Alaska Highway and thence to Dawson —necessitates have been forced to make sharp retail price boosts.

Merchants claim that freight charges via Skagway and the White Pass and Yukon Railway have increased 100 per cent since charges via the Haines cut-off.

Before the increase, a sack of flour at Whitehorse will be $7 and a sack of sugar $5.

Eggs jumped from 50 cents a dozen to 60; potatoes from 3 1-2 pounds for a dime to current from $2.50 a sack to $5.10; lettuce from 5 cents to 50 cents a pound.

Merchants said that via Haines freight cost today is 3 cents and of $28 a ton against $82 via Skagway. To this they add shrinkage and spoilage because shipments via Skagway take two to three days longer.

Ralph Baker, chairman of the Transportation and Customs Bureau of the Trade Board, said:

"... In no other area I have ever visited have I been more impressed with the hospitality of the people, that spirit of friendship and genuineness. We shall go back a considerably better citizen."

This trip, 4,317 miles in eight days—will not end with our return.

Melville Wilkie Recaptured At Wasaga Beach

Wasaga Beach, Aug. 14 (CP)—Melville Wilkie, fugitive from the Penetanguishene hospital for criminally insane, was recaptured by provincial police at this resort town 85 miles north of Toronto late last night, 24 hours after his escape from the institution.

Wilkie had been removed to the asylum for life after being found insane during his trial for murder of his wife and child in a fire that destroyed their home at Owen Sound in 1932. He had escaped twice before.

NUTRITION AND PEP

Preservation of the characteristics of youth.

Retention of the prime of life in both directions.

A fund of reserve power adequate to tide over emergencies and stress.

More vitality.

These are some of the features which characterize not just good nutrition but better than average nutritional condition optimal nutrition.

The popular name for it is "pep".

I call it "vita."

Nutrition means much more than just good food or well balanced diet. It means, first good mastication — and that's why I say every sound tooth is worth at least $1,000, and every tooth that is functionally efficient, whether it is your own or your dentist's, is worth $1,000 as long as it does its work.

So I don't care whether you brush your teeth or not.

My notion of good oral or mouth hygiene and proper care of the teeth is this: Have a good dentist and visit the dentist early and often enough to prevent loss of your teeth; or if one or more teeth have been lost, have them replaced without delay by whatever denture the dentist thinks will give the best functional service.

With one or more teeth missing or so badly decayed that they can no longer function, malnutrition you just can't hope to have optimal nutrition, vite, pep or anything like it.

That's my firm conviction.

While not ill, writer A. young woman of 19, who (her husband is 25) feel the need of a tonic or something that would help me and give us a little pep.

A tonic, as exactly as I can learn, is something that improves enfeebled function and heightens the sense of well being.

There is a persistent popular notion that "some kind of vitamins" will give one who is not ill or lacks that sense of well being increased tone, vitality, resilience, short more pep.

I wish it were as simple as that. But I am afraid the numerous nostrum mongers who sell vitamin pills to their cold cures, nerve tonics, blood builders, liver regulators and female weakness remedies have conditioned us to give the unwary public the notion that vitamins making pills and vitamins like magic, no matter which vitamins or what amounts one takes and no matter, whether one is ill or just off one's feed.

This is manifest in many of the letters I receive from readers of at least fair intelligence who ask whether they should take vitamins and what vitamins— for what purpose and what amounts. They fail to mention, it would be as easy to tell them whether they should take or continue to take food.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Farmers Discover Wheat

We have just discovered that the wheat we raise is delicious when ground and cooked as cereal, or made into biscuits. We eat it in our own corn mill. Now we wonder why we have raised this until recently, although we are ardent followers of your column. (Mrs. H. V.)

Answer — Many thanks who asks for it in writing (clipping from your text) and enclosing stamped self addressed envelope may have the pamphlet. Wheat is one which and why every well managed household should have a supply on hand and use it in the daily dietary.

Excessive Sweating

Let me congratulate you on having found sooner how than the medics in the army. They prescribed salt tablets and other things to check excessive sweating of my face and hands. My dice, I sent for your booklet Save Your Skin, tried the recipe you give for excessive sweating and got excellent results.

Answer — Many your trouble is easier to control now that you are out of the army. The booklet deals with many common skin troubles — for copy send twenty-five cents and stamped self-addressed envelope.

Grateful

Please let me tell you how grateful my husband and I are for the wonderful prescription for excessive sweating. Before using the drops, and in less than a month his ear was cured of the terrible trouble in over a year now. (Mrs. S.J.)

Answer — Instructions for using the drops for running ear are available on written request if you inclose stamped envelope bearing your address. If your druggist can't prepare the simple recipe for you, there is nothing more I can tell you about it. —(Copyright 1947, John F. Dille Co.)

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. H. Fuller of Hampton, Ont., have returned home after spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. John Fuller, Pinnacle St.

Miss Pat Goodier returned home today to Ottawa, after spending the past month with Miss Betty McNally, Dufferin Ave.

Mrs. J. W. Howard is visiting Col. Howard, Long Island, N.Y., and attending meetings of the Security Council of the United Nations held at Lake Success.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Frenchette, Moira Street, Mrs. Dolly Redick, of Tonawko, and Mr. Ross Richardson of St. Catharines, were Monday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Richardson, West Lake Road, Picton.

Weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Fuller, Pinnacle Street, were their grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Murray and sons of Orangeville, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cavanaugh of Oshawa, and Mr. George Kirk of Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Lent, Bleecker Ave., have as their guests this week, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Lent of Michigan, and Mr. and Mrs. McDonald of Chicago, Ill. On Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. Lent with their guests enjoyed a boat trip from Gananoque through the Thousand Islands.

Rev. Lloyd Shorten, of Foxboro, Miss Lillian Matthews, of Stirling, Mr. Morley Hancock, Mrs. Sylvia Lazier, Miss Grace Kenny of Belleville, are attending a ten-day Training Camp for Sunday School teachers, at Glen Mohr, near Beaverton, Ont. Rev. Mr. Shorten is also Bridge Street United Church, spent three days last week at the Camp.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lloyd, Cannifton, are happy grandparents, are visiting Mrs. Lloyd's sister, Mrs. F. Jarvis in Auliville, Ont.

The condition of Mr. Dell Hogle, Furin Street, who has been seriously ill in Belleville General Hospital, is slightly improved.

In the account of the Royal Command wedding appearing in yesterday's edition the name of the soloist, Arthur Duby, who sang, "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden", was inadvertently omitted.

Mr. Jack Mason, 100 Cannifton Rd., has received word that he has been awarded the Dandelion-William Moffat Scholarship at Queen's University. Mr. Mason has completed his second year in the Faculty of Applied Science.

Joanne Doran, Rochester, N.Y., and Alan Burgess of Toronto, are spending their summer vacation with Helen Boyd, Oak Street.

Mrs. Sarah Plane and children of Toronto, are visiting her mother and sister in the city.

A very delightful surprise was given Mr. and Mrs. George Minto at their new home on Herchimer Avenue, when thirty relatives and friends gathered on evening to welcome them to the neighborhood. A very pleasant evening was spent in playing cards, games, and dancing. They received many beautiful and useful presents which were presented by W. A. Mennes of Herchimer Ave. Mr. Minto thanked the guests for the surprise party.

WEDDINGS

DUNTER—KENNEDY

Shannon—Rev. J. H. Pogson officiated in Trinity United Church, when Margaret Magee, daughter of Mrs. W. H. Kennedy and the late W. H. Kennedy, became the bride of Eldon Howard Dunter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dunter, Shannon. Miss Marion Kennedy played the wedding music.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Robert Kennedy of Detroit, wore a gown of white embossed lace over taffeta, with veil, and carried a cascade of pink roses. Miss Dorothy Hoskin was the bridesmaid, was dressed in turquoise embossed sheer, and carried red roses. Little Elizabeth Tompson was flower girl, dressed in pink, organdy and carrying an old-fashioned nosegay, William Bonter of Belleville, was groomsman and John Kennedy and Howard Lough were ushers.

At the reception held in the Church Hall, the bride's mother received in printed jersey and wore a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother assisted in grey crepe with similar corsage.

For travelling the bride changed to a green and brown crepe dress with brown coat and brown accessories. After a honeymoon in the Adirondacks the couple will reside in Kingston, Ont.

DENTES—TREVERTON

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Franklin Treverton, of Plainfield, was the scene on Saturday, August 9, for the marriage of their daughter, Hilda Hyde, to Mr. Wilbert Dentes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Denyes of Plainfield. Rev. A. C. Campbell officiated for the ceremony performed in the living room before a background of gladioli and potted plants, with Mr. Roy Treverton of Corbyville, a cousin of the bride, playing the wedding music. She was accompanying the soloist, Miss Verna Fox, of Belleville, who, wearing a gown of turquoise blue crepe, sang "The Lord's Prayer", before the ceremony and "Because" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by the bride was becomingly attired in a floor length gown of ivory satin, featuring a net yoke outlined with silk appliqué, and a bouffant net skirt. Her dainty veil of white net fell from a floral headdress of white roses, and she carried a bouquet of Bettertime roses.

Mrs. Harry G. Bates, of Belleville, was her sisters matron-of-honor, wearing a floor length gown of rose taffeta, with rectangular neckline and a bustle bow detailing the full skirt. She wore a floral headdress and carried a bouquet of Sweet Pea Hill roses.

Mr. Drury S. Denyes, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, and Mr. Chas. F. Treverton, brother of the bride, seated the guests.

Following the ceremony a reception and buffet luncheon was held with the bride's mother receiving in a gown of queen's blue crepe, assisted by the groom's mother wearing a rose crepe gown. Both wore corsages of sweetpeas and corn flowers.

During the luncheon the soloist rendered "I'll Walk Beside You" and "Through the Years".

Serving the guests were Misses Bessie Sills, Dorothy Sills, Margaret Anderson, Betty Redner and Doris Bailey.

For travelling to eastern points the bride chose a suit of deep rose English wool crepe, with black accessories.

After their return Mr. and Mrs. Denyes will reside in Plainfield.

FOXBORO - PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH LADIES' GUILD

The proceeds of a very successful dinner in the home of Mrs. Roy Bartleit, sponsored by the Ladies' Guild of Foxboro Presbyterian Church on Wednesday, August 13, amounted to $34.65.

During the afternoon a short program was presented on the verandah, with Mrs. C. Bailey in charge, and conducting opening exercises which included Scripture readings and prayer.

The topic on India was discussed by Mrs. Jack Juby and Miss Lena Watt.

During the business period plans were made for a "Family Night" to be held in September.

Appreciation for hospitality was expressed to the hostess, Mrs. Bartleit and Mrs. Bailey closed the meeting.

Needles and Pins Fly as Lillibet Awaits Trousseau

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, (CP) — World famous dress designers are working on tentative designs for the trousseau Princess Elizabeth will wear when she marries Lieut. Philip Mountbatten at Westminster Abbey on Thursday, Nov. 20, at 11.30 a.m.

A few rough sketches have been shown to the Princess and it is believed the final design will be chosen while the Royal family is taking its annual holiday at Balmoral. The Princess will probably return to London for her first fittings before the end of the vacation.

Though extra clothing coupons are being issued, court officials say the finished trousseau will be on the conservative side in view of today's austerity conditions.

The wedding itself, while following traditional lines, will lack the ostentation of earlier royal marriages. The wedding cake, for one thing, will be much smaller than the 500-pounder, standing nine feet, that was cut at the wedding of the present King and Queen.

In other ways precedence will rule arrangements. When Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, assisted by the Dean of Canterbury, Dr. Alan Don, will solemnize the marriage with the Archbishop of York, Dr. Cyril Gargett, taking part. Choral and organ music will be on a traditional scale with an augmented choir and least two distinguished musicians at the organ.

Plan State Drive.

There will almost certainly be a state drive from Buckingham Palace to the Abbey and after the ceremony the Princess and her husband will probably drive back to the palace in an open horse drawn carriage.

All the Princess's wedding gifts will be displayed in the state rooms at St. James's Palace and the public will be admitted on payment of a small sum to be devoted to charity.

Tentative plans call for morning clothes for the men and long dresses for the women in place of formal court dress. There will be television broadcasting from various points along the route from Westminster Abbey to Buckingham Palace with commentaries by leading BBC broadcasters.

Lieut. Mountbatten is to have a personal guard, appointed by Scotland Yard, who will take up his duties on the morning. The officer will have duties similar to Inspector A. Usher, recently appointed guard to Princess Elizabeth. Usher, 43, 6 feet 2 inches and a first-class amateur boxer.

In choosing a November wedding Princess Elizabeth has followed the example of her two uncles, the Duke of Gloucester and the late Duke of Kent, both married in November.

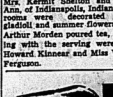
Piled Hair Needed For French Hats

Paris, Aug. 14 — (AP) — Women will have to put their hair up if they want to wear the fall hats shown by French milliners.



American buyers took a fancy to Jean Patou's classic bun-tugging the forehead and hiding the hair and ears, the big bereta and the high, flat turban, and some of the soft-brimmed hats.

Maud Et Nano treated the beret version in an original way. The back-view revealed a flat crown, elaborately wrinkled and draped and pleats in front, a lighter movement was created by a small turban, slightly shaded over the forehead.

Other hats were rather on the heavy side. Apart from fitting crowns, some had two flaps, one on each side, tying under the chin.

Mme. Legroux preferred perched-on-the-head types. She said this was to correct the heavy lines of some of the clothes, imitated this season by Paris dress-makers.

One of the novelties this season was the introduction of suede, mainly for berets and toques. This was used by Mme. Legroux for a peaked round cap, decorated by a long glycerined ostrich-feather.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A Teen-Ager's Sensible Views

A good portion of the letters I get are from teen-age boys and girls who are quite certain that they are madly and permanently in love. Unless they can answer the person in whom their heart is set at the moment, they are quite sure they will go through life bachelors or spinsters. I spend a great many hours trying to convince young people who write me this sort of letter that they are going to be very much surprised to find this is not the case.

It is a very refreshing experience, therefore, to get a letter from a teen-ager who seems to have rather more mature views on the subject of love and marriage than is ordinarily the case.

Reasons such letters came my way so rarely, and because, also, I believe that young people are very apt to put more confidence in what those of their own age have to say than they do in the philosophizing of their elders, I would like to devote this column to a letter just received from a 19-year-old girl.

She writes:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I read your column daily and find it very interesting and, at times, very humorous. Letters written by young boys and girls, ranging from 16 to 19 years of age, saying they are madly in love and that they want to know how to win their man or their girl, strike me as very funny. In the first place, I don't think they are old enough to know what the score is, or whether or not they are really in love.

"Many girls and boys are getting engaged as soon as they get out of school, or even while they are still in school, when they should be out having good times and not getting so serious about any one particular boy or girl. Of course it might happen that they would be lucky enough to make a go of their marriage and be happy, but think of the fun they might can't they realize that they ought to enjoy their youth because they can always get married later on when they are more experienced about life?

"A girl may plan to work after she is married, but she may find there are other responsibilities that go with marriage that she has not thought of and that may be more than she is ready and willing to accept. I don't think a man or young either, is apt to take into consideration all the responsibilities that will be placed upon him when he get married. A girl should be able to support her husband and family, if the time should ever come, due to illness or other reasons, when her husband is unable to do so. A girl who has just finished high school, or has quit school to marry before graduating, does not have the experience necessary to hold a good job. I think she should work for a year or two after graduating to get the experience she may need later on. Even when girls have gone to college or business school, I don't think they should get married as soon as they graduate. They may have an education, but they don't have the necessary knowledge. Education is learning; knowledge is application of what you have learned. A girl who has worked and learned the value of money and how hard money is to earn makes a better housewife.

"I certainly believe in marriage when you are old enough, say 21 or 22 year old. But I think that to get married when you are very young is just a fad that you follow because you see a lot of your friends doing it."

Quite right, dear writer, you are correct in your estimate of both the situation and the solution.

BABY'S CRY IS NOT ALWAYS TEMPER

DISTINGUISH between your baby's cry of pain and cry of temper. Don't let baby get into bad habits. Let the doctor's decision be your guide. Then you'll know when baby needs you. Mrs. Mary Mosley, of Toronto, finds these facts helpful. She says:

"I am the mother of nine children, three of them twins. Before I had my family I must have been very self-confident in caring for children. I had read all the books I could get on the subject and had decided I knew more than Baby's Own Tablets and in a few years I found myself completely upset by the very same mothers' problems."

Quickly relieves Baby's upset stomach, colic, diarrhoea, simple constipation, colds and other minor ailments in the baby. 30 cents. Send it your druggist today.

The Experts Say . . .

Ottawa, Aug. (CP)—If she has half a dozen eggs to bake. Overnight any wise housewife need never be stumped when she comes to plan a meal. Such leftovers an egg by any other name may be anything from an omelet to a reply to a Spanish cram for luncheon conversation. But if she's interested in trying out new dishes—there's always a place for eggs.

Ingredients: 12 half-inch slices stale bread; one-half pound sliced cheese; four cups milk; two cups three-quarters teaspoon salt, pepper and paprika.

Trim crusts from bread and arrange slices in alternate layers with cheese in greased baking dish. Beat eggs slightly, add milk and seasoning and pour over the bread. Cover and keep in the ice box until ready to bake. Overnight is a moderate oven until set—about 45 minutes. Or thoroughly chilled before baking the puffy will puff up like a soufflé. Fits to eight servings.

Budget Omlet

Ingredients: 1 1-2 cups soft bread crumbs; 1 1-2 cups milk; six eggs, separated; salt and pepper.

Mix crumbs and milk; let soak, then beat smooth. Beat egg yolks and add salt and pepper and combine with bread mixture. Beat whites stiff and fold into mixture. Pour into hot greased pan and cook slowly until firm, 25 to 30 minutes. Cook in a slow oven for the last 10 minutes, if desired, to brown the top. The same mixture may be cooked as scrambled eggs. Five to six servings.

Variation—Add 3/4 chopped parsley, green onions and diced celery to mixture before cooking.

3—When cooked, spread omelet with jam or jelly, fold over and serve at once. Add finely chopped, cooked vegetables or grated raw carrots to mixture before cooking.

Spanish Cream

Ingredients: 1 1-2 tablespoons gelatin; one-quarter cup cold water; three egg yolks; one-quarter teaspoon salt; 2 1-4 cups milk; one teaspoon vanilla; three egg whites; third cup sugar.

Soak gelatin in one cup cold water. Make a custard of egg yolks, salt and milk. Cook in top of double boiler, stirring constantly, until mixture coats the spoon. Dissolve gelatine in hot mixture. Cool and add flavoring. When mixture begins to thicken fold in meringue made by adding the sugar to the stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into molds and chill. Serve with custard sauce. Six servings.

If you don't think food prices are going up ask Toronto's Visiting Homemakers Association. A monthly check of prices in that area showed that in June $18.34 weekly was required by a family of two adults and three young children was the bare adequately fed. This figure was $1.61 above the minimum needed in June 1946 and $2.61 over the June, 1945 mark.

"And these prices apply only to Toronto where prices, according to bureau of statistics reports, have not increased as much as in other points," said a V.H.A. official.

SHANNONVILLE W.M.S.-W.A. MEETING

Ladies' Aid of the Shannonville United Church W.M.S. and W.A. organizations held a joint meeting at the home Mrs. Stanley MacDonald, Thursday afternoon, August 7th, with 12 members attending.

Mrs. MacDonald, president of the W.M.S., presided and the ladies and conducted opening exercises with hymnary No. 736 being read responsively.

During the business period it was decided to send a shower of cards to Mrs. James Barber, a life member who is ill in Bellville General Hospital. Mrs. J.T. MacFarlane expressed her thanks to the ladies present while she was confined to her home. The offering was received and dedicated.

The suggested program from the Missionary Monthly was used and the charter of the United Nations read in unison, after which Mrs. Lougheed offered prayer.

Mrs. Robert MacFarlane had charge of the W.A. meeting, with the scripture being read by Mrs. W. D. Robertson, followed with lesson thoughts by Mrs. Ross.

During the business period the sewing committee reported aprons completed, Plans were made for a refreshment booth at the annual Fall Fair.

A humorous reading was expressed to Mrs. MacDonald for the use of her home. A benediction closed the meeting and the hostess served refreshments of ice cream and cake, which were much enjoyed.

#2 AT OTTAWA

Ottawa, Aug. 13 (CP) — The temperature hit 92 in Ottawa yesterday — hottest day of the summer— and the men at the city waterworks plant knew it too as the plant pumped at the rate of 44,000,000 gallons at one point last night, a record and 2,000,000 gallons over plant capacity. The extra 2,000,000 gallons came from storage tanks.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Special Signature Problems

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We had invited last week and as well as writing my own notes of thanks for flowers and messages of sympathy, I have been asked by my sister and brother to write their notes. I am married, and I am not sure about the correct forms for my signatures to these notes. Many of the friends of my brother's business friends of his whom I either don't know at all, or do not know well. And I don't know some of my brother's friends who sent flowers and messages. Will you please give me some signature-hints?

Veronica

Notes of thanks to your relatives and close family friends would, of course, be signed with your first name only. The ones to people whom you do not know very well but who do know your married name, you would sign.

Sincerely yours,

Veronica Smith Brown

And the notes from your father's business friends and to your brother's friends whom you do not know very well, sign like this:

Sincerely yours,

Veronica Smith Brown

(Mrs. John Brown)

Obviously in the notes you write for your father and brother it is important that you include your maiden surname on your signature.

Should Maid of Honor's Boy Friend be Invited to Wedding Dinner?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman::

Next month my best friend is to be married and he has asked me to be his best man. His fiancee has invited her girl friend to be her bridal maid. The problem is this: the maid of honor's boy friend would we think be her boy friend and his parents should be invited to the wedding dinner. We think that is not proper. Which is right?

M. M.

That depends. If the dinner is given by herself or family and one, with say only the members of the families, the wedding attendants, and perhaps a few close relatives and intimate friends invited, it would not be necessary to invite the maid of honor's boy friend and certainly not necessary to invite his parents. But if it is a more general dinner-affair, the boy friend might be invited if the bride and her parents wish, but even in this case his parents probably wouldn't be invited unless for a special reason.

Fiance and Fiancee are Pronounced Alike

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What is the correct pronunciation of fiance? I have been told fiancee and fiance are pronounced the same . . . is this true?

Claire

Yes, Fiance (masculine) and fiancee (feminine) are pronounced alike . . . fee-ahn-say.

COLLEGE FOR ROOKIES

London (CP) — In accordance with the future policy of the constabulary that members be drawn from the ranks a new national police college will be opened this fall with other to opportunity for every constable to fit himself for the highest police post.

Fashion Flashes

Best bet for air travellers is one of those huge handbags that are being promoted these days. One has a small easel containing compacts, from identical cases to make-up, that can be removed when desired. Large handbags won't weighted with one's luggage, fortunately, and the right bag, well-packed, can hold quite a bit.

We're glad that Summer gloves have retained their hold, for a pretty gloves complements any feminine costume and should not be relegated to cold weather wear.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

BRICKBATS FOR THE BOYS

As I was saying the other day, so many letters have arrived in reply to the boys who recently hurled such devastating criticism at the post-war girl that I feel the young men ought to be given a chance to read as many as possible.

So — remember the chap who said that all the girls he met were either "barflies, social nincompoops or just plain nincompoops"?

The following brickbat of a letter is obviously aimed straight at his particular head:

"Miss Fairfax:

"I have read in your column what the men think of the girls since their return to the states. I do not agree with them in any ways.

"Before they went into service, men treated a girl as she should be treated. Their manners were of the best. But now, every word that comes out of their mouths is vulgar.—Not only that, but they also show girls no respect whatever. They expect more than a few kisses, and tell us we should be more like the girls they knew in Europe . . . And speaking of barflies, Ann, I don't think you have room to talk, because most girls you have only one hobby, and that is to get drunk. We girls like a dance, but we can't because all the menwant to do is to hang around the bars until they close. Who are the real nincompoops? Please tell me!"

And this one, from a girl who says she is speaking "for the girls in their 20's":

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"Your article, 'Did the Girls Change While the Boys Were Away?' has given me an opportunity I've been waiting for for a long time — the opportunity to put the so-called wise . . .

"Every fellow you date since they've returned from service thinks that a girl is either a gold-digger or has wedding bells in mind. They don't seem to realize that maybe she is contented to date for fun and nothing more.

"If the boys are afraid of being hooked, why do they continue to use the same line they used when they were lonesome GIs? It's usually the fellow who puts the idea of getting serious into a girl's mind by telling her she's the 'one and only,' or by asking her: 'Where have you been all my life?' and things to that effect. Or else he showers the girl with kisses, which only helps the girl become serious. Of course, you can say that if a girl doesn't want to be kissed she can refuse — but can she? Do rallies that nine out of ten times the fellow you date gets insulted if you don't kiss him right away? He thinks you're old-fashioned, childish, and darn right mean . . . I don't think the boys have grown up, because if they had, they'd realize that just because one girl did them wrong, is no reason to condemn us all."

And here's another for the "nincompoop" chap:

"The fellow who wrote to you saying a man must have a car and be well off before a girl will go out with him is all wrong. I am 18 years old, and I would rather go in a car on the first or second date. It's not that I don't trust the boys I go out with. I'm just not taking any chances . . . .

"To me, and there are many girls like me, love comes first, and then financial matters. We believe that if you just go for a soda with a good, moral, clean-living fellow you like, you have a better time than if you spend a big evening dodging your companion's passes. There is nothing that spoils an evening more than a fresh fellow.

"Why don't you fellows give us good girls a chance? If you do, you'll find that a movie, a soda and a bus ride home will give us a good time. We're neither social barflies nor social nincompoops."

Had enough, boys? Because if not, there are many more letters for you where all of these came from — right here on my desk. Just let me know whether you're ready to admit you might have been mistaken in your estimate of the modern girl, or if you still need convincing.

Preparing for a Permanent

Your permanent will be soft and lovely if you take a few steps to condition your hair beforehand.

By HELEN FOLLETT

IF THE straight-haired lovely ever needs a permanent it's right now! Summer's the time we all go up by leaps and bounds and the beach invites her to come and breast the waves. Operators who do this year will be rushed to days ahead; there is still a shortage of woman power in beauty parlors.

Before making an appointment, it is a wise plan to do a little hair conditioning. Though waving methods are just about perfect, they do dry the hair somewhat. The more the shafts are relaxed, the loveller and stronger the undulation will be. They will find release through lotions and applications of hot mineral oil.

Evening comforts to get in the swim.

The four inch cut can be arranged in coils in all manner of ways, but the easiest and quickest way of making one's hair look soft and pretty is to comb it away from the face and sides, up at the back, letting the curly threads fall where they may. Nothing to it!

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Feeling Rusty? Walk on Your Toes

Let us consider the woman of middle-age who pats herself on the back, tells herself that "when she feels young it doesn't matter much how she looks." She is all wet, that misguided lady. It does matter, not only to herself but also to her family. If she gets up in the morning and looks in the mirror to see a face with wrinkles that make it look like an old walnut, it is not going to make her feel particularly radiant or animated. Any sensible woman knows that looking well is a big help toward feeling well. It boosts morale. A head of hair that needs a shampoo and wave set can get a young woman down. She is out of form. She won't be on her toes until her hair has been put in order.

A woman of seventy can slip off ten years by getting a new hair-do, strapping herself into a slenderizing foundation garment, putting on a gay evening gown and nice slippers. It works just like that. It is a system. Pretty clothes and up-to-date grooming are rejuvenating influences.

When a woman edges along toward fifty, she must be on the watch so that the years will not treat her cruelly.

If she is no longer interested in the matter of how she is slipping. If every few years she gets dressed in size larger, she is really on the down grade.

Spread amidships, bulging hips, bent shoulders and slow movements are more distressing give-aways of accumulated birthdays than facial seams and silvered topknots.

This is just too bad, considering that, with proper exercise and due regard for diet, the feminine frame can retain youthful contour and grace of movement. Women who started in their young days to be interested in physical education, who have been ever mindful of the charm of erect carriage, aren't afraid of the report of the bathroom scales. No rounded shoulders will be lugged around by these wise girls. They have kept their backs and shoulder muscles strong.

A woman of seventy can slip off ten years.

Strenuous exercise is not for middle-age, or is it necessary. But there should be a certain amount of muscle-workout each day. Walking on the toes will help keep fat cells from making calves and thighs larger. Walk on tip-toe wherever you are going upstairs, Mrs. Forty. Whenever you have a few minutes to spare, stand erect, lift up on the toes very slowly, come down on the heels.

WILL SEEK INCREASE

Ottawa, Aug. 13 (CP) — Considering a notice by the city council that the council considered its tram and bus fares excessive and would seek a reduction, the Ottawa Electric Railway last night announced its intention to seek an increase in its rates from seven to 10 cents for single fares and tickets of two for 15 cents or four for 25 cents.

Fashion Flashes

NICE IDEA for an important occasion, such as a big garden wedding, is a suit of pale blue silk satin. A smart jacket design has a classic collar and notched revers, and a tightly buttoned front that is cut with waistcoat points that flare slightly into draped sides.

A different looks marks some of the new raincoats being readied for Fall. One model is done on greatcoat lines with very full, very rippled back and loose-hanging front. An attached hood has long scarf ends for individual draping. Fashioned of proofed gabardine in various colors and black.

Manipulation marks many of the new hats, offering beautiful and interesting lines. White Shantung straw is used for a pretty hat manipulated into a bicorne effect sharply slanted for a dress-parade profile brim that comes to below the face at one side. A swirl of black glycerined ostrich gives a dressed-up look. Hat would be equally smart in white felt.

Never smarter cottons than those shown for town wear this year. Teaming up with a black skirt is a white silk printed tunic jacket of white pique, with three rows of black buttons and a bemline cut with a deep petal front. Short sleeves, tiny collar and narrow revers.

So You Want to Own An Island in Barrier Reef!

(By Sidney J. Baker in the Melbourne (Australian) Herald)

So you want to go to the sunny skies and blue seas of the islands along the Barrier Reef, do you?

The Lure of the Romantic North, as the tourist pamphlets have it. Perhaps you even picture yourself with an island of your own, spending the remainder of your days in freedom, tranquillity and those other features of island life which the high-powered fantasies of the Stacpooles and Nordhoffs and Halls of contemporary literature have done so much to popularize.

Here is a brief guide for would-be island-owners, culled from the experience of one who has spent a good deal of time on privately-owned islands in the Barrier Reef in the past two years.

Let us first consider a little of the background to the game.

Where Nature has Painted Her Canvas with a Lavish Hand:

If, as my friends did after purchasing their islands, you decide to build a home, you will have to clear the jungle.

You will, accordingly, mate with an axe. A month or so later, after you have fraternized your way through the bloodwoods, lloyd cane and other flora, you will have acquired some of the rugged characteristics of a gaunt, thin-lipped pioneer.

As you pause in your toil to cope with the assorted ants, mosquitoes, sandflies, spiders, scorpions, lizards, beetles and snakes with which Nature has equipped your island, you will cast one of your steely-eyed glances out to sea and note the turtles coming up for air along the edge of the reef and, further out, schools of mackerel, bonito and trevalli breaking the surface of the sunlit waters.

There you will think, go many meals that I will have later.

You also see at the thick jungle on the edge of your clearing where the butterflies are dancing, and think: There I shall make a garden and a plantation full of tropical fruits—pineapples, bananas, papaws, custard apples, mangoes.

But the seeds you plant in your first garden either rot in the soil because it is too wet, or shrivel on the surface because the sun is too hot.

The plants that survive are attacked by thousands of grasshoppers.

Flying foxes rip your papaws to pieces, banana moths ruin your first crops, and brilliant beetles get to work on your custard apples.

Towards the end of the year your water supply probably dries out. Many Barrier Reef islands have insufficient natural springs to meet human needs.

You invest in a tank and await the monsoon season. Round about the end of January the Wet arrives with anything up to 20 inches of rain in a day—the sort of rain that forms large pools on the sand. Your tanks are full and you can now laugh at drought.

But nature continues to be bountiful. Your garden is washed away, your clothes turn mouldy, and everything that can crawl, wriggle or fly on your island moves into your home.

When you climb down out of the rafters after treading on your first snake, you will come to accept them as inevitable features of any paradise, tropical or not.

You will, of course, have a cyclone. Three or four days later, when everything you possess has either been blown away or is wetter and mouldier than you ever imagined it could be, you will find that your plantation is in ruins, a tree has fallen on your tank, and that the gunwale of your rowing boat has been eaten in.

This leads us to another tropical fantasy, called living Off the Land.

Because of gales, your mainland supplies have not arrived to schedule. With the quick decision of the pioneer, you decide for a fish diet. Oysters, for example. Yes, there the plenty of oysters—when the sea is calm enough, and the tide is low enough, for you to get them.

After a few days of oysters as a diet, you never want to see an oyster again.

Besides, then, if you've managed to ripen any. Fried, baked, boiled and raw. You cease to be responsive to bananas also.

All this time you have been waiting for the sea to calm down enough after the cyclone for you to go fishing. Remember those mackerel, bonito and trevalli?

You're going to get them now.

Or you will.

You haven't a hope in a million of catching them unless you have a motor boat to trawl a line.

Turtle, then? Give the tide away before you start. Only a native could do the trick for you.

Well, what about hand-fishing off the edge of the reef? This allows us to introduce an important topic entitled "Tropical Waters Teeming With Fish".

The fish certainly teem, but there is a lot of water between the teems. You know they're there, of course, because you've seen coral trout, bream, cod, pigeon, sweetlip and scores of other fish around reef on clear days.

But what you don't've known adult men, otherwise in full possession of their faculties, sit for five hours at a stretch daily, for days on end, in tropical waters without catching enough to supply a couple of chronic invalids with a square meal.

One of the fictions for which pamphlet-writers are responsible is that people live on coral islands. They don't. Not in the Barrier Reef, anyway. All the inhabitable islands in our north are solid rock. The coral near them is usually in too deep water to be inspected closely, or, if the island is less than 10 miles from the mainland, is dead and dun-colored because it has been silted up with mud from the coastal rivers.

The real reefs are 20, 30-50 or more miles from the mainland.

To arrange for, (a) a launch, (b) To inspect them you will have the necessary dead-low tide, and (c) a dead calm day, because no self-respecting boat-owner would go within a long cooee of the outer reef in rough weather.

Cartographers would lead you to believe that the Barrier is a solid phalanx of coral, stretching for 1,500 miles or more. It isn't. Vast distances separate one section of reef from another.

So, as an island-owner, you may live many years in the tropics without getting near a big reef at all.

In the meantime, you will learn to curse coral in all its forms. Your local supply of dead coral will cut your feet and you will stub your toes excruciatingly on it; it will tear the planks out of your boat and rip your bait nets.

You'll spend more money replacing lost hooks, sinkers, traces and lines that have been snagged on it than you'd have ever dreamt of spending in the first flush of your innocent enthusiasm for fishing.

42,000 Workers Idle Through Labor Disputes

Detroit, Aug. 14. (AP)—United States automobile and truck plants counted approximately 42,000 hourly-rated workers idle again yesterday because of labor disputes, materials and shortages and "heat walkouts".

As Ford recalled 19,000 workers after a shutdown since last Wednesday because of materials shortages, Chrysler sent home 13,000 and Hudson 8,000 following walkouts in certain departments because of high temperatures. Temperatures in the mid-90's were recorded.

Meanwhile 10,000 Studebaker and 4,000 of Ford, Lincoln and Mercury workers remained idle as renewed efforts were made to settle a three-week old strike at the Murray Corporation of America plant. The strike of 7,000 Murray workers, involved in a Taft-Hartley labor law dispute, closed Studebaker's assembly lines more than a week ago and put Ford on a three-day-a-week assembly program.

IMPRISONED IN CAR WRECKAGE

This unusual on-the-spot photo shows Anthony Podowski, of Dorchester, Mass., getting a light for a cigarette while waiting for firemen to cut him out of the wreckage of a car they found pinned, side broiled, Edward, 24 Ingleton ex-G.I., which was in collision with a parked truck. Anthony's name is on the danger list at City Hospital. He has a fractured skull and jaw and multiple head, chest and face injuries. Edward received a lacerated right elbow.

Today we Live in a Greater Canada

TODAY ON THE Nile THEY KNOW

CANADA

ALL OVER the world today, Canadian products are known—and Canada's modern greatness recognized—as Canadian initiative builds our export trade to totals undreamed of in the past. During the war we became the second exporting nation of the world. TODAY our exports, with a value more than 2½ times as great as those of pre-war years, make an immense contribution to modern Canadian development, benefiting all business, creating new and greater opportunities for all Canadians.

Furs and Fish were Canada's first exports. Our trade in the beginning was a monopoly of the merchants of Old France; and it was almost exclusively with and through Britain. By 1860, though, we were controlling our own commerce.

Down to the end of the 19th Century, our chief exports were sawmill and timber products. Next in importance were cheese and fish. The great wheat exporting era began with the 1900's. By 1939 newsprint had become our most valuable export.

World War II's demands spurred our production and exports to unprecedented heights. Canada's huge shipments of foodstuffs and munitions were one of the greatest contributions made by any nation to the successful prosecution of the war.

GERARD HEROD of Oakville, Ont., was a clerk in a department store nine years ago. At the age of 24 he added $400 savings to his natural interest in machinery and began to manufacture red clay flower pots. Initial difficulties were overcome by determination and his native Canadian enterprise. Today his firm, Dominion Potteries Limited, produces more than a quarter of a million dollars worth of pottery a year.

MR. HEROD says: "Canada proved a land of opportunity for me. She is so full of even greater opportunity for young Canadians commencing their careers today. Now, more than ever before, there are within Canada's borders rich rewards to be won, successful careers to be achieved."

Economic and Political War Will be Fought in Europe Soon, Munro Tells Meeting

There will be a war in Europe in the next few years but it won't be "one of guns and bombs and men dead in the mud" but one fought politically and economically, against Communism, Ross Munro, war and European correspondent of The Canadian Press, told an inter-city gathering of Kiwanis Clubs, of Belleville, Kingston, Lindsay and Cobourg along with many invited guests at a dinner luncheon at the Bay of Quinte Country Club on Wednesday evening. There were more than 300 gathered and short addresses were given by Cliff Laidley, president of the Lindsay Club, Jerry Eggleson of the Cobourg Club, and Will Leonard of the Kingston Club. Ivan Moore, past lieutenant governor and Elmer Cogswell, lieutenant-governor spoke briefly reminding the members of the convention at Quebec in September.

Many Veterans Present

Many of the veterans in the audience knew Ross Munro personally and Mr. Munro in his address paid particular praise to the Canadian troops and the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment with the caustic remark that Angus Duffy was the best regimental sergeant major in the Canadian Army and the Hasty Pees one of the finest regiments.

His history of Mr. Munro was given by Bruce Latimer in his introduction of the speaker and Everett Fairman thanked him for the clear and concise authoritative address on a subject that was freely discussed by all classes of people.

Two-Fold Basis

"I believe the most baffling questions before the world today," said the speaker, "is what's behind the Russian foreign policy and I believe it has a two-fold basis; first defensive and secondly politically aggressive. The Soviet Union is obsessed by fear she will be attacked and this is defensive but dangerous. This is one of the chief reasons why she is trying to gobble up countries in Eastern Europe and also trying to divide the west and makes the United Nations Council the sounding board for disruptive propaganda."

"My sharpest impression of Russia was the fear-neurosis and it is only equalled in Poland. The people fear the regime of Russia and especially the NKVD or secret police and that fear has reached into the Kremlin because the leaders fear aggression from the outside. The militantly defensive policy has been developed from incredible mistrust and monumental ignorance of what goes on outside Russia and the people have the misunderstanding of the western way of life and its policies," Mr. Munro explained. "One has only to read the Russian papers to see the depth of the vacuum of understanding yet they have no other source of information" said the speaker. "This defensive attitude stems from fear but also has a source in Marxist ideology, this being the inflexible creed of the Communist leaders."

Try to Extend Communism

Mr. Munro maintained there was a deliberate policy on the part of the Kremlin to expand Communism and impose it on as many countries as possible. This is a dangerous and sinister policy and one which can and must be opposed politically and economically" said the speaker. "Will there be a war with Russia? is the question that is asked most in Europe and in the western hemisphere. "Relations with Russia are certainly going to be strained and remain difficult for a long time but I cannot see how there is going to be a war for a long time, there is a fair chance there won't be one as long as any of us live" said the speaker. He gave as an argument that the British and United States will not launch a preventative war and Russia would have to start it but one does not have to be long in the Soviet Union to see she is in no shape to fight, probably will not be for 15 or 20 years. "Russia has definite respect for the military prowess of the United States but she fears more the technical brains of the States, Britain and Canada, said Mr. Munro.

May Find Secret

Probably in the 15 or 20 years the leaders can find the secret for atom bombs predicted Mr. Munro and this is the opportunity we have. He claimed the Russian people were hospitable and friendly. "I certainly oppose the regime but I like the people and they, like everybody else have a horror of another conflict. Even in that regimented police state it would be difficult for the regime to get the people behind a war of Soviet aggression" said the speaker. "Some say we should strike at Russia now but I say that would be madness and it would wreck our civilization whether we won or lost. continued the speaker. "I believe there is another way and that is oppose Russia where we feel we should be fighting her with economic and political policy. There will be another war in Europe in the next few years but it will be an economic and political war against the Russian seeking to extend Communism."

Alarming Progress

Speaking of communism, the speaker stated there had been an alarming progress in the past two years. He did not predict the kind of war had proved a fertile field for fraud and deceit they had preyed on half a dozen countries and established the regime against the will of the people. Poland, he stated, was a good example but there was a disgrace, but the Communists won. Today a great strip of Eastern Europe embraces Communism and Czechoslovakia in spite of democracy but how long will that country be able to withstand the inroads being made in Western Europe the communists so far have more ambition than influence but Germany will likely be the scene of the next big political struggle but I believe that western democracy will prevail in the end in this struggle.

Must Help West

"We might as well write off Eastern Europe and give our help and encouragement to the democratic countries of Western Europe and to Greece and Scandinavia. If the United States and Britain and Canada too do their job properly, Western Europe can be saved from Communism and Western Europe is the battleground for this struggle of Communism versus us" said Mr. Munro. "I am convinced that one answer to avoid Communism in the United States and Canada is to avoid a disastrous depression over the next ten or 15 years. We must keep our economy on an even keel and gradually improve our standard of living and this will give the lie to Marxism.

Cannot Recover by Self

Secondly the blocking of Communism in Europe depends on the recovery of the continent. "Europe cannot recover by herself" said the speaker. "Economic aid from the United States and Canada is absolutely essential or else it will slide off into an economic quicksand and this would be good pay for the Communists. We must lend our help to the democratic countries of western Europe as an insurance on our own political future as a democracy. "I am certain that if Western Europe goes Communist you will find the momentum of Communist gains will not stop at the Atlantic Ocean," said Mr. Munro. "The western hemisphere is the next major target for the Kremlin in their political warfare.

Mr. Munro stated that Socialists are the opponents of Communism. "The Tories are dead and gone in Europe" stated the speaker, "and there is a conclusion in belief that Communists and Socialists are the same thing but this is entirely wrong. Bevin is a Socialist and he dislikes the Communists as much as Churchill does." Turning to the economic side the speaker stated that recovery has been very slow and sometimes the situation has gone from bad to worse with only a few bright spots, one being Belgium, Sweden and Switzerland.

Offers Only Road

"After my two years of wandering through ten countries I was leaving Europe disappointed completely about the future but then Marshall spoke at Harvard and at first his speech did not register in Britain but about five days after it was delivered it hit like a bomb and his offer of economic aid to Europe was the most important development since the end of the war" declared Mr. Munro. "There are many ifs to the Marshall plan but it offers the only road to recovery for Western Europe."

In closing Mr. Munro stated that certainly we have two worlds today divided by a wide ideological gap and it is going to take a mighty long time to bridge it, but we must try with patience and perserverence yet still retaining our own position and using relentlessly firm in our dealings. Above all I have a very expressed conviction after this Russian trip that we should be especially aware and alert to the dangers inherent in the Russian foreign policy and in communistic agression and tactics and that we should seek to meet these dangers sanely, without hysteria and with our own democratic strength and unity" said the speaker.

President Presided

President Jack White presided at the delightful luncheon so beautifully served by the Stewardess of the Country Club and her able staff with Mark Vanner collecting the several fines. Vic White and Ted Schwab led the community singing with Phil Huddleston at the piano. Three delightful solos were given by Al. Hiscock of the Cobourg club while Bill Nevin gave two of his comic numbers. The thanks of the club to the artists was ably expressed by the president. The evening was one of the finest that has been given by the club in some time and Ross Munro was sincerely thanked for his instructive and most interesting talk.

PRICES CONTINUE HIGH

Saratoga Springs, N.Y., Aug. 14 (AP) —Continuing the upward trend that marked the opening night, the Saratoga yearling sales for the second straight night went above last year's average for the same night with 92 head bringing $346,900 at the sales paddock. The average for the 52 yearlings was $4,748.

Top price last night was $27,000 paid by Brookmead Stable for a bay colt by the famed Whirlaway out of Gallant Lady, only Whirlaway colt offered so far this year.

Princely States Thorny Problem For Free India

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 14 — (CP)—The bazaars, rice fields, palaces and embattled mountain passes of India tomorrow will say goodbye to the supreme power of the British raj, whose soldiers and civil servants superimposed unity on people of different creeds, castes and ambitions.

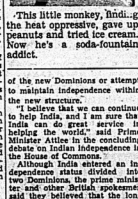
The independent Dominions of India and Pakistan are granted absolute freedom by the Indian Independence Bill effective tomorrow. The British viceroy, Lord Mountbatten, remains as governor-general of India because the government of this Dominion invited him. Pakistan, the Moslem Dominion, will have M. A. Jinnah, president of the All India Moslem League, as its governor-general.

By invitation of the Indians of both Dominions, British officers and civil servants will remain at least for a time to assist in division of territories and properties between the new Commonwealth countries.

The Independent Dominion status gives the Indians of both territories the right to sever their connection with the British crown at any time. They may remove the governors-general appointed by the King on their recommendation. Already India has decided on a new flag in which the Union Jack has no place.

Problems to be Faced

The new Dominions start out with the blessing and goodwill of all British political parties, but London authorities do not expect their way will be smooth.



One problem is posed by the Indian Independent states where princes rule over nearly 100,000,000 of India's total of 400,000,000. These states recognized British paramountcy and now must decide whether they will become associated with one or the other of the new Dominions or attempt to maintain independence within the one structure.

"I believe that we can continue to help India and I am sure that India can do great service in helping the world," said Prime Minister Attlee in the concluding debate on Indian Independence in the House of Commons.

Although India entered an independence status divided into two Dominions, the prime ministers and other British spokesmen said they believed that the long association of Indians of different creeds and different parts of the country, in governments established during the British regime, had brought about a sense of unity. Division into two Dominions did not mean disruption.

"I am not unhopeful that, in course of time, this separation may come to a larger unity. A federation in which the partners will have full scope, and, at the same time, unity," said Attlee.

LADY BULLFIGHTER HAS TO HAVE SWORD AND CAPE TO LOOK THE PART

To your list of ladies with unusual occupations, add the name of Conchita Cintron, who is, as far as the records show, the world's only woman bullfighter, and is certainly the most famous. She has knocked over steak on the table in many lands, and is currently wowing the customers at Bayonne, near the Spanish border. At top, Conchita is shown in one of her sessions with an angry he-cow. He went out of the ring feet first shortly after the photo was made. Conchita having made her usual skilful kill. Right, the lady matador in private life — a pretty girl whom you would never, never associate with blood and sand.

To Get Their Men With Radio's Aid

Edmonton (CP) — It's only a matter of time before most Royal Canadian Mounted Police detachments in each of the Prairie provinces will be tracking down criminals by radio.

Within a few weeks the detachments will be linked with a two-way radio communication system and headquarters in each province will communicate with them by a similar high-powered system.

The network will be the first of its kind ever attempted by the force.

In Alberta all detachments will be equipped with receiving sets and those within reasonable distance of the three provincial transmitters — Edmonton, Calgary and Lethbridge — will have two-way sets in their detachment cars.

S. G. Zinn, chief radio official of the department of transport is erecting a main transmitting tower for the station here. It is being built about 10 miles northwest of the city limits.

On completion of the work here he will go to Saskatchewan to do similar work in connection with the network.

It is expected that it will be sometime yet before the complete Prairie network is in operation, although the system will be put into use in the Edmonton area shortly.

The transmitter here will cover all of the northern section of the province while the transmitter at Lethbridge, less powerful than the other two, will cover a portion of the southern part of the province.

EXPERIMENTAL PLANE CRASHES, THREE DEAD

A U.S. navy salvage ship has hoisted a fore the heavy plane sank in the bay while wrecked American Airlines experimental plane from the waters of Bowery Bay, near LaGuardia Field, New York. The three victims of the crash, Capt. Howard H. Hickey, a mechanic, was removed from the wreckage. Two other bodies already had been recovered by divers. Be- trying to land at the airport, the other two members of the crew, James T. Till and Chester Hall, freed themselves from the wreckage and were picked up by rescue launches.

Wartime Minister of Food Prepares To Defeat Labor Govt. at Next Election

By JAMES MCCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 14 (CP) — In a small office near Westminster Abbey, white-haired, precise Lord Woolton fusses about and chafes like a general planning a campaign.

The wartime minister of food is doing just that as a business man he entered government service to see that food was fairly distributed in the darkest quarter city the enemy allowed.

Now he is chairman of the Conservative party preparing to defeat the Labor government at the next election; but even in Labor households they remember him kindly as the "housewife's friend."

In his rare speeches in the Lords, Woolton has said that food minister Strachey has some troubles he escaped. When he held the reins, food could be bought for all Britain's needs and his problem was getting it into the country. Strachey often cannot buy food at any price and the treasury sometimes will not give him the dollars to buy supplies. So he can get and would like to have.

Nowadays, so Woolton insists Strachey could do more for the housewives.

Woolton, who organized department stores, has set the Conservative organization on a business basis. His campaign against Labor involves long-range planning, with emphasis on education, recruiting and finance.

He invests the country, in the wake of a stream of Conservative literature, reiterating the electorate must be encouraged to think of issues between elections and know their minds before they go to cast their votes.

"The issue of the election will be determined by the way with which we expound our own faith and gain the security," he said.

As he pulls at his pipe and considers his careful phrases, Woolton faces the basic consideration that the Conservative party no longer is wealthy, a condition he says, he can explain to those who have associated it with wealth in the past. The October party conference at Brighton will consider financial difficulties to be faced in the pre-election campaign.

He considers, too, the problem of the Liberals, crushed in recent elections but now showing signs of life at the middle way between the Labor and Conservative parties.

Conservatives would like to make the battle a clear issue between Socialism and free enterprise with Liberals swinging to their side to protect personal freedom.

If the Liberals carry through their plans to fight every contest, Woolton sees an independent party. What he is troubled. Their only consolation is that the Liberal plans cause equal anxiety to Labor.

Pretty, Not Brash That's Our Girls!

Ottawa (CP) — Canadian girls are "pretty" but "they don't speak to you without an introduction," was the way several United States tourists put it when asked what they thought of the Canadian girl versus the American Miss.

The essential difference between American and Canadian girls is that the latter have that scrubbed, just-stepped-out-of-a bath look, explained Stanford Whitmore, a University of Chicago student. "They don't seem to know how or care to use cosmetics the way our girls do," he said.

"What gets me is the way Canadian men whistle at passing pretties," said Paul Bindiegas of New York City. "Their whistle isn't lowly as ours but has a really quiet one."

The man from Grand Rapids, Mich., was quite enthusiastic about the pulchritudes of Ottawa. "I never saw so many pretty girls," he said.

Women's Activities

PINE GROVE W.I.

The regular monthly meeting of Pine Grove W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Allyn Fjaks, on Thursday, July 31st.

The meeting opened with the singing of the "Institude Ode" followed by community singing.

The collection amounted to $1.05.

Much regret was expressed when it was learned that Miss Eva Bird, a former and much respected teacher of our school is seriously ill and it was decided to send her a plant. Miss Bird assisted the W.I very substantially in our war work.

The ladies were pleased to welcome Miss Margaret Vanderwater who gave an instructive talk on "Home Economics"—Miss Vanderwater, a teacher in Toronto, outlined the procedure taken on this subject in the public schools.

"Current Events" was given by Mrs. W. Rogers and covered many interesting events, taking place at home and abroad.

A quiz was conducted by Mrs. J. Fredenburg.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction, after which delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and the social committee.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was in her room taking things out of one drawer and putting them in another, and I said, Hay ma, when is pop's birthday?

Oh, not before as far as I know, and I said, G, then there's lots of time for the present.

What arrangements for landlaker? ma said, and I said, the arrangements for his surprise party. Why don't you get up the time for him, ma? I said.

In the first and last place, the can take care of themselves, so he'll just have the honor of hearing them yell. The next place, when he leaves the house, and by the time he gets back the party will be over and all the kids will be home again and it won't be in the least bit fair from a pleasant one as far as your father is concerned, and the fact of it goes to a party unless he's forced to, and the thought of having one forced on him would turn his hair upside down, and he gets unhappy and itchy in any gathering of more than six people, and said, and I said, But jimminy, ma, I mean gosh, think how proud it would make him to see a whole roomful of people just on account of his birthday. Don't you think he'd appriciate the honor, ma? I said.

I'm sure he wouldn't appriciate the crowd and the excitement, ma said, and I said, When I know how to work it, ma, I know how to work it, and I'll tell the kids, and just when they get here you yell surprise, so he'll have a really surprise party with everybody having a wonderful time in his honor, without him being close enough to even hear it. They're even liable to give him necklets ed things if I remind them. Oh boy, ma, it'll be the best party he ever had. So what about it, ma? I said.

Go on outside, the boys are wisseling for you, ma said.

Not saying what about it, so I had to imagine.

IS THAT PALE YOUNG GIRL YOUR DAUGHTER?

Perhaps she needs the tonic effect of the concentrated goodness in Ferrol. Ferrol is a tonic that helps to build up the blood, to increase the number of red blood cells—so many daughters exhibit during their time when they are growing into womanhood.

If her health at this stage is not satisfactory a sufficiency of good rich blood is all kinds of weaknesses may arise to make her life miserable.

Ferrol will soon enable any of these distressing symptoms to disappear. Mrs. Wilson, Port Hope, Ont., writes: "Ferrol Tablets and Pills are very powerful. HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

As guest of the Men's Faculty Club of the University of Oregon, my cap and gown were surplus property. No degree was conferred upon me. Else you would now address me as Sam Kibitzer Gordon, B.V.D.

These initials are not for something you like next to yourself. They stand for Doctor of Vital Bridge, a title posterity may give me. But you can still call me Kibby. Or Stinky.

The affair was under the direction of Carl L. Johnson, professor of romantic language. Its vocabulary of only 15 words can speak volumes.

Take the word no-trump. It means: "Partner, I have not any trump suit good enough to bring to your attention at this time. No trump suit have I." It is often hyphenated no-trump.

When the final contrast is played at no-trump, it means that not any suit is trump. In other words, there is no trump suit. So, any way you look at it, no-trump is a combination of "no" and "trump."

Take a look at this hand:

♠A J 5
♥K 9 4 2
♦A Q
♣A 10 4 2

If you are the dealer with this hand, do you have enough for an opening bid? An opening of one promises five tricks, among which are four high cards, of which two are sure tricks.

A high card is any ace or king or queen. Each high card is counted as one no-trump trick. Each high card and each short card is counted as one trick when the bid is in a suit.

This hand contains five high cards and one short card. Thus it has either five no-trump tricks or six suit tricks. But it has no suit that is biddable. So, it is not a suit bid. It is a no-trump bid.

Does it have enough for an opening one no-trump? Yes. It has the five (high card) no-trump tricks. It has at least two sure tricks. And it has no (not any) trump suit to show.

The word no-trump is a professer of no biddable trump suit.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 14 —(AP)— Frank Morgan may have found good fortune in the yacht race to Hawaii, but George Brent did not. He says he's going to sell his boat.

Brent, still worn out from the trip, said he found operating a big boat is too much of a business and "like running a factory." He is going to sell the yacht when it returns here. He still plans a trip to Tahiti this year — but on a freighter.

George is back at MGM for the first time since he made "The Painted Veil" with Greta Garbo in 1934. He is appearing in "Luxury Liner," which is how he returned from Honolulu. And here is another quirk — George appeared in a Paramount film of the same title in 1933, and in the cast was—Frank Morgan.

Busy Man.

John Garfield leaves Sept. 15 to establish his residence in New York and attend the premier of "Body and Soul." He opens in Tennessee Williams' "A Streetcar Called Desire" Dec. 1. John will also instruct classes in motion picture acting at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts. . .

Billy DeWolfe opines that he'll probably never make another picture. Reason: Paramount has discovered his talents as a goodwill emissary. A short trip to St. Louis turned into an exploitation tour of Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Boston and other towns. The popular comic told be he expected to be handed a brief case instead of a film role. But despite his fears, he looks set for "A Connecticut Yankee." Meanwhile he's being dispatched again—to the "Variety Girl" opening in Toronto. . .

Ann Sheridan spent her first day on "Good Sam" in a torrid love scene with Gary Cooper. Said the usually shy Coop: "I always like to rehearse a scene thoroughly so I know where I'm going." . . .

Silver Lining.

The ax is falling at most studios which are being frightened into drastic economy moves by the British tax pinch. Sunshiny note is added by a top producer; who prefers to remain anonymous: "Hollywood only becomes stronger with each crisis it faces."

RICH FAVORED IN BRITAIN'S BETTING LAWS

By VERNON MORGAN

London, (Reuters)—Horses, dogs and soccer teams "carry the shirts" of Britains bettors to the tune of some $2,640,000,000 yearly.

Paradoxically, while none of it is strictly legal, some of it is not illegal. The truth of the axiom that there is one law for the rich and another for the poor was never more evident than in Britain's gambling laws.

Whereas a rich person can telephone his turf accountant or commission agent —designations by which big bookmaking firms prefer to be known—and invest any sum on a horse or dog, the poor person with no credit account is liable to a jail sentence for betting with his street bookmaker who operates illegally.

A licensed racetrack is the only place in England where the Briton may bet in cash, while in Scotland cash betting is allowed by mail. For this reason, starting price bookmakers operate throughout the country in their hundreds of thousands, allowing clients credit of from one dollar to $400,000 weekly, according to their means. Each Monday the punter gets a letter showing his profit or loss over the past week. If it's a profit, a cheque is enclosed.

Wagers are placed either by telephone or telegram. Some people—especially well-known citizens in small towns and villages—prefer to deal with a non-resident bookmaker.

Punters using telegram invariably use a code to ensuer secrecy. The telegram is sent to a coded address, the wager is in code, and they use a coded nom-de-plume. By this means their wagers are not revealed to local mail officials.

Matter of Good Faith

Cash never passes between such firms and their clients. Bets are placed on good faith, similar to that of London Stock Exchange transactions. A firm could plead the Gaming Act and refuse to pay on a successful bet, could deny receipt of the punter's telegram or default in other ways—but would not dream of doing so if it wants to remain in business.

The amount of credit extended to a client is arranged at the opening of an account. If the credit limit is $80 weekly and the client has lost this amount before the week ends, he must pay up or refrain from further betting until his account is settled. Bookmakers have a number of rules to protect both themselves and their clients. In most cases they are extremely fair and a relaible bookmaker will always consider changing a rule should a client specifically wish it.

Starting prices of horses are listed by experienced officials of Britain's two leading turf newspapers—the Sporting Life and the Sporting Chronicle. These officials list the prices according to those quoted by course bookmakers at the time the horses leave the starting-gate, and it is on these prices that credit starting price bookmakers do their business.

Bets may also be placed with bookmakers at totalisator (pari-mutuel) odds—odds returned by totalisators which operate on every course.

While it is difficult to obtain accurate figures, it is generally accepted that the equivalent of $1,200,000,000 is bet annually on horses one way or another. A similar amount on greyhounds and up to $240,000,000 on the football pools which flourish throughout the country.

Executive Upholds Decision Given By Committee

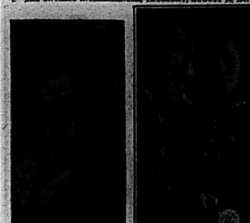
Montreal Carsteel and Toronto Ulster United meet at Toronto Saturday to open a best-of-three series in the Dominion soccer championship. Winner of the set clashes with the winner of a Winnipeg-Fort William series and the top team of the two playoffs will go to the coast for a crack at the Canadian title.



The decision of a committee called in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League which suspended Kitchener Panters' Howie Meeker was upheld by the Intercounty executive against the protests of the Kitchener club. The suspension, for three games, was said to be imposed as part of a policy to curb rowdiness and umpire-baiting.

Jackie Robinson Acclaimed As Major League's Greatest Base Runner Since Ty Cobb

Made Two Hits, Each of Them Bunts, in Defeating Boston Braves 10-5

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn's daring young man on the basepaths, was being acclaimed today as the greatest base runner the major leagues have seen since the departure of Ty Cobb.

The rookie first baseman, near the .300 mark at bat most of the season, has fallen off at the plate of late, but not so in his speed habits.

Robinson made two hits in yesterday's 10-5 Dodger victory over Boston Braves, both times he reached base via bunts, unnerving the opposition so much that the Brooks followed with big scoring innings.

Robinson stole his 17th base and tallied twice to increase his runs scored total to 95, second only to New York's Johnny Mize.

Behind six-hit pitching by lefty Ken Heintzleman, Philadelphia Phillies made it two in a row over New York Giants with 5-2 victory. Both Giants tallies came as a result of home runs. Billy Rigney hitting his 16th and Bobby Thomson his 23rd.

Find Going Tough

Hal Newhouser and Bob Feller, the majors two top pitchers of 1946 continued to find the going rough this season, each being charged with his teams defeat last night. Newhouser, entrusted with the job of preserving Detroit's two-run margin over St. Louis Browns in the eighth inning of the second game gave up three runs and dropped his 13th decision against 11 victories.

The Brownie 6-5 victory gave them a split as the Tigers, behind Fred Hutchinson's nine-hit pitching, won the opener 7-1.

Feller failed to hold a 7-4 Cleveland lead as Chicago White Sox pounced upon his fast ball with a four run uprising in the seventh to defeat him and the Indians 8-7. Rudy York's 17th homer with two men on base climaxed the winning rally.

Win Eighth Straight

Coming up with a five-run first inning when they clouted three home runs, the Red Sox took their eighth straight home victory from Washington 10-3 before 24,451 customers. First inning homers were walloped by Sam Mele, Bobby Doerr and Jake Jones. Jones added another in the seventh.

Four home runs, two by catcher Homer Howell, one with the bases loaded helped Pittsburgh Pirates whip Chicago Cubs 10-2. Billy Cox and Ralph Kiner were the other homer hitters. It was No. 29 for Kiner.

The Cards and Cincinnati Reds were not scheduled.

New York Yankees defeated Philadelphia Athletics 8-2 at the Yankee Stadium. Vic Raschi the Yankees' latest pitching find won his sixth straight with a seven hitter. Al Clark batted in four runs.

16 SURVIVORS LEFT IN ONTARIO GOLF TOURNEY

Pidlaski Scores Upset by Defeating Riegel and Then Lost to Ezinicki

By W. R. WHEATLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Royal Quebec Golf Club, Boischatel, Aug. 14 (CP)—Sixteen survivors toiled along the trail today in the Canadian Amateur Golf Championship but the reverberations of yesterday's upheaval wouldn't die down.

Henry Martell, the Edmonton cop, defending the title he won last year at home, was safely in the fold and so was Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, called by many to find his way to Saturday's finals.

Tongues still wagged, however, over the biggest upset the three-round-old tournament has seen and possibly will see Mike Pidlaski, a raw-boned, 30-year-old westerner from St. Boniface, Man., who has never done better than win medal honors in his province's championship play, pulled off the biggest surprise by eliminating Skee Riegel, one of the best of American amateurs, in extra-hole play.

As if that weren't enough, Bill Ezinicki, the golfing hockey player from Toronto's Scarboro Golf Club, came along in the afternoon round and shoved giant-killer Pidlaski right out of the tournament with a one up victory all his own.

The Americans were left among the 16 survivors and one was sure to disappear in today's fourth round over the 18-hole route.

Stranahan and Felix Torza of Hartford, Conn., were drawn against each other and were the last pair away. Both had little trouble yesterday in getting past the second and third rounds.

It may mean nothing in the final reckoning, but Ontario had a decided numerical advantage in players left with them. Three of these came from Toronto, two from London and one each from Windsor and Hamilton.

CHIPS
OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK
By GEORGE E. CARTER, Sports Editor

Like a bolt out of the proverbial blue sky comes the announcement yesterday that Peterboro had secured a franchise in the Senior O.H.A. league. A press despatch stated that Jack Kelly, the high pooh bah of the Toronto Maple Leafs, organization had secured the franchise and would use the Peterboro club as a farm ground for the Leafs.

Not only that but he would drop ten thousand bucks into the lap of the Peterboro magnates-minds, to help them with their grounds, lights etc. if the city joes would supply the rest. And thereby hangs a tale.

A few months ago the Peterboro baseball fans brushed up their sleeves when some one suggested they enter the Peterborough-via the Border loop. No dumb cluche you may query, they. We're patiently satisfied with things as they are—and maybe before long the Ontario Baseball Loop will be resurrected and lookit the fun we can have.

But when a baseball sugar daddy comes along, gets 'em a franchise and drops a few thousand simoleons, that puts a different complexion on the matter. It may appear to a lot of the baseball fans that the boys are in favor of the franchise that is from now on, plain sailing. That all they have to do is supply the balance of the requisite thousands to finance the squad and sit back and watch the dollars roll in the rest. Brothers, beware of Greeks bearing gifts.

The Peterborough clan may have more than a few laughs over that at the end of the dispatch that announced the franchise being sought by the Border Leaguers, was the statement that Belleville will be the eighth team. Apparently four franchise but were gently, gentlemanly turned down and that Belleville would have to wait for another year. Apparently some of the Border morals would not go with Belleville and that the other eligible squad was in the offing. Sorry boys you asked for it and you certainly travelled all these miles. We appreciate your gesture, but we soap this year. And we hope you do in 1947. Things might be different.

At that time a special meeting of baseball enthusiasts was held here, I think it was sometime in February. The meeting was held in the Y.M.C.A. Nearly forty were present at the meeting and the Belleville sports conclave to decide whether or not a ball team for it as the first time on record that opinions were given for and against. There came a matter of fourteen. Two thousand bucks was needed in three days to finance the franchise. In exactly eighteen minutes at that meeting the last dollar needed to lure was subscribed plus the guarantee of a few of those present who would stand to the difference come deadline.

That was fine. Everything was in the grand old way. The boys trekked to Watertown to a meeting of the Inter League to see their wares. Then the blow fell. The B. L. buckaroos would have no part of a seven-club loop as it was said before. So they came back more or less empty. All things turned out it was just as well by half.

For the season started on May 24th and the local powers-that-be had a guarantee from city officials that the new ilumination system would be installed May 24th.

It proved the old adage that its an ill wind that doesn't dry somebody's washing. Through a fault of the City Parks Board, the floodlight system was delayed and was not officially installed until a few weeks ago. That would have meant a terrific deficit if we had had a team in the Border League either dropping out or something which would have plastered a heavy burden on this town's baseball prestige. And as for ten thousand bucks, a tip to the Purdue football coaches could cost twice that much—also. And we haven't an if or a but about it. We are not the only city in first class condition and in the midst of it let more cats of the realm is invested.

However, be that as it may. Kapsalon is the Campbellford mixture, and if the Border League's powers that be changed their mind regarding a seven-team set-up and if no other club is in the offing, Peterboroughs professional baseball prospects next summer hinge on Belleville's action.

And right now, to quote one gentleman, "Belleville needs to find a pot of gold into the pot, the situation doesn't look too rosy." Another gentleman he said "I want no part of it." Last two were local. There was no lack of similations from all sources. But the situation hasn't changed, so I understand."

However, that is one man's opinion. What Belleville needs is a fairy godfat of the Campbell variety unless several people in the city are to come fourth with the manna. It is likely that a meeting will be called soon to discuss the situation as it is felt that the village is definitely ripe for some organized baseball of the better variety.

The set-up with Kingston, Peterboro, Belleville and Oshawa as a Canadian section of the Border League looks good. It would not only mean a revival of the friendly rivalry times bitter enmity that has always been manifested between the first three - named teams, but it would, I firmly believe, prove a good drawing card. Not only that but transportation would not be a bugbear to professional teams as would be reduced to a minimum until the playoffs.

We were in conversation with Bob Shawley, member of the Kingston executive, following the exhibition game with the Leafs the other day a few weeks ago. Bob was in favor of a two-division Border League, one in Canada and the other south of the border. It would make for keener competition, and not only cradle baseball interest both sections but give the loop an international flavor. And here is what he added: "If we could get Ed Carbenore in line, I think that would solve the two - section problem."

So there the matter stands. What we need here is a super daddy of the Campbell type. One Ingle Day Hall would be according to both Shawley and Barney Hearn, Auburn manager by rank with the best in the circuit.

Our personal opinion is that with the right backing Belleville as set-up pro ball would get a tremendous boost in baseball parks. We feel so far it and it is to be hoped that someone or a group in this village will see their way clear to again start the ball rolling and give the fans something to look at and cheer about come next summer.

ONTARIO RINKS HOLD MONOPOLY ON BOWLING PRIZES

Ted Cockshoot and Members of Kolek Rink Win Premier Event of Tourney

Toronto, Aug. 14 (CP) —With bowling fortunes from Toronto, Ottawa, Watertown, N.Y., and Newmarket holding all five trophies, Ontario held a monopoly on prizes today in the Annual Provincial bowling tournament.

The trophy competition wound up yesterday with Ted Cockshoot and his Toronto Kodak rink of Harry Clarke, Alf Yorke and Archie Shaw winning the premier event and the Eaton Gold Cup.

Secondary prize, the Marshall trophy was taken by Dr. Hugh Cheney and three fellow Ottawans.

The Weston rink skipped by Ken Templeman and the Remington Rand trophy with a 22-12 win over Toronto Runnymedes. The Eaton Cup consolation saw Andy Murdison and his Newmarket mates beat 21-14 over Dr. J. E. Bourget's Montreal rink.

Final event of the trophy round was the Simpson Cup which turned up the closest game of the finals.

H. Forrest of Waterloo led Dalmuir, L. Moore and E. Kugel to a close victory by a 15-14 count over Dr. Cleve Dickie's Manor rink of Andy Sim.

The weekend tournament being played on the well-groomed lawns of the Boulevard Club on Toronto's Lake Shore, moved into the doubles and singles play with all of the 136 original teams entered but for Philadelphia, Pa., Union. The tourney winds up Saturday.

Sports Roundup

By TED MEIER
(For Hugh Fullerton, Jr.)

New York, Aug. 14 —(CP)— Alabe First enjoyed a two-week vacation at the Atlantic City race track on Thursday.

The two-year-old strawberry roan filly, after running second to Pat Richards' Bull Lea at Pimlico, was unsaddled and started toward the paddock. After a few steps, then rear back pulling the turf from a the hands of her groom.

Alabe then got flopped over on her side in full view of the crowd. There she lay without a spectator until the ambulance arrived. Thereupon she jumped up and trotted off along. The last the boys in the press box saw the groom was trying to get her on her with a hose — maybe that's what she wanted all along. Some folks don't understand the ladies. It seems.

Oh, Yeah? Department

Most folks think Jersey Joe Walcott will be back next year for heavyweight champion Joe Louis when they meet in the Yankee stadia. 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden in September. We don't see how Jersey Joe can win, but we have a suspicion that he will give it better account of himself than most persons think.

Where's Larry?

"What's happened to Mace Phalli? Haven't read anything about him in the papers lately." A friend asked the sports desk and what's this rumor that Red Rolfe may eventually be named manager of Detroit Tigers?

Philadelphia Story

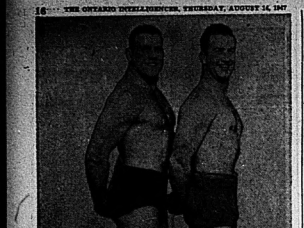
The Philadelphia baseball story is different this year. Last summer it was the Phillies who grabbed the headlines by finishing fifth and drawing more than 1,200,000 paid. Now it's the Athletics, under Connie Mack, who are the surprise of baseball. Generally picked to finish last the A's stand a good chance to finish second behind the Yanks.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Jackie Robinson, Dodger first baseman, sent down the third base line and raced all the way to third when Luther Johnny Hopp threw wild to first in the first inning; walked in the second; beat out a bunt single in the second in the fifth; popped to second base in the seventh and popped out to short in the eighth.

Ted Wilks, St. Louis Red Sox — Singled to right over shift, doubled off the left fence, singled over shift into right, was thrown out by the pitcher and singled into center. Of his three hits two were a nice running catch off Mark Christman.



Johnny Mize, Giants — Fouled out in first inning; popped out in the fourth, filed to right in the sixth and singled to centre in the ninth against Lefty Ken Heintzman of the Phils.

Tom Henrich and Joe Dimaggio, Yankees; and Stan Musial, Cardinals did not play.

INDIA NEWSPRINT

New Delhi (CP) — An Indian firm has made arrangements for the production of newsprint. The government is also making investigations with regard to finding suitable raw materials and a site for the factory.

Here are the "Gold-Dust Twins" of wrestledom. Mike (The Body) Sharpe, and his equally handsome brother, Ben. The two lads will be seen in action here on Friday night—Mike in the main bout with Dangerous Dan O'Connor and Ben with Frankie Taylor, the Hollywood sensation. There'll be plenty of action-packed heavyweight brawl at Memorial Arena come 8th day, lugged with a plentiful sprinkling of the "Beast."

Mike, the Golden Boy of Pachydermia, is headed for the top slats of the mat and muscle game and don't be surprised some of these days to see his handsome torso sporting the belt emblematic of the championship of the world. But he has a tough row to hoe and one of his hardest stopping blocks will be the wild Irisher named O'Connor. After all Dan has aspirations too, and "no pretty bboy, be Japers, is going to stand twixt me and goal."

KINGSTON GIANTS DEFEAT TORONTO IN CONGRESS GAME

Southpaw Jake Edward Gives Superb Performance on the Mound

London, Ont., Aug. 14 (CP)— Windsor Ryancretes, last year's champions, bowed out of Canadian Bandfest Baseball Congress by dropping a close 3-2 decision to Stratford Nationals for their second straight loss, at the annual tournament went through its second gruelling here last night.

In the opener, Kingston Giants edged Toronto Combines 3-2, paced by southpaw Jake Edwards' superb pitching and a three-run assault in the first three innings. Edwards scattered eight hits while his mates piled up nine of their 10-hit total in the first four innings.

Cliff Lowcock, stocky-Toronto righthander, settled down in the fifth to hold Kingston to a single hit throughout the rest of the game.

Russ Nantais, Manager of the Windsor team, took the mound himself when he found he was short of hurlers and turned in one of the finest performances seen here in a long time. Nantais held the hard-slugging Nats-second-place finishers in the Senior International-to six hits, while Lefty Price served up five to Ryancretes over the nine-inning route.

The toughest of breaks cost the plucky pitcher-manager the game. Tourangeau, Windsor shortstop, stumbled as he went for Lloyd Ayres' hoist to the hard left field and the ball fell in for base hit, allowing Chevalier Blais to come home with the winning marker.

Hughie McGillivray's double and Rediff's triple gave Stratford a 1-0 lead in the opening frame. The margin held until the sixth wheel-Price hit a wild streak, walking three batters with one man on to force in a run. He came out of the hole to retire the side with the bases loaded.

Windsor went to the front in the seventh when Hodgins led off with a double and scored after two were out on an infield error, but the Nats evened the count in their half of the inning as McGillivray squeezing Ayres home.

Dale Mitchell Heads Rookies In Batting

New York, Aug. 14 — (AP) — Dale Mitchell, Cleveland's brilliant centre fielder, tops the American League rookie crop in batting with a .317 average although most of the headlines have gone to Virgil Berra and Frank Shea of the pennant-bound New York Yankees.

A graduate of the Oklahoma City Club with which he won the Texas League batting crown at .337 in 1946, Mitchell did not impress manager Lou Boudreau in early season, but improved fast. Included in his total are a 22-game hitting streak, longest of the major league season. He has played in 68 games and would rate as the sixth hitter in the league if he had been at bat a few more times.

Sam Mele, Boston's right fielder, also is in the running for rookie-of-the-year honors with an average of .290.

Connie Mack's new first baseman, Ferris Fain, is batting around .290 and is one of the big reasons for the Philadelphia Athletics' surprising surge into the first division.

Philadelphia drew pitching help from freshman Joe Coleman and Bill McCahan, two Yankee grads whose main stock in trade has been an ability to beat New York. Carl Scheib, back from the national service, is another early whiz with three straight victories, including two shutouts, and is a comer.

BATTING AND PITCHING STARS

Batting, Dixie Howell, Pirates—Smashed two home runs, his first of the season, one with the bases loaded and drove in six runs to help defeat Chicago Cubs 10-2.

Pitching, Fred Hutchinson, Tigers — Twirled a nine-hitter for his 12th victory in the Tigers defeated the Browns 7-1 in the first game of a twilight-night doubleheader.

Vancouver, Aug. 14—(CP) — Pigskins will soon be in the air again but for Vancouver it will mean little more than a year of football.

Ken (Vancouver Province) McConnell says that senior football seems to be dead on the Pacific coast, at least for this year. And probably that is all for the best — right now.

"At the moment," he says, "we can't match Winnipeg's reported expenditure of $63,000 for a football team. We have not, up to now, been able to whip regina be Calgary."

Also says McConnell, there'll come a day when Vancouver will be in there pitching for the Grey Cup.

Besides a deficit of dollars, the Vancouver football scene will be short the mark that breathed new life into it last year Orville Burke.

The starry former Ottawa Rough Rider is now in trouble as shooter in the tall timbers.

Last Ride?

McConnell also comes up with information that Johnny (Scotty) Craigmyle, one of the better known jockeys on this continent, has probably ridden his last race.

Craigmyle now is in hospital here for an important operation and, in the opinion of his physician, Scotty will weigh in at more than 140 pounds when he's strong enough to hoist a saddle again.

His ailment—diabetes—is partially caught up with the courageous Craigmyle and by the time he is rid of that he'll be "fat and sassy" and perfectly satisfied with the life of ease in California.

Another New Deal

A new deal in 1947-48 for amateur hockey players in Canada is in the making for four of the major cities of the lower British Columbia mainland and Vancouver Island.

Don (Vancouver Sun) Carlson reports plans are being studied whereby Vancouver, Victoria, New Westminster, Nanaimo and Victoria.

ROYALS STIFFEN TO TURN BACK NEWARK BEARS

Jersey City Giants Made It Four Out of Five by Defeating Leafs

(By The Associated Press)

With the possible loss of the International League lead which they have held from practically the taret of season starring them in the face, the Jersey City Royals stiffened last night to turn back Newark Bears 7-3. The victory enabled them to retain their two-game margin over the onrushing Syracuse Chiefs.

Erv Palica pitched a three-hitter to gain credit for his 11th win for Montreal. Two of his hits, however, went for homers and another for a triple to account for three Newark runs. Butch Woyt, with three hits, and Roy Cascarella, with two safeties and two runs batted in led the Royal attack.

Jersey made it four out of five from Toronto by downing the Maple Leafs 7-4. Bill Holberg, with a two-run triple and Felix Mackewicz, with a two - run homer, led the Little Giants.

Lefty John Mikan tossed a shutter for Rochester Red Wings to blank Syracuse Chiefs 3-0. Russ Derry's two-run single in the first was all that Mikan needed.

Veteran Pete Appleton scattered six hits in pitching Buffalo Bisons to a 5-2 decision over the last-place Baltimore Orioles.

AUSTRALIA HAS ATOM-BOMB MATERIAL

While Canada and Africa have the richest known deposits of uranium bearing ore, Australia's Mount Painter is said to have deposits totalling hundreds of thousands of tons. World-famous atomic physicist Prof. Marcus Oliphant, inspecting the deposits, estimated that nearly a thousand tons of uranium could be extracted from the ore. Here Australian Premier Chifley chips at the uranium-bearing rock surface with a pick-axe while a party of geologists look on.

Take the Laughter

By Karen De Wolf

The man said, "It isn't three yet. Sit down, my dear."

At one minute to three she went back to the desk. The man acted as if he had not seen her before, and asked her who she wanted to see and what her business was. She gave a number and said, "Miss Lynne is to see Mrs. Drood," and hung up and gave her a pass.

In a minute Sherry was on the lot. She had never seen a studio lot before. The big lawns were neat and green, and the red-roofed buildings were white in the sun.

Sherry looked carefully at the people she passed. You never could tell whom you might see. Finally she found the building to which she had been directed.

A pleasant, gray-haired woman at a desk looked at her pass and spoke into a telephone. Then she clicked a gate and told Sherry to go upstairs. Sherry found the door and knocked.

A surprised voice said, "For heaven's sake, come in."

She said, "Mrs. Drood?"

The woman behind the desk said, "No, Mrs. Drood's busy. I'm her secretary. Can I do anything for you?"

Sherry's heart sank.

She said, "I had an appointment with Mrs. Drood at 2 o'clock."

The woman said, "What about?"

Sherry was embarrassed. "About—about a job," she told her.

"Reading?"

Sherry said yes, and the woman took a book out of a drawer and looked through her name and telephone number."

Sherry did and the secretary wrote it down at the end of a long list of names and telephone numbers headed "Readers."

After a while a door clicked somewhere and a buzzer sounded at the secretary's desk.

She said, "You can go in now."

Sherry went in. She meant to say good afternoon, but didn't, but it did not come out that way.

The office was large and sunny with attractive curtains. Mrs. Drood sat with her back to the window. She looked important but grumpy. She had black hair, dark eyes, greasy hair and her eyes were a little oriental.

She looked at Sherry as though she did not like her and said, "Sit down. My you're pretty!"

Sherry was surprised. She sat down.

Mrs. Drood said "Sandra's been telling me how very well you've done—that you know books and have a lovely voice. Do you?"

Sherry said, "Well, I don't know if it's lovely or not. Some people like it."

The interview was not very businesslike. Some of the woman's questions were purely personal and Sherry told her she thought she did not mean to tell her.

Finally Mrs. Drood said, "Has my secretary got your telephone number? Her office is out there."

Sherry gave it to her and left. She felt hot and hated herself. She knew she had talked too much and said all the wrong things.

She told the boys about the interview at dinner. She did not tell them how she had messed it up though, and she repeated her answers much more cleverly than she had given them.

"Were you very scared?" Kris wanted to know.

Sherry said, "Why, not at all."

Kris smiled his crooked smile, and Sherry was uncomfortable. He looked as if he knew all about it. She felt hot and red and she looked at Tony and Kris and closed her eyes.

The telephone rang and reluctantly Sherry pulled it to her.

She said, "Hello," as though she were a long way off.

Mrs. Drood said, "You weren't asleep were you?"

Sherry sat bolt upright. "No, indeed."

Mrs. Drood laughed. "I hate to think of people relaxing when I'm still working. I spoke to Mr. Henderson about you tonight. Can you start in the morning?"

Sherry said, "Yes, I can. Thank you so much."

Mrs. Drood said, "Fine," and then, "Oh, that's forty a week. All right?"

Sherry gasped. "Oh, yes," and Mrs. Drood hung up.

Sherry had been working for so out every day. It had a desk and an overstuffed chair, and a couch in the corner. Since she had made friends with the janitor though, other things had been added. There was a radio, a footstool and floor lamp, and a kitchen with leather curtains.

Sherry wished she could have her name on the door, but she supposed that was a privilege reserved for higher-ups, like Tom Rivers next door.

He had the big corner office but then he was the writer. He called Sherry "the sweetness-and-light girl" and had her patronizingly. She did not always understand him.

Orville Merriman talked like that too.

Mrs. Drood had sent her to his office one afternoon with a book and Sherry had been thrilled. Everyone in the world knew Orville Merriman. He had been a legitimate actor for years and they said he could get every last meaning by the lift of an eyebrow. Then he had been a great star in talkies and now he was directing and sometimes acting in his own productions.

Sherry had never been him in real life. She hoped he would be in.

He was.

His secretary had not been there and Sherry had knocked on the door of his private office. He had said, "Come in," and she opened the door and stood in it.

Merriman looked at her from her feet up very slowly, as if considering every swell and curve of her. When he got to her face he said, "Great Scott, where did you come from?"

Sherry had said, "From Mrs. Drood's office. She wanted you to read this."

She had never been looked at like that before. She had felt her neck get hot and the roots of her hair tingle.

Merriman said, "Well, come in and shut the door."

Sherry had never thought of a man as being "beautiful" except as he before, but Merriman was.

His tall slim shirt glistened like damask and against it in deeper blue was knotted the rich satin of his tie. His warm gray eyes looked like angora.

He had said, "Sit down and tell me why Drood sent her innocent abroad?"

Sherry had said, "That isn't the name of it," and produced the book.

Merriman had put an elbow on the desk and laid his forehead on his hand and laughed quietly for a long time, and then he had taken a handkerchief from his sleeve and wiped his eyes. Then he had asked her questions about herself and had said something she had not understood.

After a while she had said that she had to get back and Merriman got up and walked to the door with her.

After a while she had said that she had to get back and Merriman got up and walked to the door with her.

Tell Drood to send you again," Merriman had said, "only next time leave the door open. I'm not very good for children."

Sherry thought him the most attractive man she had ever met.

He had told the boys about him that night and Tony had said, "Not five thousand a week, I'd dress like that too."

Sherry had gasped.

"Does he really get that?"

Sherry was uncomfortable. He isn't shooting. Ten when he is."

Mrs. Drood sat and stared out over the hills and thought it would be nice to get ten thousand dollars a week if only for one week.

She had lunch with Mrs. Drood and Steve Prescott and Tommy Rivers in the Astec commissary. The commissary that day and Orville Merriman stopped by to chat. He invited Sherry to visit his set at tea-time.

Mrs. Drood thought it would be a good experience for her and Sherry flew back to the studio. So, that by 4:30 she had finished what she would have done by 5.

After tea she stayed to watch Merriman and his crew shoot a scene.

They kept taking the scene again and again for one reason and another, and suddenly Sherry knew that the time the boys would be getting worried about her.

She said goodby to everybody and told him that she had had a lovely time.

When she got outside she met Peter Merriman. She had met him in Mrs. Drood's office. He was cameraman and Sherry said he was one of the best.

He said, "Good evening, Miss Lynne. Been working late?"

Sherry said, no, that she had been visiting on the set and had not realized how late it was getting. If he might drive her home—

In the car she told him a little about herself and he did not have much to say. He looked like a nice person, his clothes were good and his car was a Packard. He was clean and polite and rather reserved. Sherry did not find him very interesting.

She had pulled away a synopsis and laid her head on the desk. With one eye she could see a bit of the open window and for a while she stared at the sky, which was mind blinking blankly.

It was almost summer, she told herself, that was what was the matter. It had been cold but it had got hot. Someone was cutting the lawns outside and the sweet smell of grass had wafted warmly through the open window.

Sherry had been in Hollywood for months. She guessed she was a little tired of reading, getting up to an alarm clock every morning, and getting home in time for dinner and bed at night. Besides, the boys always needed so much done. She wondered vaguely why men could never find things.

She looked at her watch. Only 3 o'clock. She wished it was 5; she would leave early.

Peter was on location and would not be back in time to drive her home, Sherry had got used to his taking her nights. The boys did not like her to accept rides but they gradually got used it it too. They would be set free, though, and had often told her to bring him in sometime; but for one reason or another she had never done so.

Sherry started to cough. She wished the dam thing would go away. It had hung on after a little cold and kept her awake nights. She coughed for a long time and when she was through she felt weak and dizzy. She went over to the couch and lay down.

Her thoughts rambled unhidily. Tony's letter had not come home from the laundry. The synopsis was running to 100. Had she given Sandro the ticket for his shoes she had left in the heeled? Tommy Rivers had gone to another studio.

There was a knock at the door and Orville Merriman came in.

He said, "Sherry, are you dead? I just ran over from the set a minute."

Sherry got up anyway, and Merriman handed her a book.

"Read this. It's my next picture."

Sherry said, "Oh, I'd love to!"

She was terribly pleased that the director was interested in her opinion. She held the book close to her.

Merriman looked at her for a minute.

"Have you a fever?" he wanted to know.

Br'er Rabbit Proves Boon

Written For The Canadian Press

By LEONE KIRKWOOD

Sudbury, Aug. 13—(CP)—The rabbit, though a menace to this province's farms, is proving a gold mine for some Australians.

Rabbits, slaughtered for the last 30 years as pests, now are killed for their skins. Last year, Australia exported $13,000,000 worth of rabbit skins and the prospects are even better this year. Canada alone has asked for 50,000 pounds of rabbit skins a month.

All this is a boon to the trapper who can make about $25 a week. Rabbit-dealers here don't have to go hunting the animal as is done in Australia. They have to set traps for individual rabbits. Australian rabbit hunters use numerous that sometimes a field is a living mass of rabbits. Trappers claim they often walk into a field at dawn and dusk, when rabbits appear, and kill them by the dozen with sticks. Schoolboys make pocket money selling 100 a night. A farmer using wholesale methods has killed 6,000 a night.

Officials can't estimate the number of rabbits killed annually but a member of the Australian Rabbit Skin Board sets the number at 100,000,000.

Shooting rabbits is not regarded "sport." They are killed by fumigation, poisoned water and by setting-traps which hold large numbers.

Rabbits are rarely saved for although frozen rabbit is popular, the cost of processing is high. Trappers are compelled by law to burn all waste carcasses.

Not a Native

The rabbit is not a native of Australia. The first five were brought here in 1788 by Australia's first governor, Capt. Arthur Phillip.

They were tame and caused no trouble to early settlers.

In 1859, 24 wild rabbits arrived by Sydney from England and from these sprung Australia's huge rabbit population. Within six years, that multiplied to 500,000,000. Gangs were put to work poisoning watering-holes and erecting fences as Acts of Parliament were passed to check rabbit eradication. But they continued to increase and spread.

Seriousness of the situation has been illustrated by a cartoon showing an Australian farmer with a large bunny sitting on his chest.

Officials say it is impossible to estimate how much the rabbit has cost this country. Thousands of pounds have been spent on rabbit-proof wire fences, which have been erected around farms and along state borders. The longest fence in Western Australia stretches 1,139 miles.

Rabbits eat the best fodder, thus reducing value of pasturage, encouraging spread of weeds, damaging crops and leaving little food for sheep. Australia's most important breed is animal.

Farmers have always paid trappers to destroy rabbits but it was only 10 years ago the prospect of turning the animal to commercial use was realized. Rabbit skins are used by furriers as well as by felt hat makers. Though still a menace, the rabbit no longer is a total loss.

Model Town Being Built Near London

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

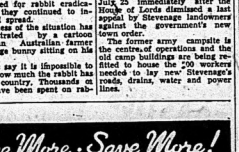
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Stevenage, Hertfordshire, England, Aug. 14—(CP)—Concealed behind a forest of yews and elms in a Canadian-type construction camp, 17 husky laborers are beginning the conversion of an Old World market town of 7,000 into an industrial settlement of 60,000, most of whom will be housed out of congested London areas.

Here, in the next 10 years, prefabricated aluminum bungalows will have sprung up along the south eastern border of the new town-site, 2½ miles from here. Four hundred more bungalows, 200 brick houses and a three-storey apartment block for 300 families will follow in 1948 along with the nucleus of its large new shopping centre.

But it will probably be 15 years before the first of Britain's satellite towns is fully developed. The satellite plan calls for six new schools, public buildings, community and sports centres, compact business and industrial areas with wholesale and retail stores, new roads and new railways.

Work on the new town began July 23 immediately after the House of Lords dismissed a last appeal by Stevenage landowners against the government's new town order.



The former army campsite is the centre of operations and the old camp buildings are being refitted to house the 700 workers needed to lay new Stevenage's roads, drains, water and power lines.

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was reeding her paper and pop was reeding his, and he started to laff out loud a number, and ma said, I wish I could find something funny in my paper but I declare there's nothing here but trubble, mixxery and woe of every kind and description.

That's just the point, my dear, everybody's worrying their head off about their home being robbed or their husband disappearing, or their legs being broken, and goodness knows what all, pop said. Not really a joke, he said, and ma said, Now really, William, I mean really, a sense of humor is one of the most useful of the senses; but please dont carry it beyond the bounds.

My dear, you dont seem to understand, pop said. Now for instance all thus fuss about the price of meat soaring sky high. It makes me laff, he said. William Potts! Well it doesn't make me laff, and if I could find out who's causing it I'd spred the news far and wide and they wouldn't laff either, I assure you.

Apparently you miss the humor of it because it's too close to you, pop said. Well then, take the housing shortage. Surely you see the absurdity of people worrying just because it's almost impossible to buy a keg of nales to fasten a roof over their heads, he said, and ma said, I see nothing of the kind, and neither does anybody else in their right senses.

But my dear, you seem to be out getting tight at very moment not a few hundred stonne bombs may blow this whole earth smack to hell, pop said, that's where will the price of beef be, or even the price of pop said. Do you wonder that I cant restrain my mirth? he said, I am selfish, William Potts you ought to go to a syko analist and have your sense of humor examined. We're going yite to the movies and see a good lite comedy she said.

Okay, my dear, but dont be surprised, if I cry all thrugh it, especially if we're surrounded by pop corn eaters, pop said.

And he changed his slippers to his shoes and they went.

Get Acquainted With the Squash Family

If the squash family had a reunion picnic such as many clans have each Summer there would be a large attendance. It would include all edible varieties of gourds, vegetable marrows and pumpkins as well as all the shapes of other green, yellow varieties. Squashes are also classified as "Summer or Winter" squashes according to whether they are maturing and used when under ripe or late maturing which may be stored for winter use.

Many people are unfamiliar with Summer squashes or have eaten vegetable marrow when it was watery and tasteless and therefore do not try any of the many delightful ways in which this vegetable may be served. Summer squashes differ a good deal in shape and color but the flavor and texture is about the same.

Small summer squash of the patty pan, or pinchini, yellow crook neck types do not require peeling but as they develop the skin becomes hard and should be removed.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, offer the following recipes which are well worth trying.

Squash and Pepper Casserole

Peel and cut marrow or squash into half-inch slices. Cut green pepper into thin rings. Arrange in layers in a greased casserole, sprinkling each layer with salt, pepper and a little onion salt. Top with bread crumbs, dot with butter or other fat, cover and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees Fahrenheit, about 35 minutes. Remove cover and continue baking about 10 minutes longer or until crumbs are brown and vegetables tender.

Stuffed Vegetable Marrow

Cut a small marrow in half lengthwise and remove seeds. Place marrow halves on a greased baking sheet and fill with the following mixture.

2 cups soft stale bread crumbs
1 small onion (chopped)
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
1-2 teaspoon poultry seasoning
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons melted fat.

Bake for one hour in a moderate over 350 degrees Fahrenheit. Six servings.

..... Squash Casserole .....

2 sliced summer squash ... Zuchinni or other small varieties
2 medium onions
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper
Arrange sliced summer squash and sliced onions in alternate layers, sprinkling each layer with flour, salt and pepper. Cover and bake at 350 degrees Fahrenheit until tender, about 30 minutes. Six servings.

CANNING CORNER

When a quick dessert is called for, there is nothing better than canned fruit. Served plain with cake or cookies, it is always satisfying. On the other hand if something a little more elaborate is needed, canned fruit forms the base of delicious pies, puddings and sauces. So if one has the storage space, the home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, suggest "canning what you can."

Following are their directions for canning one of the favorite fruits—peaches. Being a sweet fruit, peaches need only a thin or moderately thin syrup. Thin syrup is made in the proportion of 1 cup sugar to 2 cups water (yield, 2 1-2 cups syrup); moderately thin syrup 1 cup sugar to 1 1-2 cups water (yield, 2 cups syrup).

Hot Pack Peaches

Blanch peaches 15 to 60 seconds in hot water to loosen skins. Cold dip. Cut in half, remove skin and pit. Drop peaches into brine (1 teaspoon salt to 1 quart water), as thgsare prepared, to prevent discoloration. Drain, leave peaches in halves or slice and drop into hot syrup, bring to boil and simmer 3 minutes. Pack hot, placing peach halves cups down) in clean, hot sealers. Cover with the hot syrup leaving 1-2 inch headspace. Adjust rubber and lids, seal. Process in the boiling water bath 15 minutes for pints and quarts, or in an oven with an automatic heat control for 25 minutes, at 275 degrees Fahrenheit, for pints and quarts.

Cold Pack Peaches

Blanch peaches 15 to 60 seconds in hot water to loosen skins. Cold dip. Cut in half and remove skin and pits. Drop peaches into brine (1 teaspoon salt to 1 quart 1 water) as they are prepared, to prevent discoloration.

Drain, leave in halves and pack cups down, or slice and pack in clean hot sealers leaving 1-2 inch headspace. Adjust rubber rings and lids. Process in the boiling water bath 20 minutes for pints and 25 minutes for quarts. The oven is not recommended for Cold Pack Peaches.

Piles Go Quick

Here is a low cost, simple home remedy. It helps make it possible for many to get relief from the itching soreness and burning pain of piles.

It is a medical fact that piles come from causes OUTSIDE your body. They may need internal treatment, bromo-quinine, but many cases of simple rectal itch can be relieved correct some of the external conditions that cause such distress soreness and pain. BATA SHOEMEN DUNK SWACOS BY 8 TO 4 COUNT

Game Loosely Played With Both Sides Committing Several Errors

In a loosely played game at the Alemite Field last evening the Bata Shoemen outbumbled the Swaco nine to win the pastime 8-4 in seven innings. The Swaco crew committed nine bobbles while the Shoemen were guilty of three miscues.

Spencer led of the Bata scoring in the first inning, getting on base when the pitcher dropped the ball. He went to second on a passed ball and came home on a hit to the outfield and a fielder's choice. Bata collected another run in the second inning when Moffitt got on thanks to an error. Hits by Solmes and Rankin brought him in.

The Bata crew got two more tallies in the third on two hits by Cook and Solmes. Two other runners got on base via the error route. Three more runs came over in the fourth on hits by Spencer, Cook and Peacock. Two more errors contributed to the general distress of the Swaco pitcher. Bata scored its last run in the seventh when Solmes scored after being hit by the pitcher.

Swaco scored their runs in the fifth and sixth innings. They accounted three in the fifth on one hit, A base on balls, being struck by the pitcher, and an error put the other men on bases. Two hits in the sixth gave the Alemite nine another run.

Bowman, starting pitcher for the Shoemen struck out six, walked one and gave up three hits for three runs in five innings. He was relieved by Dunning in the sixth who struck out two, walked none, and gave up three hits for one run in the remaining two innings.

Barriage went all the way for the Swaco striking out five, walking none, and surrendering nine hits for eight runs.

George Godfrey, Former Fighter, Is Found Dead

Los Angeles, Aug. 24 (AP) — George Godfrey, 50, big Negro boxer who told friends he made a half million dollars in the ring died in a squalid room yesterday of a heart ailment.

His physician and close friend Dr. Darrington Weaver, said he found the one-time contender for heavyweight fame dead in bed a few hours after Godfrey telephoned a complain of illness.

Big George, six feet two inches tall and weighing 235 pounds in his prime, fought professionally from 1922 to 1952, winning 73 starts, most of them by knockouts, and losing nine. His peak was a decision victory over Paulino Uzcudun of Wrigley Field, Los Angeles, in 1928.

UNDER THE CAR UNDER TRUCK IS MR. CHEEK

Pinned under the wreckage of his car, which, in turn, is pinned beneath a 10-ton trailer truck, Arthur E. Cheek, whose face is indicated by the arrow pointing to the bridge, Mr. Cheek's car hit the truck head-on. How both cars got into the position in which you see them is anybody's guess.

Schoharie

Schoharie — Mr. and Mrs. Will Shaw and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Shaw and son Wayne, of Ivanhoe were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Allen and supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Slone. Mrs. John Shaw, who has spent the past month with her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Slone, returned home with Mr. and Mrs. Will Shaw for a weeks' visit.

Miss Margaret Foster is spending a few days with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Calnan, and her brother Keith.

The Mrs. Women's Circle were pleasantly entertained at the home of Miss Norma Foster on Thursday evening.

Most of the young folk from this community and some of the older ones have been picking cherries in the Leavens orchard. They finished picking Friday noon and enjoyed a treat of ice cream furnished by Mrs. Leavens.

Mr. Theodore Foster, Norma and Shirley were Sunday night supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Leavitt. Shirley remained until Monday evening.

Mrs. C. C. MacKenzie and daughter, Gail, of Vancouver, B.C., spent a couple of days with Mrs. Stewart Mowbray, Mr. Hobson and Roger. Mrs. Hobson and Mrs. MacKenzie were school girls' together and hadn't seen each other since, so had a pleasant time renewing acquaintances.

The Count B. Wins Pacing Derby at Hamburg

New Hamburg, Ont., Aug. 24—(CP)— Count B., the strawberry roan pacer owned by J. W. Brown which is known here as New Hamburg's "prodigal son," yesterday won the $3,000 Canadian pacing derby, harness race classic of Western Ontario.

Count B registered his third victory in the 12th renewal of the trot, breezing home on top in the last two heats after running fifth in the opener. Winner in 1944 and 1945, the Count was beaten last year by Blue Again who turned in a sensational 2:04 1-4 record for the race.

Best time was 2:08 2-5 set by Merry England, owned by Dr. Ferguson of Chatam, in winning the first heat. Merry England wound up second in the race summary on the fourth and fifth place in the last two heats.

A crowd of more than 10,000, believed a record for the meet, saw the classic renewed in exciting heat. The race was a wide-open betting affair with most of the backers favoring the Montreal Adage. Blue Again Tody was placed fifth, finishing 4-5-4 in the heats.

SALESMAN'S HOLIDAY

Sutton, Aug. 14 (CP) — Talk about a busman's holiday:

Rosario, a Toronto fire extinguisher salesman, was taking advantage of his holidays at nearby Rousseau Point to drum up a few orders when somebody shouted, "Fire!" Rosario grabbed one of his extinguishers, fought through three smoke filled rooms in an apartment above a store and extinguished a blazing mattress. There is no record of the sales talk which followed.

ROLLING TIRE ON HIGHWAY

Cookville, Aug. 14 (CP) — The old game of rolling a hoop found a new version when police picked up Monty Wilson, 20, of Lakeview, as he rolled a tire along the highway. The tire was stolen from a parked car, police on three charges of stealing tires and tubes.

Friend's Advice Led to Relief From Sharp Pains, Weak Kidneys, Backache

This Woman Suffered Many Years With Rheumatic Pain Following Bladder Irritation and Kidney Condition. Also Poor Indigestion and Nervousness Until Friend Told Her About Sytona.

"After the good results I got by taking Sytona I think it is the grandest medicine ever made" said Mrs. Ann Muller, 149 Campbell Ave., Chatham, Ont., in a recent report.

"I suffered many years with rheumatic pains, backache and sharp pains in the back and joints. All my joints would often become terribly sore and painful. My rest was frequently disturbed at night and through loss of sleep and worry, I became very nervous. I would get sick headaches with fiery spells and spots before my eyes. Sometimes I had a bad taste in my mouth afterwards with an acute gas, bloating and sour acid risings. I can tell you I was almost desperate, because I had tried so many things without benefit. Then a friend told me about Sytona and recommended it so highly that I decided to get some.

"At first I was uncertain as to whether it was helping me, but after taking it for a short time the pains began to subside. Then as I continued taking it I got to that I could sleep through the night, my nerves calmed down and the pain and soreness went away.

"I have had no trouble some time ago my kidneys have given me any trouble. Besides I am completely free from rheumatic pains, sharp spells and although I am eating heartier meals my food digests well. I feel fine now and I think everybody who suffers as I did should know about Sytona."

Perhaps you have been thinking about taking Sytona, but somehow never got around to it. Why not make up your mind now to give this pure herbal compound a trial. Find out for yourself what it can do for you.

Sytona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST.

14 ARABS SLAIN IN TERRORISTS' ATTACKS

BRITISH TRAIN WRECK CLAIMS 17 LIVES

Here is an airview of the shattered wreckage in which 17 died in rail disaster at Doncaster, England. The speeding London-to-Leeds express plowed into the rear of a train which was slowing down preparatory to entering Lancaster station. The upset engine of the express can be seen along side the wrecked coaches of the local train.

Landing Delay Encountered By Hamilton Regt. at Dieppe Not Cause of Plan Failure Munro

By ROSS MUNRO

Ottawa, Aug. 15.— (CP)—Suggestion of the British Admiralty report on the Dieppe raid that the landing delay encountered by the Royal Regiment of Canada on the left flank at Puits was a chief cause of military plan failure is certainly open to question, many officers who shared in the operation. As a correspondent in the Canadian Army with the Royal at Puits, I would challenge any such statement.

While the gallant Royals were moved down in the narrow gullies leading off the Puits beach, due to a late landing and inability to carry out their advance inland as planned, this hardly seems to be the main reason why Dieppe was not the success intended.

The responsibility for the failure, if there was really any in the long run, should not fall on the Royals.

While the attack at Puits bogged down in a terrific slaughter in which only about 53 Royals out of about 600 got off that beach, there was also great difficulty from the start on the main beach right in front of Dieppe, where three infantry battalions and elements of a tank regiment landed.

Even if the Royals had been successful in storming Puits on the left flank it is doubtful whether the main beach could have been assured successful and entrance forced to strength into the town of Dieppe itself, which was the main target.

The fiery, lengthy fight on the main beach, which saw the bitter men of the Essex Scottish from Windsor, Ont., the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry and tanks of the Calgary regiment pinned down along the sea-wall in front of the 200-yard-wide esplanade, did not have any great relationship to the situation at Puits at any time during the eight-hour operation.

The units on the main beach simply were not supplied with sufficient fire power to enable them to get across the fire-swept esplanade into the town. The seven destroyers out to sea and the medium and fighter bombers simply could not give the support necessary, and this lack of support is acknowledged in the Admiralty conclusions.

Main Beach Counted Most.

The success of the main beach attack was the one which counted more than any other, in the opinion of the planners, and not the attack on the left flank at Puits, which in the long run was to be a diversionary one.

"On the right flank at Pourville, the South Saskatchewan Regiment and the Queens Own Cameron Highlanders of Winnipeg made a successful landing, as the Royals intended to do at Puits, but eliminate the fire from the western headland onto the main beach which was one of the intended purposes of the Pourville attack.

"I was working up on pillboxes on this western headland where Lt.-Col. C. C. Merritt, commander of the S.S.R., won his Victoria Cross.

46-Minute Delay

"The admiralty report refers to the delay in landing the Royals at one of 15 minutes, while Col. Douglas Catto, commander of the Royals on the raid says it was nearer three quarters of an hour."

Consumer Co-operation on Wide Scale

Planned by Hydro to Avert Shortage

Toronto, Aug. 15 (CP) — A wide program of consumer co-operation will be inaugurated by the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario this fall to avert a serious shortage of power, an informed source said today.

Demand for power is increasing at four times the normal rate, this source said, and the commission is faced with the possibility of a shortage unless waste use at peak hours is eliminated.

A three-months' survey has been completed for power loads in every municipality and a "staggering demand" program is being prepared to alleviate the possibility of a more serious curtailment scheme.

One cause of the greater power demand is the increased sale of electric heaters due to anticipation of a fuel oil shortage and for domestic use. Another major factor is the increased load caused by the rapid development of industrial plants.

The proposed plan is to ask householders and manufacturers to draw on power supply at different hours so as not to make any further demands on the existing 11a.m. and 4 p.m. peak hours.

It is understood the commission will present a detailed report to the Ontario government shortly and announcement is expected within 10 days.

MEATLESS DAYS IN PUBLIC EATING PLACES ABOLISHED

For First Time in Two Years Canadians Are Offered Meat Dishes On Tuesday, Friday

Ottawa, Aug. 15 (CP)—The major holdout of Canadian food rationing—meatless Tuesday and Fridays in public eating places—was lifted today and for the first time in two years Canadians were offered meat dishes, if they wanted them, on days they had learned to get along on fish, eggs and poultry.

The Prices Board announced last night the lifting of restrictions of serving meat in public eating places effective today, a measure re-established in July, 1945, to conserve meat for overseas shipment.

And although the Prices Board itself didn't say so, a meat board official said it was the direct result of increased hopes that the meat export picture Canada will ship 265,000,000 pounds of bacon this year and had hoped to ship 120,000,000 pounds of beef though the latter figure is now about half that estimate and the final beef export probably would be less.

It was thought too, that the meat lifting may have been partially influenced by recent numerous protests from restaurant operators and tourist bureau officials against the meatless days as a "unnecessary irritant." They had argued United States tourists were complaining about the meatless days.

The meatless days were tied in Canadian meat rationing which was lifted when Beefs and Bacons could not serve meat dishes.

The meatless Tuesdays were discontinued in February, 1946 when heavy slaughters resulted in a surplus of meat but in July 1945 overseas demands increased and slaughtering fell off and the Board declared both Tuesdays and Fridays as meatless days to conserve meat supplies.

Cooler Weather, Promise of Rain Will Check Fires

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Aug. 15 —(CP)—Cooler weather and a promise of rain today gave fire fighters to hope that within 24 hours or so they will have checked all the forest fires which earlier threatened millions of dollars worth of timber in the vast Algoma territory north of here.

There were a total of 35 separate fires in the great timberlands of the province seven of these were controlled yesterday and by night-fall the weary fire fighters were told Ontario Forestry Department supervisors believed that they had got the upper hand in all of the outbreaks.

The biggest fire on which absolute control had not yet been gained was that which is to be had near Cape Gargantua but headway was reported on this and other defence lines were holding all ground in.

Strenuous efforts during the last 24 hours enabled the crews to stop the spread of the Mikkisippi and Wawa area fires. Both outbreaks in the vicinity of rich timberlands, were understood to be just about under control.

Rain which fell over the outbreak near Quinlet Lake was also being held in check. Local rain was to be increasingly active and all men and equipment were withdrawn last night on the job until a thorough survey can be made by air again Friday.

Although the forestry men appeared to be winning their battle the fire hazard remained high in untouched areas and all precautions were being taken to avert new outbreaks.

But the firefighters, 170 men were deployed against the Chapleau district fires roughly 100 miles north of here.

BITING SNAKES JUST FOR FUN

These snake-biters are not to be confused with the many reptile ritualists. The sole purpose of this organization of local townspeople and business men it to perpetuate the historic ceremonial dances of the Smoki Indians. These live snakes are held in the mouths of the dancers as they go through the annual ceremonies.

THREE KILLED, TWO INJURED IN MINE BLAST

For a Time It Was Feared Another Major Disaster Had Taken Place

West Frankfort, Ill., Aug. 15— (AP)—Three men were killed and two others slightly injured last night in a mine explosion which brought hundreds of people to the shaft, fearing it was a third major disaster in southern Illinois within five months.

For more than two hours, a crowd of about 2,000 milled around the property of Orient Mine No. 2 in the belief that many of the night crew of about 100 men had been killed or trapped.

Not until about midnight when many workers came to the surface unaware of the blast, was the worst of the shock and two hour suspense dispelled.

The dead, members of a drilling crew, were Charles Clark, Walter Clements, Jr., and George Filkins, all of West Frankfort. The injured, treated at the mine for minor burns and sent home were Mike Stinkievicz and W. A. Blair, electricians.

Harold Walkgr, State Superintendent of Mines and Mineral said the blast "probably was a local gas explosion." One man, working in a neighboring entryway, said he saw a cloud of smoke and dust in the area but that he did not know there had been an explosion until he reached the surface after the night's work.

Mine spokesmen said only five men were in the blast area and that all other workers had been accounted for and were not injured.

The accident occurred between 8:30 and 9 p.m., mine officials said, in the Orient Mine of the Chicago, Wilmington and Franklin Coal Co. It is the largest one-shaft mine in the world, employing more than 1,100 men who produce about 10,000 tons a day.

In two recent southern Illinois disasters, 111 men were killed in an explosion at the Centralia Mine March 25. An explosion July 24 in a mine across town here from the New Orient killed 27 men.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Aug. 15 (CP) — Synoptic: Unsettled conditions is reported in most sections of Ontario this morning and scattered showers are reported in the Lake Erie and Niagara districts. Over the rest of Ontario temperatures have dropped somewhat as 24 degrees in Northern Ontario but in southern Ontario temperatures are still only a few degrees below those of yesterday morning. The cooler air over Northern Ontario will cover all sections of the province today bringing welcome relief from the heat wave of the past two weeks.

20 AMERICAN NATIONS SEEK MUTUAL DEFENCE

Conference Being Held in Brazil Aimed at Acts of Aggression

Petropolis, Brazil, Aug. 15. (AP)—Foreign Ministers of 20 American countries assembled today to write a historic treaty of mutual defence against aggression.

A preparatory commission representing all 20 countries planned a morning preliminary meeting to agree on a conference president and create five committees to act on items attending the conference.

The president was expected to be tall, scholarly Raul Fernandes of 72-year-old Brazilian Foreign Minister, delegate to the 1919 Paris Peace Conference and to the League of Nations.

Nicaragua was not represented at the conference. Her government, established by a coup d'etat last May has not been recognized generally.

The proposed treaty would provide for the first time for joint armed action to keep the peace in the western hemisphere. Senator Dutra has called it "America's Example to the World".

The treaty is being considered in line with a recommendation in the 26-power act of Chapultepec concluded at Mexico City, March 3, 1945, as a wartime defence measure.

The principal issues before the conference were:

1. Voting procedure under the proposed treaty. Argentina wants unanimity; the United States and seven other countries favors a two-thirds vote.

2. Economics. Argentina has announced she will propose a special Inter-American meeting to plan economic development and co-operation.

Cuba will demand that the treaty include protection against "economic aggression" as well as military aggression.

3. Fitting the regional American system into the U.N. framework.

Search for Small Civilian Aircraft

Halifax, Aug. 15 — (CP) — R.C.A.F. search and rescue headquarters reported today they had been asked to search for a small civilian aircraft missing somewhere north of the north shore of the St. Lawrence River since Aug. 10.

The plane, a Fox Moth, left Toronto Aug. 10 on a photographic mission, to Goose Bay, Labrador. It landed at Rapids Lake, north of Seven Islands and nearby Sheldrake, Que., on Aug. 10 but search and rescue headquarters had no information on the plane other than that it had two occupants.

TWO NEW NATIONS IN INDIA FORMED; GOVERNORS NAMED

Lord Mountbatten Will Rule Hindu India And Ali Jinnah Heads New Nation of Pakistan

New Delhi, Aug. 15 —(CP)— The vast sub-continent of India, though still tormented by bloody conflicts, split itself in two today and jubilantly joined the world family of politically-independent countries as two new and separate Dominions — Moslem Pakistan and Hindu India.

In New Delhi, Viscount Mountbatten, the last Viceroy of British India, who turned over the reins of authority to the Indians at the last stroke of midnight, was sworn in as the first governor-general of Hindu India, populated by most of India's 227,000,000 people.

In Karachi, Mohammed Ali Jinnah, the spare, monocled leader to whom the new Moslem Dominion owes its existence, was sworn in as governor-general of Pakistan, populated by most of Moslem India's 70,000,000 Moslems.

Meanwhile, in the Punjab, the great northern province to be split between Pakistan and India, flames of communal strife still raged. Hindus and moslems, and mostly Sikhs and Hindus — fought to the death. Whole sections of the city of Lahore were ablaze.

Unofficial reports fixed the death toll there since Wednesday morning at 153 and the number of injured at 136.

Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, Hindu leader who was sworn in today as first prime minister of Hindu India, Dr. Rajendra Prasad, president of the constituent assembly, were also congratulated by unruly celebrating mobs earlier in the day. But Viscount Mountbatten that the assembly had endorsed him as governor-general. They were not injured.

Encounters Hostility

Even Mohandas K. Gandhi, considered almost a saint by his followers, encountered hostility from a group of rioters in Calcutta. A gang of youths who resented his preachings of non-violence threw stones at his house, but he was uninjured and escaped them when he commanded, saying he would not leave his residence alive.

Lord Mountbatten, addressing the Hindu constituent assembly before being sworn in, paid tribute to Gandhi as "an architect of freedom," and to Nehru as a "great parliamentarian of courage and vision."

Pandit Nehru told Hindu India should it up on their Independence Day, beating drums, lowering their flag to half mast, placing it with their own, paradoxically through streets, singing and praying.

Quiet in Karachi

In the hot, crowded, dusty city of Karachi it was quieter. The streets decked with flags of their celebrating Thursday when Lord Mountbatten flew in from the capital to wish the new state of Pakistan "happiness and prosperity."

In he famous Burbar Hall of government house, which until today was the vice-regal palace, Lord Mountbatten stood before the new chief justice of India and kissed a bible to seal his oath, while members of the First People's Government of Free India, watched from seats heavily reserved for non-Moslems, and solely by major princes of the states.

The princes were conspicuously absent today, but Pandit Nehru who has been in and inside of many a British jail, was there.

Within moments after he was sworn in, Lord Mountbatten announced that he would ask to be relieved as governor-general March 31, 1948, at the end of the British plan for "orderly withdrawal" for completion of details in the division of India into Hindu India and Moslem Pakistan.

Heralded By Trumpets

Heralded by trumpets which rang through Burbar Hall, Lord Mountbatten and Lady Mountbatten, with a guard of honor, moved down a long, gold-carpeted, rich red carpet which led to two throne chairs where

Seven 'Executed' For Brigandism Hagana Announces

Acts of Violence Confined To Tel Aviv, Jaffa Areas

By CARTER L. DAVIDSON

Tel Aviv, Palestine, Aug. 15 — (AP) — Eleven Arabs were killed today in a bomb and gun attack on their shanty six miles from Tel Aviv. Hagana, the Jewish underground defence organization, announced it had executed seven of these in reprisal for "brigandism."

A Hagana communique said the dynamited house was headquarters "for the brigandism which has been responsible for recent attacks on Jewish settlements."

The toll of dead and wounded mounted steadily in the bloody racial clashes between Jews and Arabs in the area of all-Jewish Tel Aviv and its neighbor city of all-Arab Jaffa. Two more Arabs were found stabbed to death in the Sheik Murad quarter of Jaffa, and another Arab watchman was found dead on the Tel Aviv area.

Not Concerted Plan

The Palestine government, announcing new security measures in attempts to halt the conflict, said "there is no reason whatever to suppose that the riots are part of a concerted plan or that their ous outrages which occurred in the last few days are anything more than a series of disconnected incidents confined to the limited area where Arabs and Jews live side by side."

The Jewish agency asked the government to gain control of the situation before "irresponsible elements plunge the country into a bloody war."

The bullet-ridden bodies of four of the Arabs slain in the attack on the shanty were found sprawled in the yard. Two of them were Khyllin Arabs, one was from Nejaz, Saudi Arabia, and one was a Palestinian.

Seven other bodies were recovered from the debris by authorities.

Act of Reprisal

Hagana's communique said it was an act of reprisal ordered by the headquarters for the brigandism which has been responsible for the recent attacks on Jewish settlements in the plains of Sharon and for the attack on the Pan Hawaii Cafe (on the Yorkon River) on Sunday night."

At the cafe 20 men, described by Jewish sources as civilians, had been fired on and injured 16 others.

"Our soldiers executed the leader of the brigands and then executed six of those found in the house," the communique said.

Economic Plight of Great Britain Arouses Sympathy of Americans

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Aug. 15 — (CP) — Britain's economic plight today has aroused the sympathy of Americans generally, even those who normally like to blame "the English" for most of the world's ills and to oppose American aid.

Editorial opinion was open shorty between British and United States authorities on a reduction or amelioration of the terms of the $3,750,000,000 loan of less than two years ago.

There is little doubt that the American people are disposed to the possibility of a further loan because it is generally conceded that additional American aid will be necessary.

Within moments after he was sworn in, Lord Mountbatten announced that he would ask to be relieved as governor-general March 31, 1948, at the end of the British plan for "orderly withdrawal" for completion of details in the division of India into Hindu India and Moslem Pakistan.

Three Spot Fires Sighted Within Cheticamp Village

Halifax, Aug. 15 (CP) — The Cape Breton village of Cheticamp was tense today as three spot fires burned within sight and its 200 refugees from Pleasant Bay learned that the fire which forced them from their homes last Monday, again was advancing toward their half charred village.

Trucks and highways were throughout the island were standing by to assist in evacuations or movements of fire fighting equipment that might become necessary.

Though they had left their anchorage in Bay St. Lawrence the R.C.M.P. cutter French and the patrol vessel Brule were still ready to go to the aid of the 150 villagers that dwell along its shores. The two craft were ordered off Cheticamp.

The situation in the fire area remained critical in Bay St. Lawrence and Aspy Bay Settlements were thought to be out of danger, Temporarily at least, but the remaining homes in Pleasant Bay on the last count were said to be most seriously threatened. The fire destroyed 28 buildings on Monday.

Meanwhile, near Monastery in Nova Scotia, another forest fire at Antigonish, families were evacuating their homes as a ninety-mile gale fanned flames in spruce and hemlock forests. The evacuees took refuge in the St. Augustine monastery in the village.

The fire on Cape George, north of Antigonish town, changed course with a change in wind direction yesterday, and appeared, to threaten the villages of Tignish Cove.

The first death to occur as an indirect result of the forest fires in Cape Breton fire was reported from Cheticamp last night. Dr. Wilfred Leblanc, 56, died suddenly at dinner of a heart attack. He was said to have been overworked since the refugees from Pleasant Bay arrived in Cheticamp.

CHARGED WITH THEFT AND JOY-RIDING

Archibald Sutton, who sometimes gives his name as Archibald Stewart, who, it is alleged, snatched a purse containing $5 of their folding money as well as helping himself to a car, which he is said to have taken without leave.

He was fined $10 and costs in Police Court on Monday afternoon when one of his former alleged "victims" recognized him. A few minutes later he was escorted to the police station by a burly constable where he was formally charged with theft and joy-riding.

CONSTABLE FINDS $380 IN WALLET

Police Constable W. L. Bathwell patrolling his Front Street beat yesterday afternoon suddenly looked down and spied within a more or less amazement at a bulging wallet lying on the sidewalk near Chandler's store.

Picking it up he noticed that the "swag" was money and he hurried with it to the police station. Investigation revealed the wallet to contain $380. It was later claimed by its owner, a city resident and P. C. Bathwell is still scratching his head.

GIRL BELONGED TO TRAINING SCHOOL

Neighbors noticing the strange actions of a fifteen-year-old girl near a house on Dufferin Avenue finally called city police when they saw her enter the dwelling. The girl had been missing from the house and was taken into custody on the spot.

It was later revealed that the girl in question belonged to the Training School at Cobourg. Authorities of that town were notified.

MISS JOAN McCURDY TO REPRESENT COUNTY

Miss Joan McCurdy, member of the West Huntingdon Home Making Club will represent Hastings County at the annual 4-H Club Congress slated for Chicago this month.

Miss McCurdy's trip will be financed by the Hastings County Council. She will join a party of Ontario delegates at Toronto.

ELEVEN-FOOT CORN GROWN IN DISTRICT

Something of a record, especially in this year, has been established in corn growth near the Oak Hills Jewell district. Farmer residing in that district, has stalks that measure eleven feet in height.

TWO NICE FISH CAUGHT

The big ones are still biting, according to fish stories from weekend parts of the district.

Recently Thomas McConnell, Stirling, throwing his bait into Oak Lake was rewarded with a lusty jerk. Drawing in the line he was delighted to hear a five-pound largemouth bass flopping.

Bruce Bell also for Stirling, angling in the Trent River, reported a hard-fought battle with a large bass and after a tussle, succeeded in landing the big fellow into the boat. It weighed 5 pounds.

Unable to despatch the fish, Bell sat on it while his wife steered the boat to shore where a hammer was secured.

CONTRACT FOR 200 TRENTON HOMES GIVEN TORONTO FIRM

The Russell Construction company of Toronto has been awarded the contract for the building of two hundred houses in Trenton. The contract was confirmed Friday morning by officials in the construction Department of Wartime Housing, Toronto.

Housing material is now on the way to Trenton. Dwellings will be of various sizes, two, three and four bedroomed, with full cellar basements. The amount of rental for each unit will depend on the number of bedrooms in the unit.

PRESENTATIONS MADE ON 40TH ANNIVERSARY

Chief engineer Jess Baker, of the Trenton Fire Department and Mrs. Baker, celebrated their fortieth wedding anniversary in the spacious quarters in the fire hall on Aug. 1

Among the many and beautiful presents given them on the occasion was a chest of silver the present of their children.

Many Use Beach At Wellington For Swimming

Hot muggy weather of the past few days has been driving heat-seekers in droves to the swimming spots of the district. One of the most popular places has been the beach at Wellington where hundreds have been disporting themselves in the clear cool water of Lake Ontario.

Wednesday afternoon it was estimated that five hundred bathers of all ages enjoyed a dip in the lake. Thursday saw another large crowd and the popular beach will be thronged again over the weekend.

The contest in Prince Edward County as well as the Sandbanks is attracting large numbers from James Park, John Kane and Jones Boulevard. Beautiful floral tributes including those from relatives and friends bear silent testimonly to the esteem of the deceased.

Mrs. Rosebush will be missed for her kind hospitality and her home life leaves a wealth of happy memories to her family and to numerous friends. She was a member of River Valley Study group of the WMS and River Valley Institute but her home was her castle and all was there she welcomed many new Canadians and weary travellers. Her life is a challenge to others to carry on the torch.

LATE J. A. HINCHLIFFE

Wallbridge—There was a large attendance at the funeral of the late J. A. Hinchliffe which was held here last Wednesday afternoon. The service was in charge of the pastor Rev. C. W. Neelands assisted by Rev. H. E. Hills. A former pastor who gave a very fine comforting address. The choir gave most appropriate music.

The pall bearers were Messrs. Clem. H. Ketchison, J. N. Chisholm, S. N. Nicholson, Jas. Sine, H. Harris and Morley Phillips.

The funeral tributes were beautiful. The family have the sympathy of the community in their bereavement.

MRS. ALICE MARY HALL (Sidney Township)

Following an illness of some four months, Mrs. Alice Mary Hall, widow of the late W. J. Hall, died in Kingston early Friday morning. The deceased woman was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. Hall and was in her 77th year. She was born in Toronto and resided in Prince Edward County for 30 years before taking up residence on the first concession of Sidney Township 23 years ago.

Her husband predeceased her some years ago while surviving is one son Harvard Hall of Ameliasburg, Township and one brother William Edwards of Toronto and one sister, Mrs. A. (Rose) Hawkshaw of Toronto.

Well known and highly respected in the community in which she resided for many years, the deceased was a member of Bridge Street United Church and she took an active part in the work of the Women's Missionary Society.

The funeral notice is made elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. MARGARET A. COULTER

Following an illness of short duration Mrs. Margaret Ann Coulter, wife of William Henry Coulter of Foxboro, died at her home early Friday morning. The deceased woman was well known and highly respected in Foxboro and the surrounding district where she had resided for the past 29 years.

The late Mrs. Coulter was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Thos. Gilfillan and was born at Tweed 81 years ago. Before coming to Foxboro to live she had resided with her husband and family at Thomasburg.

Surviving include her husband, William Henry Coulter, one daughter Mrs. Oliver Christie of Foxboro, one son Raymond Grant Coulter of Belleville and four grandchildren, Rhita, Christie, Jane, Raymond and Ronald Coulter of Belleville.

The deceased woman was a faithful member of the Foxboro United Church. Women's Missionary Society, Women's Auxiliary as well as having been the First Noble Grand of the Rebekah Lodge at Foxboro and four-younger life she took an active part in all phases of the work of the church.

The funeral notice is made elsewhere in this edition.

Mrs. Hilda Treverton was a supper hour visitor of Mrs. C. Goodman's on Tuesday evening.

Miss Jessie Boldrick is home this week owing to the illness of her mother, Mrs. J. Boldrick.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Demyen (nee Hilda Treverton) who were married on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Treverton and sons were Sunday visitors at Mr. and Mr. Emerson's home, 2nd Thurlow.

Sympathy is extended to the family of the late Mrs. Bird who died in Belleville General Hospital Sunday night.

The condition of Miss E. Moulton is not greatly improved.

Miss Joy McKenzie left on Sunday to visit friends in Brockville, Ont.

498 Stricken With Polio Across Canada

Only one province—Prince Edward Island—was completely free of infantile paralysis today as the disease fell more steadily in Canada, striking hardest at Ontario and the four Western provinces, Prince Edward Island was hardest-hit of all provinces in 1946.

A Canadian Press survey counted 498 persons stricken with the disease across the Dominion and all but 27 were distributed in the area west of Quebec.

There were 15 deaths by polio reported across the Dominion so far this year. Three each were reported in British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Alberta and Ontario; two in Manitoba and one in Nova Scotia. Quebec's one no deaths reported in Quebec, New Brunswick or Prince Edward Island.

Notable was the fact that the Montreal area, Quebec, where poliomyelitis reached epidemic proportions last year, was comparatively free of the mysterious disease.

No new cases have occurred in either Nova Scotia or New Brunswick since Monday. There 16 and 10 cases have been reported respectively. The Montreal district has had 11 cases, but no deaths.

Six Cases in Ontario

Six new cases brought the Ontario total for the year to 87, about 15 less than at the same time last year. Two of the cases were in Hamilton with others in Toronto, Kingston, Peterborough and Markham.

Hardest-hit is the Dominion, Manitoba took steps to fight the disease by establishing a special government committee to advise on precautions against it. The total there is 135 with 47 in the greater Winnipeg district.

Four new cases in Vancouver raised British Columbia figure to 15.

Precautions were also being taken in Regina as the province reported 20 cases in the 24 hours bringing the total to 71. In the Capital a special clinic was set up for polio treatment, similar to one opened sometime ago in Saskatoon.

Research Program

Toronto,—With the annual Summer outbreak of poliomyelitis showing a decline, 151 scientists Canada plans were announced here for a research program on the disease financed by Canadian Life Insurance companies in cooperation with the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children.

Dr. Frederick Tisdall, chairman of the Health Committee of the Canadian Life Insurance Officers' Association and head of the Toronto Research plan is designed to provide a better understanding of how the disease is contracted and spread.

"There is no disguising the fact that polio of epidemic proportions may occur at any time and medical science and health officers are puzzled as to where it comes from and how it spreads," he added, "there is no known centre of infection."

FILES SUIT

Russell Birdwell, former press agent for multi-millionaire Howard Hughes, has announced that he is filing a $10,000 libel action against Noah Dietrich, Hughe's top aide. Dietrich testified before the Senate committee that Birdwell, after turning in a $1,500 expense account for "entertainment of Jesse James" in connection with Hughes' war plane contracts, admitted he had "padded" the expenses voucher and had not entertained Jones.

GIANT ANTS

Australian scientist Miss E. A. Clarke is shown in San Francisco, Calif., with some of the 3,000 giant ants she flew across the Pacific Ocean in a specially-equipped plane for the purpose of conducting tests on adaptability, altitude and climate. The size of the ants is compared with coins (bottom). Miss Clarke plans to return the ants to Melbourne for continued completion of tests.

Marmora

Temperature of 95 Reached Wed.

Marmora—The local peak temperature of 92 in the shade on Tuesday was eclipsed on Wednesday when from a temperature of 90 at 12:30 p.m., the high temperature of 95 was reached by 2 p.m. Most vendors of soft drinks who did not sell out on Tuesday evening, saw their greatly diminished stocks quickly disappear on Wednesday morning.

Chocolate milk was the only beverage of its kind available on Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Butler and Mr. and Mrs. David Wiley and daughter, Dolly, of Toronto, were recent guests of relatives here for a few days.

New guests at Rainbow Inn were Mr. and Mrs. Glen Kent and family, of Cleveland, Ohio. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hammond and family, of Lyndhurst, Que. Mr. Conniff, Toronto.

Miss Wilma Hannah is visiting for a few days with friends in Peterborough for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hannah spent the weekend with relatives at Almonte and Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hamilton visited the latter's mother, Mrs. W. J. Derry, who is ill at her home here, on Wednesday.

A miscellaneous shower was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Nobes (nee Laura Bell) in the Town Hall on Wednesday evening. The young couple received many useful and attractive gifts for which they thanked their friends. Dancing was enjoyed and lunch was served.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Rombough and daughter, Carol, left on Wednesday on a motor trip to visit relatives at Red Lake, Northern Ontario.

Charles Derry of Madoc, visited his mother, Mrs. W. J. Derry on Wednesday.

Mrs. H. P. Naylor, accompanied by Mrs. W. J. Naylor, of Madoc, left on Friday for a month's visit with friends and relatives at Paradise, N. S.

Mr. J. R. Gordon of Sudbury, renewed acquaintances at Deloro on Thursday.

Child, 2, Drowns In Milk Container

Rimouski, Que. Aug. 15 (CP) —A two-year-old child was drowned when it fell unnoticed into a container of milk at the home of its parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Caron of nearby St. Clement, it was learned here yesterday. The body was found by the parents after they had searched most of the day for the missing child.

DUST CLOUD OF METEORS

Chicago, Aug. 15 — (AP) — An astronomer who waited seven years for a "perfect sky" announced today he had discovered what apparently is a super-immense cloud of metallic dust around the giant double star Antares, the brightest star in the southern constellation Scorpio. The scientist, Otto Struve, termed it the first evidence of the possible existence of meteors near the stars.

Cheese Board Discusses Prices, Shipping Rates

The number of cheese offered for sale on the Belleville Cheese Board dropped last evening with 2,900 white and [illegible] colored cheese being sold. There were two prices for both colored and white cheese. The former sold at 25 1/2, and 25 5/16 cents a pound. The latter went at 25 1/8 and 25 1/16 cents.

Some discussion regarding the price of cheese as received by the vendors on the Belleville Cheese Board during recent weeks took up the business portion of the meeting. One of the salesmen wished to know why the price here has been 3/16 of a cent a pound less than on other boards in the district. He felt that vendors coming here to sell their cheese were doing so because this is the largest board in the country and consequently should set the pace for others.

Discrimination Hinted

This was followed with some discussion regarding the shipping of cheese and the variance in the price, f.o.b. factory, or shipping point. It was thought that the present system of shipping here, f.o.b. shipping point, placed an onus on the local cheese factories that is not felt by those in other districts. It was thought that the Dairy Products Board was discriminating against factories in this district by this ruling and that the Board was responsible for the lower price of cheese here.

Mr. McCreary pointed out that the contract with the British Ministry of Food called for cheese to be purchased f.o.b. shipping point. He stated that a federal and provincial subsidy of two cents each really raised the price of cheese to 29 cents a pound. He suggested that each factory decide for itself whether it would sell its make f.o.b. factory or f.o.b. shipping point.

Sell F.O.B. Factory.

The president asked if the members were willing to sell their cheese f.o.b. factory and the motion was carried. D. S. Cook purchased colored cheese at 25 1/8 cents and W. McCreary offered 25 1/2 cents with the understanding that a fifteen-cent cartage and service charge be levied. The members protested this bid as contrary to the rules of the Board. Mr. McCreary reduced his bid to 25 5/16 and purchased the remainder of the colored cheese at that price, f.o.b. factory.

The white cheese was sold at the initial bid of 25 1/8 cents, but when it was found that all the cheese had not been purchased, Mr. McCreary cleared the Board at 25 1/16, f.o.b. factory.

Present at the meeting were representatives of the provincial and federal departments of agriculture.

The amounts of cheese offered for sale by each factory are as follows:

TWO NEW NATIONS

the swearing-in ceremonies took place.

There, Lord Mountbatten, attired in the white uniform of a Rear Admiral, and his lady, in a gold satin dress with a golden laurel wreath in her hair, stood stiffly in the heat of the crowded room as he took the oath.

One by one, then, he swore the 14 Cabinet members, starting with Nehru.

In Karachi, Ali Jinnah, 70-year-old leader of the Moslem League, who also is president of the Pakistan Constituent Assembly, was given the oath of office by Sir Abdur Rashid, chief justice of the Lahore High Court.

Seven Take Oath

Seven ministers of the new Pakistan Cabinet recited the oath of office after Jinnah.

Jinnah declared:

"I, Mohammed Ali Jinnah, do solemnly affirm true faith and allegiance to the constitution of Pakistan as by law established and that I will be faithful to His Majesty King George VI, his heirs and successors, in the office of Governor-General of Pakistan."

The reference to the King emphasized the fact that Pakistan and its counterpart, Hindu India, still are Dominions of the British Commonwealth. That status, however, is temporary and both new states are free to cut their ties with Britain.

Jinnah's selection as Governor-General gives him virtually dictatorial control over the new state.

Marks End of Era.

The dawn of independence marked the end of an era, of an age of dying imperialism that perhaps had brought good and bad to India, that had inspired the writings of Kipling and had seen the formative period of Clive and the East India Company when sailing ships carried the riches of the East to England.

In New York the Times said editorially that the real significance of independence day was that it "marks the twilight of colonialism everywhere."

"The whole world of Kipling's imagery sinks into oblivion, the captains and the kings that strutted across the scene of India's history depart, one hopes, never to return," said the Times.

"Yet at its passing it is only fair to remember that with all its grandeur and its misery, colonialism, too, has performed an historic mission in bridging the cleavages between different civilizations, and that the British rule in particular has not been without benefit to the Indian people."

Cheese Boards

Increased Price For Butter, Eggs Is Predicted

[illegible] increased prices [illegible] consumption and a seasonal drop in egg production.

Butter was said likely to rise from its present local price of 57 cents to 65 cents a pound while eggs were expected to increase to 75 cents a dozen, an increase of nearly 15 cents.

On butter, an official of one large retail concern here said that "there is no doubt that sales have gone up even if people say they are using less. Hotels and restaurants are cutting larger slices—people are not satisfied with the sliver they got in rationing days."

With stocks in store at August 1 amounting to 58,000,000 pounds of butter Canada was said to be faced with the prospect of being 12,000,000 pounds below last year's figure when January comes round. The situation was believed entirely due to increased consumption.

Golden Typewriter On Display Here

The pearls of wisdom that fall from the pens of poets are gold plated when they are written on the Royal Gold Typewriter, which is now on display in the window of Schwab's Gift Shoppe.

The small card which accompanies the unusual machine says that "the jeweller's art has embellished the mechanical precision of the typewriter."

The machine is a full size typewriter, plated with 24-carat gold on all its exposed surfaces. Engraved on the exterior are the signatures of 1,064 Royal typewriter salesmen. The type is golden as well as the ribbon. The insured value of the machine is $5,000.

It was presented to the manager in charge of sales on the tenth anniversary of his occupancy of that position. Since then it has been exhibited in hundreds of cities and towns in Canada and the United States. It was first shown at the New York World's Fair in the "House of Jewels".

The machine operates with the ease and precision of a regular typewriter. While it is on exhibition, however, it is kept under a glass cover. It is so valuable that the Belleville police have requested Mr. Schwab to remove it from his window each evening and thus put no undue temptation in the way of local citizens harried by the shortages of regular types.

This machine will be on display every day for the next six days between the hours of 9.00 a.m. and 5 p.m., and each evening next week in the Armouries at the Kiwanis Carnival.

Butter Prices Continue to Rise

Toronto — Receipts continued light on the butter market and prices for both grades rose. The first grade Ontario make sold early in the day at 55 cents a pound, but at the close sales were reported at 55½ cents. Second grade butter was only nominal at 51½ to 52 cents. Western butter was offered at 56 to 56¼ cents a pound, though the west was asking 56½ or better.

LANDING

From my own memory, I'd say Col. Catto was right, for I remember going into the beach in broad daylight, far beyond our H-hour, which was supposed to be under cover of darkness just before dawn.

The reason for the delay of the Royals was an interception by German armed trawlers about seven miles off Dieppe.

I recall vividly how our flotilla was fired upon by these enemy craft in a brisk exchange of gunfire as we were running in on Dieppe.

This interception disturbed the course of the flotilla and for five minutes there was quite a bit of confusion, and the delay was about 45 minutes, I would estimate.

U.S. Rejects Russ Demand Big 4 Draw Jap Treaty

Washington, Aug. 15. (AP) — The United States has rejected firmly a Soviet demand that the job of drawing up a peace treaty for Japan be left to the Big Four Pacific powers—the United States, Britain, China and Russia.

The American position was disclosed in a note made public today by the State Department. It was delivered to Semen K. Tsarapkin, Russian Charge D'Affaires, by Charles E. Bohlen, Departmental Counselor, two days ago.

Weekly Livestock Review

Toronto, Aug. 15—(CP)—Cattle prices dropped 25 to 50 cents a hundredweight on steers and heifers, 50 to 75 cents on cows and bulls on the livestock market here this week. Calves were steady on vealers and lower on grassers. Hogs gained 25 cents while sheep and lambs lost 50 cents cwt.

Contigued hot weather reduced movement of beef to consumers and demand for killing cattle was slack even at the lower levels. Holdover was in the vicinity of 2,000 head, about half stockers. Top for weighty steers on Monday was $15.25 for two choice loads with nothing above $14.85 for the balance of the week. Butcher steers were mostly $11 to $14 with heifers $13.50 down. Butcher cows sold slowly at $8 to $10 with canners downward to $5. Bulls were $8 to $10 with a few at $10.50. Fed yearlings closed at $13 to $15.50. Stockers moved slowly at $9 to $11.50 with some up to $12. Plain to medium quality milkers and springers brought $85 to $140 each.

Calves sold at $15 to $16 for choice vealers with plains downward to $10. Thin grassers sold for slaughter at $8 to $8.50.

Hogs advanced to $22 for Grade A, $22.60 for B1 with sows mostly $16 dressed.

Lambs closed at $17 for good ewes and wethers delivered by rail and $16.50 by truck. Bucks were at a $1 discount and culls sold from $14.50 to $15 cwt. Sheep ranged from $4 to $6 for culls and up to $8.50 and $9 for good light ewes.

Weekly Summary of Receipts:

	Cattle	Calves	Hogs	Sheep and Lambs
This week	7,077	1,648	1,987	3,362
Last week	5,353	1,563	2,109	2,097
1947 to date	157,969	51,976	90,384	41,591
1946 to date	164,551	56,657	88,987	65,053
This week 1946	8,186	1,840	1,916	4,652

Poultry Receipts Lower

Poultry receipts were reduced here this week due to the recent recession in prices caused by the temporary closing of the British market, and the unusually hot weather, the Dominion Department of Agriculture reports in its weekly dressed poultry review.

There was, for a time, some evidence of nervousness, but this has largely disappeared and the feeling now is that there will be a satisfactory outlet for what supplies are available. Fowl arriving are of good quality but chickens are mainly milk-fed B or grade B. The trade could use much more heavyweight top-quality chickens than are arriving. Retail demand is typically quiet for this time of the year. There is, however, a good movement to points in Muskoka, Newfoundland and the British West Indies.

Two Years After

Two years ago today, August 14, came [illegible] sought peace [illegible] a great amount of [illegible] unity of outlook is still lacking. But the confidence which the [illegible] is not as great [illegible] is at peace and [illegible] the rights of other [illegible]. Japanese surrender brought peace and a measure of return to conditions such as they should be in a democratic world. Even if the realization of peace is not as great as people anticipated in the year 1945 when the two branches of World War II ended there is still peace, the carnage was ended and the opportunity was provided mankind to set to work to build a new temple of peace and harmony.

That is man's great task now — to bring nations together to understand one another and to bring about such a condition that no aggressor may ever again have the opportunity to shake the earth and threaten civilization.

Science Teaches Sacrifice

Men of science this week revealed to the world something of the length to which they will go to collect information in the war against mosquito pests. The disclosure came in a story from Churchill on Hudson Bay where the mosquitoes are very big and hungry and where patient scientists submit their bared arms to the stings of these annoying insects. Of course it is not for fun, but to get the secret out of the mosquitoes and so make possible a successful campaign against them.

Very materialistic men might think these scientists very foolish to suffer the torture of being bitten by the insects when everyone knows that mosquitoes are only fit to be swatted or done to death by spray. But the scientists know. They do this work for the sake of knowledge and discovery in the shadow of science are millions upon millions of fellow human beings who will benefit because the insects have been fed human blood by the self-sacrificing men of the entomological branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

What mosquitoes "think" no human knows, but they at least show that they enjoy biting people and besides it has been known that they can carry disease. That is reason enough for going after them with sprays. First the mosquitoes get a chance to bite the scientists before any spray is used in the area where the tests are being made. Then the sprays are used and the arms of the scientists are bared again. Bites under both conditions are counted and compared. The difference in number tells of the effectiveness of the sprays.

To these men of science for undergoing this disagreeable task Canadians must voice their gratitude. They assist the development of the insecticides which can pay back with a big dividend in the lessened number of mosquitoes.

Up in Hudson Bay the fishermen want to make good catches. But they do not want to be the prey of myriads of huge mosquitoes. So that's why the tests are taking place.

The present expedition is engineered to develop means of fighting or killing off the mosquitoes or keeping down their growth in numbers.

In this world which develops many enemies of mankind as well as friends there is a constant war to keep down the insects. Man must do his share and he has been doing something by cleaning up his premises and keeping flies and mosquitoes out of houses, by using insecticides against the pests. Man greets the birds back in the spring so that they may do a vast amount of work in the summer in killing off myriads of summer insects. In this case he has to offer his own skin and flesh to trick the mosquito to its doom.

'Fiery Cross' Summoning the Clans

"An Crois Tara," Gaelic name for the "Fiery Cross," ancient method of summoning the Scottish clans, has come to Canada for the first time so far as is known. Calling all Scots the world over to support "Enterprise Scotland 1947"—an exhibition of industrial design which opens in Edinburgh on August 25, the emblem has arrived at Montreal, aboard a British Overseas Airways Speedbird.

Representatives of Scottish societies in Montreal were present at Dorval to receive the "Fiery Cross." It is expected that the emblem will be taken, through the co-operation of T.C.A., by plane to Scottish communities in Toronto and possibly other cities in Canada.

The "Fiery Cross" is sent out again for the first time in 202 years. The last time was 1745 when it summoned clans to the standard of Bonnie Prince Charlie before his invasion of England.

When a Scottish chieftain wanted to gather his kinsmen in a sudden emergency, he made a cross of birchwood tied with leather thongs, seared the four edges with fire and extinguished them in the blood of a goat.

The blood was then delivered to a swift and trusty messenger who ran full speed with it to the next hamlet where he presented it to the leading clansman along with the name of the proposed rendezvous. Whoever received the cross had to send it forward to the next village with the same speed. So it passed as swiftly as possible through all the districts which held allegiance to the chief.

On this occasion, the cross is being dispatched to Scotsmen around the world. It will be received and passed on between Scottish communities in the British Commonwealth, including Canada, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand, and in the United States and in Europe.

After a picturesque ceremony in Edinburgh Castle, on August 6, during which Sir John Falconer, Lord Provost of Edinburgh, lit the cross in the presence of a large gathering of the Scottish Chiefs and their Clans, runners of the Scottish Athletic Association started the cross on its travels. Working in relays (the marathon runners left Edinburgh to the strains of massed pipe bands playing "Blue Bonnets Over the Border." They were taking the cross to London on the first stage of its journey around the world.

The first 25 miles of the course were covered in a single stretch by Duncan McNab Robertson, British Marathon Champion until 1939. Further stretches of 25 miles were covered by other Scottish Marathon runners who took part in the relay to London.

This Scottish custom of using a fiery cross to summon the clans dates back to the earliest period of Scottish history. First record of its use was when the Roman general Agricola tried to push north into Scotland in A.D. 83. The Scottish people were able to repel the Roman invaders because they were summoned with the Fiery Cross by their chief, Calgacus. The two-foot high "Fiery Cross" coming to Canada is an exact replica of the type used 19 centuries ago.

The B.O.A.C. pilot chosen to bring the "Fiery Cross" symbol across the Atlantic was tall, ruddy Captain Donald Anderson, 36-year-old Scotsman from Perthshire, now living in Montreal. He recently became the third pilot in civil airline history to fly the trans-Atlantic route 200 times. Since 1940, when Captain Anderson started ferrying bombers to Britain from Canada, he has run up an outstanding total of 3,500 flying hours over the North Atlantic. His log, which dates back to 1932, records 8,000 flying hours altogether. This makes him a member of the "Mileage Millionaires," a group of 100 British pilots who have flown 1,000,000 miles or more in command of aircraft.

Other replicas of the "Fiery Cross" were dispatched simultaneously from Prestwick and London airports to New York; Sydney, Australia; Auckland; Johannesburg; and Calcutta.

"Enterprise Scotland 1947" will be Scotland's shop window to the world. Organized by the Scottish Committee of the Council of Industrial Design, it will feature postwar goods designed and made exclusively in Scotland. It is to be held concurrently with the Festival of Music and Drama from August 25 to September 30 in the Royal Museum, Edinburgh.

Forty all-Scottish industries will be represented at the Exhibition in the widest range of industrial goods ever assembled in Scotland. Products to be shown include furniture, toys, ships, pottery, tartans, textiles and woollens, scientific instruments and domestic equipment.

GREATNESS

Sometimes I wonder can men rise
Too high to keep the lesser joys;
Become too wealthy and too wise
To play with little girls and boys?
Is fame so selfish that it claims
The time required for merry games?

Do great men sprawl upon the floor
In play, as humbler toilers do,
And once behind the homestead door
Dismiss their cares the evening through,
Or do the greatest now and then
Sigh for the joys of simpler men?

If to be great a man must lose
The right, at times, himself to be,
And all that gladdens life refuse,
I'd hold the price too steep for me.
I'd rather, safe at home once more,
Leave all my cares outside the door.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What is the Salton Sea?

The Salton Sea is one of the most remarkable bodies of water in the world. It is a large temporary lake in southeastern California formed in 1905 and the two years following by the accidental diversion of the Colorado River.

In the desert lying between the San Bernadino Mountains on the one hand and the Superstition and Chocolate Mountains on the other was a great salt marsh known as the Salton Sink or the Salton Basin.

This sink in the most depressed places was as much as 280 feet below sea level. Centuries ago, geologists believe, the region formed part of the Gulf of California and the waters of the Colorado River flowed alternately into the Gulf proper and into the Salton Sink. The Imperial Valley may be regarded as a sort of delta thus formed.

Previously to about 1893, when attempts were made to divert water into the region from the Colorado for irrigation purposes, the Salton Basin was largely a waterless waste. The river was tapped a few miles below the California-Mexican line and carried into the Imperial Valley by means of a canal or irrigation ditch some 45 miles long.

In 1905 the waters of the Colorado broke through an inadequately controlled intake and soon afterward the entire discharge of that great river was pouring into the Salton Basin. The Imperial Valley and much of the route of the Southern Pacific Railroad in that region were threatened with complete inundation. Salton Sink filled with water and formed a lake 50 miles long, ten to 15 miles wide, more than 75 feet deep in the deepest places and with a total water area of some 445 square miles. Wide and deep channels were cut through the silt and soft soil of the region for many miles.

President Theodore Roosevelt called upon the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to aid in trying to control the new channel of the runaway river, which if left to itself would flood 2,000 square miles of territory. After many futile efforts and the expenditure of some $2,000,000 the flow of the water was finally checked on February 11, 1907, and a line of protective levees was constructed to make the work permanent.

The new body of water formed in the old Salton Sink was called the Salton Sea. Although the water from the Colorado was fresh, the salt accumulation in the sink made the lake brackish. As the years passed the Salton Sea, the roughest inland body of water in the United States, was gradually reduced by seepage and evaporation until 1920 is covered only about 250 square miles, where it remained virtually stationary for many years.

Seek to Protect Ceylon Peacocks

Colombo, (CP)— Peacocks in the jungles of central Ceylon are to receive a new deal. It is expected the Cingalese government will shortly issue an order banning shooting of the birds.

Investigation will be made to determine the exact egg-laying season so that measures can be taken for protection of the birds which are threatened with extinction at the hands of game hunters from India and Australia.

Colorful tail coverts of peacocks are highly marketable. In India they are considered to have healing properties when breeze from fans made from the coverts is inhaled.

WAGE INCREASE GRANTED

Toronto, Aug. 14 — (CP) — Officials of the Noranda Mines Ltd., today announced wage increases of 10 cents an hour for miners working an eight-hour day and nine cents an hour for shopmen working a nine-hour day in their mines at Noranda, Que. The increases are effective Aug. 16.

Officials said the increase would bring the average wage to 95 cents an hour.

TOO MANY TONSIL OPERATIONS

A brief paragraph in the newspaper tells of the tragic outcome of a tonsilectomy in a doctor's office in the case of a four-year-old child.

The operation may have been necessary, I know nothing about the case. But it brings back to mind the dreadful struggle I had with myself to consent to the removal of extremely large tonsils and adenoids in the case of a 30-months-old little boy I loved dearly. There was no question in my mind about the great need of relieving the obstruction to breathing, but at the time I was haunted by the specter of "status lymphaticus" or the thymo-lymphatic state, for in infancy the little boy had had enlarged thymus, which seemed to shrink to normal size under X-ray treatment. I finally assented to the operation, which proved entirely successful, and the result was worth all the anxiety it had cost. The boy thrived and developed as a boy should. Seven or eight years later he required radium treatment to dispose of adenoid tissue about the opening of the Eustachian tubes which was impairing his hearing — and this treatment, too, proved entirely satisfactory. Either X-ray, for more diffuse adenoids, or radium or radium emanation for more localized adenoid tissue, is the method of choice when dullness of hearing or other ear trouble occurs in a young child as a consequence of adenoids. It is painless treatment.

That far too many tonsil removal operations are done even now—although the better physicians are taking a more conservative view of this dangerous operation—probably no one will venture to deny.

That too many surgical tonsillectomies fail to eradicate the septic focus or source of systemic trouble presumed to be in the tonsils is too obvious to most good doctors to question. Notwithstanding the brave talk of brass surgeons about "getting every bit of tonsil" the recent report of C. B. Sputh, Jr., M. D. and C. B. Sputh, Sr., M.D. (The Tonsil Stump and Its Removal, J. Indiana M. A., Aug. '46) gives a more accurate idea of the effects of this dangerous procedure. In no less than four out of every five patients subjected to tonsillectomy by throat specialists or surgeons of at least average ability, stumps of tonsil are left in the throat and the patients are often much worse off than prior to their operation, for the septic material in these tonsil stumps is sealed in by scar tissue so that it is likely to be absorbed into the system.

If your child has enlarged tonsils and/or adenoids, don't even consider an operation unless there is a clear reason for it — and no matter how large tonsils and/or adenoids may be, that in itself is no reason at all for doing anything radical. Wait till your physician tells you just how the enlarged tonsils and/or adenoids are damaging or menacing the child's health or development.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

No Offer

Kindly give me the name and address of the doctor who offers the ambulant or injection treatment of hernia.

(A.V.)

Answer — I would not recommend a doctor who offers anything, but on request, if you send a stamped envelope bearing your address, I'll name a doctor who is skilled in the method — if I happen to know of one in your community. I'm sorry that the task of revising my list since the dislocation of so many good doctors by the war has proved too much for me — so I know of such doctors only here and there.

Displaced

Have you a pamphlet on misplaced organs, such as dropping of the womb. If so, please send me one. Also what is your opinion of bloodless surgery for that?

(Mrs. T. W.)

Answer — Send stamped envelope bearing your address, and ask in writing (do not use a clipping, please) for pamphlet on Tumor, Displacement, Cancer. I know of no such treatment as you mention. In most instances so-called displacement of the womb requires no treatment.

Optimal Daily Ration

You repeatedly recommend vitamin B complex for heart trouble, but you do not advise what quantity.

(H. M. W.)

Answer — An optimal daily ration is the right quantity—that means say, three or four times as much as nutrition authorities consider the minimum requirement to maintain good nutrition and prevent deficiency manifestations. In the booklet CVD (for copy send twenty-five cents and stamped envelope bearing your address) I specify the daily ration—not dose, for it is food, not medicine.

TRACED BY NAME ON PENCIL

London, Aug. 14 (CP)—When Provincial Constable A. E. Reilly investigated an accident in which an automobile left the highway, rolled over and burned, he found the driver had disappeared. But the wily constable found a lead pencil bearing an advertisement of a local business establishment, and through it traced the driver—the owner's grandson, 18-year-old Jack Marshall. Yesterday Marshall was fined for reckless driving.

Learns Bowery Tattooing Art to Aid the Maimed

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY

New York, Aug. 15 — (AP) — Plastic surgery, which during the war remodeled thousands of shattered heads and bodies, has taken its share of art of tattoing out of murky waterfront parlors into the sterile air of hospital operating rooms.

Today, the electric needle, used to decorate manly chests and biceps with ships, flags, and the female torso, also is serving to restore the natural, subtle colors to faces marred by injury or birthmarks.

And a top tattoo artist is a New York sculptor, Frank Eliscu, who became a "professor" while serving as a staff sergeant during the war at the United States army's Valley Forge general hospital, where some startling plastic surgery was performed.

Eliscu went to Valley Forge to make clay models of faces and bodies which the surgeons could follow in rebuilding and patching up wounded men.

"I first made a mask of the patient," he said, "and then I'd make a clay head. From there I would build it up the way it would look after surgery. If a man had lost his jaw, I'd build a new chin. Then the surgeon would put in cartilage for a jaw bone and graft skin over it.

"I was working as a technician under Dr. James B. Brown, a St. Louis plastic surgeon who wanted to match the color of grafted skin with the original face skin. The grafted patches were almost always much lighter, and of course grafted skin never contains the vermilion of a lip."

Went to Bowery

Dr. Brown had done some experimenting with tattooing in his private practice, Eliscu said, and proposed to use it on soldiers. Eliscu volunteered to learn tattooing — and went to the Bowery where for months he watched the "professors."

"They were marvellous to me when they learned what I wanted and why," he said. "They told me their secrets."

Eliscu, although horrified by the unsanitary methods used in the Bowery, learned to apply the electric tattoo needle at a 60 degree angle, how to work over portions of skin and how to use color.

Technique of injecting color in the skin is important. If the needle plunged too deeply, the blood stream carries off the pigment. If it does not go deep enough, the color sloughs off with the outer layer of skin or epidermis. Eliscu's aim is to place the coloring in the grey layer of dermis, or true skin, which lies directly below the thin lining of natural pigment or melanin. This layer of pigment, incidentally, is brown.

Skin tone is a reflection of the blood red of the fatty subcutaneous tissue through the dermis and blended with the pigment layer. Individual skin colors are the result of the amount of pigment in the melanin layer. The skin of a Negro, for instance, contains the same brown color pigment as that of a Caucasian, but there is more of it.

West Huntingdon

West Huntingdon — Theo Misses Jean Haggerty and Joyce Wallace have entered the Ontario Business College in Belleville for further studies.

Mrs. Harry Lee of Belleville spent a couple of days this week with her sister, Mrs. Sandy McCurdy.

Mrs. Tom Rollins of Fuller spent a few days this week with Mrs. Don Fargey.

Mr. William Vandome and Dennyse are holidaying this week with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Seeley and other friends of Rochester, N.Y.

Mr. Gordon Lindsay of Emvro, Ont., spent the past week with his aunt, Mrs. J. C. Sills and her family.

Mrs. Peter Fargey left on Tuesday of this week to spend a couple of months with her son and daughter at Watrous, Sask.

Sarah and Arthur Wilson were supper time guests of Mrs. W. Vandome and Mrs. W. Seeley on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Angus Watt of Toronto, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Morley Haggerty.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Donnan and Helen of Trenton spent a few days this week with Mr. and Mrs. Melville Donnan and family.

Mr. Arthur Wilson had charge of the service in Ebenezer on Sunday evening. He was assisted by Mr. John Holden who offered prayer and Mr. Wesley Farrell reading the Scripture lesson. The Misses Marjorie Wright, Joyce Wallace and Joan McCurdy assisted with the service of song.

Mrs. Clarence Reid is visiting friends at Fort Erie this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Carr were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. Brummell at Norwood.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Reynolds of Foxboro were Sunday guests at Mr. Arthur Wilson's home.

Mrs. Geo. Barrager spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kingston, of Belleville, recently.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Fitchett were Mr. and Mrs. Rodger Hollinger of Barrie; Mr. and Mrs. W. Irwine of Tweed.

Something New in Sunday Services

A new venture in Sunday services proved very helpful and inspiring when the Moira United Church Sunday School officers and members paid a visit to the West Huntingdon and Chisholm Sunday School. Mr. Wesley Farrell, superintendent of the Moira Sunday School, presided for the service and is to be congratulated for the efficient manner in which the service was conducted.

The worship service of song was most inspiring and the pupils have already made history for their school by the manner of their singing with Miss Evelyn Emerson at the piano.

Mrs. Mack and Mrs. Nelson Welsh contributed a duet.

The various classes were taught by the teachers of the Moira chool, namely Mrs. Frank Herity, Mrs. Gil Thompson, Mrs. Nelson Welsh, Mrs. Mark and Mr. Wesley Farrell. No doubt other similar exchanges of school visits will be held on the newly organized circuit this year.

Salem

Salem—Mrs. Chas. McFarlane Melrose and Mrs. A. Cameron, called on Mrs. Jas. Sills and Mr. Fred Robinson recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davis of Melrose, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hagerman to Alexander Bay via Ivy Lea Bridge last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Leslie and Leslie Haight spent Sunday with Mrs. Walter Cass, Northport.

Ronnie Hagerman is spending his holidays with his aunt, Mrs. Russell Wemp, at Bath, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burford and family, of Picton, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sherman.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Reid and family of Roslin, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. Northport, Mrs. Clifford Hagerman.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Robinson spent the supper hour on Sunday with Mrs. Homer Demille, Melrose.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hagerman were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hammond Trent Road.

Ye Papers of Old Had Elixirs Bold

Halifax, (CP)—Found—a remedy sure cures in three to six hours! At least that was the claim made by a firm in the Halifax Evening Recorder and all-weekly Times of July 27, 1871.

The yellowed, 76-year-old newspaper was turned up in a Halifax home recently and provided a neat comparison between papers of today and yesterday.

The Evening Recorder of 1871 had no news on its front page. Instead, Page 1 consisted entirely of newspaper advertisements, a practice still prevalent among some papers in the British Commonwealth.

The ads of eight decades ago extolled an "elixir of life to cure a cold in three to six hours" and "tooth picks in turquoise and bone and quill."

"Japanese silk dresses" and a medicine which, it was claimed, could cure one of "asthma, bronchitis, consumption, blood diseases and a host of other still-unsolved ailments" in no time at all. The preparation obviously has waited a long time for recognition.

Job advertisements were attractive. Hotel barbers were offered from $8 to $11 weekly and laborers $1.20 a day.

Today's househunter would shed a tear over the "houses for sale" department which listed five residences, all with 14 to 15 rooms, while some had barns, milk houses, gardens, dwellings and, in one case, a sawmill.

The news pages presented a no more cheering aspect than those of today. A conference was in progress between the Czar of Russia and the German Emperor; Bismarck was boasting Paris; French elections took place in India' 300 were dying daily in a plague in Persia, and there were outbreaks of yellow fever on a ship bound for New York and smallpox in Antigonish, N.S.

Only the typographical differences in size and makeup was the sports section, which consisted simply of an item on cricket.

Only 150 Medical Students to be Accepted

Toronto, Aug. 14 —(CP)— Due to overcrowding and lack of facilities, a large number of hopeful students will probably be refused admission to this term's University of Toronto medical school a T. Laidlaw, assistant registrar, said last night. Only 150 applicants would be accepted from what was expected to be 300 wishing to enter medical school.

UNABLE TO GET ROOM, FALLS ASLEEP IN THEATRE

Orallais, Neb. Aug. 14—(AP) —There's a man sleeping in the aisle," a couple told usher Todd Gile as they left the theatre here.

Gile had no trouble finding the slumberer, a sober man who explained apologetically that "I'm terribly tired and haven't been able to find a room in town." She dozed off and fell out of his chair and into the aisle without waking he explained further.

Gile invited him to start his nap all over again in a chair but the embarrassed man declined.

LABOR LEADERS INVITED TO TESTIFY

Washington, Aug. 14 (AP) — President Phillip Murray of the C.I.O. and William Green, president of the A.F.L., today were invited to testify Sept. 11 before a Senate small business sub-committee investigating the steel shortage. Executives of the big steel firms will also be asked

Here's a NEW KIND OF TIRE

DESIGNED DIFFERENTLY!

ENGINEERED DIFFERENTLY!

BUILT DIFFERENTLY!

WHAT A TIRE! It's new in construction : : : new in brilliant performance on the road. To make it, B. F. Goodrich developed brand-new rubber compounds—rubber so sensationally long-wearing and cool-running it was guarded for years as a close military secret!

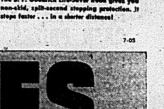
New types of cord and new body construction make the New B. F. Goodrich tire 35 per cent stronger! The famous Life-Saver tread (that wipes wet pavements dry) has broad road-contact area—gives you quicker starts, surer, safer stops—and longer trouble-free mileage.

But proof is more convincing than words. On police cruisers, taxi cabs, in testing grounds and in millions of miles of allstypes of service . . . this great new B. F. Goodrich tire has proved itself. It has outworn—with ease—the finest quality pre-war tires ever built.

Get this safer, longer-mileage tire for your post-war motoring. It's available—NOW. Don't delay. See your nearest B. F. Goodrich dealer today!

Makers of Tires, Batteries, Automotive Accessories, Rubber Footwear, Industrial Rubber Products, and Koroseal

LIFE-SAVER TREAD



The never-ending spiral bars of the famous Life-Saver tread act like a windshield-wiper — sweep wet pavements dry for the rubber to grip. You stop faster!

You can actually light a match on the backs of the amazing Life-Saver tread—so dry does it sweep even wettest pavement! That's proof of skid-resistance!

Split-second stops on wet pavement are sometimes necessary. Poorly designed or badly worn treads lengthen your stopping distance.

The B. F. Goodrich Life-Saver tread gives you non-skid, split-second stopping protection. It stops faster . . . in a shorter distance!

WEDDINGS

STRIMAS—ALEXANDER

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel was the scene of a very pretty wedding, Monday, August 4th, when Rev. Monsignor Nicholson united in marriage Hilda Loyola, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Alexander of Belleville, with Charles Michael, son of Mrs. Strimas of Midland, Ont., and the late Mr. Strimas.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of poudre blue faconne sheer, with white accessories, and carried a bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Patricia Doolan, her sister's only attendant, was attired in a beige dress with brown accessories, and carried Talisman roses.

Mr. John Strimas, was groomsman for his brother.

Wedding music was played by Sister M. Bibianna, and Miss Sharon Lacy was the soloist.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where Mrs. Alexander received the guests, assisted by the mother of the groom.

For travelling to Toronto, Owen Sound and Midland, the bride chose a yellow suit with brown accessories.

Out-of-town guests were from Toronto, Kingston, Owen Sound and Midland.

LEIGH—OSTRANDER

Picton—Flying from Amsterdam, Holland, for the event, Dean R. Ostrander was married the afternoon of August 16th, in Picton United Church to Lola Leitila, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. N. S. Leigh. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ostrander, Picton, and a former member of the R.C.A.F. and now with the Royal Dutch Airlines in Holland. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father and Rev. J. U. Robbins.

A. A. Benvie was at the organ and Miss Florence Barber sang. Given in marriage by her brother, Herbert Leitigh of Coe Hill, the bride wore a gown of ivory slipper satin with Alencon lace with circular train. Her long veil of ivory tulle fell from a chaplet of orange blossoms and she carried Briarcliffe roses.

Matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. W. R. Mumby of Lindsay, and the bridesmaid, Miss Gladys Leigh of Lindsay. They were gowned alike in aqua silk jersey with gold sequin trim and shoulder veils of blue net. They carried roses.

Norman Lehigh of Coe Hill, was tranbearer. Donald Ostrander attended his brother as groomsman. Ushers were Beaumont Lehigh of Bancroft and Victor Lehigh of Lowell, Mass., brothers of the bride, and Keith MacDonald.

At the reception following, the bride's mother was in queen's blue faconne crepe and the groom's mother in rose bengaline cord. They wore rose corsages Mr. and Mrs. Ostrander left for a trip to Ottawa, Huntsville and Algonquin Park and will later fly to Holland to take up residence in Amsterdam.

FLINDALL—FURVIS

A summer wedding of considerable local interest was solemnized at three o'clock on the afternoon of August 9th, in Lime Lake United Church, Marlpark, Ont., when Rachel Jean, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Furvis, Marlbank, became the bride of Vernon, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Flindall of Belleville. Rev. Kenneth Crawford, B.A., of Enterprise, was the officiating clergyman, assisted by Rev. C. Ramsay of Roblin, and wedding music was played by Mrs. Earl Alexander of Marlbank. Milton McTaggart of Tweed, as soloist, who sang "I Love You Truly" during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was becomingly gowned in white embroidered Swiss organdy, featuring a fitted bodice, with a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves ending in points at the wrists, and a floor length full skirt. Her fingertip veil fell gracefully from a gathered halo headdress, and her bouquet was of white roses and bouvardia.

The attendants, Miss Vera Flindall, sister of the groom, as maid-of-honor and Miss Dorothy Furvis of Rochester, N.Y., a cousin of the bride, as bridesmaid, were gowned alike in pink silk and pink taffeta respectively. Identically fashioned with sweetheart necklines and tiny puff sleeves on fitted bodices, and full floor length skirts. They wore matching headdresses with embroidered lace trim. Miss Flindall carried a cascade of pink carnations, and Miss Furvis carried pink and blue carnations.

Miss Pamela Bowyer of Toronto, a brother of the bride, ably performed the duties of groomsman, and the ushers were Ted Bishop, Flindall, brother of the groom, and Mr. Harry Furvis, Marlbank, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where Mrs. Furvis received the guests in a lime green silk gown, with black lace trim and matching accessories. She was assisted by the groom's mother gowned in aqua green with matching brown and white accessories. Mrs. Purvis wore a corsage of yellow roses and Mrs. Flindall wore Talisman roses and sweetpeas.

For travelling to Beaver Lake, Mrs. Flindall changed to a suit of turquoise blue, with brown accessories, and she wore a corsage of yellow gladioli and sweetpeas.

The groom's gift to the bride was a strand of pearls, to the groomsman, a fountain pen, and the ushers, wallets. The gift of the bride to the groom was a pen and pencil set, to the bridal attendants, silver bracelets.

Out-of-town guests were from Rochester, N.Y., Kingston, Toronto, Peterborough, and Hamilton, Ont.

Christ Church Choir Boys Enjoy Outing at Lake

With the co-operation of the congregation, and as a token of appreciation for their regular faithful service, the choir boys of Christ Church were entertained to another outing on Wednesday night. At 6 p. m., the cavalcade of cars proceeded to the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Alf Evans at Roblin Lake. The first hour was occupied with swimming and was followed by water sports. Gerald Bongard and Jeff Burshaw explained the two ball teams with Bongard's team winning the laurels. Refreshments consisting of hot dogs, "cokes" and ice cream were served by Mrs. Evans, assisted by Mrs. A. Simpson and Mrs. L. Kells. Mr. Arthur Simpson led the group in a grateful appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Evans for their hospitality. The general arrangements were in charge of Mr. Lionel Burshaw, president, with Art Young arranging the transportation and other details. Mr. Gordon McCully Black, organist, supervised the swimming.

Women's Activities

WALLBRIDGE W.M.S. AND W.A. MEETING

The August meeting of the Wallbridge W.M.S. was held in the home of Mrs. Charles Colley Wednesday afternoon with a good attendance, when the president, Mrs. K. Kingston was in charge.

Mrs. L. J. Ketcheson assisted with the opening exercises, with several members giving short Scripture readings.

The theme, "The Nations Get Together" was discussed and an introduction to the Charter of the United Nations was read. The president read an interesting article on the subject and the meeting closed with prayer.

The W. A. meeting followed with Mrs. L. J. Ketcheson conducting.

During the business period Mrs. R. Fisher, Mrs. Clare, Mrs. Cjisholm and Mrs. Cecil Sine were appointed as a visiting committee for the month. Mrs. C. Sine invited all to her home for the next meeting.

Mrs. Elliott closed the meeting, and Mrs. Colley was tendered a vote of thanks for her hospitality.

IVANHOE W. I.

The Ivanhoe branch of the Women's Institute held its August meeting at the home of Mrs. Morley Haggerty, with a fair attendance. The president, Mrs. Wm. French, presided and read a delightful poem. Community singing from the Institute Song Book was followed with the usual form of opening exercises.

A helpful paper on "Publicity" was read by Mrs. Hugh McMillan, outlining ways in which members may assist in publicizing Institute work.

Mr. Arthur Wilson, who was the guest speaker for the afternoon, gave a very fine address on the subject, "Visions", and Miss Margaret Haggerty delightfully rendered a vocal solo.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Haggerty served delicious refreshments; and Mrs. J. C. Sills voiced the appreciation of those present to the ladies responsible for a very interesting program.

Wallbridge

Wallbridge—Farmers are taking advantage of the dry weather to get hay curred and fall wheat threshed. Spring grain cutting has also commenced.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Alexander and family of Markham, accompanied by the latter's father, Rev. T. Hobbs, were visitors on Sunday at Mr. and Mrs. F. Harris last Tuesday afternoon and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Sine and family of Halloway were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Sine.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Bushlli and family and Mr. M. Joyce, Belleville, called on Mr. and Mrs. W. Alexander on Sunday last.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Harris were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Pound in Camilton, on Sunday.

Mrs. R. Hamilton left Tuesday for Toronto on Wednesday after attending the funeral of the late Mr. J. Al Hinchliffe and spending a few days with relatives there.

Mrs. Harris, Belleville, spent the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Harris.

Bottle Parties In Cathedral

Johannesburg, —(CP) — The doors of St. Mary's cathedral here have been closed open during the day for the use of worshippers and others who wish to rest, but now entrance can only be made through one door which is under surveillance. The reason is "hobo" bottle parties.

Speaking at a recent public meeting on the crime wave, W. A. Palmer, Dean of Johannesburg said care was being taken by hobbs alone to attend to their needs and addresses of people who purchase liquor, but he could not help thinking of the countless numbers of empty sherry bottles that are found up in St. Mary's Cathedral, especially in the galleries.

The cathedral precincts that frequently used by hobos, who have made no attempt to conceal themselves and have been discovered sitting in the front seats The grotesque of the undetected drinkers has been shown by the empty bottles picked up. So little respect has been shown for the cathedral precincts that several furnishings of the altar have been stolen.

"The cathedral door will never be shut," said Dean Palmer, "if the worst comes to the worst a superintendent will be employed to watch."

STOCK CREEK WITH TROUT

Niagara Falls, Aug. 15 (CP)—A stream to make any fisherman happy was seen here the past week-end when 5,000 trout were stocked creeks in the area with 5,000 trout. The fish are supplied annually by the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests from the hatchery at Normandale.

QUAKER Puffed Wheat SPARKIES

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Tuxedo Kid

When I teaches they stay teached. And who would wanna hear me again? So mostly newies were in my Fall term series in cities where I had appeared before.

At one spot, however, a fan told me: "I came again to see if you had any changes." She's now around here. Hmm. Hmm items to go simultaneously changeless, it is disgustingly clean cut."

The only time I seem to hear from readers even is when an error appears in my holm. Like a period inside down. If it were not for the kind of factual editors might forget that I exist.

Once was shown this hand:

♠A 7 9 5
♥K 8 7 2
♦J 9
♣Q 10 2

It opened with a spade and partner bid two hearts. The two heart response is a takeout to a new suit. Therefore, it is forcing for one round. The hand you see must bid again.

This hand should now bid two no-trump. I said. Came letters to ask if there was a change in my T-A-N rule. It is the order of the choice of bids: takeout first, assist second, no-trump last.

Certainly not any changes. An opener shows five tricks. Each increase in number shows another. Unless an opener has more than five tricks no-bids, he did or he should be ♦ raise in number.

This hand contains five tricks, and no more. It should not raise. If it must bid, it must bid. But any bid it makes must not be a raise in the last partnership number.

To takeout to the biddable club suit would require an increase in number over two diamonds. Can do. To assist in hearts would be a raise for three hearts. No can do.

The two heart takeout is forcing for one round, remember. Being forced to bid again, what is left that needs no raise? Only a bid of two no-trump. Well, do it, then.

Tricks are what you must take. Have the number you say.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 15 —(AP)—Burt Lancaster and Edmund O'Brien, two fair-haired boys at U-I, are lined up in competition for the lead role in "All My Sons" from the Pulitzer Prize play of that season.

Both are vying for the role which Arthur Kennedy created on Broadway and it looks as though Burt is going to be the victor.

Already set in the cast are Edward G. Robinson and Mady Christians.

Impersonation.

Joe E. Brown learned from the State Attorney's office in Chicago that a man who has been posing as his son for some time has been captured in Dallas. The impersonator has "reportedly been bilking women in several states and was sought widely by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. . . .

Irene Dunne's is one actress who worries about what the critics write about her performances. Her last two films have been on the stage hits "Life With Father" and "I Remember Mama" and from now on she says "I'll only do original stories for the screen." She said it invites too much comparison to play a role already created by a stage actress.

Eve Arden did a great job in "Stage Door" at the Belleville Playhouse and it should help awaken renewed interest in her fine comedy talents. The Hollywood Hour advertised Tuesday, "Coming Aug. 22 — Margaret Truman, Soprano." . . . Bette Davis will have no commuting trouble when she starts "Winter Meeting" next month. An apartment has been built for her at Warners.

Bound Roasting . . .

At Joliet, got a sound roasting from topmost members of his profession at a stag "Roastmaster" dinner given in honor of Bill Cahn.

Frank Sinatra claimed Al was a tribute to every clean-cut young American "Midwesterner," and Jack Benny, referring to his services as a roaster star, said "I need Jolson like I need a Dionne."

Irving Berlin sang a special song written for the occasion, Jolson, Edgar Bergen and George Murphy also performed.

The ageless (he says it's 50, but friends say 60) Al Jolson, Joliet person . . . retaliated by singing four songs. Said he: "This is one thing I'm glad I'm not going to do with." Parks was not present.

Brief Review.

"Life With "Father" (WB-121 mins) is a highly competent film version of the Clarence Day memoirs. Nothing is more effective if the story were less familiar. But even so, it packs a large amount of comedy. Most of the author's profundities are missing, of course, but William Powell plays him to the hilt. His fine performance is ably backed by the perfect foiling of Irene Dunne.

BEST SAND-LOT PLAYERS STAGE ALL-STAR GAME

Oscar Grimes and George Bennington Will Manage the Two Squads

Toronto, Aug. 15 — (CP) — Thirty sand-lot baseball stars made their bid for fame today as they clashed in the game which climaxed the week-long baseball school sponsored by Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League.

More than 300 hopefuls started in the school last Monday with manager Elmer Yoter of the Toronto entry keeping a watchful eye on the doings. The top 30 boys were chosen to form two teams, on whose showing depends the award of the two four-round "scholarships" promised by the Leafs.

The chosen pair will be selected by a board of sports writers, radio announcers and Leaf players. The two winners get an all-expense trip to Montreal with the Leafs Aug. 17 to 20, during which they'll wear Toronto uniforms and on the bench as Leafs battle the Montreal Royals, and take batting practice with the clubs.

In the wind-up game Captain Oscar Grimes of the Leafs is managing the "Heat Waves," with catcher Gene Desautels as coach. The "Humidity Hot Shots" have outfielder George Bennington as their manager and Jack Kaiser (Hot Potato) Hamlin, veteran Toronto pitcher, as coach.

The "Hot Shots" are entirely Toronto sandlot products, but on the "Heat Waves" there's four young prospects from out-of-town — 17-year-old Ross Harvey, mayor of Mimico, youngest hurler in the contest; Bob Edgar of Bowmanville, also a pitcher; Arnold Karrys, 18, catcher from Lindsay, and outfielder Lorne Doolittle from Aurora.

Three players who rated positions on the two teams were unable to play because of previous commitments — Two of them — Jerry Wilson, 17, and Ross Lehman, 18, Brantford outfielders have returned home but have been invited to work out again with the Leafs.

3 CANADIANS ONE AMERICAN IN GOLF FINAL

Guy Rolland Will Play Stranahan and Ezinicki Will Meet Martell

By W. B. WHEATLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Royal Quebec Golf Club, Beaconsfield, Que., Aug. 15 — Guy Rolland, the amiable French-Canadian golfer from Montreal Level-Sur-Le-Lac, took over the giant-killing job today in the Canadian amateur golf championship in a bid to turn back the last American threat and put himself into an all-Canadian final.

He was driven against Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, top-ranking American amateur, while Bill Ezinicki of Toronto and Gerry Martell of Edmonton met in the other semi-final.

Today Roland has his chance not only to peep the title north of the border, but to bring it to the heart of French Canada. He knows the Royal Quebec course well. It was here in the upper Quebec amateur title last year, only to lose in the last month at Royal Montreal.

The 36-hole route gap proved just the guy's liking. He said last night he planned to play against par—and Stranahan—tomorrow.

In yesterday's play, the American stylist had won the only medal scores for his first nines on the 36 and the 37 par 72. But it was the only second nine that Stranahan was called upon to finish. He took a three-over-par 37.

No Easy Rounds

Rolland had no easy rounds yesterday. In the morning he finished struggling through extra holes to defeat amateur tournament veteran Phil Farley of Dorchester Seaboro, 3 and 2, and in the afternoon was fought to a standstill by Allan Lowe of Winnipeg, finishing at the 1th with a one up advantage.

Stranahan, comfortably ahead with a six-hole lead over Mike Torza of Hartford, Conn., in the fifth round, had to battle down the aplomb when Torza rallied on the last nine and took five holes in a row, two of them by Torza's bid and the match ended on the 18th with Stranahan one up. In the other afternoon Stranahan defeated Gil Walker of Detroit, Mich., Country Club 4 and 3.

Red Phelan, low-scoring champion of Toronto Rosedale Club was on the verge of a real upset in the morning round against Martell. Phelan, carried the champion six holes before Martell began to get hot.

Martell took on Jack Nash, of London Hunt, in the afternoon, winning 3 and 2 without losing a hole on the back nine.

Ezinicki's first victim yesterday was Bill Campbell, Quebec player from Montreal Whitlock, 3 and 2. He was given a hard battle in the afternoon by Jack Sinclard of Hamilton Golf Club. Ezinicki finally won out by taking the 18th hole with a par four and the 17th with a par four to win 2 and 1.

UNUSUAL CATCH AT MIDNIGHT

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 15—(AP)—A remarkable fish story, with caged evidence to support it, was circulated today by Jack Greenberger.

He went angling at midnight, he said, casting his line with jitterbug plug, when suddenly there was a big splash. Thinking it was the pole was almost wrenched from his grip.

Excitedly he reeled in, peered and recoiled — from a foot-long wise owl with a 36-inch wingspread flapping tately on the hook. The bird is now recuperating in a cage.

TORONTO LEAFS DROP INTO CELLAR BY LOSING TWO

Syracuse Chiefs Led by Hank Sauer Win by Scores of 5-1 and 5-2

(By The Associated Press)

One of the reasons Montreal Royals have led the International League all season is their ability to come back after apparently suffering a knockout blow.

Al Gerheauser blanked the Chiefs on five hits last night after the Giants had cut the Royals' lead to one game by winning the opener 5-1 behind the four-hit pitching of Texas Jack Rauz. A ninth victory in the nightcap would have pulled the Giants to within four percentage points of the Royals.

A crowd of 13,233 fans, including presidents Horace Stoneham of New York Giants and Branch Rickey of Brooklyn Dodgers who were guests of Syracuse, witnessed the opener.

Syracuse's third place Chiefs dropped Toronto Maple Leafs into the cellar by sweeping a twin bill from the Leafs 5-1 and 5-2.

Southpaw Jim Prendergast registered six walks in gaining his 18th victory, highest mark for any pitcher in the league since 1945, in the first game and Al Murtaiski scattered nine hits in winning the windup. Hank Sauer of the Chiefs boomed in each game to boost his pace-setting total to 46.

The Leafs dropped two games behind Baltimore Orioles who moved into seventh place, a half game behind the sixth-place Rochester Red Wings, by trouncing the Wings 7-2 and 12-3.

Johnny Podgajny and Bob Kuzava pitched to victory as the Orioles pounded Rochester pitching for 30 hits including 21 in the nightcap. Howie Moss smashed his 41st four-bagger of the season for the Orioles in the second game.

Buffalo Bisons divided a doubleheader with Newark Bears winning the first after 6-6 ties but dropping the second game 6-5.

KINGSTON GIANTS STILL IN RACE FOR CONGRESS CUP

Stratford, London, Waterloo and Kingston to Playoff for Trophy

London, Ont., Aug. 15 — (CP) — Windup of the Canadian Cup, outside looking in today with four other Southern Ontario senior sandlot teams remain in the running for the Canadian Congress Baseball Tournament championship.

The Queen City, under the banner of Riverside Grads, fell by the wayside last night when they took an 8-7 batting administered by a 15-hit attack by Stratford Nationals.

It was the second consecutive loss for the Grads while Stratford wound up with two wins against one loss thus far in the round robin tourney.

Windsor Senorettes were eliminated the previous night by the same Stratford squad.

The other teams still in the fray are London Majors, Waterloo Tigers and Kingston, boasting one victory apiece in one game playoff.

A heavy rain which halted last night's Grads-Nationals tussle in the seventh inning washed out the scheduled second round meeting between London and Waterloo. The game was carried over.

A tidy relief chore by Vallancourt, lanky Nationals righthander, put the finis for Toronto's hopes. He white-washed the Grads after they had scored both their runs off southpaw Bob Keegan in the first inning.

Catcher Irish Miskimmons had a perfect night, slamming out four for four, crossing the plate with one run. Hann, Ratliff and Males accumulated a pair of singles each.

Only Grads to garner more than one hit were Joe Spring, who switched from second base to pitcher in a last-ditch effort to stem the Stratford spree, and Cudmore, each with two safeties.

There was little doubt of the outcome once Stratford slammed out five hits for three runs in the second to send a first-inning singleton. They added four more in the sixth and then coasted the rest of the way.

Reid and Leckie To Retire Sept. 1

Ottawa, Aug. 14 (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton announced today that Vice-Admiral H. E. Reid, chief of the naval staff, and Air Marshal Robert Leckie, chief of the Air Staff, will retire Sept. 1 and be succeeded respectively by Rear-Admiral Harold T. W. Grant and Air Vice Marshal W. A. Curtis.

Rear-Admiral Grant now is Chief of Naval Administration and Supply and will be promoted to the rank of vice-admiral on taking over his new post. Air Vice-Marshal Curtis will be promoted to the rank of air marshal.

The announcement confirmed a Canadian Press forecast of August 9.

Brooklyn Dodgers Gain Full Game on St. Louis Cardinals; N.Y. Giants Nearly Out of Race

Allie Reynolds of Yankees First Pitcher in Loop to Win 15 Games

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Brooklyn appears to have regained its balance after a tipsy two-week interlude by cooling off the steaming Boston Braves while the St. Louis Cards' headlong rush has been slowed down.

Vic Lombardi's performance in shutting out Boston yesterday 1-0 must have been encouraging to manager Burt Shotton for the little lefthander has been a major disappointment this season. Lombardi allowed only four singles in spinning his seventh victory at the expense of Lefty Warren Spahn.

St. Louis ran into its old southpaw trouble, bowing to the lefthanded Fritz Ostermueller at Pittsburgh 5-3 although they banged out 10 hits. Ralph Kiner, the Bucs' slugging outfielder who may yet catch up with New York's Johnny Mize in the home run race, hit No. 30 with two on off loser Murry Dickson in the first inning. However, Jimmy Bloodworth actually won the game with a bases-loaded single in the sixth.

Once again Philadelphia Phils dropped the Giants further out of the race with a 6-5 decision, their third straight over New York. Don Padgett's two-run single and an error by Joe Lafata gave the Phils the three decisive runs in the seventh.

Allie Reynolds became the American League's first 15-game winner when he hurled New York Yankees to an 8-5 edge over Philadelphia's Canadian - born star, Phil Marchildon, although neither starter finished. Rookie Al Clark, who had two doubles, and George McQuinn each drove in three runs but little Phil Rizzuto led the attack with three hits, four runs and a stolen base.

Another small crowd, only 2,412 paid, turned out to see St. Louis Browns succumb to Detroit 7-0 under the spell of Stubby Overmire's four-hit pitching.

A Cleveland at Chicago game was rained out after one scoreless inning and the other clubs were not scheduled.

Final Standing Belleville Baseball Association

Playing consistently good baseball all through the season the strong Napanee team finished on top of the loop ladder as the final games of the 1947 schedule were concluded yesterday. The Gibbardville clan finished with twelve wins against three losses for a game percentage of .800.

Following the final standing of the league as released by President Don Thomas. Playoff dates have already been announced.

SWAN-NOTT DUO DEFEATS DETROIT PAIR IN DOUBLES

Games in Singles Round Will Conclude the Toronto Tournament

Toronto, Aug. 15 — (CP)—Final games for the Birks-Ellis-Ryrie and Rennie trophies, third and fourth place events of the Scotch doubles competition, occupied the Boulevard Club bowling greens here today as 128 entries rolled off the wide open singles competition, final event of the week-long Provincial Lawn Bowling Association tournament.

Games in the singles round were scheduled for today and tonight with the finals due to wind up the tourney Saturday.

With the team competitions tucked away, the doubles held the spotlight yesterday and a Toronto team of T. Swan and I. Nott captured the Ontario crown.

The premier event of the Scotch doubles was as close as they come with the Swan-Nott duo barely nosing out a powerful Detroit team of D. L. Ewing and A. W. Pryde 19-18.

The secondary doubles competition for the Parker Pen Trophy went to a Hamilton twosome of J. Hanna and Dr. A. M. MacCormack when they chalked up an 11-8 victory over S. Eldsen and H. J. Dickey of Lindsay, Ont.

In Birks-Ellis-Ryrie play last night the Strathdee-Gray team of New Haven, Conn., scored an 18-12 win over the Detroit Sneddons, father and son, to enter the finals.

At the same time the combination of Hillson and Burwash of Agincourt, Ont., defeated Felker and Robinson of Toronto 17-9 to take the other half of the Birks-Ellis-Ryrie semi-final.

BALMY BEACHERS START PRACTICES

Toronto, Aug. 15 — (CP) — Balmy Beach of the Senior Ontario Rugby Union resumed practices with new vigor today after signing George Edwards, the Negro star who helped in the late-season drive a year ago which put Beaches into the eastern final against Toronto Argos.

Toronto Indians of the O.R.F.U. meanwhile were getting set for their exhibition game with Ottawa Rougnriders of the Eastern Big Four at Oakwood Stadium here a week from Saturday. Among new recruits are George Doyle, six-foot-four end from Buffalo's Canisius College, and Pietri McCleary, 200-pound backfielder also from Buffalo.

Toronto Argos, the Dominion champions, were already knee-deep in talent but found two new linesmen among recruits at last night's workouts, Johnny Widman and Ken Turnbull, who previously wore Balmy Beach uniforms.

19 Countries Will Participate In Olympics

(By The Canadian Press)

Nineteen countries will participate in the 1948 Winter Olympics at St. Moritz, Switzerland, to be held next January 30 to Feb. 8. They are Canada, Britain, Denmark, Italy, Poland, Austria, Finland, Iceland, Holland Sweden, Chile, Belgium, France, Turkey, Liechtenstein, Switzerland, Hungary, Norway and the United States.

Mrs. Mildred (Babe) Didrikson Zaharias, women's golf champion of the United States and Britain, has decided to turn professional. She notified officials of the United States Golf Association that she was leaving the Simon-pure ranks to accept a $300,000 motion picture offer. The Babe, who will make film shorts on golf, will not defend her national title at Detroit in September.

Ken Doraty, the former mighty mite of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, will again coach Moose Jaw Canucks, last year's Western Canada Junior Hockey Champions. Canucks lost to St. Michael's College Majors in the national finals last Spring after defeating Brandon Elks in the Western playoffs.

When baseball announcer Bob Elson was describing a recent Chicago White Sox-Cleveland Indians game, he was heard to say that if Rudy York hit a homer off Bob Felles "I'll buy turkeys for everybody". York did.

'Holy smokes, said Elson, "I promised to buy A turkey and I will. Ill give it to Rudy York." He did.

BATA CLINCHES SECOND PLACE WITH 7-0 WIN

Defeat Swacos at Home While Napanee Consolidates 1st Place With 2-0 Shutout Over Trenton Flyers

The Batawa Shoemen clinched first place in the Belleville Baseball Association standing in their home diamond last night with a 7-0 shutout of the Swacos squad in the final game of the schedule. Napanee is safely perched on top of the heap with a neat 2-0 blanking of the Trenton Flyers in Gibbardville last night.

The Swacos bats were not clicking and the best they could do was two hits in the abbreviated pastime. Bowman started the flinging for the Shoemen and allowed but one safety in three innings. Gordy Muffitt took over the chore and he was just as stingy, giving up but a lone clout.

Big Ernie Smith started on the mound for the planters and by the time he was relieved in the third the Shoe laddies had reached him for seven hits for six runs. Lefty Whitman was rushed into the breach and he hurled two chukkers allowing one hit and no markers.

Bata scored four runs in the first innings off four hits and two walks. They counted two more in the third on Solmes' hit and an error and they sent over their seventh run of the game in the fourth on Watson's long triple to the fence and Peacock's single.

Cook and Watson paced the winners' attack with two hits each with Whitman and Russ Soules being the only Swaco batters to connect safely.

BRILLIANT SCORES REGISTERED IN GOLF TOURNEY

Grey and Kerr Turn in Best Scores in Medal Round and Split First Prize

Guelph, Aug. 15 — (CP) — Despite a sharp electrical storm which drenched the course and top-ranking Canadian professionals were still playing, brilliant scores were registered yesterday in the medal play which qualified 150 golfers for match-play starting today in the 30th annual championship for the Millar Trophy.

Two veteran professionals led the parade. They were Bob Gray of Toronto Scarborough and Bill Kerr of Toronto Thornhill. Gray was three-under the course par of 72 as a morning round of 69 yesterday, added a 71 for his 140 total. Kerr was even at one under par with 141, a 69 and 72.

Gordon Sykes, 143, and Lloyd Thorburn, 144, were tied for the leading play. The defending champion, Stacy Morris of Montreal Islemere Club, made the match today finishing with even rounds of 75-75 for 146.

Gray looked like the medalist as the morning round was being completed but Kerr birdied the 18th despite the sodden green, and earned the tie. Both received $87 as Gray shared the money prizes for low qualifiers.

The match play today brings the tourney down to four men tonight, with semi-finals and final carded for Saturday.

In the draw today Bill Kerr was matched with Stan Horne in the opening game.

The draw, including qualifying scores, follows:

Sheridans Take Quinte Beverages By 5-4 Score

The Sheridan Billiards team defeated the fast stepping Quinte Dry Beverages team in a commercial league softball game on Monday evening at the Alemite Field.

Sheridans opened the attack, with a homer by Young, in the first scoring effort in the game and one in the third making the score 2-0 for the first of the third.

Quinte Dry Beverages rallied to score two in the third, one in the fourth and one in the fifth but the rally failed to even up the count.

Harris, who turned in a stellar performance on the mound for Sheridan's went the distance. Young on the firing line, for Quinte Dry Beverage was relieved by Reddy who finished the game.

Best at plate for Sheridan's were Young, Tebworth, and Mattis.

The line-ups:

Sheridans: Young lb; Shore ss; Semark 2b; Carson lf; Wood 3b; Barnum rf; Tebworth c; Mattis cf; Harris p.

Quinte Dry Beverages —S. Bellis c; L. Bellis 1b; Wood 2b; Day ss; Carson lb Young p; Reid p; A. Bellis lf; Brennan cf.

DOUBLES MATCH MAY DECIDE ROUND WINNER

Australia and Czechoslovakia Split Single Matches In Games Played Thursday

By ROBERT CLARK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, Aug. 15—(CP)—Australia and Czechoslovakia prepared to battle it out in the doubles today in the Davis Cup tennis zone final and observers agreed that the winner of the twosome contest would be the country to advance into the challenge round against the United States.

They split the opening day singles yesterday and it is regarded as likely that they'll share the two singles matches tomorrow. The crucial encounter therefore is felt to be the doubles match involving Jack Bromwich and Colin Long for Australia and Jaroslav Drobny and Vladimir Cernik for Czechoslovakia.

In the first day singles Bromwich overwhelmed Cernik 6-1, 6-3, 6-4 while Drobny disposed of Dinny Palla, the Aussie No. 1 man, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

Cernik never managed to look the player he had seemed in his defeating form last week with Drobny. Bromwich started off cautiously and speeded up the tempo of his game once he discovered he had the Czech at his mercy.

The Czech took only one of Bromwich's services in the three sets, while Bromwich broke thru Cernik's service on 10 of 12 occasions.

Drobny showed in his match with Palla why he is regarded by many observers as the No. 2 man in the world ranking only behind the star of the U. S. net squad—Jack Kramer. Even the loss of the third set didn't tarnish his reputation since he made only a half hearted attempt to take the set after Palla had won a 4-1 lead and was obviously conserving his energy for the fourth set.

Sports Roundup

By BEN FUNK
(For Hugh Fullerton Jr.)

Denver, Colo., Aug. 15 (AP)—Big Seven football, quotes tubthumper Roger Nortoneux of Wyoming University, will this year be the mightiest in the history of the Rocky Mountain circuit... Here's the new pitch, insists Roger, "Those wax museums we counted on last year couldn't get back that old pre-war sharpness, so the treatment and sophs did most of the work. And the young fellers are all lean, hungry, full of beans and with some experience under their belts."

Denver, after trailing the Los Angeles Dons for three years, should have the best variety of football, with Johnny Baker of Southern California coaching the line, Bo Rowland of Oklahoma the backs, and Bud Kerr of Notre Dame the ends... Wyoming will see the southern brand of football under new head coach Bowden Wyatt of Tennessee, who already has inaugurated the Tennessee single wing system ... Weather Woes

Wyatt, incidentally, may find Wyoming weather gifts of a problem than installation of southern playing tactics ... last season, the cowpunchers played three games in blizzards with two to six inches of snow on the field and played another in an almost cyclonic wind....

No-Hit Wonder

Lacking the necessary records for confirmation, Denver fans wonder if there's a better softball pitcher in the world than their own Larry Bollig .... it's getting so it's a bad day for Larry when somebody gets a hit off him .... with a service team in the Pacific, he pitched 69-no-hit, no-run games in 130 appearances, losing only four ... back in Denver last season, he pitched 12 no-hit games for the Denver Public Service team and in the National Tournament at Cleveland let teams for Houston Tex., and Mexico City down without a bingle... this year, Bollig has eight no-hitters in 20 games.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Jackie Robinson, Dodgers — Groundedout Oyran, popped to Nanny Fernandez, dropped a hit into left center and, stretched it into a double by his fast running, and moved Ed Stanky to third with a skittice foot, setting up winning run in eighth.

Johnny Mize, Giants — Fouled to Andy Seminick, grounded to Billy Donnelly, singled to centre field, later scoring on Mickey Witek's single left centre to Zoldak.

Stan Musial, Cardinals — Went hitless in five trips, flying out to short left in his first appearance and grounding to infield the next four. On his last at bat, with one man on base and one out in the ninth, he hit into a double play to end the game.

(Ted Williams, Red Sox, Joe Dimaggio, Yankees and Lou Fondreau Indians, did not play.)

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARTER, Sports Editor

That smashing of a Dan O'Connor hit at village this morning and left his fists were anything but smiling. "Sure, and he lapped, what is this I'm shaking me hand with this broth of a boy Sharpe is spilling about?" he said, as he ran from a masculine mob who, also broke, boxed. "I'm satisfied but a sock-by he's got another think coming." And I wasn't. Dan's fighting philalaph to bring the likes o' Sharpe to his knees."

Dan flicked an inch-long ash from the big Pittsburgh cigar he was puffing and chewing. "Twenty and the Texas, eh? Be grassed. Well that's okay by me, bedad. If that's the way they want it they can have it that way. I mean this pretty sheave may be his own brother — you know him. And if his brother Benny doesn't like it, then I'll hand him the same dose. In fact this is a standing invitation to Benny. Well ... I'll only to step in the ring and take me on."

But Mike Sharpe, the golden boy of wrestledom ... doesn't scare very easily. He takes Dangerous Dan's threats in his stride with a shrug of his well-built shoulders. "Sure, I'll have to teach this rough Irishman a lesson, but they rawnted. "And if being hot I won't let the matter last too long. Besides I don't anticipate much trouble, but you never can tell.

On the same card brother Benny meets up with Frankie Taylor, another good looking wrestling sheik from Hollywood while in the preliminary Terry McGuinness tangles with a newcomer to Belleville, Dr. Jack Bell.

That game at the Exhibition Park tonight under the lights between Ellenton Juniors and Latta should be well worth the price of admission. While the game does not affect the teams standing in the league it will give them an opportunity to become accustomed to the lights and hot summers or lers acclimatized to the kliely by the time playoff time rolls by the time playoff time rolls around. Both teams will be at full strength, and the first ball will be thrown by Mr. Setter go along and enjoy the fun.

Picton and Trenton Aces Wings pry the lid off the Intermediate OBAHA league tomorrow night in Picton tomorrow night. The Picktonians have a floodlight opening game on Saturday night in that town will bring out the big guns for the thousands especially when an outside squad is present, and more so when the game is important as the 1967 title one. Picton fans have been noted for their loyalty to their teams and at least 2,000 will be on hand the least tomorrow night. If the crowd is less than 500 at my game, the police go downtown to find out where the fire is. The second game of the series is scheduled for Point Anne on Monday night. The Pointers switched the dates in order to accommodate the Picton squad who wanted a Saturday night game.

The All-Ontario Track and Field championships for men are being held in Alexandra Park, Oshawa, on August 21st according to Jack Shorrock Athletic-Club, Oshawa sponsors of the meet. Any athlete wishing to enter should get in touch with Eric Linstead, secretary of the club at 58 Alma Street, Oshawa naming his events.

This one should answer the question that has been going up and down the hockey rialto here of late. The Philadelphia Rockets of the American Hockey League which opens a months training here on September announced today that it will locate a farm team in Belleville as well as a junior "A" squad in Galt. A working agreement will be in effect with the Spokane, Oregon, squad of the Pacific Coast League.

FIFTH PLANE LOAD OF IMMIGRANTS REACH MALTON AIRPORT

Toronto, Aug. 14 — (CP) — The fifth plane-load of immigrants from Britain arrived at Malton airport today, bringing to 1299 the total number arrived since the scheme got under way 1½ weeks ago. Today's flight comprised 21 men and 26 women.

Completely screened for the current heat wave, the Britons were all wearing heavy tweeds and top coats. Nine of the group had friends in Toronto waiting for them at the reception centre.

The Trans-ocean plane which brought the group to Toronto refuelled and returned immediately to Gander to pick up another load of 40 stranded there when their plane developed engine trouble.

CHAPTER 7.

Sherry said, "I don't think so. I guess it's just warm today. Why? Do I look funny?"

Merriman smiled. "As a matter of fact you look beautiful. More than usual. I've got a rotten cold —these doggone drafty stages."

Sherry said she was sorry and told him how glad she would be to read the book.

Merriman said, "I'm anxious to hear what you think of it, what kind of a picture you'd make of it."

"Who's going to do the script?" Sherry asked. "Steve Prescott?"

Merriman shook his head.

"No. I'm going to work with the writer on it so I wanted someone new. Besides, it's a woman's story."

Sherry said, "Oh, Dale Gibson." Merriman wrinkled his nose.

"Too old. I want a fresh mind. You and I are going to do it."

Sherry stared at him for a minute.

"Have you a fever" he wanted to know.

Sherry said, "I don't think so. I guess it's just warm today. Why? Do I look funny?"

Merriman smiled. "As a matter of fact you look beautiful. More than usual. I've got a rotten cold —these doggone drafty stages."

Sherry said she was sorry and told him how glad she would be to read the book.

Merriman said, "I'm anxious to hear what you think of it, what kind of a picture you'd make of it."

"Who's going to do the script?" Sherry asked. "Steve Prescott?"

Merriman shook his head.

"No. I'm going to work with the writer on it so I wanted someone new. Besides, it's a woman's story."

Sherry said, "Oh, Dale Gibson." Merriman wrinkled his nose.

"Too old. I want a fresh mind. You and I are going to do it."

Sherry stared at him for a minute.

"You mean—? You think I—"

Merriman smiled and put his arm around her. Sherry didn't mind. It had taken her only a short time at the studio to learn that people did that to be friendly.

Now she put her hands on Merriman's shoulders and searched his face eagerly.

"Do you honestly think I can?" she wanted to know.

"Of course you can," Merriman told her. "We'll do it together; you can't go wrong. Then after this script you won't need help."

Sherry slipped one arm around his neck and buried her face on his shoulder.

She said, "I think I'm going to cry."

Merriman laughed and held her away and lifted her face by the chin.

He said, "Why shouldn't you have a break? You're ready for it and you've got the stuff. I've talked to Drood and Sonny. As soon as I'm through shooting you go on writer's salary."

He saw his wrist watch.

"I've got to get back. You'll come through all right. I'm confident of that."

He patted her.

"Take care of yourself, dear. Your cheeks are too pink and your eyes are too bright."

Sherry said, "I'll read the book tonight."

After he shut the door Sherry stood and stared at it. So she was going to get a chance to write! The biggest director in the studio was going to give her a break! Orville Merriman had faith in her!

A sudden thought struck her staggeringly. A writer's salary would not be less than $100 a week! She flew to the telephone and called the boys. Tony answered.

Sherry said, "Don't get dinner tonight, darling, we're going out!"

Tony wanted to know where.

Sherry laughed.

"How about Marino's?"

Tony was practical as usual.

"How about the chops?"

Sherry said, "Oh, they'll keep. This is a celebration, Tony! We're going to have one of you call for me at 8."

She hung up and went at her work with a vengeance.

When Sherry went out at six all three of the boys were waiting in the car. They wanted to know what it was all about immediately. Sherry teased them.

"After we've ordered," she said. "What are you going to have? I'm getting a steak smothered in mushrooms."

Kris wanted duck; Sandro caviar.

Sherry said, "We'll all have caviar! Caviar and champagne!"

It was a gay ride to Marinos.

When they walked into the smart restaurant, Sherry noticed how the people stared at them. She was proud of her three handsome escorts. They got a corner table and had a delicious time ordering.

Sandro said, "I have dreamed of caviar for a long time."

Kris said, "Thanks the egg in you."

Tony said, "How much money have we got?"

Sherry gave him twenty dollars and then she told them about Merriman. They were all delighted.

Sandro said, "You will see! You will be a great artist!"

Tony was impressed with the money.

"Merriman'll see that you get more than a hundred."

After a while Peter Barton passed the table and stopped to speak to Sherry. She introduced him to the boys and they regarded him interestedly.

Tony said, "Sit down, won't you? It's nice of you to drive Sherry home so often."

Peter seemed very glad to sit down. Sherry was annoyed. Outsiders did not belong to this private celebration. After all, the boys did not have to look him over like brothers appraising a suitor.

"What are you doing here, Peter?" she wanted to know.

Peter said, "I always have dinner here."

Sherry winked gravely at Kris. She said, "I think he's ritzing us."

They laughed and poured Peter some champagne. Tony put the bottle back in the ice bucket.

Sandro said, "But you see, this is a celebration, Sherry is now a writer."

Kris kicked him on the shins.

Sandro cried, "Ow! Somebody has kicked me!"

Sherry said, "Sandro dear, I'm sure Peter isn't interested."

It turned out that Peter was very interested and as long as Sandro had told it, they all talked about it.

Sherry began to cough. Peter and the boys watched her worriedly.

Sandro said, "But we must see a doctor!"

Tony got angry when he was worried.

He said, "That's foolish nonsense, coughing like that!" He turned to Peter. "She's had that for weeks. Now it's getting worse."

Sherry wondered weakly why Peter Barton had to be told everything.

She said, "Don't be silly, Tony, everybody coughs once in a while."

Peter said, "I wish you'd see my doctor, Sherry. He's really very good."

Sherry told him she would and changed the subject. Kris got the doctor's name and wrote it down.

Latta

Latta — Mr. Fred Hall met with a painful accident when he hooked the sling rope, the sling unlocked and as he was on the load, the hay fell back on him and covered him. His back and leg were hurt.

Deepest sympathy is extended to Mrs. Carl Harry and son in their recent bereavement.

A rousing charivari was given to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gray on Friday evening by Roslin, Latta and Plainfield folks. They were treated to delicious ice cream and lemonade.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Denyes (nee Hilda Treverton) who were married on Saturday, August 9.

Sorry to report Miss Ella Moult is in bed having suffered a stroke. Nurse Mary Shannon is assisting nurse Margaret Moult.

Mr. Gerald Moore and Bobbie Moore, of Belleville called on Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wilder on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hall Jr., and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Francis McCullough, Lonsdale.

Miss Helen McCullough Lonsdale is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hall.

Deepest sympathy is extended to Mrs. Percy Hoskins, little daughter, and other relatives for their recent bereavement in the passing of Mr. Percy Hoskins on Sunday evening.

Rawdon

Rawdon (Special)—On Thursday evening Rawdon friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Richardson in honor of their son, Gordon and his bride.

Mr. John Bateman was chairman and a short program was presented when Miss E. Heagle of Wellmans sang with her brother, Mr. John Heagle as accompanist.

Readings were given by Mrs. Gordon Green and Mrs. George Sutherland. Mr. Gordon Green read an address of congratulation and the young couple were presented with a "Lazy Boy" occasional chair and a hossock.

Mr. and Mrs. Richardson graciously replied expressing their thanks for the very useful gift.

Refreshments and a social half hour brought a pleasant evening to a close.

Misses Barbara and Bernice Ryan have been holidaying with Mr. and Mrs. Martin Rivers, Bogart, Ont., and with Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Ryan, at Tweed.

Mr. Gerald Forestell has returned home from Belleville General Hospital and is slowly recuperating.

Mrs. Cyrus Summers spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Stapley, Oak Hills.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By FRED KENNEDY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Aug. 15. (CP)—There's an opinion prevalent in Ontario sports circles that Howie Meeker of Toronto Maple Leafs' hockey fame has been made the goat of the Provincial Senior Inter-County Baseball League.

The rinky, tatting puck chaser who plays third base for the Kitchener Panthers in the ball loop got the finger for three games after it was learned he had been fined out of four league games for making with the lip. No one has come to the defense of the belligerent arm-cut lad, but many voices have been raised in protest that no one else in the league has been given the heave-ho for the same hide-and-seek.

The latest others go scot-free and pile on the punishment on Meeker, when other players break on the same rules, seems too much like making a martyr of Howie," says Chick (Strutsbro) Seaton, Toronto Argonauts' football star. "And I've heard other players in the league who've been on the shovers for four-months-ing and yet no official league action has been taken."

Meeker deserved some punishment because he bounced, blustered and blasted certain games, but what about the guys he laughed with? As Chick says, his daily chatter column "is as wet as we've taken in what is quarter to say punish one and white wash the other."

Chick takes the league to task for "walking until the Chunky Soup season is over" several hour times before they took any action. For the good baseball season's, the Stratford sports writer suggests that these misconducts be dealt with appropriately every time they occur.

That seems O.K.—as long as you don't take the fun out of the game, huh?

The Woodstock baseball team was after revenge, and they got it—in the form of a football game.

Jimmy Sutherland, Woodstock baseball historian, quoted the Bleacher Bill in the Woodstock Sentinel-Review, recalled that 32 years ago St. Thomas defeated the local senior squad 6-1 in the senior title game.

Year after year, teams from these two cities didn't meet in the finals. Then this year it happened. Both cities with interscholastic squads met in the final and St. Thomas went down. It took 32 years—but it was sweet!

Major Leaguers Cannot Play In Cuban Loop

St. Louis, Aug. 15. (AP)—Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler has issued a directive forbidding major leaguers from playing as members of the Cuban Winter League team, and Cleveland's Bobby Feller, whose plans for a barnstorming tour prompted the ruling, is asking "How come?"

Feller announced earlier he would pitch five games for a Cuban League team between Oct. 31 and Nov. 8.

"Players are permitted to conduct barnstorming tours in other places outside the United States," said the Cleveland Ace upon his arrival here last night, adding: "Why should Cuba be an exception?"

Feller said Cleveland President Bill Veeck approved his tour after the present season and added that he planned to consult Veeck further as soon as the latter gets out of the hospital.

"I plan to get in touch with the commissioner at an early date," Feller said. "I am sure everything will be ironed out satisfactorily and I can go ahead with the tour as planned."

Not only did Chandler rule with regard to the Cuban League, but he said major leaguers must obtain his permission to play outside the continental United States during the 30-day period in which they are permitted to play with other than their own clubs.

WALLET CONTAINING $400

Philadelphia, Aug. 14 — (AP)—Police today are seeking the owner to a $72 question.

It seems someone broke into the locker of Phillip Hirshenbaum at the Ashbourne Country Club in suburban Elkins Park, took $400 from Hirshenbaum's wallet and then stuck $328 back in a pocket of his trousers.

Municipalities On Thames River Form Authority

St. Mary's, Ont., Aug. 13 (CP)—Starting the up-hand to a far reaching program of flood control, conservation and reforestration in the upper reaches of the Thames River watershed, representatives of 34 up river municipalities decided here yesterday to establish a Thames valley authority.

It is proposed that the Dominion and Ontario governments bear 75 per cent of the cost.

Only seven opposing ballots were cast by delegates from the townships of Delaware in Middlesex County; Downie, East Nissouri, Ellice and Logan in Perth County; Oscord North and the village of Exeter.

First official meeting of the newly formed authority will be held at Stratford in mid-September. A permanent chairman, secretary and "chief officer" also will direct the conservation works in the water shed — will be appointed at that time.

As a complete survey of the upper rivers has already been made by the Ontario Planning Department early action is indicated. The authority will have jurisdiction over territory in the Thames watershed above the confluence of Dingman's Creek with the Thames except the townships of Caradoc, Hibbert, McKillop, Norwich North, Orford and Usborne, located on the outer fringe.

Radar Equipment In Good Order Says Officer

Halifax, Aug. 15 (CP) — Radar equipment was in good condition "to the best of my knowledge" when it was destroyed Micmac just prior to her collision with the freighter Yarmouth County, Lieut. Derek G. Campfield of Kingston, navigation officer, testified yesterday.

Lieut. Campfield told a Transport Department Court in the fourth day of a hearing here that radar "scans" were adjusted for a maximum range of 75,000 yards and he had checked them at least three times prior to the midday log 6 which took 13 lives.

H. P. MacKeen, counsel for Acadia Overseas Freighter, Halifax owners of the Yarmouth County, earlier today had cross-examined Cmdr. J. C. Littler, D.S.C., captain of the Micmac and suggested he "had grossly mistaken a fatal bank of fog for a 'wisp.'"

Cmdr. Littler and Lieut. Campfield both testified they believed the bank of fog in which the collision took place to be "wispy" and of little depth, but A. S. Bowser, first mate aboard the Sambro lightship near the accident scene, said dense fog and zero visibility prevailed in the area most of the day.

15-Minute Delay Probably Chief Cause of Failure

London, Aug. 15 —(CP)— A delay of 15 minutes in landing Canadian troops on "Blue Beach" at Puits, east of Dieppe, probably was the chief cause of the military plan failure in the Aug. 19, 1943, Dieppe raid, an Admiralty special dispatch published Thursday said.

Capt. J. Hughes-Hallett, R.N., British naval force commander in the raid, in the dispatch gave a full account of the navy's part in the operation where the Canadian 2nd Division suffered 3,350 casualties.

The plan called for landings on six beaches at specific times. Landing on "Blue Beach" was delayed for 15 minutes due to time lost when boats were forming up. A motor gunboat on escort duty had been detailed with the landing craft and was mistaken for a gunboat detailed to lead them to land.

"Although the landing subsequently took place according to plan, I fear that the 15 minutes' delay must have been partly responsible for the very heavy opposition which the troops immediately encountered after the landing and which apparently pinned them down on the beach area throughout the day," Hughes-Hallett wrote.

Sweeping Reforms In Highway Codes Asked by Firemen

London, Ont., Aug. 15 (CP) — Fire Chief Harold Wallon of New Toronto yesterday was elected President of the Dominion Fire Chiefs Association at the 43rd annual convention here succeeding Chief Angus Mickie of Lachine, Que.

Chief Charles Vines of Guelph was elected first vice-president and Chief R. C. McDonald of London second vice-president. The convention closes today.

Sweeping reforms in highway codes, and new legislation giving firemen and police greater powers in checking crowds at fire scenes, were asked by the convention's business committee.

In another resolution delegates asked that there be rigid enforcement of traffic acts concerning vehicles being required to move over to the right-hand side of the road when fire trucks approach. It was suggested all private cars be stopped from following fire trucks to the scenes of blazes.

Chief George Gimlett of Peterborough condemned "rubber-necks" and other fire sightseers who clutter up the path of firemen. "It is essential for us of fire chiefs to stop the ignorant Public jumping in when we have work to do," said Chief Gimlett. "It is not only to protect the public, but to protect our own men."

Gordon Huff, Chief of the Brantford fire department, said that any federal or provincial legislation would be no good without local action and he placed full responsibility in crowd control on the police.

"I refuse to see my firemen doing police work," he added. "It is up to the police to keep the crowds back and the roads free."

Little Benny's Note Book

Us fellows were talking and arguing about different subjects, and some lady started to get pissed with a little bit of a useless looking dog with a pushed in face and long hair pritty near scraping the ground, and I said, Good night, I wouldn't have a mutt like that for a gift.

Which the other fellows claimed they wouldn't either, and Sid Hunt said, well, he knowed a cat that lady probably thinks it's the greatest dog that was ever born.

Oh boy, some people are like unusual things, Fuda Simkins said, and Shorty Judge said, I even like turnips and spinnitch for that kind. I bet that's more than any of you other guys can say, he said.

Well, something even unmusuler than that, Gloster Magee said. I like to go to the dentist's, he said, and I said, Aw, go on, why would you?

Because I only have to go there in general principals and he never finds anything a matter with my teeth to fill and never believes any of the feeling of relief gets bigger every time it happens, Glasses-Eddy said. Local Liary Shooster said, Well talking about unusual things to like, I like it when my father gives me a licking.

Aw go on, that's baloney, Sid Hunt said, and Lucky Leroy said, that Baloney nothing, every time my father gives me a licking he remarks that it's against his principals to do anything stronger than reason with me; so he always gives me a quarter to make himself feel better. I bet you nobody likes anything unusuler than that, he said.

I'll go, ben Cross said. I like to wash my neck and ears every chance I get, and nobody ever give me any reward for doing it, neither, he said.

Sam Cross being the most famous liar around, and we all yelled and whistled to prove we didn't believe it, and just then 2 fire engines went passed and changed the subject.

No 'yellow hue' thanks to Blue!

Snowy-white sheets—looking like new! Thanks to Blue. Sheets and all white clothes no longer suffer from 'yellow tinge'—not with Blue to make them white! So quick, so easy . . . just a swish or two of Blue in the final rinsing water does the trick!

P.S.—Seven colours combine to make white, one of these is blue. Blue must be added to make true white.

DUTCH CANNOT PREVENT ACTION BY U.N. COUNCIL

Survey Shows Members Determined to Keep Indonesian Dispute In Council's Hands

Lake Success, N.Y., Aug. 16 — (AP)— The Netherlands today appeared headed toward another major defeat in its battle to avoid United Nations action in the Indonesian dispute.

A survey of Security Council delegates indicated a majority was determined to keep the case in the Council's hands despite vigorous Dutch protests.

Involved is a broad legal issue: Is the Security Council competent under the terms of the U. N. charter to handle the case.

Dr. Eelco N. van Kleffens, Netherlands representative, has argued in almost every meeting that the Indonesian republic is not a sovereign state and that the dispute, for that reason, is not an international problem.

The Council so far has sidestepped a decision on this question, but is prepared to showdown might come next Thursday when the Council resumes its debate.

Council President Faris El Khoury of Syria ruled yesterday that the question would be kept on the agenda until it was dropped by formal action of the Council. He pointed out, however, that no decision as yet moved to support The Netherlands demands.

The Netherlands is not a member of the Council and thus is not in a position to offer a motion of resolution.

If a formal move does come, it is expected to be initiated by Belgium which would be strongly opposed by Russia, Poland, Australia, China, Syria and Egypt, backed by the United States, Brazil and Colombia.

France and Britain might support Belgium, but El Khoury has indicated privately that he will use power veto would not apply. This means the move would fail by one short of the necessary seven affirmative votes.

Three Are Killed And 19 Injured In Mexico Storm

Tampico, Mexico, Aug. 16 — (AP)— Military authorities today counted at least three dead and 19 injured in the wake of a tropical hurricane that lashed the south coast yesterday with winds reaching 110 miles an hour.

Two of the dead and five of the injured were reported from the Cerro Azul oilfields near the coast 95 miles to the south, directly in the path of the storm that howled out of the Gulf of Mexico.

Derricks were toppled and tanks and machinery were damaged, Gen. Tamayo, military commander at Cerro Azul, reported to government petroleum monopoly.

Other communications with Cerro Azul were severed.

One person was electrocuted in Tampico, where homes were flooded, streets were deserted and windows latched as the storm hit.

Some 2,000 persons were forced to flee from their homes as the Rio Panuco, which winds through the city, overflowed. They found temporary refuge in schools and other public buildings.

The core of the storm last night was reported by the semi-station-ary approximately 30 miles south of Tampico.

SEARCH FOR TWO MISSING PLANES IS INTENSIFIED

Each Civilian Machine is Carrying Two Occupants and Lost Seven Days

Halifax, Aug. 16. (CP)—With threats of inhospitable bad weather for at least part of the day, the search for two aircraft, of two nations were scheduled to take off from here this morning hundreds of square miles of sea and coastline.

Four small civilian airplanes each carrying two men, which have been missing several days.

The Canadian Air Force search unit here, directing operations of the largest in Canada history, was co-ordinating flights from Gander, Nfld., Stephenville, Nfld., and Toronto in hope of locating a single-engined Fox Moth, piloted by H. Mutton of Pickering, Ont., and his companion, identified only as an engineer. The pair took off Sunday from Lake Hapide, Que., north of Seven Islands in the St. Lawrence River, on a photographic flight to Lake Mistassini.

Meanwhile, an R.C.A.F. spokesman said a search for other craft would be scouring lakes and heavily-wooded areas east of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick for a Fleet Canuck, also carrying two men, which has been missing since August 8.

The plane took off from Waverley Lake, 10 miles north at Halifax, bound for Moncton, and apparently a two-hours flight. Aboard were Pilot John Macleod of Moncton and Mr. Engineer Norman Crewe of Waverley, N.S. Mr. Macleod and Mr. Crewe were missing first came two days later.

Neither plane had filed a flight plan before embarking, though Macleod had telephoned Moncton to make a stop somewhere enroute for refuelling, it was learned. Both planes were rigged with pontoons for water landing.

Owned by Photographic Survey of Toronto, the Moth was equipped with a long-range gasoline tanks, radio with spare batteries and a complete emergency landing kit.

Recent reports from Windsor, N.S., 10 miles inland from the Bay of Fundy, gave a clue to the whereabouts of the Fox Moth after six days of fruitless search. Residents of the area said they had seen such a plane headed back toward Halifax early Sunday morning.

Australia Plans Nationalization Of Banking

—CHIFLEY

Canberra, Aug. 16. (Reuters) —Prime Minister Chifley announced today that the government was moving to nationalize Australian banking.

A banking bill, making permanent the wartime control of trading banks, was passed in June 1945, when Chifley said: "The government does not propose to allow the direction of the financial system to remain any longer in the hands of a few individuals with no training and responsibility in the matter."

Chifley announced: "The cabinet authorized Dr. Herbert V. Evatt (Deputy Premier and Minister for External Affairs) and myself to prepare legislation to submit to the Federal Parliamentary Labor Party for the nationalization of banking other than state banks, with proper protection for the shareholders, depositors, borrowers and staffs of private banks.

The nationalization decision followed the invalidation by the High Court this week of a clause of the Banking Act which sought to forbid state governments and local governments bodies to bank with private banks.

Robert Menzies, leader Australia's opposition said that Chifley's announcement was "staggering and unbelievable."

It sounded like a "piece of petty pique" over the high court's decision, he declared. The Sydney Morning Herald estimated that the value of private banks was $2,000,000, shareholders numbered 70,000.

Australia's biggest legal battle may follow government moves in the high court of the nationalization move, it was learned authoritatively here.

Tax payers will have to meet between $320,000,000 and $400,000,000 in compensation to the shareholders in the country's nine private banking companies.

On the date of their transfer to the state, probably in six months time, every private bank will be eliminated.

12 DIRECTORS KRUPP COMBINE TO FACE TRIAL

Charged With Waging Aggressive War, Slave Labor Exploitation And Plundering Countries

Nuernberg, Aug. 16 — (AP) — Twelve directors of the $2,500,000,000 Krupp munitions combine, which for 133 years has been supplying Germany with guns, were indicted by United States authorities today for war crimes. They are scheduled to go on trial next month and all face possible death sentences.

In a 50-page bill presented to the all-American court prosecutors charged the giant steel and armament firm with waging aggressive war, plundering peaceful countries and exploiting slave labor.

Principal defendant under the indictment was Alfred Krupp Von Bohlen and Und Halbach, son of Bertha Krupp, after whom the giant cannon "Big Bertha" which shelled Paris during the First World War, was named.

Brig.-Gen. Telford Taylor, chief American prosecutor, said the United States would prove that Alfred Krupp and his associates were Nazi party members, confidants of the Gestapo, supporters of Hitler, instigators of rearmament and violators of the Versailles Treaty.

Taylor accused Alfred Krupp of carrying on the policies of his father Gustav, who is senile and unable to stand trial.

Taylor charged that the Krupp works, under the aegis of Hitler, expanded to 175 domestic companies and foreign subsidiaries, and the Krupp staff jumped from 25,000 employees in 1932 to 112,000 in 1939. The indictment charges that Krupp "participated in" $4,000,000 IG Nazi coffers.

Evidence would be presented showing an intimate relationship between Krupp and principal Nazi leaders, including Fritz Sauckel, the Nazi labor boss who was hanged at Nuernberg.

"As part of a nefarious design," Taylor said, "two months before the actual invasion of Holland, Krupp advised the foreign ministry not to awaken suspicion by withholding visas and prevented the shipment of guns on either which Krupp had no intention of delivering."

The company was also accused of withholding war material from other intended victims of the Nazi war machine while building up selected associates, such as Japan.

Wife Confident Husband Safe

Pickering, Ont., Aug. 16 (CP) (CP)— Confident in her husband's ability, Mrs. Jack Hutton last night awaited news that the light plane in which her husband is flying from Moncton to the north shore of the St. Lawrence would be overdue.

R.C.A.F. planes out of Halifax were sweeping the Gaspe Peninsula and Quebec for the plane carrying pilot Mutton, missing for 5 days, and Engineer Crewe, both of Pickering, Ont., and Mr. Hutton's son Gordon, 21, left by car this morning to join the search.

"I'm sure they came from behind the explosion area, four miles out under the waters of the Irish Sea. They said they saw no others alive.

Whitehaven, England, Aug. 16 (CP)—The toll of blast victims in the undersea working of the William mine was expected to reach 107 today.

The National Coal Board announced that the bodies of 54 had been located and that virtually all hope was abandoned for 53 additional miners apparently entombed behind tons of fallen rock.

"There seem to be no survivors of there being any survivors," the statement said.

The Coal Board said it had established first 117, rather than 121 miners as previously announced, were in the mine when it was ripped by the blast yesterday. Ten of the miners escaped.

Sixteen bodies were brought to the surface from the clear end of the blasted passage, and others were discovered by rescue workers who broke through 250 yards of rock fall.

Bodies of 16 victims of the blast were brought to the surface this afternoon from the clear end of the blasted passage, and 25 other corpses were found before rescue workers who broke through 250 yards of rock fall. The crew reported no sound from 70 others still missing and feared dead.

The blast occurred late yesterday in the 13-year-old William mine outside the grimy town of 20,000 in Cumberland county, Northwest England. The government-owned mine is worked under the Solway Firth, an arm of the Irish Sea.

Ten Reach Safety

Throughout the morning the huge winding wheels of the pithead raised the cage with the bodies and a veteran miner in the colliery yard told reporters: "It's hard going and I don't think we have any chance of getting those trapped out alive."

Only 10 in the mine at the time were known to be safe today. Three suffered first aid shock, were taken to hospital, but the others volunteered to join the rescuers and stayed below.

A report was brought to the surface during the morning that the seal in the explosion area had been reached and it was not known immediately what the results were found.

The latest National Coal Board report said rescue work continued on the fall in the main road. A good deal of debris in the William mine found necessary which has slowed down progress meantime.

Gas which hampered rescue teams to wear oxygen equipment-as they worked through the debris, made dire risk of new roof fall was said to be considered but it was unlikely the trapped men would be alive. There was no fire during the night if they had survived the blast. They are known to be close to the explosion scene that the 16 whose bodies already have been brought to the surface.

As groups of rescuers left the pit tired and with drawn faces they declined to talk about he position under the mine. Wives, mothers, brothers and fathers watched grimly from hillocks around the pithead. At one time 2,000 were outside the colliery

Report Britain Rejects U.S. Offer Steel for Ruhr

Duesseldorf, Germany, Aug. 16 (Reuters) — Britain has turned down a United States offer of 500,000 tons of steel to help in facilitating full production in the Ruhr coal mines, it was learned here today on the best authority.

The offer was made by Maj.-Gen. William H. Draper, economic adviser to Gen. Lucius D. Clay, commander of the United States zone of occupation, before he left for the Ruhr talks in Washington with Sir William Strang, political adviser to the Allied Control Commission, it was learned here.

It provided for deliveries at the rate of 100,000 tons monthly and although the price was not disclosed, it is understood that the United States asked for what amounted to a controlling vote, in the political condition of the Ruhr coal mines.

The offer was rejected for two reasons, he said.

1. Because the steel the United States was demanding consisted of ingots which would have to be processed in the Ruhr mills — ills equipped to handle such work at present. British officials were afraid that much of the steel would find its way to the black market.

2. Because Ruhr miners suffer years of domination by great trusts, now reported to favor nationalization and an acceptance of the offer would convince them that they were being sold out to United States vested interests.

The informant said, however, that British had made a counter-proposal calling for annually 450,000 tons of rolled steel products, the value of which would end issued for urgent requirements without passing through the hands of the government of the German steel industry.

Govt. to Build 4-Mile Stretch On Bancroft Highway North Of Madoc States R. Robson

$250,000 Estimated Cost, Work to Start Sept. 1

Tenders for the construction of a Department of Highways road extending from three miles north of Madoc to one mile north of Eldorado have been requested, Roscoe Robson, M.L.A., Hastings East, announced today. It is expected that work on the new road will be started approximately Sept. 1 and it will be in the neighborhood of $250,000. The new stretch to be improved will be four to five miles.

Mr. Robson further announced the acquirement of 30,000 tons of crushed rock which will be banked along the twenty-mile stretch of the Faulkner Highway extending north of Millbridge. This will, in all probability, be used for improvement of the road in the future.

The announcement is the culmination of lengthy effort on the part of Mr. Robson with the Department of Highways. He also stated that in the near future the road from Actinolite to Madoc and extending three miles west will be included. The work will be completed as soon as the necessary arrangements and plans have been made.

Japanese Peace Settlement Early in 1948

Canberra, Aug. 16 — (AP) — Prime Minister Chifley said today that the Japanese peace settlement "need not be a long-drawn out affair, but should be completed in 1948."

In a statement to the press after his visit to Tokyo to confer with Deputy Prime Minister H. V. Evatt's recent visit to Gen. MacArthur in Japan, Chifley said: "The government does not propose to allow the direction of the financial system to remain any longer in the hands of a few individuals with no training and responsibility in the matter."

Chifley announced: "The cabinet authorized Dr. Herbert V. Evatt (Deputy Premier and Minister for External Affairs) and myself to prepare legislation to submit to the Federal Parliamentary Labor Party for the nationalization of banking other than state banks, with proper protection for the shareholders, depositors, borrowers and staffs of private banks.

Jewish Shopkeeper Stabbed and Arab Shot to Death

Tel Aviv, Aug. 16 (AP) — A Jewish shopkeeper was stabbed to death by a group of Arabs today in the border district joining the cities of Jaffa and Tel Aviv and an Arab was shot to death by a military patrol when he failed to halt upon challenge in a Jaffa surface area.

The Jewish defence agency, Hagana, reported it had repulsed two Arab attacks and one Arab was reported to have been beaten. An Arab youth died of injuries suffered in a clash about three days ago.

The new deaths brought to 21 Arabs and 19 Jews the number slain since racial outbursts began last Sunday. By unofficial counts, at least 109 persons have been injured and property damaged to the extent of more than $1,000,000 in this strife.

Threatened Hamlets in Cape Breton Island Now Safe from Forest Fire

Halifax, Aug. 16. (CP)—For the first time in three days hamlets at Cape Breton Island's northern tip were declared safe from a forest fire today as the wind whipped around to the north but the wind shift posed a new threat to the crowded village of Cheticamp, 35 miles down the island's western coast line.

At last reports the flames which have devastated part of Cape Breton Highlands National Park were burning in the Mackenzie Valley where earlier this week they almost wiped out the village of Pleasant Bay.

Pleasant Bay is 20 miles north of Cheticamp whose 2,700 people sheltered the 300-odd evacuees from Pleasant Bay.

Although showers forecast yesterday fell during the night they had little effect on the fire and with a prediction of northerly winds blowin gat 20 miles an hour it was expected the flames will move southward.

The report that the hamlets of Wreck Cove and Pleasant Bay St. Lawrence were safe came from the R.C.M.P. outer French which anchored off the villages ready to evacuate the inhabitants if necessary.

On the Nova Scotia mainland two Antigonish County fires expanded into new territory. A shift in wind direction drove two prongs of flame toward built-up areas at Monastery and relieved the anxiety of residents of Georgeville on Cape George.

First Two Ships With U.S. War Dead To Arrive in October

Washington, Aug. 16- (AP) — The first two ships bearing American war dead are scheduled to reach the United States in October, and the War Department says probably no others will arrive this year. About 2,500 will be brought home aboard the first vessel, due at San Francisco about Oct. 10. Another carrying some 3,000, most from the Henry Chapelle cemetery in Belgium, is scheduled to arrive in New York Oct. 25.

SURVEY OF MOIRA R. WATERSHED BEGINS EARLY NEXT YEAR

The survey of the Moira Valley watershed will not be started until the early months of 1948, it has been announced by the Department of Planning and Development.

The unexpected delay has been caused by unfavorable weather which hinium delayed surveyors working on the area at Deseronto and Stirling.

Arrangements had been made to start the survey here in August and the party had been established near Stout's Mill but preliminary work has been done and the party of 34 surveyors will leave next week. In the Spring fifty surveyors will be sent here to finish the project, the announcement said.

TWEED TO VOTE ON LIQUOR FACILITIES

Residents of Tweed will have an opportunity later on to vote on the establishment of a licensed men's beverage room. A retail brewers' warehouse is also a prominent liquor store.

A petition signed by the necessary number of villagers was presented to the village council this week. The petition will be forwarded by the village fathers to the Liquor Control Board for approval.

VETERANS TO HOLD DECORATION DAY

The Army, Navy and Airforce veterans will hold a decoration day on Sunday in their new cemetery. Members of the organization will place wreaths on the graves of veterans buried there.

One group will perform the ceremony at the Memorial Cemetery and a second group will pay its respects to the Belleville Cemetery.

Kiwanis Kids Defeat Latta In Close Tilt

Although outhit seven to four, the Kiwanis Juniors downed the Latta crew 3-2 in an exhibition game at the Fair Grounds last evening. Both squads shuffled their lineups considerably during the nine inning bout to experiment all the players would have some experience playing under the lights.

The Juniors scored one run each in the fifth, sixth, and ninth innings. In the fifth a balk on balls, a fielder's choice, and an error on the Kiwanis lads did the trick tally. Two hits and a sacrifice-bunt counted another run in the sixth. In the ninth Latta came off with a single. The next two batters struck out and Buster Acord of Green with a double to give the Juniors the win.

Latta scored their runs in the third inning on three hits, singles by McGreary, Johnson and Coyer. Four Latta errors proved costly as the Carnes-men behind the Kiwanis boys, but failed to outscore them.

The score by innings:

Egg Price Jump To 60 Cents Doz.

Tomatoes took a sharp slump on the Belleville produce market this week, dropping in price ranging from 60c to 75c a six-quart basket. Most vendors were selling their potatoes at 25c, 50c, and 65c a basket. They were also selling at 20c and 25c a quart basket.

Eggs jumped in price this week, most vendors asking between 55c and 60c a dozen. Only ungraded eggs 45c and 50c a dozen for pullets; 50c and 55c a dozen for cockerels, and 60c for A Grade. Extra large eggs were offered at 65c and 70c a dozen.

Berry prices remained steady with blueberries and red raspberries offered at 50c a quart. Thimbleberries appeared for the first time at 50c a quart. Red currants and gooseberries were 30c a quart. Green beans were 25c a quart and $1.15 and $1.35 a six-quart basket.

Corn was being offered at 25c, 30c and 40c a dozen, and 45c a dozen ears on and quality. Cabbages were 10 and 15 cents each. Cucumbers were selling at six for 25c. Cauliflower were 25c each.

Peaches were offered at 50c a price 9 pack, and 50c a six-quart basket. Pears were 50c a six-quart as a variety of prices: 10c and 15c a quart; 2 quarts for 25c; 35c a quart and 40c and 60c a six-quart basket; and 70c a peck.

Young fowl were offered at a price depending on size. Chickens were selling for 35c, 40c and 45c a pound. One vendor had fish for sale at 25c a pound.

A large quantity of gladiola were for sale this morning with a general price being 50 cents a bunch.

54 BODIES

gates and at dawn some 400 were still there.

Women sobbed continually and men took home sobbing—"who could not hear the strain any longer. In Minatchawin, market stall-keepers and shoppers stood about in groups tight-lipped and unamiliating.

Five In Family Killed

A number of the trapped men are survivors of the 1941 explosion in the mine in which 148 men were killed and 11 injured. An official list of the missing has not yet been issued but it is known a father and his two song and several fathers and sons are among those entombed.

Dr. Hugh McCallister learned her husband, father, two brothers and a cousin all were killed.

Today a brilliant sun shone ironically on the group waiting for the bodies to be brought to the surface.

The explosion, the cause of which has not been determined, let loose near the end of the afternoon shift, apparently about half way along the four-mile workings.

Of the 121 men in the blasted drift, 10 were rescued and 15 escaped with their lives because they were on the surface when the explosion toward the shaft leading to the mine.

Helps said 95 men were trapped behind three or more separate rock falls two miles back in the main mine passage.

A bulletin, issued shortly before dawn, said the rock barrier had been reduced to 100 yards, ventilation had been restored and there was no sign of fire in the area.

However, officials dismissed most of the ambulances massed at the pithead, seemingly holding fatal hope for further rescues.

The restoration of ventilation ridding the workings of gas pockets, eased something the task of rescue teams picked from a surge of volunteers as numerous that nine out of ten had to be rejected.

The first body brought to the surface on the creaking stage was that of a young miner not yet identified. Four grim-faced men carried the blanket-shrouded corpse through a silent crowd to one of three temporary morgues established in the pit building.

Tea meanwhile was served to waiting wives, sweethearts and mothers of the William Pit miners as the sun came up.

The blast was the fourth in British mines since the pits came under public ownership last Jan. 1. The previous three killed 26 men.

WAR SHORTAGE LIKELY CAUSE OF CAR CONTROVERSY

High Freight Volume After Hostilities Also Adds to Headache Element

Ottawa, Aug. 16 (CP)—Like many another post-war headache, the Canada-United States freight car mixup is a symptom of a serious illness breaking out here latestly in a new form.

It has its roots in the inability of the railways to get cars built during the war, for the usual wartime reasons, and in the coincidence of high freight volumes after the war.

When the U.S. declared a partial embargo against shipments of coal to Canada this week, the Canadian railroads had on order almost 10,000 new cars of these orders they had received only a few hundred deliveries.

Here's why:

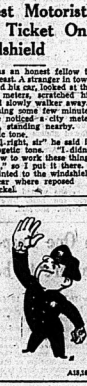
Honest Motorist Puts Ticket On Windshield



He was an honest fellow to say the least. A stranger in town he parked his car, locked it at the parking meters, scratched his head and slowly walked away.

Returning some few minutes later he noticed a traffic meter collector, standing nearby, apologetic tone.

"I'm afraid, sir" he said in an apologetic tone. "I didn't know how to work these fangled (meters)," so I put it there.

He pulled the ticket from the windshield of his car where reposed a shiny nickel.

Two-Acre Island Floats in River

Alexandria, Bay, N. Y., Aug. 16 (AP) — Police and private owner attempted today to break a two-acre "island" of heavy grass and tree roots menacing small craft navigation in the St. Lawrence River channel near here.

The floating mass broke away from a marsh at Goose Bay three miles to the north, several days ago. It was towed into the channel after drifting about in the river.

River police and boat owners fixed lines to the island and attempted to pull it apart with small power boats. Officials planned to use dynamite if the mass could not be broken otherwise.

The "island," originally part of a marsh, broke loose when high water at the St. Lawrence washed away supporting soil and left its roots free to float into the bay.

Commercial traffic was not hampered.

Chimps in Dark Aid Vision Test

By FRANK CAREY

Washington (AP)—By putting chimpanzees in total darkness, a Yale scientist now has proved sensitive photocells in the eyes of these apes can require changes in current theories of learning and visual perception.

Up to now, Dr. Austin H. Riesen says in the technical journal "Science", it generally has been believed that vision gradually develops an inborn power to learn by seeing.

But he said the chimpanzee tests, simplifying previous investigations in man, have shown that the ability of an adult to learn promptly by the use of the eyes is not something that is inborn. Rather, he said, it is a specific that requires "a long experience with in the use of the eyes."

Riesin says the monkey tests "corroborate and extend" researches made in 1932 by another investigator who studied the visual responsiveness of persons born blind and later made able to see by cataract removal.

The chimps—a male and a female—were reared in darkness to the age of 16 months. They then were exposed to light. They blinked. Finally in minute to hour periods, they were allowed to look around. The male quit exploring after 10 hours of total visual experience. The female 20 hours. Both then showed certain retinal reactions of the eyes. But when the male was brought rapidly toward their eyes, there was no blinking response. The female blinked. Both then had basic living in normal light five days before they learned that a threatening object was something to blink at.

Riesen's investigations of interference with objects presented visually, and necessary before recognition of such objects appeared in either subject," Riesen reported, "are for example in line of the nursing bottle meant nothing to them for a long time, although they would grab it avidly when it actually touched their bodies."

Harry Smith of Staten Island, N. Y., chairman of the order of Scottish Clans, is shown receiving the "fiery cross" from Pilot Captain Benjamin Prowse of Epsom, Surrey, Eng., aboard whose British overseas airways plane it was flown to North America. "An ancient and traditional rallying signal of the Scottish chieftains and its mission to the U. S. is to call all Scots to support "Enterprise Scotland, 1947," the biggest exhibition of industrial design ever held in the mother country.

Consecon Lake Locality

IN THE MIDST OF HARVEST

Out in the summer morning
To the far-flung harvest fields
Toilers are daily turning
Where earth's bounty yield
Where earth her bounty yields.

O'er the uncounted acres
Their harvest songs arise,
All gladness to the given,
Who rules the earth and skies.

O'er sunny slopes and valley
The gold of harvest gleams—
Wealth for the world of nations
Awaks from war's dread dreams;
Ours is a noble heritage—
Gold of the gleaning sod—
Where he who toils is honored
A co-laborer with his God.
—Helen B. Anderson

The extremely warm weather has hastened the harvest and much of the grain is already in shock. Threshing machines are operating in some localities, and the local threshers, W. H. Morton and Douglas Palmer are preparing for the autumn work.

Here and There

Mr. and Mrs. George Valleau, Melville, enjoyed a holiday motor trip to Seaforth, returning by Hamilton and Toronto.

Mrs. Charlie Hubbs, Saskatchewan (formerly of Hillier) who is visiting friends in the county, has been guests recently of the Cruickshank families.

Miss Wilma Judge, Belleville, and Miss Betty Redner, Centre, are enjoying holidays in Mr. Judge's cottage, Consecon Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerrow, Carnifton, are spending the week in the Root cottage, South Lakeside.

Mrs. Hickey and Mrs. Hall of Belleville who are holidaying in their summer homes here, called on Mrs. James Morton, Wednesday evening.

Rev. and Mrs. F. G. MacTavish of Bradford, Ontario, (formerly of Melville) are holidaying in the county. On Tuesday afternoon they called on Mrs. W. H. Anderson, and spent tea-hour guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Maxwell.

On Sunday a picnic was held in Wellington Park honoring Mrs Ed. Anderson, Edmonton, who is spending the summer in the east. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morton, Mrs. James Morton, Mr. and Mrs. M. Huycke, Mrs. Henry Huycke and Mrs. Lila Weeks; also Mr. and Mrs. Fred Corry, Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Pearce are spending a few days in Toronto.

The residents of South Lakeside held a meeting Wednesday night to arrange for the hydro in this locality.

Miss Marjorie Blakely, Gilead, spent Sunday with Mrs. W. H. Anderson.

Anniversary Tea

One of the delightful events of the summer was the anniversary tea held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morton, to celebrate the 50th. anniversary of Christ Church Guild. The surviving members of the first guild are Mrs. George Hubbs, Mrs. George Bell of Wellington, Miss Ella Terry, Hillier; Mrs. Charlie Thorn, Indian Head, Sask., and Mrs. Lilla Nease, Toronto. The meeting was held on the tree-shaded lawn, Rev. K. N. Grant opened the meeting with words of praise for the guild, after which the president, Mrs. C. L. Jones, conducted the program. A dress parade of 50 years ago then was held with Mrs. D. Harns, Mrs. C. L. Jones, Mrs. W. Eaton and Mrs. W. Dainard dressed in old-time costumes. The young people served delicious refreshments. Proceeds amounted to $55.

Melville W.A.

Melville Ladies Aid held the August meeting at the home of Mrs. Albert Carley. The regular meeting was followed by a social time with refreshments, Mrs. E. Margetson and her daughter, Mrs. Lock of Surrey, England were welcome guests

Treasure Trove Tales Rekindled

Granville Ferry, N.S. (CP)—Reports of renewed activity on Oak Island in Mahone Bay, supposed hiding place of Captain Kidd's riches, have again revived old tales of buried riches in this area on the western side of the province.

One of the stories concerns buried French treasure at Tropp's Point near this Annapolis Basin community.

At this time the Acadians were expelled from the Annapolis Valley by the British in 1755, so the story goes, many farmers brought their small hordes of coins and valuables to the parish priest for safe-keeping. The priest had the chapel bell taken down and put the money, totalling a large sum, into it. It was buried and the French never returned.

Later the land was parcelled out to the English and a tenant one day dropped the bell with his plow-share. He was said to have denied finding the treasure but some time afterward he went abroad, established a reputation for leading a gay life and had plenty of money when he returned to his farm.

The remainder of the story is that he gave the bell to a church on St. Mary's Bay where some of the French returned after the expulsion.

Calgary's Pet Freak Is 2 Headed Trout

Calgary, (CP)— A two-headed speckled trout raised in the hatcheries of a Calgary brewery continues to baffle his attendants—even if it is living on borrowed time.

Now 15 months old the pet freak is expected to continue to live the normal life span of an ordinary trout.

The fish rests and swims on its side, and though it is not as agile and swift as a normal trout, it is able to get about with fair facility. Although it is the second head of the trout is not used by the fish for eating, it has gill and breathes normally.

Attendants feed the fish on small supplies of fry and because it is taking life so easy—no competition at meal times—is getting fat.

If the fish were to be placed with other fish the same size or larger than itself they would kill it. On the other hand if it were placed with smaller fish than itself it would kill them.

To avoid such a happening the attendants have settled the fish to a trough where it lives in solitary grandeur.

This type of "freak fish" while comparatively rare, does appear in the fry "here and now and again, but generally never reaches the age or size of the present one.

Once Proud Yacht Now Fishing Boat

Vancouver, (CP) — A big adventurer in her time, the famous old Brixham trawler Lady Rose, will soon end her days as a humble fishing boat.

The staunch, oak-hulled vessel, formerly a round-trip liner, has been completely reconstructed and re-powered, by her owner Thomas Noble.

The 65-foot boat, originally built in 1895 by three former naval officers, was intended for use as a yacht. But she soon proved a failure and the ship was sold to an eccentric English woman who converted her into a yacht.

She became interested in a strange religious cult named the Tractarian Brotherhood, and donated the boat to them. They sailed the ship from London to Vancouver Island.

After a series of troubles the Brothers blew a hole in the Lady Royal with dynamite and sank her off Vancouver Island.

For more than a year she lay submerged, but eventually Capt. Leslie Nantes salvaged her and converted her into a private yacht.

Mr. Nobles purchased the boat four years ago and decided to put her into the commercial fishing service.

MAY BE CLUE TO PLANE

Vancouver, Aug. 10 (CP) — A one-inch square photograph of a woman found on a fish caught off Prevert Island, has been published in a Vancouver paper (Province) in hope that it may be a clue to the missing Trans-Canada airlines plane with 15 people aboard. It is thought that possibly the picture came from out of a locket or wrist-watch worn by one of the crash victims or a friend.

LIGHTNING STRIKES BARN

Newton, Ont., Aug. 15 (CP)—Fire caused when a bolt of lightning struck a barn on the farm of R. Albrecht near this Perth county town caused an estimated $10,000 damage yesterday. The barn and straw shed were gutted and the season's crop of hay and a threshing seperator were destroyed.

Nanny Supplies Cure For Farmer's Ulcers

Woodstock, Ont., (CP)—Nanny was Willie's cure for ulcers. The old farmer's leg a sore of color, "He's got stomach ulcers."

So the veterinarian stops there for milking "an average close-up." Silver he grows his own medicine. "Nanny's got the cure in her milk."

By this trial and error method Farmer Vickie found out a few years back that the only dairy he could get away with was goat's milk. So he bought a goat and has kept practically living on milk ever since.

The goat in question, Daisy Mae is the farm—turns all her milk supply over to Vickie, while two baby mothers in what may be a flock of seven turns all the lowed to feed their young.

He keeps the other two but in case something should happen to Daisy Mae.

Jarlett starts the day off with a glass of goat's milk for breakfast. He also smothers his cereal in it.

The remainder of Daisy Mae's supply is doled out throughout the day whenever the urge comes for a shot of ulcer cure.

Explaining why he finds Daisy Mae's milk so good for his stomach ulcers, Mr. Jarlett said it does him good or nour while in the stomach.

"It's good tasting too."

Father and Son Kill Each Other

Pietersburg, South Africa, (CP)—An extraordinary case in which a native father and son killed each other in a dispute over the ownership of a grain bag, occurred at Great Valley, between Zebediela and Potgietersrust.

It is stated that in the dispute the father buried an assegai into his son's open mouth, severing the arteries of his throat. The latter extracted the assegai and buried it at his father, striking him above the heart. Then, it is stated, he grabbed an axe and decapitated his father before dropping dead himself—three paces from his father's body.

Adventure

Adventure is dear to the heart of every boy whose reading of books of this sort is unintelligent. And even too, love it. In its milder forms, is to be seen in travels to far lands and perhaps even touring is a form of expression of this irresistible venturing into new fields, over oceans, and continents.

There has just been reported the end of one of the great adventure stories of the world with a band of men on the raft Kon-Tiki to prove what they as scientists believed, that the islands of the Polynesian group were settled by bold adventurers from the mainland or islands of Asia, but by brave men from the west shores of South America, the blond inhabitants who the natives and archaeologists believe inhabited Peru before the Incas.

A band of Norwegians, six in number, skilled in the sciences, four months ago, believing in the views of their leader, started out on a raft of balsa logs, with hand centerboard, a sail and a mast, with an oar to steer by, and a hut such as might be built in the jungle placed on the great deck of logs, and floating themselves to the west as moved by the waves, the party made four miles an hour. So navigable was it that it rode the tops of waves twenty-five feet high.

Here was something modern proving out a theory. These men of science had the double thrill of a great voyage and the thrill of finding the realization of their theory. They had a modern store, they had a radio, they had a rubber dinghy and used equipment up-to-the-minute. They had also lanterns, radio and camera fire-spots. Whatever they needs and did not miss the opportunity to enjoy the life on the rolling waves much as adventurers must have enjoyed it in the days before the coming of modern investments.

They were on their way to the Tuamoto group of islands and they at last crashed on an uninhabited island of the Pacific Tuamotos, over four thousand miles away from the place which they left. Their landing on the reef was another "miracle" and the six men made their way through the breakers to the shore. They had had storms, and had come to know the companionship of the monsters of the deep, but their raft experience was one of the most uneventful, and the epic adventure is properly indicated what the leader, Thor Heyerdahl, thought, that the ocean waves would cause the motorless craft to drift to the Tuamotos.

Such a journey would satisfy the desire of any for the thrills of experiencing a method of travel practised many centuries ago before modern science asserted itself.

The companions of that raft journey lived the modern life of adventurers instead of past ages. No other planned adventure could hardly be as successful as this one.

To have had a share in this journey over the vast Pacific is something anyone could desire.

Highway Toll of Life

The terrible nature of the toll of automobile accidents is pointed out in the New York Herald Tribune which notes that it is the shocking truth that during the first six months of this year 50 persons a day have been killed in the United States by the nation's automobiles, according to figures collected by the National Security Council. The newspaper adds that it is small comfort, bitter satisfaction that this is an improvement over last year when with 11 per cent less traffic deaths were 22 a day in the United States.

"To accept deaths on highways and roads as natural is a terrible thing and has no place in any consideration of fatal accidents. Rules are made to prevent accidents and are being built so that they will avoid accidents, but nevertheless accidents continue to claim vast numbers.

The Herald Tribune puts it this this: "If the 14,500 traffic deaths of the last six months had occurred at once in the same place the nation would be horrified and shocked into really doing something about it."

Motor tragedies on Canadian roads number enough to stir the people altogether and as individuals so that there would be a great reduction in the loss of life.

The tragic fact is that unnecessary deaths will continue until every user of the highways has one aim — to drive safely with the knowledge that any deviation from carefulness may bring tragedy. No one can take any chances.

They Must Learn Our Language

Canada is sending "teams" of immigration and Labor Department workers to recruit 1,000 girls and women in Displaced Persons camps in Germany for domestic and institutional work in this country. It is very necessary that the members of these teams should possess the required ability to screen the workers interested in coming to Canada, because there is no question of deporting a girl who later may be found to be undesirable persons — they are women without a country.

Granted that Canada has a certain moral obligation to take in a proportion of these people, selection of future Canadians is a vital matter; one in which mistakes cannot afford to be made. Undoubtedly these camps contain many worthy and fine people who lost home, belonging and citizenship through no fault of their own. But it has been charged in the United States Senate that there are also not a few Communists, black-marketeers and persons who entered the camps to find anonymity on account of their past records.

Despite the reconversion of war industry, it appears that there is still a scarcity of domestic and institutional workers in centres of Ontario.

It is stated that the Canadian teams will give no consideration to religion, language or race. Wisdom of such a course is open to question. Surely preference would be given to English-speaking and to French-speaking DP's. As pointed out at a meeting of prominent Ottawa women on this question some weeks ago, inability to speak English is a serious drawback, particularly in the case of women entering work in hospitals. Prior to accepting employment the displaced women should be given an intensive course in basic English, or in French if they enter homes and institutions where that language is spoken.—Ottawa Journal.

Not So Slow

With all his "muddling through" tactics John Bull yields to no one in speed. It seems just like a bygone day when gloom to note that given a boat, an automobile or a plane the old boy can do very nicely. A look at his records is refreshing.

For there are few of the world speed marks still held by Britain:

Motoring: John Cobb, who hit 368.85 miles per hour on August 23, 1939.

Water: Sir Malcolm Campbell, who clocked 141.74 in "Bluebird" on August 19, 1939.

Steam traction — The streamlined "Mallard" of the London and North Eastern Railway. It did 126 miles per hour on July 3, 1938.

Britain also holds the Blue Riband of the Atlantic for the fastest Atlantic steamer service. The time was three days, twenty hours, forty-two minutes, made by the Queen Mary in 1938 (Cunard White Star Line)) built by John Brown. Until recently Britain also had the fastest speed record of 616 miles per hour. Group Captain E. M. Donaldson reached that speed on September 7th., 1946 in a Gloster Meteor IV with Rolls Royce Nene jet engines. On June 19th of this year an American army jet plane regained the record with a rate of 623.8 miles per hour.—Hamilton Spectator.

More Hours in Gardens

The climate in Western Ontario vouchsafes us a bare six months at best in our gardens, notes the London Free Press. All the greater reason, therefore, that we should spend longer hours in them while we may, and take with us into the confining days of winter the memory of our roses and peonies, the iris and the honeysuckle, the morning glory and the violet, and all the other enchanted blooms which amidst a world of chaos and confusion stand for peace and quiet and beauty and the promise of resurrection.

If you would know the value of money go and try to borrow some.—Franklin.

HOW TO ROUGH IT

I like to rough it, day and night,
If I can have my little light,
And when I'm weary I can sleep
Upon a mattress soft and deep.

I think to rough it rather nice
If someone else will go for ice.
I love a wild and rugged spot
If plentiful is water hot.

Fried perch that sizzles in the pan
I like as well as any man.
But it is not my favorite dish
When it's my turn to clean the fish.

I like to rough it, if the roof
Above my head is water proof
And I can be where'er I roam
As comfortable as at home.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Are the eyes of Chinese actually slanted?

The apertures of the eyes of Chinese, Japanese and other members of the yellow race are not more slanted or oblique than are those of Caucasians.

The slant-eye effect is produced by the low nose bridge, which permits the upper eyelids to fold and fall in a sort of slit appearance. In reality the eyes of Orientals are not so far out of true horizontal as the eyes of Occidentals.

Often white children at birth have eyes with a similar Mongolian slant, and if the nasal bridge develops slowly this appearance may disappear in months. But the so-called "Mongolic fold" is not owing to the eyes being obliquely set but to the difference in the level of the two "events" of each eye — the points on each side where the upper and lower eyelids come together. This slanted-eyed effect is noticeable among many American Indians and is also pronounced among the Eskimos.

Do beavers use their tails as trowels?

There is no foundation in fact for the popular belief that the beaver, proverbial for its industry and ingenuity and well-developed skill, uses its naked flat paddle-like tail as a trowel in making mud with other materials in building dams, canals and tunnels.

In all these operations the beaver employs its fore feet and mouth. Mud, stones and similar materials obtained from the bottom and sides of streams and ponds are carried through the water between the forefeet held snugly against the breast. Stones and poles, after being cut in proper lengths with the teeth, are carried in the mouth. The hind paws, not the trowel-like tail, are used in patting down the mud and other mortar-like substances.

The long, broad tail is beaten against the water as a signal of alarm and it serves the double purpose of rudder and propeller in swimming.

Captain Charges Navigator Was Brow-Beaten

Halifax, Aug. 16. (CP)—With charges of "brow-beating" by D.S.C., captain of the Micmac, that his navigator was "acting like a lawyer" at the opening of the court-martial inquiry into the collision of the Micmac and the freighter Yarmouth County here on May 16th, the court sat in Halifax today.

Important radar evidence was expected later today when Lieut. Jean-Paul Gauvin, Waters, Micmac radar officer, scheduled to take the stand, was questioned relative to the crash which resulted in the death of a navy man July 16.

Boyish-faced Lieut. Derek G. Campbell, of Kingston, Ont., navigation officer, was being cross-examined by F. D. Smith, counsel for Capt. Norman E. Smith of the Micmac. Counsel, when the "brow-beating" exchange took place.

Mr. Smith called the attention of the court president, Mr. Justice W. F. Carroll, to the captain's remark, but Cmdr. Lilley's legal officer, Lt. Cmdr. Hill, quickly explained that the remark was not meant "to be overheard by outsiders."

Lieut. Campfield was questioned regarding the latter's navigator's notebook which had been made available to the court. Counsel, outside Halifax Harbor in a thick fog.

Notations were in the nature of memory-aids and included, reference to "fog", "whistle", "horn blown", "hard a-starboard", "hard a-port" and other similar expressions to indicate in short-hand fashion what happened previous to the crash.

Sirens Not Sounded

Lieut. Campfield explained that the "whistle being blown" noted in the navigator's notebook was more strenuous effort or prolonged blow, for example.

Moreover I believe that no horn, fog or other, was ever sounded on the bridge of the Micmac which had been conducting full-power trials following a refit.

All other notations referred to events subsequent to the time of the accident. Previously, it had been testified that sirens and horns were not sounded before the crash.

Strong objections were raised when counsel asked the witness whether "any instructions to that effect can be given" and Mr. Smith explained: "I am merely trying to show one is so think-skinned about this thing."

"Perhaps," interjected His Lordship, "we should take off our coats and fight."

Judge Carroll referred to the extreme heat of the past several days when the court sat in shirt-sleeves.

Later the judge said the whistle notation had "seemed suspicious" to him at first but that the witnesses had cleared up the mystery satisfactorily. He said he had "no ulterior motive" in making the entry. Lieut. Campfield told the court that the navigator, including the nearby Sambro lightship, on each side of the ship's three radar scans shortly before the accident. Capt. Campfield testified yesterday the scans were set to show up objects 12 miles away. The Micmac's boat was approximately 9,000 tons displaced when the radar "dropped it."

Little Change In Investment Plans Is Indicated

Ottawa, Aug. 16 —(CP)— Investment intentions of Canadian business for 1947 indicate little change in the aggregate from the estimate made at the beginning of the year when it was estimated that capital outlays of $1,003,000,000 would be spent on new capital goods and $1,640,000,000 on capital repair and maintenance, Hon. J. L. Ilsley, acting minister of reconstruction, told the house on Friday.

He said a mid-year survey showed that planned expenditures on new capital goods had been pared down by five per cent from the beginning of the year. Anticipated repair outlays were down about two per cent and new machinery and equipment down a little over three per cent.

Still, it was estimated that expenditures on new capital goods would be 770 per cent in excess of those last year and the outlay on capital, repair and maintenance about 60 per cent more than that of 1946.

The regional changes in investment plans for new manufacturing industries only show the following:

Maritime provinces, Ontario and Quebec, up eight per cent; Ontario, down two per cent; prairie, down seven per cent and British Columbia, up one per cent.

WHY TAKE VITAMINS?

There is a simple, fundamental fact which too many gullible persons scarcely recognize when they "splurge" vitamins; the main reason one may need one or more vitamins at all is that one has not received adequate amounts of the vitamin or vitamins in question in one's daily food—or, in the case of vitamin D, perhaps in one's daily exposure to sunshine or skyline. In one instance out of a hundred, perhaps, the deficiency is due to individual faults, such as inability to masticate food properly, the habit of taking soda or other alkalis, the abuse of physic, or gastro-intestinal derangement which interferes with assimilation.

The main reason why our daily food is deficient in the essential vitamins is that we eat foods that nearly every one — child, youth, young man, young woman, adult—gets most of his or her calories from what I call cheat foods. Cheat foods are highly refined or refined foods that yield loads of calories but little if any vitamins and minerals—for example, white bread, white sugar, white flour.

Mind you, I'm not opposed to candy, sugar, sweets, cake, pie, ice cream, even sweetened carbonated beverages, when they are provided they are real children who play hard and who burn up much sugar, and provided they take children's adults' appetites fuel only as dessert or on exceptional occasions as a quick energy food when they have been playing harder than usual or using up their reserve energy in more strenuous effort or prolonged hike, for example.

Moreover I believe that no harm is done when fairly large amounts of vitamins available to the public without prescription, such as B1, are equally certain that most of the vitamins taken in capsules with no specific purpose can do no good.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Cold Milk

Please tell me what effect on children drinking cold milk at meals may have. Is it necessary to remove the chill before serving milk to children?—(M.M.)

Answer—Let the children have milk hot or cold as they prefer. I'll have mine nice and warm right at mealtime, if you please.

Pacific Dandruff

Husband has had excessive falling hair since he returned from the South Pacific and Tokyo. It is getting thinner with a great amount of dandruff, which most of the men on the ship had—and now his hair is slowly disappearing.—(Mrs. M.M.C.)

Answer—Many men who served in the South Pacific have complained about the great amount of dandruff and dandruff they developed. Many of them wrote me. Send ten cents and stamped self-addressed envelope for booklet, The Hair and How to Care for It, which gives instructions for a simple, effective treatment of dandruff and falling hair.

Pie Plant

Is rhubarb (pie-plant) wholesome to eat in sauce or pie? I have been told it contains oxalic acid, a deadly poison.—(N.T.W.)

Answer—All right, if you take your time and chew your sauce or helping of pie-plant over to me. I don't think taking a double helping of such deadly poison.

Hay Fever and Asthma

Having had severe hay fever with asthma every season for many years, can I find a doctor to tell you that the tablets you recommended for hay fever have so far gave me the greatest relief I have found from any treatment. But this last spring I decided to stop, and I have suffered more than that explains it or not, so far this season I have remained comparatively free from the most distressing asthmatic symptoms, and not that I have had hay fever.—(E.J.)

Answer—All I know is that the Iodin Ration can do no harm in any circumstance, and I believe most children and adults benefit by supplement the iodine-deficient food and water in most regions of the country. These pamphlets are available: Hay Fever; Diet and Instructions for taking Iodin Ration. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for any one—Inclose ten cents for each additional pamphlet you want.

Running Ear

To tell you how grateful we are for the ear drops—six months of treatment by our specialist and two other doctors had no apparent effect. Then we began using the drops as directed in the pamphlet, and in less than a week discharge stopped and there has been no further trouble for more than two months.—(Mrs. T. R. C.)

Answer—All of which is still due to the treatment of the ear specialist and the other doctors, as the natural process of nose healing. However, the ear drops can do no harm in any case. On written request (do not use a postcard, please) I will send the pamphlet on Running Ear to any correspondent who will send stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Crewmen Escape Burning Vessel Which Explodes

Shelburne, N.S. Aug. 16. (CP)

—Nine crew members of the 46-ton Swordfisherman Matilda C. returned to their homes in Lunenburg, N.S., today after their craft burned to the water's edge and exploded off this south shore port yesterday.

The vessel was steaming across Broin's Bank when the engineer came up through the engine room hatch shouting the ship was afire. A puff of smoke followed him and quickly the ship was aflame.

Two dories carried by the fishing craft were put over the side and the crew piled into them. Two hours later the fuel tanks exploded hurling flaming debris over the dories as other fishing craft came up to rescue the Matilda C.'s crew.

Jury Recommends Safety Tests For Boat Operators

Newmarket, Aug. 16 —(CP)—A verdict of accidental death was recommended by a coroner's jury inquiring into the death last month of five-year-old James Davey, Killaloe, in a motorboat explosion at Keswick.

Dr. Sinizlie Lawson, Toronto coroner, said that all similar accidents pleasure last year were caused by pressing the boats' starters with fumes present and the hatch closed.

Following the inquiry the jury recommended that regulations be passed providing for safety tests be given to operators of pleasure craft at the time of licensing.

Cardinals and Dodgers Warm Up for Crucial Series Which Starts at Brooklyn Monday

Burt Shotton Likely to Throw All His Lefthanders at the St. Louis Team

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Brooklyn and St. Louis charge toward Monday's showdown series at Ebbets Field, separated by 4½ games with the Dodgers still holding the advantage.

Out front by a fairly safe margin after a long home stand stretching ahead, Manager Burt Shotton of the Brooks is giving his pitchers their last workouts for the "series of the year".

Vic Lombardi is sure to face the Cards Monday. Lefty Joe Hatten, another certain starter against St. Louis, worked out on the Phillies last night. Ralph Branca is slated to go today and Harry Taylor is being held back for the Monday night replay of the protested game.

Hatten scattered nine Phil hits in his final outing, an 8-1 victory over Schoolboy Rowe.

Manager Eddie Dyer of the Cards had to relieve Red Munger in last night's 7-4 decision over Pittsburgh just as he had to replace Murry Dickson the day before. Harry Brecheen and Howie Pollet are expected to be Dyer's other starters in Flatbush.

In Fifth Place

Chicago Cubs pulled themselves into fifth place by exploding four runs in the eighth inning to whip Cincinnati's Johnny Vander Meer, 6-4. Emil Leonard was the winning pitcher in relief for the parent Brooklyn Dodgers.

The three pitchers have shouldered 17 of the Dodgers' 18 losses. Rookie Bud Byerly with a ninth inning single to climax a tumultuous affair that included Walker Cooper's 26th homer, with two on in the seventh.

A crowd of 37,823 fans turned out on a hot, sticky night to see Joe Page of New York Yankees enter the game in the second inning and stop the Boston Red Sox with six hits for his ninth success after 2 defeats. The Yanks won thumped soundly. The Yanks won 10-8.

Had Four Hits

Teddy Williams banged out four hits for the Sox and Joe DiMaggio, returning to the Yankee lineup with Tom Ferrick, collected a pair of singles.

Detroit drubbed Chicago 9-3 taking advantage of two errors by Joe Haynes, a wild pitch and two singles for four runs in the seventh. Virgil Trucks, who failed to last, recorded his ninth win.

St. Louis Browns, favorite "cousins" of all the league, succumbed meekly to Bob Lemon, a converted third baseman and outfielder who now pitches for Cleveland. Lemon shut out the Brownies with three hits 5-0.

Rookie Joe Coleman hurled Philadelphia A's to a 3-0 victory over the Senators at Washington.

BANTA IS LIKELY ONLY ROYAL TO GO TO BROOKS

22 - Year - Old Righthander Wins 12th of Season and Seventh Shutout

(By The Associated Press)

Jack Banta, who along with Al Gerhardt and Ed Stevens may compose "big three" of Montreal Royals next year, is likely all probably "the" only one to do his 1947 pitching for the parent Brooklyn Dodgers.

The three pitchers have shouldered 17 of the Dodgers' 18 losses. Rookie Bud Byerly with a ninth inning single to climax a tumultuous affair that included Walker Cooper's 26th homer, with two on in the seventh.

Banta yielded the Royals to what probably is their most important victory of the season last night when he and the Texas Red Sox end-place Jersey City Giants 2-0. Victory was the lanky right-hander's 12th of the season and his seventh shutout.

Syracuse Chiefs defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 6-3. Howie Fox, although touched for 12 hits, went the route for the Chiefs to post his 15th victory.

Rookie Dick Starr turned in his 14th complete game as the Bears 5-2 over Buffalo Bisons in the second half of a doubleheader. The second game was postponed because of rain.

Starr had a shutout until the last frame when pinch-hitter Ed Mickelson connected with a mate aboard.

Rochester Red Wings trounced Baltimore Orioles 8-3 while veteran Glen Gardner limited the Orioles to eight hits, including Howie Moss' 22nd homer of the season. Bob Usher hit a circuit blow for the Red Wings.

McTaggart Hurls Napanee Squad To 2-0 Victory

Team Defeats R.C.R.F. and Clinches First Place in Local Baseball Loop

McTaggart Napanee iron man on the mound, added an impressive shutout to his string of victories when he blanked the R.C.A.F. nine 2-0 in a Belleville Baseball League game in Napanee last Thursday, to clinch first place in the league standings for the Gibberdeville squad.

He relieved up his win McTaggart struck out six, walked two and gave up five hits for no runs. The hits were all singles and were well scattered, two coming in the second inning and one each in the fourth, fifth and sixth. Only two runners reached third base.

Stroud, losing pitcher for the Airforce, limited the Napanee batters to five safeties. Three of the hits came in the fourth inning to count a run. Curry, Hayes and Jocko hit in order at the top of the fourth and Curry scored. The other Napanee run came in in the fifth, when Murphy got on with two men down. He went to second on a wild pitch and scored on errors by the leftfielder.

Stroud went the route for the Airmen, striking out one, walking three, and giving up five hits for two runs.

Swimming Trunks Went Out of Boat With Big 'Lunge

Peterborough, Ont., Aug. 16 (CP)—There's a big muskellunge wearing swimming trunks in one of the lakes which extend north of here and Art Furber would be awfully glad to hear of its capture because it's Furber's trunks that the fish is wearing.

The story was told last night by Fred Marshall, former game overseer, who said Furber hooked the big one and in the struggle to get him in the boat his trunks tangled in other hooks on the plug. So Furber cut the trunks free and laid the fish—and the trunks—in the boat. That left Furber in a natural state.

This was all right as Furber was pulling towards shore, until he noticed a boatload of girls heading towards him anxious to find out what the commotion was. Furber bent even faster over the oars heading towards shore. And then the muskie gave one wild leap and plunged into the water, carrying Furber's trunks.

The fisherman finally made shore and hid in the bush until it was dark enough for him to reach his cottage.

Commission Decides on Watchful Attitude in Seamen's Dispute

Cornwall, Ont., Aug. 16 (CP)—Cornwall's police commission after a private meeting yesterday announced it was not prepared to take any special steps in the critical situation here resulting from a dispute between the Canadian Seamen's Union and three shipping companies. The local situation was complicated by presence of roughly 100 men allegedly members of the rival Canadian Lake Seamen's Union.

The commission said it would do everything possible to prevent injury to public and property in event of trouble between the rival unions. But the police board statement made no mention of a request from the Cornwall Trades and Labor Council urging that members of the C.S.U.W. be banned from Cornwall.

The Canadian Lake Seamen's Union was organized by J. A. (Pat) Sullivan after he resigned the presidency of the Canadian Seamen's Union, with charges that the C.S.U. had been in dispute for several weeks with three steamship companies, Canada Steamship Lines, Sarnia Steamships and Colonial Steamships Ltd. over alleged failure of the companies to permit union agents aboard their vessels.

Trying to Arrange Meeting

At Ottawa a Labor Department spokesman said that Labor Minister Mitchell is endeavoring to arrange a meeting Monday between representatives of the steamship companies and the union. Mr. Mitchell met Thursday with T. G. McMenus, secretary-treasurer of the C.S.U., and Leonard Brockington, government-appointed conciliator, but no statement was issued on this meeting.

The C.S.U. and its rival union were awaiting publication of the report by Mr. Brockington before finally made to the government on his efforts to mediate the dispute between the C.S.U. and the companies. All sources believed that Mr. Brockington will report failure to achieve any settlement.

In this case it was the terms of the dispute between the C.S.U. and the companies were necessary to the fact that steamers had arrived to keep a physical watch on the vital canal through which vessels must pass up and down from Montreal. Men who admitted they were members of the Canadian Lake Seamen's Union paid they "must keep watch" in event vessels are abandoned by Canadian Seamen's Union members although the C.S.U. has denied reports that a strike would be called.

Prior to this police commission meeting Mayor Lloyd C. Gallinger said: "It is the idle existence we will single. These men are apparently being paid $13 a day, but they have a abode in Cornwall, so his, and no intentions of seeking employment". The man were said to have been moved from Montreal in trucks by the C.S.U.

Charge that the steamship companies and the C.S.U.W. were bent on creating an incident" here were made yesterday at Toronto by T. G. McMenus, secretary of the C.S.U. He declared that the Ontario government held off placing provincial police at the disposal of the companies and also urged Labor Minister Mitchell to "speak out" and say who are the "guilty parties" in the dispute.

THE ELDORADO AND UNION W. M. S.

The August meeting of the Eldorado and Union W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Blackburn with a fair attendance. Mrs. Albert Empey gave a paper on "Christian Stewardship", Mrs. Ken Rombough in charge of the worship service taken from the Missionary Monthly. Mrs. Cecil Blackburn read several passages of Scripture and the Lord's Prayer followed, after which Mrs. Beryl Carman presided for the business in the form of a play entitled, "The Nations Get Together", and the meeting closed with the Benediction.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants and a social half hour enjoyed. A gratefulness was expressed to Mrs. Blackburn for her gracious hospitality.

Bride-Elect

Honored by Friends

Miss Jean McLean, bride-elect of this month, has been the guest of honor at a number of delightful social functions in the city. On Wednesday night Miss Shelley Hodge was hostess at a moon-tour luncheon and theatre party in her honor in conjunction with a miscellaneous shower of gifts.

On Thursday night Mrs. Marion Brennan entertained a number of friends at a bohemian supper party at her home on Charles St., Bellehaven. This was preceded with music and sing-song after which Mrs. Brennan and her daughter presented Miss McLean with gifts, prior to the opening of the beautiful gifts contained in the parcels.

Prior to this McLean's return from Toronto, she was entertained at a miscellaneous shower in the home of her friend, Mrs. Hill.

Roslin

Bridal Couples Honored With Joint Presentation

Roslin (Special) — On Wednesday evening, Aug. 13th members of the Roslin community met in the Roslin Church hall to honor Mr. and Mrs. Clare Hawkins of Hawdon and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jordan, all of whom have been married recently, with a miscellaneous shower.

The MacAvoy orchestra, of Read, furnished the music for dancing during the evening. Mr. John Hart chairman for the occasion then read the address, after or to take chairs in front of two tables laden with gifts, when Mrs. J. Burns read an address, signed on behalf of the community, by Mrs. Ed. Wood, Mrs. Wilson, D. Foote and G. Carleton. All of the recipients very graciously expressed their thanks for the many useful and beautiful gifts and invited their friends to visit them in their new homes.

Refreshments served by the committee in charge and a social time enjoyed.

WEDDINGS

FREEMAN—MIDDLETON

With a background of cedars, highlighted by tall standards of pink and white gladioli among potted ferns, in the living room at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Middleton, 205 Church St., Belleville, the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ruth Georgia Freeman, of Preston, Ont., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Freeman of England, is being solemnized this afternoon by Rev. David Marshall of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Whitby.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, entered the room to the strains of "The Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin, played by Miss Elizabeth Clare, of Preston, wearing a dress of dove ninon over taffeta, with matching hat and black accessories, and carrying a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Lucile Lansbaker, of Toronto, as the only attendant, wearing a gown of fuchsia crepe with accessories, and carrying a bouquet of pink roses.

Mr. Frederick Welberg, of Preston, is the groomsman.

For a reception following the ceremony the bride's mother is wearing a dress of honey blue crepe, with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

For a motor trip to Haliburton and Northern Ontario the bride has chosen a suit of Churchill green, with brown accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman will reside in Preston, Ont.

Barrel Silhouette Base of Parisian Fall Fashion

Paris, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Mad Carpentier has based her entire collection on the barrel silhouette this fall. Two other features, however, are important, too. The drooping shoulder line seen throughout the collection, and the high standard on which each often above the ears.

This house, which opened in Paris shortly before the German advent of 1940, has gained great prominence and is closely watched by Paris haute couture circles, who knew that what's new in the Carpentier collection this year will be seen in other collections next year.

Unlike other houses this fall, Mad Carpentier has taken a basic line and stuck to it throughout her collection.

Her silhouette has the widest part of the body centered around waist seam 12 inches above the hemline. This is achieved by hatching the fullness, and subsequent curved seam, only on one side of the skirt. Fullness is retained at the hemline to the equivalent of a pencil skirt.

A variation was shown in a black matte mocktail gown which had the bottom tier of the skirt gathered into the centred waist line. The bodice had a play of feathers running into a yoke and a dropped shoulder line.

Fur was in the news for topcoats. Here the lowered shoulder line was even more marked; often coming half way down to the elbow.

A tight sleeve tone in tone with dropped shoulder line, finished with black cony had the barrel effect and there was a wide lapel running over, stressing the head up to find the eye.

The evening wear follows the same theme.

Velvet and brocade in partial shades were used with low shoulder lines and bouffant skirts. The printed velvet types, "button in" models are good and fabrics were used for Grecian drapery.

Crowd Protests Admission Of Negro Tennants

Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP) — A crowd, estimated by police at almost 3,000 dispersed early today from the vicinity of a new south side housing project after 24 persons were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct in protesting the admission there of 12 Negro families.

At the height of the disturbance last night, stones were thrown through windows of the buildings and dozens of police and by streets. Street lights were broken and one policeman was struck by a brick thrown from the crowd but he was not injured.

Police commissioner John Prendergast, who completed a tour of the area early today, ordered a police patrol of 150 men continued. At one time last night 2,000 persons were at the scene.

Several street car passengers were cut by flying glass from stoned windows and treated at a hospital.

The housing project, opened to tenancy Monday, is the largest unit of an assembly of about 1'200 persons in their first interracial dimension. On Wednesday night, about 400 persons assembled in the area.

Forty families of white veterans were admitted to tenancies in the project along with seven Negro families.

Communist Radio Station Reported In Quebec Prov.

Montreal, Aug. 16 —(CP)— A disclosure Thursday by Premier Duplessis of alleged Russian and Communist - operated radio station was operating in the northwest Quebec gold mine Abitibi, drew a blank in Federal Government circles at Ottawa with Commissioner S. T. Wood of the R.C.M.P. declaring he knew of no knowledge of any such station.

Premier Duplessis said his information came from the Quebec Provincial Police, and the deputy director, Hilaife Beauregard, described the alleged station as receiving-sending set and said it had been interfering with a private radio station at Malartic, Que.

"This discovery is rather surprising when we know that Earle Buck and other Canadian Communists have been benefited by the CBC's free broadcast time to spread their ideas. Not satisfied with this, they bring their audacity to the point of setting up clandestine stations," the Premier was quoted as saying.

At the same time the Quebec Premier challenged the right of the Federal Government to confiscate the Province of Quebec's application to operate a radio station. He said that he is not accepting Ottawa's refusal and that the Province of Quebec does not recognize that Ottawa has the right to succeed in such rights in the fields of radio.

"We refuse to accept such an arbitrary and unjust ruling as a definite one," said Mr. Duplessis. "We intend to call a meeting of provincial and legal means and steps necessary to have our provincial radio broadcasting rights fully respected and observed."

He added that the decision taken by Ottawa was a "manifestation of the arbitrary and tyrannical mentality of the central government which is at all in conformity with true Canadian spirit and contrary to the fundamental principles of our country's constitution."

Wedding Dresses Do Double Duty

London, (CP)—In the latest London wholesale collections, many dinner gowns are being made both with an eye on British export market and a new development in the home market.

Brides-to-be, shopping for wedding gowns, often ask first to see dinner dresses: Moderately high at the back and with some elaboration of the skirt, not to speak of the varied length of the sleeve, these can be used later for their original purpose or for formal outdoor occasions. Even an evening dress, if it is equipped with a bolero may become a temporary wedding dress.

White satin is still the bride's favorite, but there is a range of white chiffon, taffeta or other formal materials.

Mrs. Edna Cottrell To Stand Trial On Murder Count

Parry Sound, Ont., Aug. 16 — (CP) — Mother of eight, 35-year-old Mrs. Edna Cottrell, Friday was committed for trial on a charge of murdering her husband, Clayton, at their South River cottage last month.

Cottrell died after being shot police said. They said Mrs. Cottrell fired the shots after her husband tried to molest her eldest daughter.

A. G. Burbidge represented the crown at today's preliminary hearing and Claude Gregg of Parry Sound is counsel for the defence.

Dressed in a plain blue cotton dress Mrs. Cottrell appeared nervous as she entered the courtroom to hear the evidence given during the morning session.

The eight Cottrell children are staying with neighbors near Orillia during the hearing. They are Clayton, 13; Ronald Ethel, 10; Betty, eight; Violet, seven; Marion and Patricia, five-year-old twins; and Kenneth, four.

Visited on July 27

William E. Woods, who lives four miles from South River, said Mrs. Cottrell visited his home on Sunday, July 27 and "She wanted to borrow my gun to shoot a dog."

"She was shouting 'Bill' as she walked through the gate," Woods testified. "I went out and asked her what was the trouble. She said, 'It's my dad Clayton. He had a gun in her hand.

"She said, 'Bill, my gun', she said, pointing to it. I asked her if he was dead and she said yes. I told her right to the police to give herself up."

Woods said that he went back into his house and Mrs. Cottrell followed to here. He saw Ronald Ralston who was visiting him to drive Mrs. Cottrell to the other side, she evidently grey. Not until the bables were born were we sure which it was. Then we found out underneath with yellow-linted sides. Now they stood on the edge of the cradle to feed the youngsters small caterpillars, which they ate with relish of one of their grey wings with two white bars.

These, the best dressed of the Vireos, have but one costume for both sexes, and they found confusing. Only when papa arrived, singing very low and which was which. The song was not very musical, but most emphatic, and consisted of pairs of notes going first up the scale, then down, over and over again.

We were still fast asleep when the three children left on a hot morning. One thing we found wife left with sepia specks had not been washed off. Related to the palm of my warm hand, exclaiming, "isn't it a darling!"

Then, still ashamed on the floor, a little explosion, and I found myself holding an ear that was all ready to poach for a doll's breakfast.

Melrose

Melrose — No church services will be held here during the month of August as the pastor, Rev. A. Gee, is away, as is on his vacation. During the month the church is being re-varnished.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Tripp and Bernice of Oshawa, are visiting friends and relatives in this neighborhood. This week they are at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A.W. McLaren and Marcia Blatherwick is also a guest at the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Sexsmith and children and Misses Teresa and Elaine Sexsmith spent the weekend at a cottage along the bay shore.

Several families enjoyed the C. I. A. picnic at the Outlet on Saturday last.

Members of the Radio Forum held their annual picnic at Treed on Friday.

Mr. Carl Perry and several members of the Shaughnessy family recently returned from a trip to Montreal and Belle Isle de Beaupre.

Little Robert McLaren is spending some time with his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Lloyd, of Milford.

Quite a number of the local young people have availed themselves of the opportunity to fly around the district in the Richmond plane which is frequently to see over these parts.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

WINIFRED E. WILSON

BLUE-HEADED VIREO

Our camp situated at the woodsy end of the Laurentian lake, had been vacant for more than a year, and on our arrival early June Nature's children had taken possession of the premises. Blue-headed Vireos had built in a taped bush at the corner of the verandah. The pensile nest was within arm's length of anyone lying in the hammock and, close to the narrow path leading to the wharf that our clothes brushed it as we passed.

"Did you ever see such trustfulness? The bird sat tight, though her tiny carpet on the branch from which the nest is suspended must be a bit hard. But the young ones could never fall out of such a deep, well-made cup, even if their mother were not on top of them."

"It's as clear as pretty," Alice added. "Wood fibres, needles from the big pine tree, strips of bark and shreds of the inches, caterpillars all neatly woven together, and spider-webs for decorations. Such a lovely cradle! Well attached to the bough from which it is suspended, too."

The home was never left unguarded for more than a few seconds. The change of parents took place so rapidly that the head which stuck up on one side of the nest, was blue-grey, and the eye-ring white; while the tail, sticking out on the other side, was evidently grey. Not until the babies were born were we sure which it was. Then we found underneath with yellow-linted sides. Now they stood on the edge of the cradle to feed the youngsters small caterpillars, which they ate with relish of one of their grey wings with two white bars.

These, the best dressed of the Vireos, have but one costume for both sexes, and they found confusing. Only when papa arrived, singing very low and which was which. The song was not very musical, but most emphatic, and consisted of pairs of notes going first up the scale, then down, over and over again.

We were still fast asleep when the three children left on a hot morning. One thing we found wife left with sepia specks had not been washed off. Related to the palm of my warm hand, exclaiming, "isn't it a darling!"

Then, still ashamed on the floor, a little explosion, and I found myself holding an ear that was all ready to poach for a doll's breakfast.

The Experts Say . . .

By KAY KEX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 16, (CP)—By the middle of August the end of vegetable garden—and when it comes to making the most of the summer season, Dominion department of agriculture, know exactly what the well-planned vegetable garden should be.

Just because French dressing is good and delicious, there is no reason why tomato dressing, Thousand Island dressing, cannot be used occasionally on a plain lettuce salad.

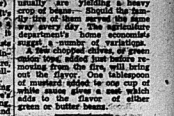
Cucumber sauce is the relish of bread which have been well buttered and browned in the oven—makes an interesting addition to texture and flavor to a lettuce or mixed green salad.

Cooked vegetables also often are improved if dressed up a bit. Butter is the all-round favorite, but during rationing hence it's become a desirable substitute and it's use should be continued. To add flavor to vegetables cook as marrow or green beans.

Horseradish, grated, nutmeg, and paprika, added to cream sauce give it new piquancy. A touch of honey added to melted butter brings out the sweet mild flavor of tender young beets or baby beets.

Hery is a sauce which may be used on lettuce or vegetable salad and is especially good with cold meat:

Cucumber Sour Cream Dressing: Two six-inch cucumbers (approximately 1.1-2 cups chopped); one-half cup sour cream, one-half teaspoon salt; two tablespoons vinegar; few drops spicy peat sauce.



Pare cucumber, chop and drain; whip cream, add seasoning and cucumber. Blend well. Yield: approximately 2.1-2 cups.

Beans may be deliciously good, tender, slightly crisp cool green, or a bright clear yellow, if properly cooked. Young string beans will snap when broken. Wilderness, rusty colored, spotted beans, can never be turned into good dinner dish.

Many a housewife has her own idea—but beans should be cooked, but generally speaking "cut"—thin lengthwise slices or "French" style, is considered a match for beans are cut, they are best cooked in the one inch of salted water until tender crisp. French and cross cut beans require less time than when snapped or whole.

At this time of year gardens usually are yielding a heavy crop of beans. Should the family tire of them served the same way every day. The agriculture department's home economists suggest a number of variations.

Cold cooked beans may be given new tang, added just before removing from the fire, bring out the flavor. One tablespoon of mustard added to one quart of beans will do much to which adds to the flavor of either green or butter beans.

The Kibitzer

Duplicate tournament play brings out the gypsy in you. Even with a safe landing place in sight, a player may wander off into some strange adventure.

In a recent master point match came out this pair of hands:

SOUTH
♠ A K 9 8 7 3
♥ Q J 10 8 5
♦ 4
♣ Q

NORTH
♠ Q 6 2
♥ A K 4
♦ 3
♣ A 8 6 4 2

At most tables the bidding ended at a small slam in one of the major suites. One or two gambled with grand slam bids and these were defeated fast with a diamond lead.

One table went through an odd experience that may interest you. The bidding went like this:

South	North
1 S	2 C
3 H	5 NT
5 H	6 S

The bidding was right down the middle. The south jump to three hearts is forcing to game. Some players do not make a jump with this sort of hand. They do not consider this high card strength enough.

However, south has the eight tricks promised by such a jump. A responding bid by north showed more than two tricks. These eight add up to at least 11 tricks in their pair surely enough for a game.

When north learns of eight tricks in south, 12 or more tricks are counted by him. It is slam material. And he has the other stuff required for using the four no-trump ace-king shower-asker.

In answer to four no-trump, five hearts is Kibitzer convention signal for showing one ace and only one king. Although an ace and two kings are missing, the tricks make a slam try inviting.

It happens that west led club jack. This was the feature that looks so interesting. Letting it come around to the south queen may produce 12 tricks. Would you take the chance?

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 16 — (AP) — The claim most often voiced by press agents is that a client, even if a four-year-old, is "good copy". Not even the most zealous publicist would dare say that about Fred MacMurray.

Among Hollywood correspondents, MacMurray is notoriously "bad copy." A wealthy star who enjoys his leisure, he seems not to worry about publicity. We kidded about his newsleanness on the "Miracle of the Bells" set and I asked why he refrained while others broke their necks to get their names in print.

His answer was like MacMurray — Wordless. He merely placed his hand over his mouth in a "speak no evil" gesture.

MacMurray is one of the hazards of my job, but fortunately — (I'm speaking from a news standpoint), there aren't many like him. Nearly all stars are trained to talk glibly about themselves, and indeed, that is all that some of them can talk about.

Bob Hope, for example, is the fast-travelling interview. You usually get a good story after you wade through writers, and so on, and follow the comic around for an hour. Bing Crosby is much the same, though not so glib. Van Johnson is more of a sitter. He will stay in one place and talk to you about anything.

Humphrey Bogart is always available and if he doesn't have a story for you, he'll make one up. He might even give you a "tough" act with it.

The women have less leisure time on sets. They are usually interviewed in their dressing-room mirrors while they are being made up. Such stars as Irene Dunne, Claudette Colbert and Ingrid Bergman, who are married to doctors and make but a few pictures, are generally non-productive for news, though charming. Betty Hutton, on the other hand, will knock herself out to provide news and Joan Crawford will do it in a more dignified manner.

Yes, its pleasant work, but there is one class of performers I can't go for — the child stars. I love the little tykes, but for news they're awful.

SOUNDS SENSIBLE

Stockholm (CP) — Swedes are sending their suits by air across the Atlantic to have them dry cleaned in New York. It takes less than a week to have a garment cleaned in New York while in Sweden the minimum is two weeks. Also, despite the fact that the sender must pay air freight, the transaction is cheaper, since Swedish dry cleaning establishments charge prices that are four to five times higher than those in America.

TO ERASE ILLITERACY

New Delhi (CP) — The government of the North-West Frontier Province of India hopes to eradicate illiteracy within the next 10 years. The present figure of illiteracy is 13 per cent and a proposal for a system of basic education will be introduced.

SEEDS FOR SEAMEN

Portsmouth, England (CP) — Captain W. G. Agnew, commander of H.M.S. Vanguard in which the Royal Family visited South Africa, presented the National Union of Seamen with seeds from the people of South Africa for planting at the Seamen's Home at Alford.

AT THE CAPITOL—Nancy Coleman and Michael O'Shea are in a tight spot in the hands of un-American mobsters in Monogram's "Violence" coming to the Capitol Theatre on Monday for its first Belleville showing. On the same program "13 Rue Madeleine" starring James Cagney and Annabella.

LONDON MAJORS BEAT KINGSTON BY 14 TO 3 COUNT

Kingston Team, However, Can Reach Finals by Defeating Stratford

Labatt Park, London, Ont., Aug. 16 (CP).—Three of the original six teams remained in the running today for the Canadian Sandlot Congress Baseball championship as London Majors were awaiting the outcome of a game between Kingston Giants and Stratford Nationals to see who they would meet in the finals.

The London nine with a record of three victories and no losses is the only unbeaten team in the Congress. Stratford has three wins against one loss and Kingston one victory and a loss.

Last night London scored a pair of triumphs, defeating Waterloo Tigers 3-0 in a light-hitting affair and then pounding out a 14-3 win over Kingston. In the other game of the night Stratford eliminated the Waterloo club by handing them their second setback of the Congress 3-1.

Today's winner of the Kingston-Stratford game will enter the finals against the Majors. Should London win the game the championship will be in the hands of the hosts club, but if they lose, another game will be played since it takes two losses to knock a team out of the running.

The oddest tilt of last night's triple bill was the opener as London garnered only two hits off Waterloo hurler Arnott and still won. The first inning saw a double by Russ Evon after a pair of walks sent two runs home. Majors wound up their scoring in the second with another run and no hits. A two-base error by Koslewski put McMahon on second and then Arnott booted a bunt to send him home.

Winning hurler was Bill Wagner who gave up a measly four hits and only two bases on balls.

After losing to Waterloo in the first round of the tourney, Stratford Nationals had to win every game to stay in the fray. They did just that, knocking Toronto and Windsor out in successive games, and then topping Waterloo last night.

Chiefly responsible was Russ Getsinger who hurled five-hit ball. Bill Petryna started for Waterloo and gave up all three runs in the second inning on three singles, two walks and a two-base error by Harry James. An infield error in the fifth after Fisher had walked and moved around on Dipple's single accounted for Waterloo's only run.

In the final game of the night Kingston paraded four pitchers in a vain attempt to stop the Londoners. Louis Fisher came to the aid of winning pitcher Bobby Schnurr who pitched the first six innings for London and gave up only two hits.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Ted Williams, Red Sox—Boosted average to .333 with four hits, including two doubles, in five at bats.

Johnny Mize, Giants—Walked and scored a run in first inning, lined to Earl Torgeson, walked, field to Bama Rowell and filed to Tommy Holmes.

Stan Musial, Cardinals—Honored in pre-game ceremonies by fellow townsmen from Donora, Pa., had one hit in five trips, an inside-the-park homer. Failed to get the ball out of the infield in other attempts.

Jackie Robinson, Dodgers—Led winning Brooklyn attack with four hits, including a double, and stole two bases.

Lou Boudreau, Indians—Singled and scored a run in Indians' 2-0 edge, over Browns.

Percy Faith Stars as Conductor On Two Major Network Programs

By PAT USSHER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Aug. 16 — (CP) — Percy Faith, who played the piano in Toronto movie houses during the waning days of the silent picture era, steps into a unique position in the musical realm tomorrow when he starts conducting his second major United States radio network program.

The 39-year-old Toronto-born Faith is taking over the CBS "Coca Cola Show" heard at 6:30 p.m. EDT Sundays. Since 1940 he has been conductor of NBC's "Carnation Contented Hour" heard Mondays at 10 p.m.

It is believed this will be the first time a musical conductor has starred on two major network programs over the North American air waves.

Music Like Bowling Alley

Faith, who has likened American music to a bowling alley — he explains this by saying most radio listeners like to go down the centre of the alley in music rather than veering to the extremes of classical and swing — says he will blend the serious and the popular in his new program.

When sound movies came along, Faith, the eldest of eight children, got a job in an orchestra on a Toronto radio station while studying concert music at the Toronto Conservatory of Music.

In 1931 he began to conduct his own orchestra on the air and three years later was engaged by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation as a staff arranger and conductor.

A program, "Music by Faith," won him a wide reputation and as a result, in September, 1940, he took over the NBC's "Carnation Hour" program.

Brave New Venture

The latest organization to essay the hazards of stage production, the American Company, announces it has two plays in hand: Halstead Welles' "A Temporary Island," expected to open on Broadway in November, and "Citizen" by Norman Lessing. Broadway may see an all-Negro "Camille" before the season is out. The new adaptation of Alexandre Dumas' tragedy, "The Lady of the Camellias," by Marvin Mar, is scheduled to open in Los Angeles shortly.

BATTING AND PITCHING STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Batting:

Jackie Robinson and Bruce Edwards, Dodgers—Robinson collected four hits and stole two bases while Edwards homered with bases loaded and drove in five runs to lead Dodgers to 8-1 win over Philadelphia.

Pitching:

Bob Lemon, Indians—Former infielder-outfielder hurled Cleveland to three-hit 2-0 victory over St. Louis. Lemon fanned four, walked five and also started two double plays and handled seven chances without an error.

Solunar Tables:

Animal Life Regulated by Cycles

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
Noted Sportsman Author and Creator of Solunar Tables

Perhaps without realizing it, all of us are familiar with cycles in some or in many ways. We go upon them and our lives are regulated by them. It would be almost impossible for us to ignore them entirely, try as we may. Yet few if any of us pay conscious attention to them.

Take, for example, the daily and hourly positions of the earth and the sun. The rotation of the former causes the latter seemingly to move across the sky. On this phenomenon is based our system. Standard Time by which we arrange our daily affairs. Yet I doubt very much that any of us considers the matter in terms of cycles. When evening comes, or light in the heavens fades, and darkness covers our little portion of the globe, instead of becoming alarmed we accept it as a matter of course. We know that tomorrow will bring the sunrise.

When the fall of the year arrives, the trees lose their leaves soon, in the Northern latitudes, the ground is covered with snow. Gone are the warm days of summer and the air becomes cold. Instead of growing panic-stricken, we accept the change quite calmly. We know that the cycle of the seasons will, in due course, bring us about the spring of a new year and once again growing things will flourish and will have warm days.

Every time you punch the time clock or go to the office at your usual hour, you are conforming to the pattern of your life to the cyclic regularities of that hour. There is little that we do that is not governed to some extent by cyclic influence.

The lives of human beings, however, are fairly easy to regulate. We, being thinking creatures, make use of daylight hours and spend much of the nights in sleeping. For the creatures of the wild, however, the daily cycle is apt to be somewhat more complex. Some creatures such as the larger predators, are entirely nocturnal in their habits. Lions, tigers and such do almost all their hunting at night and spend a good deal of the hours resting and sleeping. In short, they reverse our plan of living. Others, such as rabbits and deer, are only semi-nocturnal. They move about both by day and by night. It stands to reason that the existence of these creatures is not entirely free of hazard. Nature must have a plan for them just as she has for us. They must have their times for activity and their times for rest or sleep, just as we do.

Or consider a trout in a stream or a bass in a lake. They do not sleep, so we understand the term. Nevertheless certain periods of activity. Here again there must be, and there is, pattern.

In consideration of all these things, a New Providence, in the shape of Solunar Tables, has put up a fair-looking scheme, rythmic in operation and cyclic in nature, to help you to get the best out of your days and nights as is our Creator's intent, since it must apply to all living creatures, it is in a large degree, rythmical, mathematical progression—of periods of rest and periods of activity. In timing instead of being dependent entirely upon the sun, correlates itself with the relative positions of the earth, the sun and the moon. Scientists have been aware of this cycle of activity period's what, rest periods for over two hundred years. Fortunately for me, the obscurity of the relation between the Celtic and the probable cause which governs this cycle rendered its exact determination rather difficult.

• • •

By great good fortune it fell to my lot to stumble upon the key to the riddle. In due course, it became necessary to give this cycle a name. Because the moon and the sun figure in the correlation, the name "Solunar," was coined from the two Latin names of these two heavenly bodies. Because at first it was merely a key, it was called just that—The Solunar Theory.

More than twenty years of thought, study and research have gone into the research which culminated in the Solunar Tables we have it today. Many hundreds of days have been spent in field work and thousands upon thousands of careful observations have been made. Then, the formation of the Solunar Tables, as they now appear, has been put to use in any sense experimental. Guesswork does not enter into their calculation. Instead, the weekly Solunar Tables appear in a perfectly sound foundation of scientific fact.

It is a regrettable trait of human nature to scoff at that which is not understood. Don't persuade that mistake with the Solunar Tables. Instead, spend a few days in the outdoors so that the Solunar Periods are not wasted. They will pay you big dividends in increased enjoyment and betterment.

Solunar Tables

By JOHN A. KNIGHT

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been prepared from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be taking in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you can. Do find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The Major Periods are shown in boldface type. These begin at the times shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The Minor Periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration. Following table will be correct for the August 24. All times Daylight Saving Time.

Day	A.M. Minor	Maj.	P.M. Minor	Maj.
Sunday	12:30	7:45	1:00	8:00

BILL EZINICKI AND STRANAHAN IN GOLF FINAL

By W. E. WHEATLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Royal Quebec Golf Club, Boucherville, Que., Aug. 16 (CP)—In the gloaty shoulder of tough little Bill Ezinicki, Toronto hockey's hopes today to retain the Canadian amateur golf championship.

The week-long trail, taken up by a handful of finalists a week ago, ended, and the only ones left were Ezinicki and Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio.

Out of contention were Henry Marsh, defending champion who won at Edmonton last year, and others who have often been close to the coveted title. Then there was Gordon Taylor of Montreal, who was the title back in 1932, who was eliminated in the quarter-finals Thursday.

It was Ezinicki the hockey playing golfer from Kirkland Scarboro and formerly of Wychwood, who dethroned Marsh in the semi-finals yesterday and found himself up against one of the greatest amateur golfers turned out by the United States.

Stranahan has been the terror with a brilliant 3 and 7 victory in the finals semi-final, but his accomplishment was equalled by Stranahan's 7 and 6 victory over Ezinicki's pal, Frank Strickland, former Quebec amateur champion and runner-up of Canadian amateur competition.

Because of long record in tournament play in the United States as well as in Britain in the Walker Cup matches and the British Open, Stranahan has been installed as favorite in the Canadian tournament began Tuesday. If Stranahan takes the championship to the United States, it will be the first time since 1932, that an American has turned the trick. That year it was Ted Sclarre, Asheville, N.C., who defeated Ross (Sandy) Somerville of London, Ont., on Somerville's home course.

Ezinicki playing two-under par golf through the 36 holes needed for the match, was never in danger. He finished the eight-hole morning round seven up on Marsh and it was all but over.

Stranahan was in trouble three times under par for the 36 holes played.

INJURIES CAUSE DEATH OF BOXER

North Adams, Mass., Aug. 16 (AP)—Glenn Newell, middleweight boxer, died early today at North Adams hospital of injuries suffered last night in a bout with Harold J. Akron, Ohio.

Dr. Arthur Burckel, Meadowbrook Bowl Club physician and associate medical examiner said Smith who was knocked out in the ninth round of a scheduled 10-round bout, apparently died of a cerebral-haemorrhage caused.

Police said no action was taken immediately against Baroudi but there would be a "thorough investigation of the fatality.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE E. CARTER, Sports Editor

The announcement recently of the installation of the artificial ice rink at Lansdowne Park by September 4, should put the curtain on the hopes and fears of the main item wrangleisers who have been trying haven't seen about the ice question. At last, there have been settled beyond all doubt, the best on their namesake and heaved a heavy sigh of relief the moon given our disappointment followed suit.

• • •

They twiddled their thumbs, rubbed a heavy lip, and heaved their fangs in grimaces of exceptional laughter when it was announced that the Philadelphia Rockets would train here for a month starting September 15. They picked dry the official bones of the Arena Committee. They belong to the great fraternity of hockey referees, managers, admirals, and back-room bedbugs. They got their chance to be cast with a helping hand, and the first to reach for it were they're free with their unsolicited advice. Referees have plenty of mesh eggs in their wallets. They root like hell for the home team—when it wins, and pour castigations of blue upon the opposition officials if the locals come out on the short end of the score.

• • •

They live in memories of a sports day that is dead, and they couldn't rate as a Class One pennant in the days of the tall dog eared old days when they were in their prime and when every sporting event was not a penny parade. They played the game for the love of it and not for pin-ball parlor fees. But they never refused the touch of a quiet hand behind a fiver or a few that the old one-buck excelled. They are the type of fellows we delight in dubbing kiddies there "ain't no Santa Claus."

• • •

Doug. Christie, secretary of the Ontario Rugby Football Association is in this district spending a few days away from his desk and office. He dropped in this emporium the other day and during the course of the amenities predicted a big season for minor hockey next year.

• • •

According to Doug, organized hockey among the lower brackets is suffering from a spiritual resurgence all over the province. His association had a record number of affiliations last year and is looking for a further increase in the coming season.

• • •

Installation of artificial ice plants throughout the provinces is having a marked effect on organized hockey in the smaller brackets. The fact that ice is available at all times is a blessing to any hockey organization and the minor loops are no exception.

• • •

And it should be in this village this winter. There is sufficient ice-time and material here to organize at least four teams in Infants, midget and juvenile. All that is necessary is sponsors. The lack of hockey experience who would be willing to take the reigns and guide their destinies and coaching wings? Already we have the promises of at least four ex-hockey players who are willing to lend a hand along these lines.

• • •

Organized minor hockey should go well in this town. It the co-operation of all concerned is forthcoming. Service clubs should not be averse to taking one or more teams of the youngsters to their financial bosom. It wouldn't cost much and look at the fun they could have. A city minor hockey league association should be formed with one delegate per body over-all. Affiliation should be made with the Ontario Minor Hockey Association so that playdowns with other towns could be played. And who knows, maybe we could "dredge up" a bunk of minor championship bacon next spring.

• • •

Madoc Midgets did it and there is no reason why Belleville and district can't. If they are properly organized under the right supervision, the interbreabouts, and it is their rightful heritage, should be encouraged in Canada's national winter pastime. It be a community project and the citizens at club should be proud to undertake, for the investment in the future of the city's youth.

• • •

There should be plenty of hockey horsebeats this winter. The gravepine has it that a much improved Belleville midget squad will trot out on the ice as the 1947-48 edition squad. The recent amusement that the Philadelphia Rockets of the American Hockey League maintain a farm team here should also be good news to the hockey enthusiasts. If Skelly an outstanding coach will be sent here by the Philadelphia Flamhandas, and he will be an ambassador of labour to hockey circles of the city.

• • •

Next Tuesday sees the powerful Napanee baseball team pay the lid off the Belleville Baseball Association playoffs when they entertain the R.C.A.F. Flyers from Trenton in the first of their two-of-three series. Flyers, in all fairness to the Napanee boys, have been weakened of late by players going on furlough, but it is likely the air crew kiddies will be at full strength in their bid for the loop title. The second game will be played here on Thursday of next week.

• • •

In the other half of the semi-finals series Latta will be hosts to the Napanee Nationals in the Exhibition Grounds on Tuesday night. The tilt will be a flood-light affair and will get under way at 8:30. These games should be the best of the season as the players, chips are down and the championship looms up enticingly just over the horizon. The first team to win will go all out to cop the silverware.

• • •

Anything can happen when the boys start battling for a title. Negligee is strongly and has been consistently worn. It is just as powerful a thrust as are the fists. Latta can play smart baseball and will likely do their utmost to everything at once. It should be a good series all round and all games are worthy of all the support local and district fandom can give them.

• • •

Among those in the grand-stand seats rooting for Guy Lombardo on Sunday's Gold Cup Regatta (which he lost when his boat broke down) were Belleville mobsters and cronies all his brothers and sisters except Carmen, who is in Honolulu; Scout Wershin, his booker; Freddie Martin, and Jack Hilerkly, every great-plunger in New York. Lombardo had bought 200 of the 500 grandstand seats (receipts to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund). Guy was the sentimental favorite of the crowd of 50,000 most of whom began to leave as soon as his boat was out in the final heat, when his oil line cracked.

• • •

Bromwich walloped Cernik, 7-5, 6-2, 6-4, in Sunday's play. Dorothy plays Bromwich while Falls takes the court against Cernik. Cernik is given little chance of defeating his Australian opponent although Bromwich is expected to down Bromwich's measure.

Cernik managed to win only three games against Bromwich in their singles encounter and Falls is regarded as an even more effective singles player than his countryman.

Grandstand player in yesterday's doubles match was Long, only one of the four to hold every service. In addition his overhead and valleying proved powerful as did the Aussies triumph. Bromwich, although not lacking into the ball with Long's power demonstrated keen court-craft all through the contest.

Victory today will pit the Aussies against the United States in the challenge round for the Davis Cup which they lost to them last year at Kooyang, Australia. They are holding it since 1939. No Davis Cup play was held in the war years.

AUSSIES NEED ONLY ONE MATCH TO WIN ROUND

By ROBERT CLARKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, Aug. 16 (CP)—Australia only needed a split in the last two singles today for victory in the Davis Cup interzone final against Czechoslovakia and it seemed a foregone conclusion that the Aussies would come up on top.

The Australians took a 2-1 edge in the series yesterday as Jack Bromwich and Colin Long won easily in the doubles over Jaroslav Drobny and Vladimir Cernik, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2. Bromwich defeated Dinsy Falls in an opening day's singles match while

Desmond Burke Wins King's Medal

Connaught Rifle Ranges, South March, Ont. Aug. 16 (CP) — Still ranked among Canada's crack shots, Maj. Desmond T. Burke of Toronto and Ottawa proved yesterday that four years overseas has not dimmed his eagle eye-sight.

A king's prize winner at Bisley when he was 19—in 1924—the stocky, unassuming 42-year-old doctor, cutshot and outran more than 300 sharpshooters to win the King's Medal for the seventh time at the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association meet.

Maj. Burke came back from the ranges with 179, one more than Flt.-Sgt. Tommy Gregory of Ottawa and Saint John, N.B., a 25-year-old member of the R.C.A.F., who has practically assured himself on a place in the 1948 18-man Canadian Bisley team. The third spot was taken by Captain R. W. Hampton of Ottawa.

CHAPTER 8

Just before lunch the next day Sherry went over to Merriman's set. He looked tired and not at all well, and had a small blanket about his shoulders. He said he felt rotten and his cold was worse. Sherry asked him why he did not go home and rest.

Merriman said, "I'd go crazy sitting home thinking about it."

Sherry told him she had read the book that morning and loved it and that she had a lot of ideas. Merriman was pleased with her eagerness and patted her affectionately.

"We'll get a chance to talk about it tomorrow," he told her.

Sherry did not feel like any lunch. She went back to the office and lay down.

After a while Mrs. Drood came in and tossed her a trade paper.

She said, "Thought you'd be interested in this, youngster."

Sherry could hardly believe her eyes. Right in the midst of the news about important people was a caption, Lynne on Writing Staff, and then four lines saying that she was scripting Orville Merriman's next picture.

Sherry said, "Oh, thanks, Mrs. Drood! Isn't it wonderful?"

The editor smiled.

"It's a swell break all right," she said "But you've got pretty thin lately, Sherry. Better rest up a bit before you start your new assignment. Why don't you take the afternoon off?"

Sherry thanked her and said she guessed she would.

She was glad to get home. Hidden House was fresh and cool. She dropped her hat and bag on a chair and lay down and closed her eyes.

It was funny to be so listless and stupid when she was really more excited than she had ever been in her life. She thought about the four lines in the trade paper. The boys would be tickled. She thought about the conference with Merriman tomorrow. Her first story conference. She hoped she would feel cleverer than she did right now.

But the next day she felt no better and Merriman did not come to the studio. Sherry was worried. It must be pretty serious if he would stay home. She got his number from the studio; but his secretary at home said that he was not to be disturbed but that he would give him the message.

On Thursday Merriman was moved to the hospital with pneumonia, and at five o'clock Friday night Mrs. Drood came to Sherry's office to tell her that Orville Merriman was dead.

"Poor Orville," Mrs. Drood said. "But it's a lousy break for you."

Sherry said, "Me? Oh yes—me."

She did not want to talk about it.

The boys were solicitous during dinner and meant to be comforting. Sherry could not eat. She cried now and then. She thought it was funny to be able to cry so easily.

Sandro said, "But it is a pity just when you were going to do his script."

Tony said, "Never mind, sweet, there'll be other chances."

Sherry just stared at them.

After dinner she said she was tired and would like to go to bed. Kris walked to the door with her.

Something had happened to the street lights and the medieval court was dark. It was a farm darkness though, that smelled of honeysuckle. Sherry walked slowly to Hidden House.

This was all so strange. It hurt as much as Mona's going, but there was no tight band around her chest, no lump in her throat. It was easier to let the tears fall than to try to hold them back, but they brought no relief. She seemed to be filled with heavy hurt.

She let herself in slowly, and mechanically went about her nightly chores. Then she put out the light and got into bed. She felt dully that if she could think about it she could get it straightened out, but she could not think.

She started to cough. She coughed for a long time, then lay back weakly. It was hot and she was dizzy. Everything was black.

When she opened her eyes it was bright and sunny. A queer sort of sunshine that was very far away.

A bell was ringing somewhere, but not near enough to have any connection with her. After a while its insistence troubled her though. It was a telephone—her telephone.

Sherry got up and went to it. She did not hurt any more. That was nice.

She said, "Hello."

It was Tony.

He said, "Did you have a good sleep? We phoned Mrs. Drood that you weren't feeling very well and were taking the day off."

Sherry said, "What time is it?"

Tony laughed.

"Ten past twelve. We're bringing your lunch over."

Sherry said, "Thank you. I'll leave the door open," and hung up.

It was nice that you could make a bed and bathe without having to think about it. Before she was out of the tub she could hear the boys laughing in the living room. She put on lounging pajamas and went out.

Her lunch was ready on the card table. Tony and Sandro were standing at attention with dish towels on their arms, pretending to be waiters.

Kris said. "This way, Madam," and indicated the table from which he was holding out the chair.

Then they all stared at her. Sherry smiled what was meant to be a smile.

Tony said, "My gosh, you're beautiful, Sherry!"

Sandro said. "But you have never looked like this before."

Kris came closer to her.

"Sherry, are you ill?"

Sherry heard herself say, "That's a compliment! Can't I look nice without being ill?"

The boys tried to amuse her while she ate, but they did it a little worriedly, watching for effects, and they were more affectionate than usual.

Kris sat beside her and took her hand.

"We tried to make an appointment with that doctor Barton spoke of, but he isn't in his office Saturday afternoons. Will you go Monday surely? We've got to do something about that cough."

She nodded.

She said, "I will, really. Maybe that's what's making me so tired."

By tea time she felt much better—more solid and natural — and thinking was not such an effort.

Sandro had made the tea and Tony was pretending to read Sherry's cup. He was making up nice nonsense when the knocker clunked. Kris opened the door, It was Peter Barton.

Sandro said, "Oh, come in."

Peter explained that Mrs. Drood had told him Sherry was ill, and he had just dropped by to see if he could do anything.

Sherry thanked hi mand asked him to have some tea. The boys seconded the invitation and Peter seemed glad to stay.

Sherry thanked him and asked boys do the talking. For the first time she really noticed Peter. His hair was a little darker than hers and his grey eyes were kind. She thought him to be about thirty and nice-looking in a clean, healthy way. He had broad, dependable shoulders and a reserved manner. He would not be likely to have many friends though.

The boys drew him out a bit. It seemed that Peter lived alone in the Montenegro, a swanky apartment house near by. He had no family and did not go about much. He seemed to like the boys though and they him.

Sherry began to cough again. Peter and the boys stopped talking and watched her. She put a haidkerchief to her mouth and turned away.

Kris sat her up and patted her back. Tony went for some water. Sherry coughed for a long time, then lay back exhausted.

She saw Tony's face go white and realized that he was staring at the handkershief in her hand. She looked at it. There was blood on it.

It was hot now and the breeze that wafted warmly through the open windows was laden with roses and honeysuckle. Sherry breathed it deeply and closed her eyes.

The mountains would be nice, she reflected, the aromatic pines and the quiet lakes. But the doctor had said that if she was moved at all it would have to be to the desert.

They could not afford that, of course, and Sherry was glad. If she was going to die, anyway, it was dreadful to have the boys spend so much money on her. As it was it was awful to lie here day after day, knowing that every cent they made went for her milk and eggs and jellies and broths. Besides, they could never all work at once now, because one of them always had to be with her.

Sherry moved petulantly. She felt hot and sticky and she would have liked a bath and clean cool sheets and a fresh glass of water; but Sandro was busy in the kitchen and she knew how tired he was.

Kris must be tired too, she thought. He had taken the night shift and then got a call for work in the morning. They did not dare turn down a call now.

Tony was staying tonight and Sherry sighed. It was awful to think of their hard days and the nights of sleeping with one eye open all because of her. She knew from the doctor's persistent cheerfulness that he did not hold much hope for her, yet the boys had been so sure, so positive that she would be well and strong again. Maybe they were right. At least after six weeks she was still alive.

At first the doctor had advised wiring Sherry's parents that she must be instantly moved to Arizona—to a quiet sanatorium where she would have absolute rest and plenty of milk and eggs. But it had been that day that the letter from her mother had come.

"I hate to tell you this, honey," it had read in upart, "but poor Daddy has lost his job after being with the firm 15 years... For a while at least, we won't be able send you your allowance... We thank God that you are working though, and getting a good salary."

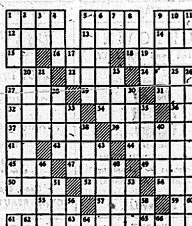
So Sherry had not told them, and the boys had insisted that they could manage.

Sandro came in from the kitchen.

His short-sleeved shirt was open to the waist and beads of perspiration glistened on his forehead. He looked at the pile of freshly laundered nightgowns he carried and said, "These ruffles do not look so well. I was stiffly scared I would scorch them."

He opened a drawer and laid the folded gowns in neat piles.

Sherry smiled and told him they looked beautiful.



Sandro wiped his damp forehead with a handkerchief.

"But as yet there is not a thing for dinner."

Sherry said, "Why don't you rest a while, darling?" She reached out a hand to him. "Tony'll be home pretty soon with the car. You've been working all day long and it's so hot."

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

MULVENEY'S B'WELL

You can't be at your best, at work or at play, if you are feeling glum and grouchy, crippled by lumbago, arthritis or rheumatism. You, like thousands of other sufferers have done, can soon put yourself on your feet again if you will start taking Mulveney's B'WELL—herbal tonic and laxative combined. B'WELL acts as an internal cleanser gently washing away fever-producing acids and soon relieving pain. All you need do is to take a dose of B'WELL before retiring and drink lots of water. Simple but sure! The large size 12 oz. bottle is most economical. At most drugstores.

Four Extremists Held at Prague

Prague, Aug. 13 (AP) — Rude Pravo, Communist organ, reported today that Czechoslovak police at Karlovy Vary (Karlsbad) in Bohemia have arrested four Jewish extremists on charges of bringing explosives to the Spa, where a world Zionist congress is in session.

The paper identified the quartet as members of Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish underground organization blamed for terrorist activities in Palestine.

A direct call to security police headquarters in Karlovy Vary brought confirmation of the arrest of four young Jews — one Pole, one Yugoslav and two Czechs — but police said there was no specific evidence that they were members of Irgun.

Those arrested were found distributing pamphlets against the Zionist Congress and were found in possession of a million full of homemade bombs and bottles of explosives, police said.

NURSES, PADRES RESOURCEFUL IN AUSSIE OUTBACK

Inland Mission Workers Act as Dentists, Ministers, Undertakers in Sparsely Settled Interior

Written for The Canadian Press By LEONE KIRKWOOD

Sydney, Australia, Aug. 15 (CP)— "Echoes from our lonely lands" is the sub-title of the Australian Inland Mission's official journal. It is the aim of the mission to relieve some of that loneliness in Australia's vast, sparsely settled Interior.

Founded in 1913 by the Presbyterian Church to serve white people in the Outback, the mission has come to be known as the friend of all Islanders irrespective of race or creed.

At first it was only concerned with spiritual needs. Priest padres were appointed to look after widely-scattered parishioners. The first padre, Rev. W. J. Stevens, in 1915 set out on his buggy. Now the padres rely mainly on automobiles but still occasionally use camels.

The mission is probably more famous, however, for its provision of nursing and medical facilities. Its superintendent, Rev. Dr. John Flynn, after a tour of the continent expressed concern at the lack of medical facilities.

Nursing homes were set up at strategic centres. These are staffed by two nurses appointed for two years. Because of the loneliness and hardship, it is considered unwise to leave a nurse in the Interior longer. For the same reason, nurses who are close friends are appointed to the same home.

Social Centres

The nurses do more than just look after the sick. They make the nursing home the social centre of the district and provide companionship for settlers and recreation facilities. They hold Sunday School for children in their districts.

The nurses know something about dentistry. Bushmen ride hundreds of miles to a nursing home to have teeth pulled out. When deaths occur, a nurse frequently acts as undertaker, then as minister, conducting the burial service, and finally as comforter and friend to the bereaved.

Reports from the nurses are graphic. One described a five-hour, 60-mile journey over rough country to attend a cattleman with a broken leg. She added: "Out at the camp, the men reported the patient hadn't sworn much when they pulled the bone back into place, although it'd been sticking out about two inches and it took five men to do it."

The nature of the country in which the nurses work can be gauged by this extract from a padre's report. "The midday sun makes Death's Inferno seem, in comparison, like the most delightful regions of the North Pole. There is no shade, for the trees are only small bushes, a couple of feet high. In these roots dwell colonies of vicious ants."

So far, the mission has set up 'bible homes and hostels, five clubs and mission stations and seven medical bases, in which it has brought into existence the Flying Doctor scheme and was instrumental in protecting the white residents set. This mechanism, operated by a foot-pedal like a bicycle, is established in many outback homes. It permits people to communicate with one another, and, in emergencies to send out calls for help from their isolated homes.

Pedigree Pup Boom in U.K.

London, (CP) —A boom in pedigree dogs is reported by officials of the Kennel Club, Piccadilly, which last year registered a record number of 111,000 dogs at 2s. 6d. (50 cents) a time.

E. Holland Buckley, who is working overtime to keep up with the rush, said a further 85,172 dogs were entered during the first half of this month.

"People seem to be going in for pedigree dogs," he added, "and there's a swing-back from the war years when registrations fell off to a mere 12,000 in 1941."

The current index contains 600,000 dogs and historical files contain the names of another 300,000.

Cockers are the most popular with 25,000 registered last year. Next came Alsatians, 11,000; wire-haired fox terriers, 8,000; Scottish terriers, 6,000; Pekingese, 3,500; Dachunds, despised during the First World War, numbered; 4,500.

The once-popular Old English Mastiff, and other large dogs such as Newfoundlands, are said to be on the decline because of the difficulty of feeding them.

"Only one Newfoundland was registered last year," Buckley said.

The Kennel Club, whose chairman is A. Croxton Smith, journalist and dog judge, will revive its famous dog show, not held since 1938, at Olympia in the Fall of 1948.

Virginia Youth Now Big Trader In Arctic Area

By ENID NEMY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Edmonton (CP) — Stan Petter one of the most fabulous of the north's many notables, has experienced more in the last of a century than the average person does in a lifetime.

Stan came from the south — Virginia — when still a child and settled down in Grande Prairie Alta., to lead the life of a normal farm boy. The year 1921 was the turning point in his life. His father established two trading posts in the north and ran them in conjunction with the general store he had acquired in Grande Prairie. Later he sold the store and went into the fur trade business exclusively.

The first post was in northern British Columbia and from there the Petters moved on to the Northwest Territories and finally Aklavik. There they had their main post and three other posts were scattered throughout the north. Small traders bought supplies and usually paid for them in cash and natives used fur to pay for their provisions. White fox, muskrat and mink poured into the post and was then resold to tourists or placed on open auction markets at Edmonton, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

The post at Aklavik was recently sold but the outposts have been retained. The elder Petter died in 1942 and since then Stan has carried on alone, also acquiring the dance hall, theatre, hotel restaurant and town power plant at Aklavik.

Life in the north becomes catching, but now Stan says he wouldn't want to live there indefinitely "but neither would I like a business that would keep me from getting up there about once a year." His mother, three sisters and a brother all live in the United States but Stan says he'd just as soon remain in Canada.

And as a matter of interest to feminine readers — he's a bachelor.

Thirsty Cyprus Seeking Water

By GIBSON COWAN

Kyrenia, Cyprus, (Reuters)— Camps for would-be illegal Jewish immigrants into Palestine are now being planned here on a long-term policy.

With completion of two new camps at Xylotymbou, Cyprus, now is able to accommodate 25,000 internees. But, at the present Palestine immigration quota rate, immigrants from the "Model Rapsodoli" who reached here May 26 last will have to wait two years before they can hope for legal admission.

The first batch who arrived on August 14, 1946, had to wait only 14 weeks and left for Palestine on December 2.

Water—and inland-wide problem in Cyprus—is the first and foremost problem in these camps.

Both Col. Potter of Carsolce and Col. Dent of Xylotymbou frankly admitted the water difficulty, and stated that although additional tanks are being built with the utmost speed, the problem is not solved.

Some camps, they said, had tap water for three and six hours on alternate days—90-93 hours a week—and the official ration was about 1 1-2 gallons per person per day for all purposes, but it seemed fairly clear that this amount was not arriving.

All water has to be chlorinated before drinking.

The position is perhaps more difficult to bear at Xylotymbou, and at camp 55 Carsolce, because, although the sea is in sight, it has not yet been possible to arrange facilities for bathing. Camp leaders admit that they were offered a scheme whereby 200 could bathe each day; but as this would mean that inmates could get one swim every two months, it did not contribute greatly to a solution.

The most bitter complaint heard at the camps was against the system of collective punishment which was introduced following the hunger strike and disturbances last April, when luxuries such as cigarets were plentiful and inter-camp visits, and visits to relatives in hospital—except in exclusively serious cases—were forbidden for one month.

FRES. TRUMAN REPEATS SUPPORT OF WATERWAY

Washington, Aug. 14 — (AP)— President Truman today reiterated his support of the proposed St. Lawrence waterway project.

He also referred a press conference questioner to his messages on the subject and said "of course" he favored the project.

He said he had favored it for 14 years, beginning with the time when he first went to the Senate.

THREE CONVICTS ESCAPE 'PEN' AT KINGSTON

'Numbers Gang' Blamed in Bank Robbery

$100,000 Loot Taken From 33 Safety Boxes

Gang May Have Been Scared Off Before Completing Job

Toronto, Aug. 18 —(CP)— Three men were held for questioning by police in connection with a weekend robbery of the Dundas and Chestnut Street branch of the Royal Bank of Canada on the edge of Chinatown here. Police suspected the "Numbers Gang" was involved in the robbery in which a hole was smashed through a wall and more than $100,000 in cash, jewerly and negotiable securities taken from safety deposit boxes.

Detectives noted the similarity between this and other recent bank "jobs" in Ontario which have been laid to the "numbers gang" who call each other by number instead of by name and are believed to have a red-headed girl among their number. In the recent robbery of the bank of Nova Scotia at Carp, Ont., where more than $200,000 was taken, entry was gained by smashing through a 18-inch brick wall into the vault.

Some 33 safety deposit boxes, one-third of the Toronto bank's total, were looted. Police believe the gang may have been "scared off" before they completed their work.

The robbery was discovered by Jacob Ceresne, a bank employee, who found the mass of brick and debris at the foot of the wall into the vault. Insurance palicies and other non-negotiable securities from the rifled boxes were scartered throughout the vault.

Vault Not Opened

Bank officials said no attempt had been made to open the huge money vault of the bank.

Entry was first gained to Aplebaum's second-hand store next door to the bank. Then the robbers broke open two doors in a back corridor, bringing them face-to-face with the wall through which they smashed into the safety-deposit vault.

Some of the safety deposit box holders lost heavily. Mrs. Fred Lamp said she lost the entire estate of her late husband, but did not reveal the amount. Many of the box holders were Chinese.

Father and Son Killed in Plane

Detroit, Aug. 18 — (AP) — A Toronto father and his son were killed and two other persons critically injured early today when the seaplane in which they had gone up to escape the heat crashed in Lake St. Clair.

Dead were Alvin Rowe, 43, of Toronto, and his son, Douglas, seven.

Injured were Rowe's brother, Howard, 36, pilot and owner of the plane, and his fiancee, Betty Pioprowski, 20, of Detroit.

Howard Rowe, who operates a plane taxi service at the Jefferson Beach amusement park near Detroit, told Macomb county deputies that he closed his concession at midnight and took the party for a plane ride "because of the heat."

"We'd been circling for several minutes, and everything seemed all right," he said. "Then, without any warning at all, the plane went into a spin. I fought it but I couldn't do a thing."

The plane came down a mile off shore, opposite Nine Mile Road in St. Clair shores. Rescue parties found Howard Rowe swimming, although he was semiconscious. Miss Pioprowski, who was unconscious was floating buoyed by a life preserver.

No sign of the plane nor of Rowe and his son was found. Rescue parties circled the area nearly two hours, and resumed the search at dawn aided by United States Army planes from Selfridge Field.

PRINCESS AND FIANCE CHEERED AT BALMORAL

Ballater, Aberdeen, Scotland, Aug. 18 (Reuters) —Princess Elizabeth and her fiance, Lieut. Philip Mountbatten, were cheered by a large crowd when they accompanied the King and Queen to Crathie Church, near Balmoral Castle, yesterday.

JEWISH REFUGEES BEGIN HUNGER STRIKE ON SHIPS

Protest British Refusal To Return Them To Palestine; Food Sent To Ships Returned

Paris, Aug. 18 — (Reuters) — Jewish refugees from the Exodus began a hunger strike on board the three British ships off Port De Bouc, Southern France, today to protest against British refusal to return them to Palestine.

The strike action was taken on all three of the British ships—the Runnymede Park, Ocean Vigour and Empire Rival.

Food supplies delivered to the ships this morning by the French relief organization were returned to the quay.

Less than 150 persons have come ashore from the three ships since they arrived off the French coast from Haifa 19 days ago, and the immigrants have stood by their refusal to land "anywhere but in Palestine."

Since the 4,400 refugees on the illegal Jewish immigrant ship Exodus 1947 were intercepted by the Royal Navy in a clandestine journey to Palestine and returned to France, there have been rumors of their departure to a British-controlled port, said to be "Mombasa or somewhere else in Kenya." But so far neither British nor French officials have received any instructions about the ships' sailings.

New Clues Turn Up in Search For Missing Aircraft

Halifax, Aug. 18 — (CP)—The search for two missing planes and their three occupants was spurred into new life today as officials investigated the finding of two new clues during the weekend.

A pontoon picked up in Advocat Bay, on the shore of Minas Basin, was identified by officials of the Halifax Flying Club as part of the Fleet Canuck airplane missing since Aug. 17 when it left nearby Waverley on a flight to Fredericton. Two men were aboard.

Two planes of the club were detailed to search the area today and a land search was also organized. Club officers expressed fear that the private plane had crashed into the Basin.

Meanwhile, aircraft from Goose Bay, Labrador, and Harmon field Nfld., continued the search for a light Fox Moth photographic survey plane and its one occupant missing since Aug. 10.

A new clue was uncovered last night from surveyors at Natashquan, Que., 600 miles east of Quebec City, who said they had seen a plane "flying low and apparently lost" last Tuesday.

The plane had taken off from Rapid Lake, Que., en route to Goose Bay. Search and rescue officials were at a loss to explain what it was doing at Natashquan only 175 miles away. The Moth was manned by Pilot J. B. Mutton of Toronto.

The Fleet Canuck was carrying John MacLean of Hopewell, N.S., and Norman Crew of Waverley. The plane was reported missing two days after it left Waverley.

"ONLY BEGINNING" OF ACTIVITIES

Vienna, Aug. 18 —(AP)— A competent American military source said Saturday that United States authorities were "thoroughly convinced" that the recent bombings of a British leavetrain and Sacher's Hotel in Vienna were "only the beginning" of Jewish underground activities against British authorities in Austria. The informant said the Americans were convinced the attacks were the work of Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish underground organization.

Ambassador Atcheson, 9 Others Dead, Missing As Plane Crashes in Sea

Honolulu, Aug. 18 — (AP) — Ambassador George Atcheson Jr., and three ranking officers from Gen. MacArthur's strategic and operations staff were among 10 lost in the crash of a United States Army transport at sea, 65 miles west of Pearl Harbor, late Saturday.

The disaster raised immediate speculation as to the possible effect, particularly as to time schedule, on American plans for the signing of a Japanese peace treaty at the earliest practical date.

Atcheson, who represented the United States at Pacific four-power conferences and many other vital meetings since the occupation of Japan, was en route to Washington accompanied by a small, expert staff of key army officers, to discuss preliminaries to a Japanese peace treaty, high on the list of American diplomatic objectives.

There were eight crew members and five passengers aboard the converted B-17 when the bomber ran out of gasoline and, in rough seas, made the ill-fated landing. Only three men were known to be saved. Five bodies were recovered. Searchers today were trying to find the five missing, including Atcheson.

Colonel Rescued

As the plane plunged down to its destruction, Atcheson "did not say anything; he only smiled very quietly," said one of the survivors, Col. Harvey Huglin, who was rescued from the rough, shark-infested sea, dotted with bright souvenir kimonas from Japan.

The other three passengers were Col. Carl A. Russell, Col. David Larr, and Navy Capt. Randolph B. Boyer.

Russell was an assistant chief of staff, Allied headquarters, and all three were members of headquarters' joint strategic plan and operations group.

Atcheson, in addition to advising MacArthur on political matters, served as chairman of the four-power Allied Council for Japan. As such he was a veteran of many a polite disagreement with the Russians — and sometimes British and Chinese — delegates. He was one of the foremost American experts on Far Eastern affairs.

GREEK GUERRILLAS SET UP COURTS TO IMPLEMENT GOVT.

Three Members Under a People's Commissar Would Handle Cases

Athens, Aug. 18. (AP)—Guerrilla fighters in Northern Greece were, by their own account, setting up people's courts in their territory today under a temporary military regime represented as the forerunner of a "provisional democratic government."

Their so-called "democratic army" said in a radio broadcast yesterday that these courts, of three members each under a peoples commissar, would handle cases calling for sentences of up to five years' imprisonment, while military courts would handle more serious cases.

This report came from the same station that last Friday night broadcast that Communist Gen. Markos Vifiades, guerrilla commander, had taken up the administration of a "democratic government" from his headquarters, until a provisional government could be formed with a 'popular national assembly".

Neither broadcast indicated where the station nor the headquarters was located. Greek officials have said that the transmitter is in Tirana, capital of Albania, and one Greek source has reported Gen. Markos—as he is best known—to be based in Argirocastro, Albania, 70 miles south of Tirana and only ten miles from northwestern Greece.

Capture Two Villages

Athens newspapers meanwhile reported that guerillas beaten back before Grevena in the northwest July 27 by government troops had captured two villages and strategic heights in the Grammos and Smolikas Mountains in a renewed attack.

Other reports last night said the Greek National Defence Council was planning to increase Greece's 155,000-man army by another 50,000 to bring heavier forces against the guerrillas.

The newspaper dispatches said government forces had withdrawn to Konitsa after inflicting severe losses on rebels at Exochi, four miles north of there and three miles from Albania.

To the east of this section, a government press bulletin reported that 1,500 guerrillas recently had entered Greece in the vicinity of Kastoria and Phlorina, near the Yugoslav and Albanian borders.

The ministry of Public Order reported government successes against guerrillas near Volos on the Aegean Sea north of Athens, and a news dispatch said Greek soldiers had been shot at from Bulgaria in the Evros district of Western Thrace.

TWO CHILDREN DIE AS COTTAGE BURNS AT LAKE

Flash Fire Near Carleton Place Turns Family Holiday Into Tragedy

Carleton Place, Aug. 18—(CP)—Three families of Eastview, Ont., an Ottawa suburb, nursing burns of varying degree, today were recovering from the shock and horror of a flash fire which turned a weekend outing into tragedy and claimed the lives of two of the group's youngest members.

Flaming gasoline from a stove started the blaze in a tiny, jam-packed cabin at the summer colony of Lake Park, on the shores of picturesque Mississippi Lake four miles west of here, where the 16 inter-related victims had journeyed by truck Saturday. The six children and 10 adults in the party were trapped in the eight-by-10-foot cabin and only one escaped unscathed.

Several men in the group were smoking and talking at the door when the fire broke out and were burned in their efforts to save the others.

Dead were Denyse LeBlanc, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marcel LeBlanc, and Claudette Gravelle, aged seven, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Severe Gravelle. Parents of both children were burned severely about the arms and head by the flames, nearby unoccupied cabins before nearby unoccupied cabins beforle it could be halted.

Cabin Mass of Flames

Following the incident, which occurred early Sunday after the six children had been put to bed, Mrs. LeBlanc related she had filled the stove when she saw some overflow gasoline run across the floor toward a table where a lighted oil lamp was standing. Before she had time to realize the danger, a sheet of flame went up, the tank in the stove exploded and the entire cabin was a mass of flames.

William Bittle of Carleton Place, operator of a refreshment booth at the resort, first noticed the fire from his automobile, 200 yards away. The cabin was "an inferno" by the time he could reach it, and the father of one of the children was being restrained from entering the blazing structure.

"It would have been suicide to enter," Mr. Bittle said.

Another local resident, Dr. Ross MacDowall gave first aid to the injured, who were taken to hospital at Almonte, Ont., and Ottawa.

The cabin had been rented by Mr. and Mrs. Royal Marier, who, with their 15-year-old daughter Noella, planned to stay a week at the lake. All suffered burns.

14 MORE BODIES STILL BURIED IN WILLIAM DEBRIS

Tough-Spirited Miners Return to Digging Vital Coal Near Scene Of Friday's Disaster

Whitehaven, Cumberland, England, Aug. 18—(CP)—Volunteer rescue teams, refreshed after a long sleep, picked up their 40-pound ozygen equipment sets today and resumed their search for 14 bodies still to be located in the undersea William pit where 104 coal miners were killed by a blast Friday.

As families made arrangements to bury their dead, mining was resumed today in other pits in the neighborhood. The disaster was responsible for "a certain amount of absenteeism" in another big undersea pit — the Haig — where 300 instead of the usual 400 showed up for today's shift.

Callboard officials, however, said it was "a very creditable turnout under the circumstances."

No decision has yet been made whether William Pit should be closed permanently or reopened on a smaller operational basis. Full exploration of the workings will be necessary before Professor A. M. Bryan, chief mines inspector, can issue a ruling.

While Whitehaven took the disaster in stride, plain brown coffins continued to be delivered to homes. Forty mates of the dead men today dug the graves in a 30-acre public cemetery where 200 Whitehaven and district miners killed in previous disasters since 1910 are interred.

Widows Break Down

Many widows broke down as the dead came home but others were proud and fearless.

Cumberland men have been miners for generations and more than a century of sudden death and violent accident underground has bred a stoicism among them. In Whitehaven, a town of 20,000, old coal-mining families have grown up prepared for the worst.

All seven Whitehaven churches offered prayers for the dead and their kinfolk yesterday. Next Sunday also will be a day of prayer and at a later date there will be memorial services.

Saturday there was excitement at the pithead when rumors spread through the town that some of the imprisoned miners still were alive. This hopeful note was struck when three men walked out of the death pit after they ran to safe spots when the blast spread deadly gas fumes through the mine.

Had to be Carried

The men, Daniel Hinde, John Birkett and James Weightman, stumbled over falls and squeezed past boulders. Found 21 hours later in a pocket of fresh air, they waved aside stretcher bearers with: "Hell, we'll walk."

But their legs gave way and they had to be carried out.

In all 13 survivors came out of the blast. Ten of the 117 men at work when the explosion occurred were rescued within a few minutes before they were some distance away on the entrance side of the blast area. The 107 others were trapped by tons of rock and coal. Spreading gas meantime had slowed down the work of mask-equipped rescue squads digging their way through the debris.

Compensation for the survivors of the victims will be meagre — from two to five shillings (40 cents to $1) a week from the mayor's relief fund, and another small pension from the Coal Board.

DIED OF SKULL FRACTURES

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 18—(CP)—Coroner James Heary of Niagara Falls, N.Y., said yesterday that Harold Wattam, 18, of Niagara Falls, Ont., died of multiple skull fractures probably caused by falling down the Niagara Gorge bank. The youth's body was found Saturday on the cliff of the American side of the Gorge.

After the announcement, authorities released Douglas Till, 20, of Niagara Falls, Ont., Wattam's companion on a Saturday night drinking party a week ago. He had been held for questioning since the body was found.

Believed Men Received Help From Outside in Their Escape

Kingston, Aug. 18—(CP)—Three long-term criminals, described as "the most dangerous prisoners" in Portsmouth Penitentiary here, made their escape from the huge prison in the early morning hours and are still at large, police said.

Foremost of the three is the notorious Donald (Mickey) MacDonald, 40-year-old Torontonian. The other two are Ulysses Lauzon, 23, of Windsor and Nicholas Minnelli of Ottawa.

Penitentiary officials said the trio sawed through the bars of their cells indicating they had outside aid. Police throughout the province immediately were given descriptions of the trio as an Ontario-wide search got under way.

Police believe that accomplices waited outside the penitentiary in an automobile with a change of clothes for the prisoners. A car stolen in Kingston several hours before the break is believed to be the one used by the trio and their helpers.

Roadblocks Set Up.

Roadblocks were set up on all roads leading to Ottawa and Montreal since it is believed that in this district is hidden some of the money stolen by Lauzon in several of his bank robberies.

Complete details of the break were not available immediately but Portsmouth officials said they would make details known as soon as "the full facts" are checked.

MacDonald was serving a 15-year sentence for high-jacking consecutive with a 2½-year sentence for assault. Lauzon was serving the longest sentence — 36 years for three bank robberies and a jail-break at Kitchener. Police said Minnelli was serving a "lengthy term" for armed robbery.

Minnelli Easiest to Trace.

Police said they believed Minnelli would be the easiest to trace since he has the initials "N.M." tatooed on the right side of his chin. He is described as being 35, five-feet five-inches tall, weighing about 144 pounds. He is of dark complexion with dark brown eyes and black hair.

MacDonald is five-feet 9¾-inches tall, of medium build with dark brown hair, blue eyes and medium complexion. He is 40 years old.

Lauzon is five-feet eight inches, 145 pounds, medium complexion, hazel eyes and dark-brown hair.

Sentences Started in 1944

MacDonald's current sentences were started in 1944. Before he was sentenced to 15 years, he was given the 2 1-2 year sentence for assaulting the 88-year-old doorman of a Toronto hotel. In December of that year, MacDonald together with his brother Edwin, and two companions, were found guilty of armed robbery of a $35,000 liquor truck and its load and of kidnapping the driver.

The 23-year-old Lauzon was convicted in November, 1945, for bank robbery and jail breaking. The charges against him were robberies of the Canadian Bank of Commerce branch at Ayr, Ont., May 9, 1945; the Royal Bank of Canada branch at Bath, Ont., Aug. 28, 1945; the Canadian Bank of Commerce branch at Port Perry, Ont., Aug. 6, 1945; and breaking out of Waterloo, County Jail at Kitchener, Ont., July 19, 1945.

Once Up For Murder

MacDonald, a 40-year-old stockily built man had at one time been sentenced to be hanged for the murder of James Windsor, Toronto bookmaker, in January, 1939. MacDonald appealed the sentence and on retrial was freed after a 15-day sitting.

The jury that acquitted MacDonald deliberated for 8 1-2 hours and explained that there was "reasonable doubt" that he had been the murderer.

The liquor high-jacking case brought up the name of Rocco Perri, self-styled king of the bootleggers, who disappeared from his Hamilton home in April 1944, but no connection between Perri and MacDonald was proven.

Small Boats Form Mercy Armada To Rescue Trapped Fire-Fighters

Small fishing craft of all descriptions were forming an armada of mercy this morning as they prepared to head for the tiny community of Red River, near Bald Mountain, in the northern section of Cape Breton Island where a number of fire-fighters have been trapped by the advancing flames of a week-old forest fire.

The tiny village is only a short distance from Pleasant Bay where residents fled their homes last week as spreading flames devastated the community. Surrounding the area 8,000 acres of charred virgin forests marked the worst forest fire in the island's history.

The blaze died down during the weekend but sprang to life again last night as the flames leaped skyward from the slopes of Bald Mountain.

Rangers said it was impossible to tell the number of men trapped but added that they were sure at least one group of three or four had been isolated. Eleven others made an escape shortly before flames walled in the area where they had been battling the blaze.

Residents of the village had already been evacuated to Cheticamp, 19 miles away, where the Canadian army has taken over the operation of refugee facilities.

And 40 miles to the south another was burning near Margaree.

Appeals came for hose and pumps but none could be spared from the Red River fight for life.

Meanwhile, on the Nova Scotia mainland, fires were still burning in Antigonish county and two new blazes were reported from Moncton, N.B.

The blaze near Monastery, N.S., was believed to be well under control but further north on Cape George a two-weeks-old fire was out of hand. No settlements were in immediate danger.

Neither of the two fires reported from Moncton had assumed serious proportions last night.

Hitler May Have Been Slowly Poisoned in Last Years of Life

By TOM REEDY

Nuernberg, Aug. 18, (CP) — The record of an interrogation of a German doctor on trial for his life has disclosed a hint that Hitler may have been poisoned by slow degrees in the last years of his life.

The document is in the files of prosecutors who tried 23 Nazi SS doctors for inhuman experimentation.

It is a long-winded Nazi-inspired statement by Dr. Karl Brandt, hawk-nosed SS man who was the Fuehrer's personal physician for a time and had entree to his circle of intimates.

It tells how Hitler surrounded himself with various women besides Eva Braun, and nightly "held court" like something out of the Arabian nights.

Brandt apparently didn't realize, or preferred not to realize the implications of his story.

He casually commented:

"Hitler began to suffer more and more from intestinal troubles. The diet assistant, a half-Jewess who had been sent by Field Marshal Antonescu (Iron Guard Dictator of Romania) had to be replaced."

Brandt doesn't himself know if there was any connection but Americans expressed astonishment that Hitler, the greatest Jew hater of all time, should trust a part Jew to prepare his food. Was his growing stomach and intestinal trouble purely a coincidence?

In any event, the half-Jewish woman was "replaced," whatever that means.

The doctor said that a "Miss Martiali" was engaged as diet expert.

"There was scarcely a day when Hitler did not stress the surprises prepared for him by Miss Martiali."

But Hitler wasn't quite as naive as Brandt, apparently, for:

"Hitler, who always had taken his meals alone, invited Miss Martiali to his meals, pointing out that she ought to taste herself of the dishes she prepared."

Brandt said that this procedure became a fixation with the Fuehrer to the point where it cut his own Eva Braun out of his company at mealtime, for instance:

"That went so far that even in Berlin Miss Braun had to recede and take her meals alone while Hitler took his lunch or supper together with Miss Martiali."

The doctor said this led to tension between the Fuehrer and his mistress but never quite to an open break. Hitler firmly insisted that Miss Martiali sit at his right at his nightly tea gatherings. These were attended by the same clique, ruled pretty much by Eva and her sister Gretl who married the S.S. General, Fegelein.

Occasionally, Brandt said, the wife of Martin Bormann would show up but she sat in a corner and never said much.

Four Peach Trees On Sinclair Street Loaded With Fruit

Mouth-watering luscious peaches are proving a big attraction for fruit their haunts of the Niagara district.

Four trees groaning with their load of the golden fruit are attracting a lot of attention in the garden of Jack Bennett 17 Sinclair Street. The peaches are of excellent size and texture and their flavor comparable to any of the imported varieties.

On Saturday Mr. Bennett picked four baskets of fruit from one of the trees. The others have boughs almost touching the ground with the weight of the peaches.

Mr. Bennett planted the peaches from pits some eight years ago and the trees which he has since have grown from tiny saplings to mature size.

So heavy is the yield this year that Mr. Bennett was obliged to place supports under many of the heavily laden branches to prevent them from breaking down. Pieces of board, plank, stepladders, in fact anything that would serve as a prop, have been put into service.

The trees afford a pretty picture with the gold of the fruit mingling with the deep green of the foliage.

MANY MEMBERS ATTEND

Bloomfield Rod (CP)—Old timers of Brantford's Klondyke Club gathered last week for the annual re-union. The 50th anniversary meeting of the gold rush drew members from many points in Canada and the United States.

Veterans Hold Decoration Day At Cemeteries

Only a small number of veterans were on hand yesterday on the occasion of the annual Decoration Day sponsored by the Belleville branch of the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans in Canada. Veterans will be welcome, regardless of affiliation, are invited.

Buses and automobiles conveyed the veterans of both wars to the Belleville Cemetery where a comparatively large number of private residents were in attendance.

The band of the Salvation Army here played for the parade and the brief service in the cemetery. Maj. G. Earl of the Salvation Army was in charge of the service.

Immediately following the veterans placed wreaths of flowers on the graves of their departed comrades in both Belleville and St. James Cemeteries. The flowers were prepared by members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the branch.

Cyril Holland Praised for Work At Memorial Park

One of the better kept spots in the city is the grounds surrounding the cenotaph on Station Street. This has drawn the attention of people residing in that vicinity who are loud in their praises of the fine well-kept appearance of the ground.

And this is due mainly to the efforts of Cyril Holland, son of Mr. William Holland, a member of the executive of the Army, Navy, and Air Force Veterans here. For some Mr. Holland has been doing a splendid job in his job of caretaker, and the flowers have drawn the warm appreciation of not only war veterans but "civies" as well.

The grounds are spacious and their care involves a lot of time and work, but Cyril does it unstintingly and with pleasure in the job. His efforts, neighboring residents say are worthy of the highest commendation and through them the Cenotaph and its grounds are a pleasure to see.

Police Blotter

Escorting of the gentry who had gazed on the wine when it was too red, interspersed with patching up family disagreements kept the city police force fairly busy over the weekend.

A number of inebriates spent Saturday night as guests of the city with the majority paying the conventional ten and costs the next morning. Others may prefer the customary sojourn "on the hill."

One of the inebriates discovered in a sad plight with his clothes torn and several cuts on his face murmured thickly to a police officer something about having been up. He was escorted to the station in a wobbly condition and allowed to recover.

A small truck believed to be owned by Trenton which had been abandoned for two days on Bridge Street West was taken to a

OBSERVES FREEDOM IN HER OWN WAY

While in India crowds are celebrating their newly won independence with parades, festivals and riots, throughout the world other Indians, ex-patriates have their individual methods of recognizing the birth of their homeland as a nation. Here Tutu Gyani, five-year-old daughter of Indian High Commissioner M. R. Ahuja in Toronto, wraps herself up in the Indian flag. Too young to understand words like "independence," "freedom" and "self-rule," she is able, nevertheless, to make use of the flag.

Major Watt Guest Speaker at Church

Frankford — Major Watt, of the Salvation Army at Peterboro, was guest speaker at the United Church for the morning service on Sunday. The Salvation Army Band under the leadership of Bandmaster G. Routley furnished music for the service. Nine army members sang "In the Garden" and "I Love Thee." Rose contributed a vocal solo "O Love of God." The musical numbers were greatly enjoyed by those who had gathered to hear them.

In his message to the congregation Major Watt said: "Nothing can give us peace, poise and purpose but nothing. Jesus Christ is teaching the word of God." He said the post-war world is supposed to be free from want, with new washing machines, new cars, new freedom, but instead there is a great deal of want. "We are still sending food and clothing to Europe. There are still millions of displaced persons. We can have no freedom from want, freedom of speech or freedom from fear with the atomic bomb hanging over us."

Major Yorganson, a missionary on furlough from Kenya, East Africa, was also present and assisted in the service.

OBITUARY

LATE MRS. MARGARET ANN COULTER

The funeral of the late Mrs. Margaret Ann Coulter, wife of William Coulter, was held from the United Church in Foxboro to Thomasburg Cemetery for interment Sunday afternoon. Rev. A. E. Shotton conducted the services both at the church and the graveside. During the church service Mr. Frank Tummon sang "Near the Cross."

The bearers included Harry Wickett, Floyd Ashley, Burley Hamilton, Clifford Wilson, Harry Lott and William Woods.

THOMAS W. BLATHERWICK

Following an illness of but a few days, Thomas William Blatherwick died at his home on R. No. 2 Shannonville early Monday. The news of his death came as a shock to the neighborhood, where he had resided all of his life and was not only well known, but highly respected.

The deceased died on the homestead on which he was born the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Blatherwick. He was in his 77th year and followed the farming all of his life. His wife was the former Lillian Maude Badgley.

Besides a widow, two sons, John Thomas of Shannonville and Bellville and two daughters Mrs. Damon Hinchey of Shannonville and Miss Marion Blatherwick at Home survive, as well as six grandchildren. George, Ruth, Bruce and Marcia Blatherwick and James and Dan Hinchey.

The deceased was an elder in the Melrose United church and for many years took an active part in the activities of the church's work throughout the district. He was also a member of the Foresters.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. SARAH ANNE HAYWARD

While vacationing at Kirkland Lake, Mrs. Sarah Anne Hayward, wife of Robert F. Hayward, 90 Victoria Ave., N. died there quite suddenly on Sunday. The deceased woman was in her 64th year. At the time of her death Mr. and Mrs. Kirkland Lake, the late Mrs. Hayward was vacationing at the mining centre and died at the result of a heart attack. News of her passing came as a shock to the community in which she spent her life.

The late Mrs. Hayward was born in England, the daughter of John Hayward, of Toronto. Besides her husband, one son John Hayward, of Toronto, three daughters, Mrs. Gordon (Dorothy) Dimont, Belleville, Mrs. Clayton (Clara) Hands, Port Hope and Mrs. Clarence (Grace) Ramsey of this city, survive, as well as several brothers and sisters in England.

The late Mrs. Hayward was a faithful member of Bridge Street, in which she took an active part in the work of the Parish Guild and the Women's Auxiliary.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

Marmora

District Lodges Commemorate Relief of Derry at Celebration

Marmora — The largest commemoration of the Relief of Derry to be held in Marmora was held in that village on Saturday under circumstances proclaimed as ideal. Headed by the Little Band of Sentinel L.O.L. 2322, Petherick's Corners an imposing parade through Marmora's principal streets took place in the afternoon with Marmora Fair Grounds as the starting and finishing point.

Welcomed By Reeve

Past Grand Master J. H. Holden, of Peterborough was chairman for the speeches which followed the sports in the afternoon. After introductory remarks, he introduced Reeve R. E. Neal who welcomed the large gathering. George White M.P., who followed, spoke on the Union Jack and said that whereas a new flag was not desired for Canada, what was most to be desired was the unity of all Canada. Selections were given by the Cartwright Band. The next speaker, Fred Wilson, M.L.A. said that the organization represented in such goodly numbers in Marmora that day could play a great part in these post war days. It could help to keep the country on an even keel. There were many problems facing Canada today such as the employment of men and the selling of manufacturers of the country.

Not Enough People

He commended Canada on launching out on its immigration policy. There are not enough people in this Dominion. Money is no market, he felt equal to the

"—AND MAY THE BEST MAN WIN"

Sheila Hynes, 19, of England, is in a dilemma. The British girl started her romance by mail with Carl Weschright, of Brooklyn. They were engaged and she came to the U.S. on the Queen Elizabeth ostensibly with the purpose of marrying him. Meanwhile, however, she had begun a correspondence with Wesch's good friend, Harold Conley, of St. Albans, New York, and gave him a partial "Yes"—also by mail. Here she is with both swains on the dock. "May the best man win," says Wesch.

home market. He was not suggesting that we should neglect the overseas market, but our home markets should be extended. He liked to see immigrants coming here as had been of late the British stock. He maintained it was the job for the men of the Orange Order to see that immigrants assimilate the Canadian way of life. The next speaker was the Rev. Mr. Clair Mason of all Canada.

Sir Kt. Robert Ritchie of Peterborough also expressed his pleasure at the fine assemblage and spoke of the necessity to bear in mind the significance of the speeches preceding his. The present Grand Master of Ontario East, Sir Earl Draper of Kingston and Grand Chaplain had a great duty to honor the memory of their predecessor. He touched briefly upon the contribution made by various organizations under the years and reminded his listeners that as these had done a great work, we of today should likewise do our share.

Sketched Opening of Gates.

Rt. Wor. Sir Kt. H. A. Graham next spoke mentioned the 102nd, 12th of August—belongs really to Protestants. He sketched the Prentice Boys of which he is a member. He also briefly sketched the opening of the gates of Derry in 1688 and spoke of his visits to Derry and sacredness of the memorial to the fallen there. Further short addresses were given by Sir Sir Knight R. Sanderson, Havelock, Deputy Grand Master Sir Knight Cecil Palmer, Frankford, Associate Deputy Grand Master Fred Bateman of Ontario East Loyal Orange Grand Lodge, Sister Ethel Estes, Grandview, Cartwright, P.G. 168, Sister Mrs. Gordon McFarlane, Port Hope, Past Mistress Harmony R.O.B.A., Sir Knight William Neal, W.S. of Marmora Golden Star Preceptory No. 748 and Sir Knight Melville Holden, Peterborough.

Meals Served.

Meals on the grounds were served under the supervision of Sir Knight T. E. Potts and others were members of L.O.B.A. 600 and lady friends of the order. The Preceptory also had booths to cater to the wants of the crowd. In the evening a men's softball tournament was held. Cooper defeated Eldorado by 9-7 and were then pitted against Deloro who won by 19-9. A surprising feature of the affair was that Cooper got all their runs in the sixth inning. Dancing was held in the exhibition building until the midnight hour with Garney Wilsey's orchestra furnishing the music. The day passed off without any accident and was a success financially.

Officials Confer To Quell Bloody Communal Strife

New Delhi, Aug 10 (AP)—High officials of India and Pakistan conferred today in an effort to quell bloody communal strife which observers feared might be aggravated by a boundary commissions decision dividing Punjab Province between the new Hindu and Moslem states.

The conferences were begun in the provincial capital at Lahore, with British military authorities sitting in as the commission made a report yesterday awarding the greater part of both the Punjab and Bengal to Pakistan, which originally had claimed all of both provinces on the ground they had Moslem majorities.

While the governments of India and Pakistan had agreed in advance to accept the commission's decisions, it appeared unlikely that the militant Sikhs minority in the Punjab would be satisfied with the division of the province.

Under the commission's decision the city of Lahore, ravaged by months of communal rioting, goes to Pakistan, leaving the 120,000 of the Sikhs 35 miles to the northeast, to be in India, but separates the important Sikh shrine of Nankana Sahib, where Guru Nanak founder of the Sikh religion was born—is well inside Pakistan.

Thousands of Sikhs and Hindus anticipating that Lahore would be in Pakistan, already had fled the city prior to the commissions report Hundreds of others have died in the city, once known as the Paris of India," during the last three weeks of killing fighting the bitterly opposed religious communities.

In Bengal, Calcutta — India's largest city and second in size only to London—was the cities in the British Commonwealth — goes to the new Hindu state of Bengal.

(In Lyon, France, Colonial Minister Marcinz Moutet announced yesterday that French India, which has a population of 324,000 dwellers

DOBBIN RIDES, NOT WALKS, UP THE AIRPLANE RAMP

With the use of the new ramp, which is based on the principle of the funicular railway system, a horse to be air-borne is secured before loading in a specially constructed box which remains level as it is hoisted up the ramp into the aircraft. Inside the hold of the Bristol freighter, a U.K. plane — large enough to carry five horses for 300 miles in this way — the box is fastened to special attachments in the floor. Loading completed, the ramp, weighing 250 pounds, quickly dismantles and is carried in the aircraft with the horses, to be used for unloading at the terminal point. Evolution of this design eliminates the use of heavy and unwieldy loading equipment which in the past has impeded large scale use of aircraft to carry racehorses. Carrying four horses, the aircraft can travel 500 miles. Quite useful with horses inclined to be temperamental.

Issue of New American Loan Goes into Discard

Washington, Aug. 18 (AP) — The issue of a new American loan went into the discard by agreement today as top-ranking financial experts from both sides of the Atlantic assembled to hunt a partial solution to Britain's dollar crisis.

Sir Wilfrid Eady, head of the British delegation, said that so far as his group knows, no new credit to supplement the almost-exhausted $3,750,000,000 advance of 1946 is "not on the agenda."

That made it mutual.

American officials have complained that they will talk about modifying the present loan agreement to relieve Britain's economic distress, but will go no further.

And they said Treasury Secretary Snyder, chief United States negotiator, would enter the treasury's conference room ready to make these demands:

1. That Britain account for the spending which has drained all but $850,000,000 of the year-old drawing account, with its exhaustion foreseen this fall.

2. That she outline specific plans for balancing her budget, speeding production and achieving a balance of trade that will contribute to world-wide economic stability.

Probe Into Soundness

Ultimately, the questions may probe into the soundness and security of the British program for nationalizing basic industries. Snyder is known to be primed with questions on why Britain's nationalized coal pits are below pre-war production figures and why coal exports are only one-eighth of pre-war.

Sir Wilfrid evidently was ready with some of the answers. At New York last night the special assistant to the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Hugh Dalton, told reporters:

"We have been running through the dollars faster than we expected when we negotiated the loan and we have come to discuss how it happened."

He added that his country planned to "stop expenditures and get more of our exports going so as to earn more foreign exchange.

"We are going to work our way through. I think we will get this thing steadied down in a matter of months and then you will see that we have been a good investment."

MacDonald appealed the 15-year sentence twice. After the Ontario Court of Appeal allowed his appeal, a jury found him guilty of the high-jacking. The Supreme Court of Canada then turned down his appeal against the sentence in December, 1946.

Charged With Bank Robbery

Lauzon in the company of two companions, Walter Zoretsky, 22, and Joseph Peltier, 19—and his wife, Eileen, were charged variously with the bank robberies, jail-breaking, and vagrancy.

Peltier was captured in Montreal when a bank employee shot him in the spine after the two were recognized trying to cash bonds stolen from one of the Ontario banks. Lauzon, Korosky and Mrs. Lauzon made good their escape but were finally captured after a four-province-wide chase.

R.C.M.P., shot it out with Lauzon just outside Charlottetown. Charges of robbery, carrying concealed weapons and attempted robbery were waived in Prince Edward Island and Quebec and the four were brought to trial at Kingston. Korosky received a life sentence of 15 years in connection with two bank robberies.

The young Mrs. Lauzon, an expectant mother at the time, was given a short sentence for vagrancy.

Bath Robbery Large

The Bath robbery was the largest in Canadian banking history involving $11,000 in cash and $240,000 in bonds.

With a record dating back to 1925, MacDonald is known internationally. His notoriety was at its height during the 1939 murder trial.

While serving a three-year sentence at Kingston from 1932 to 1935, he was involved in a minor riot. His record shows sentences for shopbreaking, theft, obstructing police, perjury, breaking and entering, and robbery with violence.

Lauzon boasted that he had some $300,000 hidden away that he would be able to use when his sentence was completed. The last time he broke jail—at Kingston—he was at large for several days.

Canada, Italy Will Exchange Ministers

Ottawa, Aug. 18 (CP)—Canada and Italy are exchanging ministers and opening legations in each other's capitals, Prime Minister Mackenzie announced last night.

The Dominion's first minister in the one-time enemy country will be Jean Desy, 54-year-old ambassador to Brazil, who will be designated as "envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary" with the personal rank of ambassador.

The move marks the first time in their history that Canada and Italy have exchanged diplomatic establishments, and it also makes Italy the first of Canada's enemies in the Second World War with whom she has joined in diplomatic relations.

The announcement from the Prime Minister's office, made late last night, did not give any dates quoted graded eggs, cases free. A large 550, bags 390, bags sheep and lambs 1,730.

Waitress Returns After Kidnapping

Niles, Mich., Aug. 18 —(AP)— A 22-year-old waitress returned to her home today a few hours after state police reported she was kidnapped by a tall, soft-spoken Negro.

Local police announced only that she had returned and did not indicate whether or not she had been harmed.

Trooper Don McCray identified the kidnapped girl as Jean Meyers, of Holland, Mich. He described her as slim and brown-haired.

The officer said she was with Sherman Fritzell, 26, of Niles, in a car parked a short distance south of Niles about 2 about 8 a.m. today when the Negro accosted them.

McCray quoted Fritzell as saying the man drove up in another car and approached the parked vehicle with what Fritzell took to be a gun in his hand.

"Stick up your hands," McCray said the man told the young couple.

After taking $16 from Fritzell, the man told him to go and let him on the ground beside his car. He forced the girl into his own auto and drove away, the officer asserted.

Fritzell described the Negro as tall and slim with a "polite manner," McCray said, and wearing trousers but no shirt or hat.

State police patrols converged on the area from throughout southern Michigan.

ASKS HUSBAND-TO-BE TO GO BACK TO PRISON

Savannah, Ga., Aug. 18 (AP)— James Freeman Wilkes, one-time fugitive from justice, returned to work at a county prison camp today after marrying Lena Weaver, who induced him to "make things right" with Georgia authorities, a fugitive from a five-year burglary sentence, was converted to religion and wanted to marry her, she said, but she insisted he return to prison first. They were married in a special ceremony at the prison.

Mosque Areas Are Guarded As Festival Opens

Jerusalem, Aug. 18 — (AP) — Police were armed officially today to be stationing themselves around most of Palestine's Mosque areas for that Moslem sect's three-month-long religious festival over, might intensify attacks on Jews.

The feast month of Ramadan in the Moslem calengar, during which Mohammedans take food only at night, ended yesterday. Simultaneously the week's toll of violent deaths grew to 35, and of these 24 were Arabs.

Yesterday's only reported killing was that of an Arab stabbed in the Yemenite Jewish quarter of Tel Aviv, but 10 persons more were listed as wounded, most of them Jews.

In the twilight zone between Jewish Tel Aviv and Arab Jaffa, a Jew was beaten badly by Arabs and a Jewish woman shot in the face in an attack upon two Jewish buses and a military truck.

In Arab Jaffa, two persons in a Jewish taxicab were wounded by stones.

In their precautions against post-Ramadan violence, the police were getting unofficial help from two communal military forces — the Jewish Haganah and the Arab Nejada.

The Arab higher executive sent a group to Jaffa to look into the situation yesterday, and Gen. Sir Alan Gordon Cunningham, British high commissioner for Palestine, conferred with Mrs. Golda Myerson of the Jewish agency on "security aspects of the current tide."

MOTHER OF EIGHT COMMITTED FOR TRIAL ON MURDER CHARGE

Defence lawyer for Mrs. Cottrell is Charles Cragg, 28. It is his first murder case.

Mrs. Edna Cottrell, mother of eight children, was committed for trial by Magistrate P. C. Powell at Parry Sound, Ont., on a charge of murdering her husband, Clayton. On July 27 the husband was found dead, a .22 rifle bullet through his heart. Mrs. Cottrell is reported to have said she shot her husband to prevent him molesting the children. She is shown here with Provincial Officer B. R. Ball after the Parry Sound hearing at which she was committed for trial.

RESCUED FROM HOPPER

Philadelphia, Aug. 18 —(AP)— A 28-year-old workman was rescued yesterday after he fell into a huge sand hopper and was buried there for 20 minutes with only his fingertips showing, police said the workman, Edward Thomas, an employee of a crushed stone company, fell from a catwalk he was working on clearing just as a chute at the bottom of the hopper was opened to load part of 40 tons of sand on a truck.

Mrs. E. Kennedy Guest of Honor At Birthday Party

On Thursday of last week, Mrs. E. Kennedy, of Zion Hill, was the guest of honor at a party held in celebration of her eighticth birthday at her home, when members of her family and other friends to the number of thirty-five joined in felicitations and the presentation of gifts.

Mrs. Kennedy has four children, i.e., Mrs. F. E. Thrasher and Mrs. James Reid, of Halloway; Mrs. A. Wall of Sidney Township and Mr. Bruce Kennedy of South America. There are twelve grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Afternoon tea was served by her granddaughters, Mrs. Clifford Ray, Mrs. Gordon Kennedy, Mrs. Lorraine Carter, Miss Joan Reid and Mrs. Albert Seeley.

Among those present from a distance were Mrs. Kennedy's cousins, Mrs. B. Faulkner of Hawkin and Mrs. Jas. Reid.

Included in the many beautiful gifts received by Mrs. Kennedy's honor was a bouquet of flowers from her great-grandchildren, Mrs. Kennedy's birthday spoke by David Ray.

Mrs. Kennedy is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Ray, who were among the early U. E. Loyalist to settle in Rawdon Township. She has lived at Zion's Hill for more than fifty years, the first part of her married life having been spent in Saginaw and Flint, Mich. Her husband died in July 1933.

At the conclusion of the party "Happy Birthday" was sung, and the sentiment was also extended to Mrs. W. B. Tufts, whose birthday was on the same date.

It was the "numbers gang" police blamed for a $250,000 robbery at the Bank of Montreal branch of the Bank of Canada at Fort Erie, Ont., when a gang bound three women and two men in the bank. The same gang was believed responsible for an attempted bank robbery in Grand Valley, Ont. Woman Believed Accomplice

The gang is believed to have had detailed information secretly. The fact a strange red-headed girl was seen in Carp just before the Bank of Nova Scotia was broken into there on the weekend of July 26 paved to believe the "numbers gang" had also pulled that job.

In the Carp robbery the gang hacked their way through an 18-inch brick wall to enter the rear of the vault and made a clean getaway with the contents of all but one of the Royal Banks 72 safety deposit boxes. Many residents of Carp lost their life savings in the robbery.

What's in a Name?

HOW did the Manufacturers Life get its name? When the company was formed in 1887, most Canadians were dependent on agriculture for their livelihood. Sir John A. Macdonald was Prime Minister. His famous "National Policy" was being debated in every town and hamlet.

Sir John claimed that no country could be great with only one industry. Manufacturing activities were needed to balance the economy — broaden the market — utilize the bent of thousands towards manufacturing pursuits. Full national development called for "manufacturers". The choice of that name for the Company was in tune with the spirit of the times and was a tribute to Sir John who was the Company's first president.

The word "Manufacturers" stood for progress and The Manufacturers Life has progressed with the land that gave it birth. Its activities have spread far beyond her shores. It is known throughout the world as a sound financial institution.

Tourist Year Outlook

The outlook that Canada will have an even greater tourist year in 1947 than in 1946 appears a reasonable inference from the reports of the number of motorists entering the country. The people of the United States upon whom Canada largely depends for her tourist trade have shown that they are still as vacation-hungry as they were a year ago, when freed from the repressions forced upon them by the war they took to touring as never before in history.

It is a fact that last year twenty million visitors came to Canada for recreation. In spite of the shortages and help situation Canada's reception of her guests was highly satisfactory. The Visitor Industry, sponsored by the Canadian Association of Tourist and Publicity Bureaus, says, "Complaints about inadequate food, poor accommodations, gouging, etc., were from the overall standpoint, infinitesimal. Only 35 such complaints were registered formally with one particular province on what roads, cities, towns and playground districts 600,000 TVP motorcars and more than 2,500,000 vehicles of the local traffic category lavished their attentions. This reception speaks well for Canada's reception capabilities. It is no isolated illustration by any means. And yet the general conviction is that we must provide even better reception if we are merely to hold the tremendous business gain achieved in 1946."

Meditation on Hot Weather

How much attention the weather on this continent has attracted may be gathered from a very edifying editorial in the New York Times which gathers many facts about the abnormalities of the weather in various parts of the world. Long this absurd sober anyone who has become excited about the continued heat which lasted for nearly two weeks. The writer says:

"In Petropolis, near Rio de Janeiro, where the hemispheric diplomats are meeting, there is a heating problem. In short, it is too cold there in mid-August. At Werchojansk, Siberia, on Jan. 15, 1885, a temperature of 90 degrees below zero was recorded. A temperature of 63.1 below zero was observed at Popular River, Montana, on Jan. 1, 1885. A temperature of 50 below zero has been experienced on the summit of Mount Washington. The thermometer has gone as low as 8 below in Georgia, as low as 7 above zero in New Orleans. It has snowed in San Francisco. Long Island has once covered by an ice sheet hundreds of feet thick. There are glacial markings on Manhattan rocks, which means that there was once year-round skating. But for the nineteenth century there was one year in which all the New England states had frosts in every month. This was not considered desirable at that time.

"One night continues. There are warm days and mosquitos in Alaska, thought not for long. It seems warm in Antarctica when the temperature approaches the freezing point. Even underneath the Poles ice is extremely cold on very high mountains close to the Equator, and so, if the mountains are high enough, are the days. It is possibly to grow chilly right now by going into the open ocean off the coast of Maine. Absolute zero is 459.6 degrees below zero, but scientists tell us that it would be no improvement on the weather in early Autumn begins about Sept. 23, and under the circumstances, and all things considered, perhaps the best thing we can do is to wait for it."

Helicopters

Helicopters are making history in California, a successful helicopter service having been organized a year ago. Helicopters are of special appeal to cities and have occupied the imagination of the people.

The business which has proven successful is a crop-dusting business, and is described in the Montreal Gazette as follows:

"But it has remained for such enterprising air pioneers as these young veterans to put the slow-flying and hovering qualities of the helicopter to unmistakable proof. The $3,000,000 a year crop-dusting business in California, the regular patrolling of power lines along a 300-mile route, and the use of the machines as moving platforms for a net and revolutionary type of motion-picture photography are only some of the newer uses to which this air service has put its helicopters. Other employment of the planes, such as use in advertising and rescue work, are more familiar to the public mind.

"Helicopting in California has reached the point of penetrating the physical life and activity of the large cities. Heliports have been established on the roofs of many downtown hotels for commuting services, and of large plants for the emergency delivery of medicines and other products."

Newfoundland and Tourists

Joseph Smallwood, the pro-confederation champion in the Newfoundland national convention, made a strong case recently in favor of the island coming into Canada's tenth province. He pointed out the advantages to both Newfoundland and Canada in trade, buying power, and so forth, but he seems to have missed an excellent talking point so far as Newfoundland is concerned. This is the island's potential tourist industry.

Canadians who served in Newfoundland during the war were generally amazed by all the island had to offer the visitor, but they were absolutely staggered by the manner in which the tourist gold mine had been ignored.

With a few roads and a few good hotels or camps, Newfoundland could built up a tremendous tourist trade. Everything to attract the tourist is there—scenery, sea fishing, hunting, boating, skiing, skating. Everything is there, that is, except the facilities to handle any large number of holidayers.

With the help of the Canadian government, with an eye to the international standpoint, Newfoundland could gain impressive revenue from a year-round tourist trade, according to the Woodstock Sentinel Review.

Report on Hiroshima

After effects of the Hiroshima atomic explosion have not included the horrors so many expected.

An official of the atomic bomb casualty commission says that 21,000 people died the day the bomb was dropped and that 48,000 more died in the ensuing six months from the effects of the blast. The Japanese set the total number of dead at 80,000.

The commission survey thus far has been unable to discover any peculiar phenomena —physiological or scientific — attributable to the atomic explosion. There have been no cases of permanent sterility, nor has the birth rate been affected.

There has been no unusual incidence of cancer, as some scientists had predicted. Nor is there any evidence that the population suffered any unusual lingering sickness from the bombing, except, of course, for those injured at the time of the explosion, according to World Report.

When Traffic Signals Change

Drivers of motor vehicles who creep up on the red light and are well into the centre of the intersection when the light changes—this to one perhaps a second in the gateway — should average up with those drivers who dawdle and loiter on the change and hold up cars behind them. Both show a deplorable lack of consideration for others, and for the public safety, says Ottawa Journal.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

(Copyright, 1947, Edgar A. Guest)

LUCKIEST BABY

We grownups have a standard to divide the poor from rich.
By their possessions we discover which is which.
But the fortune of a baby is a harder state to guess,
For we cannot always tell it by the bonnet or the dress.
So, the baby with a brother and a sister seems to me
The richest sort of baby I shall ever live to see.

Now a baby's needs not always can with money be supplied,
Nor by parents most devoted, plus the grandfolks on the side.
There's the walking and the playing and the curious bits of speech,
And the countless joys of childhood only other children teach.
Thus, the luckiest of babies on the lengthy cradle list is the one that has a brother and a sister to assist.

It will learn its lesson faster than the one with just a nurse,
And I'm sure a little sooner Mother Goose it will rehearse.
It has freedom very precious that so often is denied
To the solitary infant to its mother's apron tied.
So, the baby with a brother and a sister, I submit,
For the life that's just beginning has a bit the best of it.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Why does the Lord Chancellor sit on a woolsack?

During the reign of Queen Elizabeth, when wool was one of England's chief sources of wealth, Parliament passed a law prohibiting the export of that commodity.

At that time the high judges of the realm were provided with sacks of wool as seats so that they might be constantly reminded of the dependence of the country on the woolen industry.

The Lord Chancellor, head of the chancery division of the high court of justice and presiding over the House of Lords, at the same time was given a huge woolsack of a large, rectangular bag of wool covered with red cloth.

It remains the traditional cottman or divan, without back or arms, and plainly almost in the centre of the hall in front of the magnificent and canopied throne of the King and Queen.

As early as 1377 the office of the Lord Chancellor was referred to as "the woolsack." To this day the same type of seat is used by the Lord Chancellor when he presides over the House of Lords.

A new Lord Chancellor is said to be appointed "to the woolsack."

In 1938 the head of the British wool industry learned that the famous seat of the Lord Chancellor was stuffed not with wool but with horsehair. Sometime, nobody knows when, the wool had been removed and horsehair substituted. The head of the wool industry requested and was granted permission to have the horsehair removed and replaced with wool from Australia, New Zealand and South Africa.

Red, originally the distinctive color of the official robe of the Christian princes, is the royal color of England, and the throne, the seats in the House of Lords and the decorations in the House of Commons are all of that color.

DISCOVERS DRUG

Dr. Ethan Allen Brown, physician-in-chief of the allergy section of the Boston dispensary, is shown looking at a tube of the new antiseptic which he developed, called glycerite of peroxide of hydrogen, that has become a revolutionary killer of bacteria in more than 40 types of diseases. The new drug has achieved remarkable success in curing various skin ailments and has been successful in treating persons suffering from tuberculiar empyema and tracheal tuberculosis. Dr. Brown is for sixty years an associate of Dr. Alexander Fleming, discoverer of penicillin.

Crash of Light Plane Thru Roof Injures Two

Englehart, Ont., Aug. 18—(CP) — Crash of a light plane through the roof of a Toronto, Ont., apartment two men to hospital with injuries requiring emergency operations. Englehart is 130 miles north of Nort Bay.

Injured were the pilot, Robert Soper, former member of the R.C.A.F., and his brother-in-law, David Harrower. The more seriously injured, Harrower, is believed to have suffered fractures of a shoulder and two ribs and possible internal injuries.

Cause of the mishap was not known but eyewitnesses said the plane suddenly plunged into the roof of a home occupied by Walter Fisher. Soper was thrown clear but Harrower was removed from the wreckage.

Dr. G. W. Gibbon, one of the joint owners of the aircraft, treated the injured men. The other owners are Soper and A. Dearling, also of Englehart.

CHARGED WITH THEFT

Toronto, Aug. 18 (CP. — Hugh Hamilton, 35, was charged with motorcar theft, failing to remain at the scene of an accident, and dangerous driving after a wild chase early today in which he stolen car struck a pedestrian and hurled a police officer from its running board.

Patrol Sgt. James Henderson was knocked to the street as the chase progressed through the downtown sections but was not injured. Norman Quinn, 18, who was struck by the fleeing car was in hospital with minor injuries.

FAVORS RELAXATION

Washington, Aug. 18 (AP)—A 30-to-40 per cent additional loan to Britain was suggested last night by Representative Sparkman (Dem., Fla.).

"I favor relaxation of the British loan," he said during a broadcast "meet-the-press" program.

"We made the hard bargain with the British. Their loan had to be paid below the usual amount of what we lent them.

"It may be worth granting them an outright credit in the form of purchasing power may be the situation."

THE RIGHT TO BE IGNORANT

It is good to remember, says some newspaper columnist (in a slender mood) that whenever, whenever, whenever, British materialists start shooting off their mouths about the creation of the universe, that they don't even get credit for having a cold. In the absence of medical certainty, I will continue to relieve that I got cold from a draft, and will take protective measures accordingly. I have as much right to my kind of ignorance as the doctors have to theirs.

Well, now, (your pardon, Mr. Peters), I wouldn't say that. The doctors, young man, have a point claim on such ignorance.

However, you are right if I don't say quite, for that indeed and rather, and definitely believe that the writer or speaker has some doubt about it. The doctors do not know what causes a cold. For that matter, they do not know what is a cold. Do you, young man? If you do know, say, two hundred words or less, the benefit of the doubt and I'm afraid I have got about of the folks who read this column so confused about it that they now suppose I'm going to get a draft or the conversational spray of a selfish so-and-so who pedestrian. Or I'm going to sneeze while telling every one within range that I'm going to get in a draft.

The game is up, young man. Certain school principals and teachers, employers, club ladies and executives pretend to believe any indisposition or illness that doesn't immediately kill one is a trifle due to a draft, wet feet or chances of getting one, so they can share it with all who come within range of them, if it proves to be something you can't ascribe to wet feet or a draft, as infantile paralysis, diphtheria or epidemic meningitis, they have been taught censure the scoundrels who spread it here and will many doctors, health authorities and other "authorities" who, in the ancient way of the profession, maintain dignified silence about the whole game—but it is significant that these same "authorities" do not charge with spread of the respiratory infections in this way either.

I do not dispute your right to be ignorant, young man. But I challenge your claim to the right to spread disease in the community under the guise of knowing you got from a draft.

Paraguay Govt. Says Insurgents Are on Run

Buenos Aires, Aug. 16 — (AP) — The Paraguayan government maintained today that its united military forces were on the offensive, and had insurgents on the run. Paraguay's embassy here said last night the Loyalists were chasing the rebels south from Asuncion and east toward Remanso Castillo.

On the other hand, the insurgent radio was quoted in dispatches from Brazil as reporting the rebels had occupied Lambare and Villa Morra suburbs of Asuncion and were pushing into the capital.

(The radio said, these dispatches reported, that government fliers had bombed their positions in the with the insurgent air force and that that country had lost its supremacy over Asuncion and was bombing the government palace, military school and other military targets.)

Regina, Aug. 18 —(CP)— A brief, drastic, but welcome deluged Regina with an inch of rain, cut off power temporarily and left jitters in its wake today against downtown stores but caused widespread relief in districts for harvest in surrounding districts.

BANK BOOK ERROR

Kansas City Aug. 16 (AP) — It was a hot day when Harold Margolin studied his bank statement from a local bank recently, so he first thought the heat was playing tricks with his eyes.

But the figures actually were there. His balance was too large by $2,000,000.

Margolin showed the statement to the banker, who quickly ascertained it was a clerical employee who had been affected by the heat. The error was corrected.

Frankford

Legion Holds Memorial Service And Dedication of the Colors

Frankford Frankford Branch No. [illegible] Canadian Legion, were [illegible] sent hosts on Sunday to Legion branches from Belleville, Campbellford, Marmora, Brighton, Stirling and Peterborough for memorial services and dedication of branch colors. The Peterborough Salvation Army Silver Band led the gathering in singing "O Canada." Rev. R. C. Vaclavik of Toronto led in prayer. Capt. (Rev.) John L. Hodgen of Peterborough, Legion Chaplain, conducted the dedication of Frankford branch colors. The color party was composed of Milford Macaulay, Kenneth Lawrence, Jack McIlwain, Alex Roote and Harold Gilmour. Colors were accepted by Alex Roote and Milford Macaulay.

The veterans paraded to Memorial Park led by Sgt. Maj. S. Steinhower of Bataws. Marching with the veterans were members of the Frankford Ladies' Auxiliary. "O God Our Help in Ages Past" was sung followed by the benediction.

Welcomed by Reeve

Reeve Geo. G. Montgomery in his welcome address paid tribute not only to those met with us but to those who in memory stand shoulder to shoulder in a peaceful army of goodwill and community welfare in which we all know as the Canadian Legion. "This is a day of honor for Frankford. We are proud of your presence with us."

Major (Padre) Charles Watt, Corps Commander of Peterborough Salvation Army was guest speaker for the occasion. He mentioned that nearly 30 years ago our veterans stood shoulder to shoulder on just such occasions as this. He told the Legion members that the colors, to them, is a charge to keep the flags wholly sacred. "Blood stains on the colors is the life blood of your own kith and kin, remembering our loved ones, let us remember the price of peace." He spoke of the veterans of yesterday now returning in getting homes for themselves and families while theatres, dance halls and summer cottages are constantly being built. He said there are forces in Canada eating away faith like a cancer. It is the spirit of indifference to spiritual values. He mentioned that Pearl Harbor was attacked by the enemy when the people were off their guard. "The enemy knows when Canada and her people are off their guard." He concluded by urging us to pray that the colors be not dedicated simply as a memory but as a trust to each and every one.

Flowers Placed

Flowers were placed on the cenotaph by Patrick J. Burke, president of the Peterborough Legion and J. A. Rogers, president of Frankford Legion. Flowers were also placed by Mrs. J. Tompkins in memory of her son Ged. Tompkins. Trumpeter Ben Smith of the Peterborough band sounded the Last Post and Reveille and two minutes silence were observed.

Led by the Salvation Army band the Legion paraded to the Protestant cemetery where a monument was unveiled at the Legion plot in memory of comrades who have passed on. After the playing of "Onward Christian Soldiers", Rev. C. C. Brazill, rector of Trinity Anglican Church delivered the address. He said: "In this very short but very sacred service, we are in the presence of God. In thanksgiving that through God's mercy we have been spared the consequences of defeat. We are here today to honor sailors, soldiers and airmen who gave their all. We are called upon to build a city of peace. The secret of peace is to tolerate each other's point of view." Mr. Harold Gage unveiled the monument and a wreath was laid by Geo. N. Spencer. The following names are on the monument: Bruce Bowen, Actic Casement, John Hutchinson, Edward Ketcheson, Albert Lawes, Isaac Lawrence, Percy Reid, Fred Smith, Marshall Smith and Alfred Waddell.

R. C. Cemetery Visited

The parade then visited the Roman Catholic cemetery to unveil a similar monument there. The service and prayers were conducted by Rev. Father Lesage. He said the cross in our plot for soldiers of this district is a symbol of sacrifice by all soldiers who have gone forth in course of liberty and the good of our community. The King appealed several times that we pray for protection in hours of crisis. On several occasions such as on V-Day we were all asked to pray for success and our prayers were answered. Our prayers now acknowledges when Canada and her people are off their guard." He concluded by urging us to pray that the colors be not dedicated simply as a memory but as a trust to each and every one.

Belfast (CP) —Three mysterious knocks, which made the speaker, audience and listeners jump, coincided with a broadcast talk on witchcraft. The bang were traced to a canteen worker knocking her shoes against a pipe.

Twenty-Fifth Wedding Anniversary Celebrated

At their home, 33 Stone St., Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Rapino were given a very pleasant surprise recently, by celebrating of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary, when about fifty friends neighbors and relatives gathered to honor them with good wishes, congratulations and gifts on this auspicious occasion.

Young and old entered into the spirit of good fellowship, with singing, music and dancing contributing to the evening's entertainment, with frequent intervals for cooling drinks on account of the intense heat.

Among the guests was Mayor Frank Follwell, who, as one of the former College Hill boys, lived with the parents at 33 Stone St. Mr. Follwell spoke briefly, expressing his great pleasure in being able to attend the gathering, and said his presence was also to call back happy recollections of thirty or more years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Rapino were presented with a number of beautiful and useful gifts, which demonstrated the high esteem in which they are held by their many friends. After opening the parcels they graciously expressed their appreciation for same.

Dainty refreshments were served by the ladies, and in the "wee small hours" the guests took their departure, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Rapino many more years of happy wedded life.

HONEY MIGRANTS

Edmonton (CP)—There will be 900,000,000 bees busy making honey in Alberta this summer, W. G. Lemaistre, provincial apiarist, reports. Most of them, he said, would be shipping from California, whose owners now are awaiting their arrival.

FRUIT SALAD ON LARGE SCALE

Brantford, Aug. 18 (CP)— A fruit salad on a large scale was provided when a 10-ton tractor-trailer combination jack-knifed yesterday after its engine stalled on the Yonge Street Highway 40 miles north of Toronto. Driver Sidney Bowyer jumped clear as the cargo was spilled.

Speculation on Royal Wedding Turns to Choice of Bridesmaids

London, Aug. 18 —(Reuters)— Latest speculation of the forthcoming marriage of Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten is turning on the choice of bridesmaids.

In pre-austerity days, the Princess would probably have been attended by at least a dozen bridesmaids, but in keeping with the times, it is unlikely that when she goes to Westminster Abbey Nov. 20 she will have more than six.

There are three obvious choices. Her younger sister, Princess Margaret, will be chief bridesmaid. It is almost certain that Princess Alexandra, 10-year-old daughter of the Duchess of Kent, will be in attendance. And smart circles believe that Pamela Mountbatten, 18-year-old younger daughter of Viscount Mountbatten, Governor-General of India, and Lady Mountbatten, will be a third choice.

Other names mentioned so far are those of the Hon. Margaret Elphinstone, Princess Elizabeth's cousin — her mother is an elder sister of the Queen — and Ladies Elizabeth and Anne Cavendish, daughters of the Duke of Devonshire, who are close friends of the Princess.

It is believed that Princess Elizabeth has already made her choice, but the names of those she has selected will not be announced for some time.

Not an Elaborate Scale.

One definite decision is that the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, will observe the ordinary marriage service of the Church of England when he weds the young people.

The wedding will be on a much less elaborate scale than the coronation of the King and Queen in 1937.

On an agreed date, the Dean and Chapter of Westminister Abbey will place the historic building in the custody of the Duke of Norfolk, Earl Marshal, under whose instructions the Ministry of Works will make the necessary preparations for guests and citizens who will watch the wedding.

Details of the wedding cake have not yet been announced, but it is certain to be smaller than the one which was cut with a silver knife at the wedding of the King and Queen — a cake nine feet high, and weighing some 800 pounds.

Arrangements will be made to display all the wedding presents in the state rooms at St. James's Palace. As on previous royal marriage occasions, the public will be able to see the presents on payments of a small sum for charity.

WEDDINGS

GIBSON—POBERZNEC

Knox Presbyterian Church, Cochrane, was the setting for the wedding of Maria Martha, daughter of Mr. Joseph Poberznec of the late Michail Poberznec, to Mr. Robert Wilson Gibson, of Smoky Falls, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Roy Gibson of Belleville. Rev. John Ferd, rector of Holy Trinity parish, officiated and Miss Lorraine Trudeau was organist. Miss Frances Verville sang during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her mother, the bride wore a gown of white nylon satin with fitted bodice and shortfast skirt. Her floor-length white veil fell from an orange blossom halo. The maid of honor was the bride's sister, Miss Anna Poberznec, who wore turquoise taffeta. The bridesmaids, Misses Nellie Poberznec, Mary Nicholls and Clemence Serinack, were in pink taffeta, with matching flower halo headdresses, and the flower girl, Nancy Litwinchuk, a niece of the bride, wore a yellow net floor-length frock.

Groomsman was Mr. Andrew Talaskavitch. Hamilton, and ushers were Messrs. Fred Turner, Ryland, Jack Gibson and Kent Gibson, brothers of the groom, Belleville.

The couple will live in Smoky Falls.

Women's Activities

MARMORA I.O.D.E. PICNIC

Marmora — Marmora Chapter I.O.D.E. held a delightful supper meeting on Thursday, August 14 at Wanganui Lodge.

Following a picnic served on the lawn, the members enjoyed a cruise to Crowe Lake and back. The business meeting was then conducted informally by the regent, Mrs. J. R. Reynolds.

One new member was received into the chapter.

A donation was made to Mrs. Burton Johnston who is nursing away, and assortment of Christmas cards and other articles which are offered for sale at the bazaar, the gift parcel they were displayed.

A sincere vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Gordon Bennett for her hospitality. The next meeting will be held on September 11th., at the home of Mrs. William Shannon with Mesdames M. Borland, H. Brady and C. Brady as hostesses.

ZION HILL W.M.S.

The August meeting of the Zion Hill W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Gordon Kennedy, with fifteen ladies and three children present.

Mrs. Kenneth Denyes presided for the opening exercises, and Mrs. Harold Beatty had charge of the devotional period, following the program outlined in the study book.

The Scripture lesson was read from the Book of Isaiah, and was followed by a duet with the reading of the Charter of the Nation.

As this was the Band meeting two children's hymns were sung and Mrs. Clifford Ketchason read a story of "One Night at Rural Lake Hospital."

Mrs. Gordon Kennedy reported 18 members enrolled in the Baby Band.

The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Henry Denyes.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, and a social hour enjoyed by all present.

Frankford W.A. At Home

Frankford — The Woman's Association of the Frankford United Church entertained members from sister organizations in the district at their regular meeting on Thursday afternoon, in the church. The president, Mrs. Harry Montgomery, presided. Mrs. J. Finnigan welcomed the visiting ladies and Mrs. Cecil Frost of Trinity Anglican Church, replied thanking the United Church ladies for their invitation to meet with them. Mrs. Montgomery conducted the worship service which followed the theme of "Friends, Friendship and Fellowship." Mrs. Harry Slingsland read the Scripture passages and Mrs. Gerald Cherry sang "My Task."

The program consists of numbers contributed by the visiting associations. Miss Aldyth Arthur Mosher sang "Heaven Will Be Light Brown Hair," with Mrs. J. Goodfellow at the organ. Mrs. Woodruff, of Zion W.A., told the story of "Poor Old Jabez." Mrs. Clayton Curties and Mrs. E. Bush of Johnstown contributed a duet, followed by the quartet of Mrs. Arthur Duncan of Batawa, extended greetings from the Batawa organization, and thanked the Frankford ladies for the splendid choice they had given in getting Batawa W.A. organized. A representative from W.A. of Grace Church, in Trenton, sang "For God So Loved the World" which was very much enjoyed. Mrs. Percy Hubbard of Brookdale sang "I Come to Three." Miss Annie Weston of Trinity Anglican Church, narrated a story dedicated to the Marthas of the world. She was assisted by Mrs. A. Caskey who read a poem "Housecleaning Time," and by Mrs. G. Johnson who read "A Homemaker's Prayer," and by Mrs. A. Thompson reading a poem "Service."

After the close of the meeting the ladies served supper in Rose Lawn Hall. When supper was over Miss Barbara Wiley of Tabernacle W. A. played a piano selection.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

In championship play, a tournament partner is confronted with many close decisions. He is often torn between an opportunity to be aggressive and a chance to gamble it for a bigger reward.

In rubber bridge, you seldom take a chance. I clobbered a finch game on slam for a gamble at an extra trick. In tournament play you often do. Depends on how desperately you need an unusual result.

In a recent match came the deal you see below:

	NORTH
	♠Q 8 2
	♥A 3
	♦7 3
	♣K J 8 6 4
WEST		EAST
♠J 5 4		♠J
♥7 2		♥K 6 2
♦K J 9 8		♦A Q 10 8 5 2
♣K J 10 9		♣7 5 3
	SOUTH
	♠A K 9 6 7 3
	♥Q J 10 9 5
	♦6
	♣Q

South was declarer at a contract of six spades. With any luck, the small slam is a laydown. Simply give up a diamond and there it is, whether the trump is hearts or spades.

However, here was a case where west started with the opening lead of the club jack. It had his good and bad points. South took a long time to decide what to do about it.

The lead of a jack promises the ten in the same hand. But when a lead is made from K J 10 or A J 10, the correct lead is also the jack. So, this lead does not indicate who holds the king.

If declarer ducks in dummy and west has not the club king, south club queen will win. South can then stuff the losing diamond on dummy club ace. This will let him ruff in with all 13 tricks.

On the other hand, maybe dummy ducks the first lead and west has the king. The club trick is lost. A diamond trick will be taken in a hurry. And there goes the old contract for a terrible loss.

If you were south what would you do? Don't ask me for a rule. In this case I know the answer because it happened. Declarer ducked in dummy and came home with a grand reward.

In rubber bridge such a chance is foolish. It gambles too much to lose for so little hope of gain. In tournament it may help win a title. It may be the difference between a champ and a chump.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 18 (AP) — Here's how the news looks on this warm August day in California . . . Rita Hayworth is due back in Hollywood Sept. 3, when she's expected to begin divorce proceedings against Orson Welles. She'll use that ruling for her consideration, both with South American backgrounds . . .

Frank Sinatra began "Miracle of the Bells" a happy man. It's not only because Joe was eager for his priest's role, but also because treatment has revived his hairline, which threatened to rival Crosby's. Frank proudly showed his new foliage . . .

Nelson Eddy says his plans for an independent production have been put off because of the British situation. The same is happening to many independents around town. The Eddy-MacDonald rematch is still cold, despite clamoring of their fans for another film . . .

The Bradys are coming via radio, too. Transcribed air shows made in England and featuring Noel Coward, Gracie Fields and others are being offered for broadcast in the United States, as well as Canada, South Africa and Australia. Curiously enough the shows can't be broadcast in England, where there is no commercial radio . . .

New Order

Frank Albertson is carving out a new career. The perennially young actor is considering Leo McCarey as the filming of "Good Sam" and will break out as a director when Leo gets his company into production of three pictures yearly, as he plans. Frank acted the directorial debut with the same of "Wild Company," in 1930 . . .

Robert Mitchum continues on the old merry-go-round. He finished "The Red Pony" in Hollywood Saturday night and was to report to "Rachel" in Eugene, Ore., Monday morning . . .

Los Angeles, forgotten by the movies except for modern murder stories, is getting quite a break. Republic's "In Old Los Angeles," with Ilona Massey, John Carroll and Joseph Schildkraut will explore the early history of our city . . .

Van Heflin was asked by his studio to endorse a certain gum. He refused, for an unheard-of reason: he doesn't chew gum . . . Ruth Hussey has a new agent and plans an early return to pictures. She has been away because of stage and stork commitments . . . Rod Cameron, dropped by U-I, got invited back for "River Lady," is being mentioned for another role at his former home lot . . .

Bob Hope says there's a good chance Jerry Colonna will be on the comic's air show again this fall. The Brush's plans for his own air show didn't materialize.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Jackie Robinson, Dodgers' — Went hitless in four times at bat against Jack Leonard of the Phils in the first game. He went out twice in the second game with bases loaded in the eighth inning of the first game he hit into a double play. Also had an error in the first game. Made an unsatisfactory double play in the second.

Ted Williams, Red Sox — Doubled for only hit in five times at bat against rookie Vic Raschi of the Yankees. After leading off top of the 10th with his two-bagger, Williams was cut down at the plate on a fine throw by Joe Dimaggio when Bobby Doerr singled sharply to centre.

AT THE McCARTHY—Gay stars of "Hit Parade of 1947", the new musical at the McCarthy Theatre tomorrow, are Constance Moore and Eddie Albert. Joan Edwards, radio thrush, is also starred. See new hit feature with Paul Kelly in "Spoilers of the North."

LACROSSE WINS POPULARITY IN BORDER DISTRICT

Windsor Sterlings City's First First Entrant Since 1941 Has Cinched First Place

By GEORGE RONALD
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 18—(CP)—Still a comparative novelty for Windsor and Detroit — where almost everybody is busy being a Detroit Tiger fan — lacrosse is winning new popularity among border sport followers.

Although the game has been played here off and on during the past, neither city has ever been a "lacrosse town." But this year a combination of veterans and youngsters has served up enough action and enthusiasm to assure lacrosse will find the revived Canadian - American League one of its greatest local drawing powers in history.

Windsor Sterlings, this city's first entry since 1941, have all but cinched first place. They overlook Sarnia Imperials, last year's championship lads in 1945, Detroit Parks are third and Wallaceburg, Ont., brings up the rear.

The fans already are talking about the possibility of Windsor-Detroit final series. And they may get it. If Windsor retains its top position, the Sterlings will settle the championship in a series with the winner of a Detroit-Sarnia playoff.

Crowds Consistent

Although the lacrosse comeback has not materialized in the proportions of a boom, crowds have been consistent at both the Windsor Arena and the Detroit Olympia. Officials of both clubs—and they pool net gate receipts, by the way — say they're more than pleased with the way things have gone this year.

Manager of the Detroiters is Ebbie Goodfellow, former Detroit Red Wing hockey star who now is coach of the St. Louis Flyers of the American Hockey League. Carl Dreyfillard, playing coach of the Windsor team, leads a squad predominantly of "home-town boys." But the top - notch performers include Clyde Long, Ed Harris and Ken Hayward, all of Owen Sound, Ont.

Eddie Sedgewick, former Sarnia Imperial football star and now a member of the Windsor Rockets of the senior O.R.F.U., is with the team.

Bill Kerr Wins Millar Trophy For Third Time

Guelph, Ont., Aug. 18 (CP) — By playing some of the steadiest golf of his career, Bill Kerr, Toronto Thornhill professional, has won his third Canadian professional Golf Association Millar trophy championship.

Kerr, who won the award in 1944 and 1945, eliminated Bob Gray, of Toronto Scarboro two up in the 18-hole match play Saturday and pocketed $617 in position. The Sterlings will settle the championship in a series with the winner of a Detroit-Sarnia playoff.

AT THE BELLE—Dancer Vera Hilen romances with crooner Dick Haymes in "Carnival in Costa Rica" Twentieth Century Fox, Technicolor musical which also stars Cesar Romero and Celeste Holm, closing at the Belle tonight.

AT THE CAPITOL—James Cagney "13 Rue Madeleine," the new Twentieth Century-Fox hit, finds James Cagney fighting mad and on the road to the "most sinister address in history." Cagney portrays a two-fisted counterespionage instructor who, when a "leak" develops in his own department, is thrown into one of the most astounding adventures ever filmed. The picture opens tonight at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program a new hit "Violence" starring Michael O'Shea and Nancy Coleman.

Brecheen and Pollet to Hurl For Cardinals in Crucial Series Against the Brooklyn Dodgers

Brooks Have Dropped Eight Games in 15 Meetings With Cards

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Today was double D-Day in Brooklyn for both the Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals, slated to meet head-on in the first of two real honest-to-goodness crucial sets which could decide the National League pennant.

The Cards begin with at least three out of four of the current series at Ebbet's Field if they are to make any appreciable dent in the Dodgers' present 4 1-2-game cushion.

The dodgers, on the other hand, won't be satisfied with anything less than an even break. That promises not to be so easy. Up to now they've dropped eight games in 15 meetings with their arch-rivals.

The Brooks expected Manager Burt Shotton of the Redbirds to lead with his Aces in today's afternoon-night doubleheader. Dyer Lee Harry (The Cat) Brecheen primed to hurl the opener.

Movie Pollet was scheduled to hurl the night game. Burt Shotton of the Dodgers nominated Vic Lombardi to oppose Brecheen in the opener. Manager Harry Taylor, the Dodgers most effective pitcher against the Cards, was named as the night game chucker.

The night affair, incidentally, is the one ordered by Baseball President Ford Frick, coming out of his upholding of the Cards protest over the Brooks 2-2 victory against St. Louis last July 22. Frick declared the game a 3-3 tie, ruling Ron Northey should have been credited with a sixth-inning home run instead of being declared out at home.

The Cards lightened the race yesterday by defeating the Pirates in Pittsburgh 6-5 while the Dodgers were being shut out by Philadelphia 4-0.

Eagh team was forced to a nodecision session in the second game of their double headers, The Dodgers were held to a 4-4 tie in their nightcap while the Cards and Pirates engaged in a scoreless tie in finale.

Improve Standing

The rebounding Boston Braves improved their third-place standing by sweeping two games from the slipping New York Giants in Boston 2-1 and 3-1 to make it four in a row over the New Yorkers, who now have dropped seven straight.

Cincinnati Reds took two from Chicago Cubs in Cincinnati, 9-0 and 11-2, as Ewell Blackwell registered his 16th victory and 12th sixth shutout in the opener.

New York Yankees had their American League first-place margin cut to 11-2 games when Boston Red Sox shut them out 3-0 at the Yankee Stadium in an 11-inning thriller.

The third-place Detroit Tigers split with the White Sox in Chicago, taking the second game 4-3 after losing the opener, 10-1.

Philadelphia Athletics moved within a full game of the Tigers by winning two from the Senators in Washington 2-1 and 5-2.

Cleveland and the Browns divided a pair in St. Louis, the Browns winning the first, 5-4, Cleveland 7-6 and the Indians the second 4-3.

Phil Marchildon, Canadian righthander, registered Philadelphia's victory in the opener. Eddie Rose's double score for Philadelphia runs in the first game.

Sports Roundup

By L. E. SKELLEY
(For Hugh Fullerton, Jr.)

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 18, (AP) — Big Jim Keesey, who put Des Moines Western League Club in one of the hotter teams in the league baseball right now, says the youngsters whose careers were retarded by the war have improved 50 to 60 per cent since the end of the season.

Keesey is "high" on Larry Jensen, the New York Giants' rookie who's leading Mel Ott's pitching staff. "I saw him play semi-pro ball in Portland, Ore., in 1945 and he had it then. He could put the ball any place he wished and that's what counts in pitching."

Ambitious Rookie

Les Peden, Des Moines' husky third baseman is an example of the late start in search of a baseball career as a result of the war . . . Peden, 22, is in his first season of organized baseball and has third base for Chicago Cubs as his goal. He would like to take over when Stan Hack's aging legs give out.

"We're all young fellows on this club," says Peden, "and just about the only Cub farm stocked with younger players. That's why we do hopeful we can grab some of the spots when the Cubs reorganize."

Odds and Ends

At the recent western amateur golf tournament here one of the heftier known players was doing a nic job of extolling the excellencies of the Wakonda Club to an interviewer . . . "Great course, great food, . . ." Then he finished with his flourish—"and the dining room is beyond redemption." . . .

Semi-pro baseball is on the boom in the cornbelt and at Little Breda, Ia., with a population, counting cows, of 15,000 people last year and it's all paid for now . . . Think that's a record for a town of its size.

TORONTO LEAFS WIN TWO GAMES FROM TOP TEAM

Lose Montreal Twice While the Jersey Giants Take Two from Newark

(By The Associated Press)

Unless one of the second division teams does a decided shoot from the bottom, the composition of the international league's Shaughnessy playoff for 1947 will be Montreal, Newark, Jersey, Syracuse and Buffalo, although not necessarily in that order.

Last Sunday's results for the regular season remains for Newark, Richester, Baltimore and Toronto to make up the last ground which they need to enable them to crash the first division.

The odds are very much against them. Newark, in the fifth place, is nearer to the cellar than they are to fourth place. The Bears are only four and a half games away from the Jersey Giants who are seven full games behind the fourth place Buffalo Bisons. Baltimore is five games behind Newark by a game and a half. Last Sunday the Orioles dropped over Baltimore and three over the cell-dwelling Toronto Maple Leafs.

Jersey City Giants, tying desperately for fourth place, are second-setting Montreal Royals, capturing both ends of their double header from the Bears yesterday by 3-0 and 2-1. The Giants scored eight hits in the opener to register his fourth straight and 15th victory of the season while Herb Andrews hurled six-hit shutout to gain his ninth win in the finale.

Turn on Royals

Toronto turned on the Royals, and each won both games on their twin bill 3-2 and 1-0. Luke Hamlin allowed only five hits in winning the opener for the latter, Jack Thompson won a hurling duel from Harold (Jake) Gerheauser in the nightcap. Ed. Sauer drove in the winning run in the first game, doubled in the only run in the second.

Al Jacobs was the big gun of Baltimore's split with Buffalo. The seasoned shortstop drove in four runs including a ninth inning home run to lead the Orioles to an 8-4 first game victory in 11 innings over the Bisons. The Bisons came back behind the six hit pitching of veteran Pete Appleton to win the second game 7-3.

Syracuse and Rochester divided a twin bill, Syracuse winning the opener 5-3 in 11 innings and Rochester capturing the nightcap 3-2. Herm Wehmeier won his own game in the second, doubling home two runs in the 11th. Afterwards Usher had the score with a homer in the sixth inning for Rochester, Charlie Brewster won it with another round tripper in the seventh.

DEMOLISHED BY LIGHTNING

Strathroy, Aug. 16 —(CP) — Duncan Cowell was milking the cows in the barn on his brother-in-law's farm on the eighth concession yesterday when he got finished and left. A moment later the barn was demolished by lightning and fire.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARTER, Sports Editor

Approximately fifteen hundred softball fans from Pittsburgh and district saw a league exhibition game between Pittsburgh All Stars and the Toronto Maple Leafs 10-3 in the first game of the first annual International softball tournament to be staged in Pittsburgh. The Prince Edward county town on Saturday night. The Leafs made hatrick artist Jake Ball unsatisfied seven safeties over the twelve innings while his mates pounded the Pittsburghers for seven safe blows classic. The hometown squad committed six bobbles afield and in all fairness it them can play a better brand of softball. The squad go at it tonight at the Point. Fleiss has their collective backs to the wall and a win tonight means elimination.

Jack Carson's Lotts baseball crew hook up with the Bathurst Shoemen at the Exhibition Grounds in Bathurst night in the first of their two-of-three softball finals tie in the City Baseball League playoffs. The Shoemen will field a team headed by Ben Ifit and the Carson crew will tie it up with Bobby Ifit chunky Joe Marsh, Both squads will go all out to snatch the championship. The second tilt is scheduled for Rideau on Thursday.

Trenton Flyers go to Napanee Tuesday night in their first game of the second half of the semi-finals. They will have to be on their toes because as the Gibbardville crew has been going great guns during their drive into the league stretch and will be hard to stop. However Napanee is capable of good baseball and if they are at full strength it should be a thriller for the fans. The second game of the series will be played at Exhibition Grounds here on Thursday night.

Larry and handsome Mike Shanny has been given the nod to defend Sleaford Bob Wagner in the main bout at the Memorial Arena next Friday night. Michael came through with flying colors the here against tough Dan O'Connor, But in Toronto last Saturday night Wagner gained a decision over Iron Mike in the Leaf City Gardens affaircition. Promoter Frank Tunney was unable to accommodate the match in Toronto so it comes in to Belleville and the fans here gain the advantage.

This Mike Shirpe is by way of being a very "hard-row" in the wrestling world since his appearance here last night. Only once, to Wagner, has the white boomin of the Sharpe stretcher ever been knocked. And next Friday night "The Body" is confident he will wipe out that stain once and for ever. It should be jitious while it lasts.

Dan O'Connor gets another chance in Friday's semi-final. Dangerous Daniel meets Jack Kenneth in what should be a pretty extravaganzal piece of thrills. In the third bout Dr. Ed Meake meets Frankie "Boom Boom" Taylor of Hollywood and the ladies in attendance may find it hard to choose between the dashing doctor and the handsome Hollywoodite.

The glamorous Mike had a close shave here last Friday and had Discoverer Dan O'Connor put on the brakes instead of continuing his slide off the Hargrian knee might have turned up with a win. As it was the Irishm who unearthed something new in the art of ring villainy gave the Golden Boy plenty of worry before he was forced to call it a novemier.

O'Conner, with as black an Irish scowl as ever came out of Killarney had rocks as big as grapefruit secreted in his trunks and he was not averse to using them nor did he care who knew he had 'em. His wearing apparel differed with its load of everytrown cinders till they looked like the business end of a knokkerry. He smeared the Grecian features of the hero of the bobby-sexers until he had the appearance half-way to the nape of the neck.

Dr. Ed Meake a newcomer here looked good and has promise of being a fine mat artist. He is big and strong and you can tell by the cut of his jib that he has been around somewhat in wrestling circles.

Napanee has been drawn against Lotts in the first round of Intermediate "B" Ontario Baseball Association playdowns, according to an O.B.A. bulletin just released. The first games of the two-of-three series will be played either August 26 or Sept. 1 according to arrangements to be made by team officials. At the same time in Intermediate "A" series Trenton Flyers will meet Bakers. Dale of these games will be announced as soon as arranged. In senior "O" series the Prince Edward County champions have been drawn against the winners of Lennox and Addington.

Kingston Giants went to the National Congress finals after defeating some of the best squads Western Ontario could produce but bowed to the mighty London Majors 7-0 in the play-off final. Walt Garvey Jr., acquitted himself creditably at first base for the Giants and helped himself to a couple of safe clouts when the Kingston squad defeated Stratford 5-4.

R.I.P.

To a grand little guy who gave the three years of his existence to the logistics of a baby. He never complained. And he was never ill until struck by a fatal disease a few days ago. His unswerving loyalty to his family was one of his outstanding characteristics. He was the friend of everyone, unless they intimated that their designs were detrimental to the well-being of his baby chuns, his family or the family car. He was a devoted little fellow, who took life as it came and gave it up with a wondering questioning look in his glassy eyes. His action was a dying effort to teach his master. The unbelievable has moved slightly in its last "wag." "Monty" has at last lived, quietly and simply. And we digress from the sports sanhi to pay a last tribute to the little Russian bulldog who was part of the family life for the past three years, and who leaves a chubby little baby pal to mourn his passing.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By STU THOMAS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, Aug. 17 (CP) —Just to show that elementary difference between the east and, west, the strangly-differing views of those who dwell in the outer fastnesses and those who live under the influence of the Russian Bear, the Czechoslovakian tennis players here last week just had to use different composition for drying their hands than the reactionary Australians.

Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson tells about it in his column, the story of the Czechs threw the sedate Mount Royal Tennis Club into a temporary furore when they demanded quantities of sawdust with no apparent reason.

As Fergie tells it, the Czech team manager approached Dr. Bobby Bell of the club and asked for a "few pounds of sawdust."

Dr. Bell, somewhat flustered, thought he had heard wrong, but when the request came again, it was still for sawdust. It turned out the visitors wanted the chewed-up wood for drying their hands during the matches, and couldn't be dissuaded with any promises of the finest grades of resin as used in the west.

So, the club carpenter was set to work, sawing away industriously at lengths of boards, and Dr. Bell was right on deck, laboriously collecting the sawdust. The day was saved, however, and the Czech team took the court with a pocketful of sawdust to anoint their hands.

Beauties Around Kovacs

Ditto (Montreal Gazette) Carroll comments on the report that Americjan ace tennsiman Frankie Kovacs intends to help the Aussies out in their battle against the U.S. for the prized tennis mug. Frankie, now a professional, had some unhappy dealings with the American tennis bigwigs during his tenure as an "amateur" and "wouldn't be unhappy to see the Aussies recapture the mug."

Kovacs could help the invaders by showing them some of the offensive pace which is a feature of American play, Dink suggests and he might also be able to pinpoint some of the weaknesses of the Yanks to help out Bromwich, Pails and Long.

"Isn't this the first time in Davis Cup history that a player has volunteered to help a foreign team going against the representatives of his own country," Dink asks.

Point Anne Defeats Picton Nine In First Game Int. "C" Playdowns

Pointers Win 10-2 Behind Fine Hurling of Marsden; Second Game at Point Tonight

Picton, Aug. 18 — Point Anne scored a 10-2 victory over Picton Army, Prince Edward County representatives, in the first game of the Intermediate "C" OASA playdowns here Saturday night. The second game is at Point Anne at 6:15 tonight, the series being two out of three. Six errors contributed much to the defeat of the Picton team, the winners having two earned runs and Picton one. Marsden hurled nice ball for the winners and allowed but seven hits, struck out nine and walked one. Smythe for the Army was given poor support in the field. He struck out seven, allowed 12 hits and walked two.

Everett led the winners at bat when he clouted three home when his fly was misjudged by the left fielder, and also a single. Fenlon had three singles, Marsden and VanLuck each a double and a single. For Picton, Binkley had two singles and Kolmer, Smythe, Morton, Hook six errors and Point Anne four.

A crowd of 1500 saw Picton play one of their poorest games this season. Point Anne boasts a fine team and a fast hurler in Marsden.

In the opening inning, Point Anne scored two when Fenlon singled with two down. Everett drove out a long one to left field and the pair came in. He later two earned runs and Picton one. Marsden hurled nice ball for the winners and allowed but seven hits, struck out nine and walked one. Smythe for the Army was given poor support in the field. He struck out seven, allowed 12 hits and walked two.

PITCHING & BATTING STARS
(By The Associated Press)

Pitching, Denny Galehouse, Red Sox — Held the Yankees scoreless on his 4th hit in 11 innings for outpitching rookies star Vic Raschi 3-2. It was Raschi's first defeat after six straight triumphs.

Batting Bob Elliott, Braves — Made two hits in each game in double victory over the Giants 3-1 and 5-1. He drove in what proved to be the winning run in the opener and knocked in 2 runs and scored the other in the nightcap. In all, he was responsible for four of his team's five runs.

SHANNONVILLE WINS E. HASTINGS BASEBALL TROPHY

Defeat Cannifton 8-4 to Win Four-Game Series

Shannonville, Ont. — Shannonville won the East Hastings cup by defeating Cannifton by a score of 8-4 on Sunday afternoon. Shannonville taking the first two games by a score of 7-3. They went to Cannifton and beat them 11 to 0. But the Cannifton boys came back strong to-day and scored when Binkley was safe on an error, a fly ball being dropped.

The Shannonville team came back to take the fourth game by a score of 8-4 and won the cup.

The score was 1-1 at the end of the first innings and no score in the second. The Cannifton team went in the third inning score by chalk up three runs in the third making it 4-1 for Cannifton. Undaunted the Shannonville until they opened up in the fourth innings with 4 runs making the score 5-4.

All boys played heads up ball for the greater part of the game. There was no score in the fifth or sixth innings but Shannonville boys scored 2 runs in the seventh to give them a lead.

Cannifton threatened in the seventh, two men on bases and Dr. Jack Empson at bat up to bat and was intentionally passed. Shannonville scored one run in the eighth.

Shannonville catcher Smith, got man after man from third to second base.

Smith Juby and Soero starred for Shannonville, while Jarrell, Empson and Collins starred for Cannifton.

Juby struck out 8 men to Jarrell's six. Jarrell for Cannifton put on a fine display of pitching as this was his third consecutive game.

Johnny Mize, Giants — Popped out to first baseman, filed out to left twice and fouled to first baseman in the first game; went down swinging, grounded out, hit into a force play and fouled out to the catcher.

F. STRANAHAN, TOLEDO, OHIO, AMATEUR KING

Defeats Bill Eglinicki 6 and 5 in Gold Final and Never Headed

(By The Canadian Press)

Chick Evans, 67-year-old veteran golfer of Chicago, says Frank Stranahan of the born to watch for duplication of Bobby Jones' famous "grand slam" of 1930. Frank won the Canadian Amateur title Saturday. The feat would involve winning the United States open and amateur and the British open and amateur in one year.

The Toronto Boys Club entry, with 142 1-3 points, placed third Saturday in the Junior Olympics athletic competition for Children 12-17 years of age at Berea, Ohio. Lou Scott, member of the team won the title of the meet's best athlete and received the Bernard MacFadden trophy from the donor.

Ted Smith of Buffalo, 1945 holder of the Senior Men's United States Amateur Bicycle championship, recaptured the Crown Sunday at Philadelphia by pedalling 25 miles in one hour, six minutes, 29.8 seconds. Doris Travani of Detroit, captured the women's title.

One rider was killed and three were injured at the Illinois State Fair Motorcycle races at Springfield. Jimmy Chann of Deerfield, N.Y., won the 25-mile feature event. Kenny J. Ingle of Peoria umbus was killed in a last-lap pile-up during a five-mile race.

Kenny Holmboe, 19year-old, six-foot Charleston, Va., entrant, won the annual United States soap-box derby before a crowd of 100,000 persons at Akron, Ohio, finishing a half length in front of his nearest competitor. Two Canadian entries, Frederic Blackley of Ct. Catharines and Lorne Nicholson of Mission, B.C., were eliminated in the opening round.

Abe Yaroshy of Winnipeg, rounded three cities in the world, is holding down fifth place after two days in the annual 4th annual open tournament. Jack Nagy of Cleveland, Ohio, was third, while two contestants from the U.S. were tied for first.

Bob Lacourse of Montreal, paralleled Jesse Owens' world record for the 100 yards in seven hours and 48 minutes yesterday with the annual 150-mile bicycle race. Of 30 starters, only 17 completed the course, with Jack Tate of Hull, second and Lauren Pechler of Montreal, third.

Sports Shorts from Britain

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 18 — (CP) — CSM. Jim Hioch, 215-pound giant of the Scots Guard, threw hammers for recreation and enjoyment. But people who watch him are a bit uneasy.

Jim has won many titles including the army championship, and in his career of tossing the 16-pound weight he:

Smashed an illuminations floodlight while presiding in the chest of the Tower of London.

Landed the hammer in the middle of the Queen's lawn in the centre of the arena at a sports meeting.

Heaved the hammer straight into the spectators cowering the banking at Aldershot.

This is his own description of his last exploit: "I took a run-make an extra turn and found that the hammer was swinging me instead of me swinging the hammer. I shut my eyes and prayed for the best."

Brass-hats and raw recruits scattered, and no one was hit.

One other "incident" cropped up in his career as a hammer thrower. In his first year as a guardsman he broke his regimental sergeant-major's ankle with a toss.

Manager Archie Anderson of Arbroath's football club in the Scottish League, stole a march—or a sell—on other club managers when he went out to sign Fisherman John Patience as a professional.

Managers stood on the dock at Peterhead, Scotland, awaiting the arrival of the fishing boat. Archie left with Patience aboard. The boat tied up and Patience jumped ashore, with Manager Anderson behind him and clutching the contract, signed.

He had boarded the Acquire at sea to get the signature.

Fred Daly of Belfast, who won the British Open golf championship at Hoylake with a 72-hole score of 292, may be high in comparison with scores in United States and Canadian tournaments, but it stands pretty well beside previous winning totals for the open on the same course.

In 1936, the last open at Hoylake, only four players broke 300. Alf Padgham of Britain won with 287. In 1926 American Walter Hagen was then in his prime, negotiated the course in 301.

CHAPTER 9.

Sandro came over to her and kissed her hair. Then he sat down beside her.

He said, "I scrubbed the kitchen floor, even and did the brass. Friday I will do the bathroom curtains."

"You're so sweet, Sandro," Sherry said. "I never thought men could be so sweet."

Sandro would have said something only Tony came in the front door with some packages. He looked tired and hot and glared at Sandro.

"I brought home some cold cuts and things because I thought you'd be tired," he said, "and all you've been doing is hanging around the house!"

Sherry sprang to Sandro's defense.

She said, "Oh, Tony! Sandro's worked like a dog till this very minute! Can't you see how clean and polished everything is? He even washed and ironed and he is tired."

Tony put down his package and kissed her.

Sandro said, "Sherry has not coughed all day," very proudly, as though he had something to do with it.

Tony's eyes widened.

He said, "Really? Why that's—that's wonderful!" and kissed her again.

Kris came in and said, "Believe it or not, I made $15!" He kissed Sherry. "I can get the check Friday."

They were all pleased.

Sherry said, "I'm glad you're early, darling, you must be tired."

Kris said, "Not very, but my gosh it's been hot!"

The telephone rang and Sandro answered it. Then he called Tony.

"But it is Peter," he said.

"She hasn't had a cough all day," Tony told Kris, as he went out to the telephone.

Kris said, "Grand!" and then he kissed her again.

"How do you feel?" he wanted to know. "I mean inside."

Sherry told him she had felt well all day, and Tony came back from the telephone.

He said ,"Peter's going to drop by for a few minutes tonight."

Sherry said, "Don't you think it's funny that Dr. Drexell hasn't sent a bill yet?"

Tony and Kris exchanged a quick look.

Kris said, "We were pust talking about that the other night. I guess he's going to wait till you're all well."

Sherry thought it more likely that Peter Barton was paying him and she knew the boys thought so, too. She hated that so she said, "I guess so," and Kris and Tony looked relieved.

After supper Peter came and shook hands and seemed very glad to see them all. He proffered Sherry a huge bunch of lilacs, and said, "Now you're supposed to ask how I knew they were your favorite flowers."

Sherry said, "I don't have to! I distinctly remember telling you once. And that tea roses were my next favorites." But she thought it was sweet of him to remember, and she knew lilacs were awfully hard to get.

Peter said, "Couldn't you have forgotten that? and Sherry thanked him over so much, and held the fragrant flowers in her arms until Sandro brought a vase.

Peter was very glad to hear that Sherry had gone a whole day without a single cough. He said he had happened to run into Dr. Drexell the day before, who told him that Sherry was doing remarkably well.

"Quite beyond anything he expected," Peter said, and the boys were delighted.

Sherry did not like the idea of Peter "running into" Dr. Drexell. She wondered if he might not have gone to the doctor's office to pay him. Her cheeks flushed hotly and she changed the subject.

They all talked about studios then, and Peter told Sherry all the things that were going on out in the valley.

"Oh, by the way, Sandro," Peter said, "there's rather a good bit in our new picture. I already spoke to Stein about you, and he'll see you as soon as you can get out."

Sandro was delighted, and Sherry and Kris and Tony thanked Peter too.

He did not stay very long for fear of tiring Sherry, and it was not until after Peter was gone that Sherry found out about the candied fruits and chocolates and jellies that he had brought from the Gotham.

"It's awfully nice of him," Sherry said. "Really very nice," and they talked about Peter for a while.

"He's a good cameraman too," Tony said. "I'm going to have him for my pictures."

Kris said, "I'm glad that's settled. I've often wondered who you'd have.

Tony said, "Oh, shut up."

He was sitting on the bed beside Sherry, and Kris was in the big chair with one leg thrown over the arm. Sandro had disappeared.

"What would you like to do, my lovely one?" Kris wanted to know.

Sherry said, "Let's plan a house up in the mountains. You know, with big pines around it and a huge, big fireplace."

Tony's eyes were closed.

He said, "It would have to have a 45-degree angle roof on account of the snow."

Sherry said, "Let's pretend it doesn't snow."

Tony was practical.

He said, "But it does!"

Sandro's voice came from somewhere.

"Sherry does not care about the roof."

"Where are you?" Sherry wanted to know.

Sandro said, "Down here."

Sherry leaned over to where she could see him stretched on the floor.

She said, "Kris give him a pillow, will you?"

Kris looked at Sandro and said, "What for?"

Sherry closed her eyes. The huge living room was lovely. The floor spread with fur rugs, and the long monk's table for eating covered with bright checkered linen and pewter ware.

Tony said, "You know we could really live there, sweet! It's only about two and a half hours to town, and when I'm on a picture we could stay at a hotel."

Sandro looked blank.

He said, "But I never know when I am going to get a call!"

Tony said, "I'm talking about Sherry and me. You haven't anything to do with it."

Sherry knew these plans were only a game they played sometimes, but she loved it.

Sandro propped himself on an elbow.

"How do you become that way?" he wanted to know. "I am going to take Sherry to my mother in France."

He lay back and turned to Sherry. "But that you would love! It is a little gray town with cobblestones and spires across the sunset and trees very green. My mother would give you a great many eggs, and in the spring we would go to Paris."

Sherry said, "It sounds lovely," very quietly.

Then Kris said, "You can make all the plans you want, but I'm taking Sherry to Denmark"

And he went on to tell them of the gay life in the capital where he lived The diplomats' beautiful wives and the gypsy musicians, and the horses and uniforms and the intrigues. He told stories about things that had happened at court, and about spies and glamorous adventuresses.

It sounded frightfully exciting, and Sherry was entranced.

"You'll be a countess then, my lovely one, and wear sables."

He slapped his knee and smiled his crooked smile.

"Boy, it'll be funny," he said. "I can see their faces now when they find the Countess Von Rantmann is virtuous! All my enemies'll court you first, and then my friends'll try."

He laughed. "There wouldn't be a funnier joke in the world to pllay on them!"

Sherry did not think it very funny. It sounded a little difficult and hazardous; but after Kris and Sandro and Tony had gone she lay in the dark and thought about it.

Sherry stretched luxuriously on the davenport and stared dreamily out through the open windows.

It was funny that so many things had happened since the day she had first found the cottage among the trees. She had changed so much and everything was different, but Hidden House was just the same. They still drank tea from the blue and gold tea cups, and the sunlight through the trees made the same dappled patterns on the floor.

The boys had won after all, Sherry thought; she was almost well again. There had not been a single coughing spell for two months. She could walk about a little now, from her bed to the living room; and Dr. Drexell had said that pretty soon she could go for rides in the car.

The last time he had come he had looked at Sherry very gravely and had said; "It's remarkable Really, very remrakable." And Sherry had known buh his worried look that she was quite well.

"I can't get over it," he had said to Sandro, "but that's the way it is with these youngsters—one minute they're ready to die, and the next minute they're up and around."

Sherry did not think that five long months were exactly the "next minute," but she had let it pass and asked Dr. Drexell about his bill.

He had said, "Oh, don't worry about that," so she had worried about it ever since. But there was no use asking Peter about it until she had some money, and anyway the boys came first.

They were oll working now, thank goodness.

Sherry smiled as she remembered their "darkest hour." It had been before the coughing had stopped. The boys had not worked for nearly two weeks and they were worried and tired and cross with one another. Kris had been expecting a jjob as technical director on a Swedish picture, but the starting date had kept being postponed and the milkman had kept coming to the door for his money.

They were even out of soap and things like that, and Sherry was fginally willing that they should borrow from Peter, only he was on location.

Finally Sandro had got a day's extra work for an independent company, and had managed somehow to get his check immediately. He had dashed in excitedly at 7 o'clock one night and waved a 10-dollar bill at them.

"Believe it or don't!" he had said, and Tony had said, "For Pete's sake, either learn slang or forget it."

They had made out a list of things that were absolutely necessary, and Kris had gone to the boulevard while Tony and Sandro made ready for the feast to follow.

By eight Kris had not returned and when he did some back at half-past eight he carried an amazing armful of yellow tea roses.

He had piled them in Sherry's arms and strewn them on the bed.

He had said, "There, my lovely one, I've always wanted to do that!" and Sherry had cradled the flowers and said, "Why, Kris! I never saw so many all together in my life!"

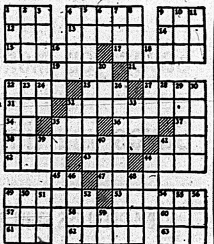
Pile Sufferers

Here is a low cost, simple home medicine. It helps make it possible for you to get quick relief from the itching soreness and burning pain of piles.

It is a medical fact that piles come from causes INSIDE your body. They may need internal treatment. Hem-Roid is an internal medicine. Its medical action helps correct some of the internal conditions that cause such intense soreness and pain. Hem-Roid relieves constipation, wakes up your lazy liver and bile, eases the tormenting rectal irritation and helps heal the sore, painful pile tumors.



If you want quick and effective relief ask for Hem-Roid today at any drug store. It has helped thousands of pile sufferers. It should help you too. Try it now and see how quickly and easily you can relieve your pile misery.

Do you suffer distress of MONTHLY FEMALE WEAKNESS?

This fine medicine is very effective to relieve pain, nervous distress and weak, cranky, "dragged out" feelings, of such days—when due to female functional monthly disturbances.

PETERBOROUGH WINS AND LOSES

Kingston, Ont., Aug. 18—(CP) Peterboro Wiesmen overwhelmed the rookies of the Kingston Police League 21-10 to take a one-game lead in a best-of-three series at the Ontario Baseball Association midget playoffs opened here Saturday.

Wiseman scored nine runs in the first two innings while hurler Ray Douglas registered eight strike-outs in the first three frames without allowing a single safety. Kingston rallied for seven runs in the sixth when Douglas weakened, but a six-run rally in the 9th gave the Wiesmen a wide margin.

In a pee-wee series game Kingston Cards also took a one-game lead as they came from behind to whip Peterborough Optimists 9-8 on Ken Young's 8th-hit pitching effort Reynolds. With Peterboro leading 5-4 in the fifth, Kingston rallied to chalk up a decisive lead.

The four teams are scheduled to clash in their second game in a double-header at Peterboro Thursday.

Survey Shows Belleville Richer Market

(Special to The Ontario Intelligencer)

New York, Aug. 18. —Belleville families had more money available for spending during the past year than did the average family elsewhere in Canada, according to Sales Management's 1947 survey of buying power, covering all cities in Canada and the United States over 10,000 population.

The figures show that the average Belleville family had an income, before taxes, of $4,061, compared to the average of $3,471 earned by families in other communities in Canada and to the $3,670 received per family in Ontario.

How high a buying potential this represents is indicated by the fact that it constitutes .100 per cent of the Dominion income although Belleville has only .127 per cent of the Dominion population.

This income, which totalled $16,542,000, in Belleville, was translated into purchases of $15,705,000 by the local retail stores.

The survey stamps the city a richer market by assigning it a "quality of living" index of 151, meaning that its purchasing power is 51 per cent above that of the average Canadian community, regardless of size.

Canada's retail sales in 1946, on a per family basis were 90 per cent above the U.S. average, but the Canadian dollar has greater purchasing power because price controls really worked there, the survey points out.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was doing the bridge problem in the paper. Pa was also smoking to himself in his private chair, and I was putting my new stamps in my album. I was doing Heck, only a few more weeks now and school will start again and I'll have to wait another whole year before I stop going for another vacation, heck.

Any boy who talks like that doesn't deserve the gift of compulsory education, ma said, and pop said, pop aside I have with your mother. When I was your age I didn't care if school came or not, because school itself was like one long vacation, he said.

How could it of been, didn't you have any teachers, I said, and pop said, We did — indeed, and the teacher I remember with the fondest recollection was the one I had when Lena just about your age. Her name was Miss Lizzie and she had a little red nose, that seemed to get smaller and redder when she was excited, and she was always threatening to send somebody down to the principal's office, but she never actually sent anybody because she was afraid the principal would find out she couldn't manage the class. Poor Miss Lizzie, she couldn't of managed a class of angels, and we were no angels, if I do say so myself, pop said.

And he laughed out loud to himself just thinking of it, and ma said, William, I dont believe it, and anyway it's not the kind of thing to be thinking about a boy with.

I believe you're rite, my dear, pop said. I dont think I'd better tell him about the time one of the boys made a reflexion dance of the wall with a pocket mirror behind Miss Lizzie's back, and it took her 10 or 15 minutes to find out what all the snorting was about. I cant recall just what the boy was, but remember I always kept a little round mirror in my pockit. I think it had "Drink Moxie" printed on the back of it, he said.

Probably meaning he was the boy, ma said. I can remember some funny things about school, like some school's not so useless, I said.

I finished painting my stamps feeling better instead of worse.

Lengthy Ration Served to Sharpen Canadian Appetite for Butter

Ottawa, Aug. 18 (CP)—Reconstruction Minister Howe is expected to return here next week and report soon after to the cabinet on his trip to the United Kingdom and Germany for first hand information on immigration problems.

Mr. Howe, acting Minister of Immigration since Resources Minister Glen took ill several months ago, investigated the possibilities of obtaining more shipping and air space to carry immigrants to Canada and visited some of the displaced persons camps in Europe.

Since Mr. Howe left new immigration problems have cropped up here, with some of the provinces asking for assistance in the bringing in of doctors, nurses, laboratory technicians and the like.

Some observers feel that little can be done to broaden the type of admissible immigrants, because government officials have stated that practically anyone who will not become a public charge or who was not an enemy national, can gain admittance to the country now.

Newfoundland

The first plenary meeting between the Newfoundland delegation and Canadian delegates discussing possible terms of union may be held this week if sufficient progress is made in studies by a committee of representatives of the two countries.

The plenary meeting would bring together the seven Canadian cabinet ministers and the seven Newfoundland delegates who have been discussing a workable and mutually satisfactory basis for union since June 25.

No plenary meeting has been held since it was decided more than two weeks ago that discussion had proceeded far enough to permit a drafting of possible terms. If the meeting accepts the terms they likely will be submitted to the Canadian cabinet for approval before the departure of the Newfoundland delegates.

Butter Picture

Government officials here are watching with an anxious eye a steady increase which has taken place in Canadian consumption of butter since the removal of the war-imposed butter ration 2 months ago.

At the same time, they note an off-setting increase in production but say that "too-heavy an increase on the consumption end might lead to short supplies this winter, when output falls to its seasonal low each year.

It would seem, say some officials, that the lengthy ration had served to sharpen the Canadian appetite for butter and that consumers started to go all out on the table spread once it was released from control.

At the moment, however, there does not seem to be any immediate fear that it will become necessary to re-impose rationing, although this is always a possibility if the supply and use approach a dangerously-low level.

Club Eases Lot Of King-Sizers

By PAUL HURMUZES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Vancouver, (CP)—Vancouver's exclusive "Tip-Toppers" Club has mapped a program to solve the problems of its tall men and women members, in whose company this six-foot-one-inch writer felt rather underfitted.

Formed nine months ago by a group of young women entrance rules stipulate a minimum height of six feet for women and six feet two inches for men. Fifty members now pay dues.

Tallest man is Gordon Darby, six feet, eight inches.

Spending a social evening with the Tip-Toppers causes one to overcome a tendency to stoop and affords evidence that these king-size men and women are lacking seriously the matter of longer railway berths, more space between tram and bus seats and obtaining clothing on an economical basis. And they're having a lot of fun in the process.

Barbara Hall, attractive stenographer, protested at having to walk "her feet off" to find a blouse that wouldn't pop out at the waist and size 7 1-2 shoes.

"All you have to do is stand in a shop doorway. A clerk takes one look and exclaims: "My goodness we haven't a thing to fit you."

A Vancouver fashion designer, Jessie Ju'ay, has come to the rescues. She plans the girls' dresses and keeps the extra cost for outside gowns down to reasonable proportions.

President Margaret MacIntosh feels something should be done to provide more room in buses and theatres. "The other night I wedged into a bus seat and couldn't get out without a struggle. My knees simply would not flex."

Members meet once weekly for picnics, wiener roasts, beach parties, bowling and dancing. Twelve members attended the National "Tip-Toppers" Convention in Los Angeles, where 300 delegates from all parts of the continent assembled.

Leni Maxuren, whose physical proportions fit nicely her six foot height and platinum blonde hair, was Vancouver's entry for the convention's queen and was awarded third prize.

Air Vice Marshal Morfee Member For Air Plans

Ottawa, Aug. 15 (CP) —Air Vice Marshal A. L. Morfee, former air officer commanding Eastern Air Command in Halifax, has been appointed air member for air plans at R.C.A.F. headquarters here, Defence Minister Claxton announced today prior to his departure for Australia.

Air Vice Marshal Morfee will succeed Air Vice Marshal W. A. Curtis of Toronto who is replacing Air Marshal Robert Leckie as Chief of Air staff.

Mr. Claxton also announced Leckie has agreed to devote much of his time to the Air Cadet organization of which he is keenly interested.

Air Vice Marshal Morfee is a veteran of two world wars who joined the R.C.A.F. in 1924.

Drownings Account For Nine Deaths In 18 Fatalities

(By The Canadian Press)

Weekend fatalities in Eastern Canada took 18 lives, a Canadian Press survey showed.

Drownings accounted for nine deaths. Highway mishaps took 7 other lives and two children were burned to death when a stove exploded at a summer resort near Carleton Place in Eastern Ontario.

The fire victims were Denyse LeBlanc, five, and Claudine Gravelle, seven, both of Eastview, an Ottawa suburb. Thirteen other persons suffered burns in the fire.

A single drowning mishap caused four deaths at Cavendish, P.E.I. Two children caught in an undertow when they waded beyond their depth, were John D. MacDonald, 22, Mount Stewart, P.E.I.; Gerald Kennington, Kensington, P.E.I.; Roy Negus, 21, Eastern Passage, N.S.; and his cousin, Alvin Sarsen, 18, also of Eastern Passage.

Also drowned were Charles Teeple, 15, of Mount Denis, in Lake Couchiching in Ontario's Muskoka district; Duncan Shaw, 13, of South River, in Round Lake near Perry Sound; Florian LeBlanc, 33, of College Bridge, N.B., at Upper Dorchester, N. B.; and Melville McKenna, former Hamilton football player and retired fire department chauffeur, near Bancroft, Ont. The body of nine-year-old Harold Green of Kingston, believed to have been drowned while fishing from a wharf, was found in Kingston harbor.

Edward Johnston of Muskegon, Mich., and his six-year-old daughter Lois died in the wreckage of their car after it was in collision with a bus near Sudbury. Johnston's wife, two other children and a niece were injured.

Other motor accidents claimed the lives of Charels Sawyer, 53, of Buffalo, N.Y., in a collision near Trenton; of Gail Lemieux, 3, at Ingersoll; of Joan Merkley, seven, of Chesterville, Ont., and Brockville; of Mary Grabb, 20, at Kitchener, injured Civic Holiday; and of Raymond Potvin, 27, of Hull, Que., at Wakefield, Que.

NO ARRESTS MADE

Toronto, Aug. 16 (CP)—Crews of three police cruisers and volunteering citizens had their hands full last night quelling a free-for-all which police said started outside a dance being held by the Air Cadet League of Canada on Cawthraw Square. The melee lasted for half-an-hour before quiet was restored. No arrests were made.

Embargo on Coal Shipments To Canada Has Been Lifted

Washington, Aug. 19 —(CP)— Arthur Gass, assistant to Colonel J. Monroe Johnson, director of O.D.T., announced today that American Association of Railroads has been ordered to lift embargo on U. S. coal shipments to Canada over C.N.R.

Mr. Gass said the "adverse balance" of U. S. freight cars held in Canada, as against Canadian cars held in United States, had dropped to 4,894 as of yesterday and that it was estimated it would fall today below the 5,000 level set as the maximum balance allowable.

The embargo, subject of the Canadian diplomatic note of protest, was imposed last Wednesday by O.D.T. said cars were not being returned to U. S. lines by the C.N.R. with sufficient speed.

NON-EXPLODING BOMB FOUND IN DOWNING STREET

Under Foreign Office Archway But Could Not Go off Because Detonator Missing

London, Aug. 19 — (AP) — A police guard discovered a bomb today under a foreign office archway in Downing Street, directly opposite from the residence of Prime Minister Attlee.

Announcing the find, a Scotland Yard spokesman said the bomb could not have exploded, since it did not contain a detonator.

It was indicated the bomb had been placed under the arch leading from Downing Street to the Foreign Office quadrangle as a hoax.

The archway is within 25 yards of the entrance to the Colonial Office, where an unexploded bomb was found several months ago.

Lying unconcealed under the archway, the bomb consisted of two electric batteries wired to a glass jar filled with gray powder.

"The powder had explosive qualities," the Scotland Yard announcement said, "but it would not go off because there was no detonator."

Escaped Convicts Reported Seen At Shawville, Que.

Lauzon Known to Have Large Sum of Money Secreted

Ottawa, Aug. 19 —(CP) — Three long term convicts, escapees from Kingston are reported to have been seen and identified near Shawville Que. 50 miles northwest of the capital.

Kingston, Aug. 19 (CP) —Ontario police alerted authorities in Quebec, adjacent to U.S. border, and the R.C.M.P. today as they pressed one of the greatest manhunts in Provincial criminal history for three long-term prisoners still at large after a daring, wall-scaling escape from Kingston penitentiary.

A high-ranking police official said Quebec authorities have been alerted because one of the two, Ulysses Lauzon of Windsor, was known to have a large sum of money hidden somewhere in Quebec, part of the loot of the robbery.

Still 23-year-old Lauzon, who was serving 35 years for armed robbery, was Donald (Mickey) MacDonald, 40, Toronto, serving 15 years for hijacking a liquor truck in Toronto and kidnapping the driver, and Nicholas Minicelli, of Ottawa, who was serving 17 years for armed robbery.

While authorities checked on just how the two stirred through the bars of their cells and scaled the penitentiary high wall, a penitentiary official expressed the belief that Lauzon might not be recaptured without a struggle.

Police believe the three will arm themselves, but did not think they would try to reach such centres as Toronto. All roads are being checked.

Authorities believe the two had "outside help" to make good their escape after leaving old bed clothes to represent their sleeping forms in their cots and delay discovery of the escape as long as possible.

Meanwhile it was recalled that when Lauzon was sentenced for bank robbery by magistrate J. B. Garvin at Napanee in 1945, he made a threat to "get" the magistrate if he ever got loose. Last night at Kingston where the magistrate is now living, he said he was not worried about threat."

BODY FOUND

Naqua, Nfld., Aug. 20 — (CP) — Body of William A. Hunt, 37, of Grand Falls, Nfld., was found by the crew of an eastbound C.N.R. freight train three miles west of here yesterday, George is believed have fallen from a moving car and struck the mine after the blast had destroyed the oxygen.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH

Quebec, Aug. 19 — (CP) — Coroner Dr. Paul Marcoux yesterday certified as accidental the death of Jeanette Lavoie, 4, who died Saturday night from injuries suffered in a fall from the observatory tower window during an anti-vice raid on the premises.

C.P. News Service Curtailed By Severe Thunder Storm

A severe electrical storm which struck at communications lines between Toronto and Oshawa last night severely disrupted Canadian Press wires between Toronto and Montreal.

Leased wires of the C.P. went out of action shortly after six-thirty this morning and copy coming into the teletype rooms of the Ontario capital city newspaper was a jumbled mass of letters and hieroglyphics.

From 6.40 a.m. up until press time little legible copy came through the telegraph.

In a desperate effort to get the news through to its members, the Canadian Press attempted to push a wire to Montreal via Ottawa and back to this city. This failed as copy still filtered through the machines in illegible jargon.

Editors here kept telephone wires here and Toronto "hot" all morning in an effort to get the latest news on wire service The damage, learned later was confined to an air first estimated and at noon there was a complete disruption and the Canadian Press turned to the last resort, overhead service.

Overhead service in the ordinary system over wires running to telegraph offices. This system is much slower and keeps the telegraph editor safe and manners going at full speed until dead line time.

However, before this started to function word was received from Canadian National Telegraphs that wire in Toronto also had gone out and it would be impossible to carry overhead press news.

Consequently subscribers are expected to indulge with the publishers of the Ontario Intelligencer in a moment's patience as somewhat lacking in important Canadian and foreign news.

Freedom of Press Not Guaranteed Says H. Garner

Ottawa, Aug 19 — (CP) — Canadians have no constitutional guarantee of the freedom of the press, H. L. Garner, general manager of the Peterborough Examiner, told the Rotary Club here yesterday.

Mr. Garner, also first vice-president of the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association, said the position of the press in Canada was "precarious" and "subject only to legal safeguards. The Privy Council was the protector and constitutional precedents for a free press would not have the force of law against any clearly written Canadian law.

"It is true that Canadian courts have shown a tendency to protect the freedom of the press, but this was not by the oblique process of focusing decisions upon some technical or relative issue in a case, rather than upon the open declaration of freedom of the press itself."

He called for "a constitutional guarantee embodied in an amendment to the British North America Act" as the only safeguard for freedom of the press.

Savings Bonds Will be Floated

Ottawa, Aug. 19 (CP) —In anticipation of a new offering of Canada Savings Bonds will be withdrawn from sale on Aug. 29, Finance Department announced today.

It was learned that the second series, probably in October, will be similar to the one floated last year. The June offering will bear interest at 2 3-4 per cent with a 10-year-maturity. Similar terms also will be the same $50, $100, $500 and $1,000 and there probably will be the same limit of $2,000 worth to a customer.

Government financial men said the bonds, a peace-time replacement for the war-time savings bonds, are not aimed at covering the administration's deficit. Rather, they are aimed at meeting public demand for savings securities engendered by the wartime stress on thriftiness.

It also was stress that the bonds will be available for those who already have them, but there will be no high-pressure campaign and the initiative will be left to the individual.

MARKET APPLES IN U. S.

Ottawa, Aug. 19—(CP)—Arrangements have been made for the marketing of 2,500,000 bushels of Canadian apples in the United States during the 1947-48 season, the Agriculture Department announced yesterday. The total includes 2,275,000 bushels of packed apples and 1,225,000 bushels for processing.

Over 400 Persons Die When Spanish Plant Explodes

Cadiz, Spain, Aug. 19 (AP)— More than 400 persons were estimated by newspaper men here today to have been killed when a Spanish naval torpedo plant exploded last night, wrecking a residential section, an orphanage, a hospital and a factory.

Earlier estimates had placed the injured at several thousand and the property damage at $10,000,000.

Official censorship was imposed near the scene of the explosion on the narrow Cadiz Peninsula, two miles from the centre of the ancient city of 80,000.

A nine factory and a warehouse lined up with the torpedo plant. The ruin was of the cause of the explosion was left.

Bodies of Three Trapped Miners Found in Tunnel

Pioneer, B.C., Aug. 19 —(CP)— The bodies of three miners trapped in an explosion in the Pacific Great Eastern tunnel, have been located in a gas-filled tunnel, mine officials said today.

The men were trapped in a 4,000 foot long tunnel at the 500-foot level shortly after they entered the mine early Monday.

The bodies, face down in a pool of watgr, were located late last night by a special rescue squad, brought from Nanaimo B.C., but no attempt will be made to bring them to the surface until later today.

The men, three attempts to remove the bodies, the oxygen-equipped rescuers stumbled from the mine early today exhausted and ill from the poisonous gases.

Nicholas Nichol, leader of the rescue squad, said he was unable to determine whether the men were killed by the methane gas explosion or died from asphyxiation after the blast had destroyed the oxygen.

Individual Burials Lasting Week To Mark Whitehaven's Mourning

Whitehaven, Cumberland, England, Aug. 19 (CP)—A week of funerals lay ahead of this Cumberland coal town tonight as preparations were made for the burial of the first of the 104 victims of Friday's mine explosion.

Under a hot sun today, volunteers dug graves, lifted them minutes, tolled beside the town's regular gravediggers preparing graves for the bodies.

Four funerals will be held in the morning, others will go on all through the week until each mine has been given an individual burial.

The busiest day will be Wednesday, when undertakers plan continuous funerals from morning to night.

An inquest was opened today but was ordered to record identification of victims before adjourning for three weeks, when an inquiry into the cause of the disaster will be held.

One by one, relatives of 66 of the dead were summoned before Coroner D. J. Mason in the small, high-ceilinged police court.

After each answer to the identity of the body seen in an improvised mortuary at the colliery, Mason issued a burial certificate.

Most of the witnesses were men —sons or brothers—but occasionally a widow appeared, entering the court timidly in hastily-snatched black clothes. Most of the women contained themselves as they confirmed the name of a victim, but as if overwhelmed by memories, burst into tears at their husband's date of birth without breaking down.

Many brief speeches before opening the inquest, Mason expressed sympathy to the widows and paid tribute to the rescue workers.

15 Planes and 12 Ships Make Extensive Sea Search For Survivors Plane Crash

Honolulu, August 19—(AP)— Fifteen planes and 12 ships crisscrossed the Pacific some 65 miles west of Pearl Harbor all day today in futile search for George C. Atcheson, Jr., one of the United States' top diplomats, and three army men, missing since their plane crashed into the sea at midnight Saturday.

Of the 19 men aboard the B17 when it ran out of fuel en route from Tokyo to Washington, five bodies were recovered Sunday, another was seen to sink, and three survivors were rescued. This made a total of six known dead and four including Atcheson, not accounted for.

Men participating in the intensive search said frankly they held no hope of finding anyone alive in the tossing, shark-infested waters.

On the remote possibility, however, the Hawaiian sea frontier patrol continued without letup the hunt which began when the pilot sent his first distress signal while still in the air Saturday night.

Missing Not Identified

The missing were not identified aside from Atcheson, who with the rank of Ambassador was Gen. Douglas MacArthur's political adviser in the Japanese occupation and chairman of the Four-Power Council for Japan.

The rescued were Col. Harvey Hugin of Fairfield, Iowa; Capt. T. L. Rider of Penn City, Ohio, who suffered a broken arm; and Sgt. L. C. Bethard of Colmesneil, Tex., who suffered head injuries. Both the latter were members of the eight-man plane crew.

Among the five bodies recovered were those of Army Capt. Randolph B. Boyer of Audubon, Minn., and Lieutenant Va.: and Co. David Larr of Watertown, N.Y.

Unofficial word from Tokyo said other victims included Col. Carl A. Russell of Richmond Heights, Mo.; Capt. K. R. Still, the pilot, and Sgt. Cecil Sigmon, another crew member.

The party was bound for Washington conferences preliminary to discussion of a Japanese peace treaty. All the high-ranking officers were members of the occupation headquarters strategic plans and operations group.

Course Uncertain

There was speculation on why the plane ran short of gasoline on

Chief Stewart Says Men Better Fed Than in Army

Kingston, Ont., Aug. 19 (CP)— Bert Adams, chief steward in the Kingston penitentiary, declared last night that prisoners in the big federal institution near here are better fed than were the men in the ranks of the Canadian army, as he commented on charges by Mickey MacDonald, one of the three escaped inmates, that the food in the penitentiary was a "disgrace."

Adams spent six years in the army and as a sergeant of the medical corps had a hand in catering to staff and guests of a 1,200-bed hospital. He has been in charge of the Kingston prison feeding for some years.

"The food in the penitentiary is better than the men in the ranks got, even in Canada," he said. "It is nearly as good as we served to the patients in the hospital overseas."

Dietary standards are set by Warden R. M. Allen in consultation with the physician and Adams' responsibility is in changing the menu from day to day. Adams admitted the diet was bound to be monotonous, but he said no prisoner had any complaints as to its quantity or quality within the limits prescribed by the regulations. No prisoner has ever made any complaint against his stewardship, he added, although there had been complaints about the food. "There were comments in the forces, too," he said.

First Vessel from Turkey Docks At Montreal for Canadian Cargo

Montreal, Aug. 19 — Secured a few wharves east of Jacques Cartier Bridge is the 7,000-ton Turkish motor vessel, Kars, Out of Istanbul via New York, the Kars is loading 5,000 tons of rail-car wheels, axles and a quantity of automobiles for Turkey. Old-timers along the waterfront believe this to be the first time Turkey's white crescent and star has been seen in Montreal harbor.

Mustafa Abasy, the Kars' round-faced second mate, said this was his first trip to Montreal and as far as he knew, the first voyage any Turkish vessel had made to this inland seaport. Abasy is 29 and a graduate of Istanbul's Merchant Marine College where he studied navigation for six years.

"The ship's master, Capt. Necdet Or, was not aboard as Mr. Abasy played host. Of stocky build, Mr. Abasy is a serious-minded young man with an obvious pride in his ship. The Kars' is American built and slightly more than two years old. Mr. Abasy was sitting in the wardroom with one of the passengers the Kars will take to Istanbul. The passenger was Dr. Rizen G. Yassef, a Turkish physician and psychiatrist, who for the last two years has been engaged in research at the Ring Sanatorium and Hospital, Arlington, Mass.

Dr. Yassef has been studying the toxic effects of insulin in acute alcoholism and presented his first paper on the subject in 1946. Now, with his wife and 2-month-old boy, he is returning to Istanbul to help cure acute alcoholism there.

Dr. Yassef, who is a slightly-built man in his last forties, said that his research in the U. S. resulted in a congratulatory letter from President Truman and the technique has been accepted in the United States and Switzerland.

He was not certain if his methods were known to Canadian sanatoriums. So that Canadians could examine themselves of his findings, he gave us a copy of his paper on insulin's effects in the treatment of acute alcoholism.

Dr. Yassef joined the Kars in New York, where she loaded some general cargo, and came up to Montreal in her. The doctor said he had seen few sights more beautiful than the St. Lawrence below Quebec Harbor.

Five Workmen Showered With Molten Steel

Hamilton, Aug. 19 (CP)— Showered with molten steel, five workmen suffered burns; yesterday when a mould exploded at No. 2 open hearth at the Steel Company of Canada Plant. Hospital officials said the condition of the men was "fair."

The men were identified as G. Gergenti, 65; John Grainger, 35; Charles Salmon, 38; John Dziewicz, 35, and Stanley Ali, all are from Hamilton.

At the time of the blast the men were bricking the interior of a furnace ladle used for pouring steel into five-ton ingot moulds. A full pouring, poured earlier from another furnace, exploded while being drawn past the workmen and threw several hundred pounds of liquid steel into the air.

Other workmen said such explosions sometimes are caused by impurities in the metal.

'Gone With the Wind' Popular With Britons

London, Aug. 19 — (AP)—Britons would rather see "Gone with the Wind" again than any other old movie they can think of, the Daily Express said today after consulting its readers. Results on the balloting were not given, but the first 12 were Gone with the Wind, The Way to the Stars, The Seventh Veil, Henry V, Minliver, Becca. This Happy Breed, Brief Encounter, Random Harvest, Henry V, Great Expectations, Minliver, Rebecca and Random Harvest. And those four had British stars.

THWARTED ROMANCE

North Hollywood, Calif., Aug. 19 —(AP) — Claude A. Adams, 66, president of the $2,000,000 Hollywood State Bank, was found shot to death in his home yesterday, leaving notes which detectives said indicated a thwarted romance with his 32-year-old private secretary.

MAN DROPS DEAD AFTER BARN HIT BY LIGHTNING

Simon Vilneff, Cordova Road Near Marmora, Victim of Excitement

Marmora, Aug. 19—As the result of seeing his barn and crop completely destroyed by fire after being struck by lightning last night, Simon Vilneff, who resided on the Cordova Road, 2 miles north of here, dropped dead as the result of a heart attack following the shock.

A terrific electric storm swept the Marmora-Cordova area last night during which Mr. Vilneff's barn was struck by lightning and destroyed by fire. The loss included 100 chickens, some pigs, all of the season's hay and other crops. After watching the fire for a short time Mr. Vilneff collapsed and died. He had suffered from a heart condition for some years past.

The son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Vilneff, the deceased man was in his first year. Besides his widow, one son Douglas Vilneff of Peterborough, and three daughters at home survive, as well as three married daughters.

In the village of Marmora the force of last night's storm was also felt when a large Maple tree in front of the residence of William Biggin, was struck also by lightning. Other reports of lightning striking in the area were heard today; but no more serious damage was reported.

DR. KARL BRANDT GUILTY OF CRIMES COURT DECIDES

Personal Physician to Adolf Hitler Will be Sentenced on Thursday

Nuernberg, Aug. 19 — (AP)— An American war crimes tribunal today convicted Dr. Karl Brandt, Adolf Hitler's personal physician, of "full responsibility" in the performance of Nazi medical experiments on concentration camp victims.

The four-man court found the 43-year-old S. S. (Elite Guard) general guilty of crimes against humanity and of war crimes in connection with which accused him of killing hundreds of thousands of human guinea pigs in "worthless" experiments.

Brandt was one of 23 co-defendants who made up the S. S. Medical Corps. His fate and that of his fellow defendants was contained in a 250-page judgment. Sentences will be passed Thursday.

Drop in Bank Shares Termed 'Unwarranted'

Canberra, Aug. 19—(Reuters)— Prime Minister Chifley said today the Australian government will buy up at their present prices bank and shares holders wish to sell, following a fall in values after Saturday's announcement that the government would nationalize Australian banks.

Chifley said the drops were "entirely unwarranted" and shareholders were entitled to be warned against statements tending to depreciate the value of their holdings.

Youth Missing After Accident

Detroit, Aug. 19 — (CP) — A 17-year-old Detroit youth was reported missing after boating accident on the St. Clair River last night when the craft capsized. The others were Mrs. Margaret Bradshaw, 41, and Clarence Cline, 38 — survived.

11 PLEAD GUILTY TO INTOXICATION

It may have been the heat at Magistrate T. Y. Wills' rostered in city police court this morning, but something of a record was established when eleven gentlemen who had gazed on the wine when it was red were pleased guilty to charges of being intoxicated in a public place.

The record part of the story is that ten of the gentlemen elected to pay their debt to society in the coolness of the county jail. The other, said he could secure the assessed "ten and costs."

Today's quota of uninvited guests to the county hostel on the hill brings the total number of inmates to forty one, a near high for this time of the year.

REDECORATE POLICE STATION COURTROOM

City police court was held today in the county court house due to the police station courtroom undergoing repairs and redecoration. New plaster is being placed on the ceiling and a general decoration scheme being followed.

LATE DR. JAMES A. CUMMINS

The funeral of the late Dr. James A. Cummins, Hamilton, formerly of Belleville, who died suddenly while holidaying at Muskoka, took place on Saturday morning, arriving at Queen Mary Hill Mass was celebrated at the Church in Holy Cross Angels' Church, Orillia, by Rev. Father Brophy, after which the body was brought to this city by motor coach for burial. The pall-bearers at Orillia were Dr. Horne and Dr. Hamilton of Ontario Hospital, Orillia, Mr. Ray Whalen, Mr. Joe McDonald, Mr. A. J. O'Brien and Mr. George Rowland, all of Orillia.

Interment was made in St. James cemetery on Saturday afternoon. A large number of relatives and friends of the late Dr. Cummins had gathered to pay their last respects to Dr. Cummins and to extend condolences to his bereaved family.

Rev. Father Carley officiated at the committal rites. The pall-bearers were Dr. Austin Walters, Mr. Percy Townsley, Mr. William Cooke, Mr. Walter Allore, Mr. Harry Holland and Mr. William Holland.

LATE MRS. ALICE MARY HALL

The funeral of the late Mrs. Alice Mary Hall was held from the Belleville Burial Company funeral parlors yesterday to Mountain View cemetery for interment. Rev. Donald C. Amos was in charge of the funeral services.

The late lamented John Hatfield, Rosa Fairman, D. Conklin, P. White, J. Rapson and C. Holmes.

Snow Falls All Day In Northern B. C. Area

Vancouver, August 19—(CP)—The hunters and trappers of the North Country had quite of an early winter Monday—snow.

At Beatton river, 100 miles northeast of here, light snow has fallen continuously since late Sunday night, and at Fort Nelson rain changed to snow during the morning.

Temperatures fell as freezing at most Northern British Columbia points, with Smith River registering an overnight low of 26.

Belleville Band Scores Success At Kingston

More than 7,000 people turned out to hear the Belleville Citadel band at the Memorial Park in Kingston, on Sunday night. Every member of the audience remained until the last bars of the national anthem had been played—and then stayed five minutes longer to applaud the musicians and their director, Lt. F. Addison.

For the general professional quality of its performance, Sunday night's concert was the outstanding one of the whole "Music Under the Stars" series to date. Even the children were quiet as the music of the band was picked up by the microphones and broadcast throughout the park with a remarkable degree of accuracy.

The lack of a proper bandstand and the consequent subjection of the musicians to a series of high still breeze, made for a bit of difficulty during one number when pages of music were blown off the stands. It was a minor mishap as far as the artists were concerned, however. The high quality and long experience of their direction more than compensated in other numbers for that bit of unavoidable roughness.

The program itself offered a wide variety of numbers.

There were the traditional marches such as Sousa's "Washington Post," Hinchey's "Bugles and Drums", and McCoy's "Light Out," all of which showed off the vigor and stirring vitality which could be expected from an organization which had served long as a regimental band.

But the group had, as well, the polish of a symphony orchestra as was particularly shown in the descriptive suite "Atlantis" by Safranek and in the selection "Sparks" for band and xylophone. In the latter number W. G. Grant was enthusiastically applauded for his work as xylophone artist.

Highlights of the evening were the selection of well known Goodnods opera "Faust". This group, it was explained, will be played by the band when it enters the Canadian National Exhibition band competition next week in Toronto. Included were all the more familiar numbers from the opera, with special emphasis on the soldiers' chorus.

The program concluded with the hymn "Abide With Me".

Mr. Addison, conductor of last night's concert, was appointed Belleville's band conductor only within the past month. He had served for many years as a member of Toronto Symphony Orchestra and a director of his own group of musicians in many broadcast programs.

Special connection with the past of the 70-year-old Belleville band was brought to the attention of the Kingston audience. It was announced that Reginald Hinchey, composer of two of the numbers on the program, and still a member of the band, had been serving with the organization when it toured 21 countries as the Canadian Killtie Band many years ago. At that time the band was honored by King Edward VII of England after two command performances.

August Meeting Sidney Junior Farmers Held

The August meeting of the Sidney Junior farmers was held in the Community Hall, Frankford, on Thursday, Aug. 14th. Mr. Don Nicholson acted as chairman in the absence of the president.

It was decided that the Club would garden on the 16th to clean up the school grounds where the Junior Farmer Field Day had been held.

The Club unanimously voted to have the June meeting take the form of a dance and presentation for the champions of the Sidney and Thurlow Softball Leagues. At this meeting the trophy and cheats will be presented to the winning team.

At the joint meeting of the Junior Institute and Junior Farmers, Mr. Arthur Duncan, Director of Education for Ontario, was the guest speaker. He gave a very educational and interesting address to the Club.

Mr. Ray Hall thanked the guest speaker.

THREE BOOTH OPERATORS ARRESTED

Toronto, Aug. 19 — (CP)—The one thing that wasn't scheduled at the Labor-Progressive party's picnic at Woodbine Golf Club Sunday was the arrival of four East York constables and the swift arrest of three booth operators.

Making a routine visit to the park, the constables noticed two wheels of fortune and a quantity of money which they alleged was being paid off in prizes. The three operators — Michael Synowicki, Nickolas D. Sawchuk and James Patrick, all of Toronto — were charged with keeping a common gaming house.

Melville McKenna Drowned Trying To Get in Boat

Bancroft, Aug. 18 — (Special) — Drowned in L'Amoreaux lake, deep his home Saturday the body of 30-year-old Melville McKenna was recovered in 40 feet of water Sunday afternoon. Provincial Constable Russell Baldwin of Bancroft announced here today. There will be an inquest as the drowning was termed as accidental.

The late Mr. McKenna left home about six o'clock Saturday morning on a fishing trip. He was seen some two hours later floundering about in the water trying to get into his boat. Before help could arrive, however, he had disappeared below the water's surface.

Provincial Constable Baldwin was notified at Bancroft and shortly afterwards dragging operations were commenced. The body was not recovered until this Sunday afternoon, by Alex McGibbon and Jack McCoy, district farmers. The body was found in 40 feet of water a short distance from where Mr. McKenna was last seen trying to get into his boat.

The deceased man at one time was considered an expert swimmer, but some years ago became partially paralyzed on his right side. He has been supernatured from the Bancroft Fire District and was living retired when the accident occurred. Surviving is his wife, who resides at L'Amable.

Kiwanis Carnival Opens With Large Crowd Attending

An event of usual interest, the Kiwanis Carnival, held each night to raise funds for welfare work in the city, was opened last night at the Armouries and will continue until Friday night. Attendance while program has been arranged for each night and it is hoped that the residents of the city and district will patronize this affair and assist the Kiwanis Club to raise the necessary money to continue their welfare work for the underprivileged child at Roblin Lake and the other projects that will be for the betterment of the city as a whole.

More than 1,100 people crammed their way into the Armouries last night despite the high heat and high humidity to enjoy the bingo game. The bingo was in charge of Frank Domenico as general chairman, while Tom Schwab, vice president of the club, and Bill Stovrin called the numbers during the evening. Two special games, which were extra to the regular games played had as many participants and proved that bingo is still a favorite game with all classes of citizens.

The usual games which will be a feature at the Carnival were not in operation last night, those will be added from time to time after the bingo games due to the extreme heat within the building. This condition will be remedied for the remainder of the week by placing of large fans throughout the building. A number of merchants have donated prizes which the building advertising their various products during the week's general decorative scheme of the Armouries. Tonight there will be a fashion show with the usual games and vaudeville to follow.

Allen Taylor of Peterborough was the holder of the lucky ticket which entitled him to a pair of wool blankets. During the week other draws will be made with the draw for the Hope Chest conducted by the women's auxiliary of the club on the last night of the Carnival.

Heavy Rainstorm Welcomed in City

Sweltering under the humidity of several weeks of torrid summer weather, Bellevillians welcomed last night's electrical storm that hovered over the city and district for several hours.

Although other parts of Ontario were visited by severe electric storms that left a trail of considerable damage and loss of life and property when lightning struck with abandon both east and west of Belleville the type of storm here saw rain fall with heat lightning and some little thunder heard. Sweltering citizens welcomed the rain that fell the greater part of the night in an official depth of .50 inches.

Tuesday also helped to diminish the humidity and cooler weather followed Monday night's storm, all of which was most welcomed by citizens in general.

CHEAP HOLIDAY

Hamilton, Aug. 19 — (CP) — Three Hamilton youths are ready for high school again after a 7,000-mile summer holiday jaunt that took them south to Texas and west to California. The trio, Ted Peterson, Edward Ryan and Bud Gusy — started out June 14 with $25 apiece in their pockets and returned over the weekend with $30 each.

Magistrate Takes Constable's Word In Traffic Case

A city taxi driver who essayed to conduct his own defence after pleading not guilty to a charge of failing to stop at a Stop Street, did not tell a convincing story and was accordingly found guilty when he appeared in police court before Magistrate T. Y. Wills in magistrate's court today.

County Constable Thomas Thorne, who laid the charges against the driver, told the court that the defendant had passed him while he (Thorne) was seated in his stopped car at the corner of Dundas and Station Streets. The cut across in front of me and proceeded along Station Street and furthermore failed to stop at the Canniffon Road junction."

The driver stated that he had stopped at Emily Street about three feet to the rear of the Thorne car, and that he had also stopped at the Canniffon Road junction when a car driven by a lady passed in front of him.

Constable Thorne recalled to the stand reiterated his story that he assured did not stop. Magistrate Wills said he would accept the constable's story and found the accused guilty. Another charge of failing to stop at the Canniffon Road - Station Street junction was withdrawn.

Showmen Fined For Keeping Gaming House

Maxwell Goldis and Joseph Kostelz, owners of a wheel game which was connected with the "Queen City Shows, were each pleaded guilty to keeping a common gaming house during the show's appearance here recently, were each fined $15 and costs amounting to $19.

In addition monies found in the wheel at the time of the apprehension were confiscated, but certain equipment consisting of the wheel, tables and chairs were ordered returned. Charges against the wheel operators were laid by Provincial Police Officers and Gambling Squad.

Frank Pringle appearing for the operators told the court that he had been engaged here under the sponsorship of a civic organization and that they had been playing here for the past eleven years. He submitted that if authorities wanted to stop such wheel games, they should notify show promoters of the intent them that such games would not be permitted.

The games are being played in the open where everyone including police can see them and not like s' bootlegger who operates through the door," Mr. Pringle added.

"No objection" Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan said "is that this was a money game and not for small prizes."

In default of payment, the men were ordered to serve fourteen days in jail. The fines were paid forthwith.

DENTIST CHARGED

London, Ont., Aug. 18—(CP)— Dr. R. C. Hutchison, Toronto dentist, charged with manslaughter in the death of Morley Smith, Toronto optometrist, was released on bail here today and scheduled for preliminary hearing Sept. 3. Smith died from injuries received when automobile driven by Dr. Hutchison left the highway near Parkhill, Ont., and rolled over.

KINDLY MAGISTRATE

Port Credit, Aug. 19 — (CP) — Two Halifax youths who said they stole because they were hungry found the law isn't unkind in this lakeshore town near Toronto. After pleading guilty to two charges of theft, Fraser Parker, 24, and his brother, Thomas, 17, were remanded for sentence by Magistrate T. H. Moorehead because they were getting good meals in jail. The kindly judge added he would send a contractor about getting jobs for them.

JAILED FOR STEALING HIS OWN CHILDREN

Stephen Hero, 33-year-old noted violinist and son-in-law of Canadian-born Jose Iturbi, is shown after his arrest on charges of child stealing. The complaint was sworn by Iturbi, from whose custody Hero took the children, offspring of his 'maestro' daughter. Hero took the children from Iturbi's California home and brought them to New York "because I want them to grow up as U. S. children." He refused to post the $15,000 bond for his release, and is to appear in Beverly Hills municipal court for arraignment.

Erstwhile Mountie Probes Murder

Montreal, Aug. 19 —(CP)— A former Royal Canadian Mounted Police constable with a varied career, which included Scrogg of Montreal, recently completed a murder investigation amidst political intrigue that would have had most Hollywood producers raving.

Tall, well-built and with a slight trace of a English accent, Scrogg found himself in the middle of a shadowy murder case when they called on all his 38 years of police training in courthouses.

Shortly after leaving an Ottawa post and setting himself up in business in Montreal, Scrogg was asked to leave for Peru to act as temporary head of the criminal investigation branch of the Peruvian police.

The story reads like fiction. Grens Garland, a right wing newspaper publisher, had been murdered and all indications pointed to political foes. The Peruvian government, fearful of political interference, asked Scrogg, an outsider, to conduct the investigation.

After a stay of six weeks in Peru, the Canadian made recommendations to the judicial branch of the government which brought about the arrest of a member of the Peruvian Legislative assembly. He was charged with the murder of the slain publisher.

Back in Montreal, Scrogg has resumed work as an insurance claims adjuster and is kept on the go with hold-up and bank robbery cases.

During his career he picked up a law degree from McGill University in spare moments while a member of the R.C.M.P. He is well trained in police work having conducted investigations on narcotic, counterfeit and murder cases.

Hog Production Policy Carried On in County

Colonel Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, announced recently that there are sixty-one hog producers in the Province who have been selected to co-operate with the Department of Agriculture in accordance with the terms of the Demonstration Hog Production Policy. This policy, which commenced officially on July 1st, is being looked after by the Livestock Branch, the Ontario Veterinary College and the local Department of Agriculture.

Colonel Kennedy stated in his announcement that this was the first country in the World in which a policy such as this had been set up with the direct support of the government. It is hoped by those in charge that through this policy we may continue to improve the quality of our Bacon in order that we may maintain the British market.

The duties of the co-operators include the keeping track of the total feed costs; the weight of the pigs at birth, at the time of weaning and the time of marketing; total labor costs, as well as completing returns from all hogs sold from the farm. A co-operator is also expected to report any diseases or losses which he may have as well as fallow recommended feeding practices.

The sixty-one farms have been visited by the Representative of the Ontario Veterinary College and in this inspection they found that although a number of the farms were slightly above average there was no reason why other farmers in the same districts cannot obtain equally as good results.

The co-operators for Hastings County, as previously announced, are Mr. Allen Ketcheson, Marmora; and Dave Hallinger, Stirling R. R. No. 4. These farms are to be open to the public and anyone wishing to visit them is welcome at any time.

At the moment no meetings on the premises of these co-operators are planned as it is deemed advisable to postpone the same until definite data is available.

FIRST VESSEL

Altogether, Dr. Varsaf has been away from Turkey for 11 years. He has published five papers in all, three of these treated mental deficiency. Mrs. Vassaf, who was ashore shopping yesterday afternoon is physiologist and a graduate of Smith's College, Northampton, Mass. Also Turkish, Mrs. Vassaf assists her husband with many of his mental cases.

Physiological Problem

"Combatting alcoholism," Dr. Vassaf pointed out, "is an international work. It is a physiological problem. No country is free from the effects of alcoholism. Even natives in remote parts of Africa and the Pacific are afflicted by it."

Mr. Abasay, the second mate, interrupted the doctor at this point to offer us some Turkish coffee and "lokum," which is sold in Montreal as "Turkish Delight." The coffee was served in a demi-tasse, a third filled with grounds. The coffee was slightly bitter though pleasant to the taste and had a rich aroma. After the lokum, a steward brought in a plate of bottled sweets which he said were similar to Canadian boiled candies although much sweeter.

Regarding his cargo, Mr. Abasay pointed out that Turkey intends to connect many of her small towns and villages by railways, says a news report in the Montreal Gazette. Turkey's merchandise was quite prosperous, he said, and comprised nearly 2,000 ships. Most of these were engaged in passenger trade in the Mediterranean area.

Coffee finished, Mr. Abasay offered to show us the Kars' wheelhouse and chartroom. The ship is as well equipped with aids to navigation as any Canadian or British ship. The chartroom is flitted with the latest type American radar; there is a modern, compact radio receiving and sending set; and on the bridge a complicated apparatus also new, gives warning if fire breaks out in any of the holds. Below decks the Kars was also clean and freshly painted.

The Kars, which is owned by the Turkish government, is scheduled to clear Montreal harbor this evening. Mr. Abasay said the captain expected to make the Aegean Sea and Istanbul by Sept. 12.

As we left the Turkish vessel we remembered a day last summer when we had visited another foreign ship alongside Victoria Pier. The Captain of that ship and his officers declined to give any information whatever. The ship's flag bore the hammer and sickle.

Their tireless and self-sacrificing efforts did not surprise him, he said, because "at times like these, we are our fellow-countrymen at their best."

Rescue workers still worked in tunnels running far under Solway Firth to recover the last few bodies and relighted the mine to working order. But the crowds had gone from around the mine gate and the grassy hillside overlooking the pithead.

In the old-fashioned town, nestled in the shelter of the horseshoe-shaped hill, there was little to indicate that an explosion had occurred only three days before. Stores were busy, the streets crowded, and children played noisily on the muddy beach at the edge of the harbor.

15 PLANES

the 2,300-mile hop from Kwajalein to Honolulu, but no one could advance any sound reason.

The plane, which left Tokyo Friday, had stopped at Guam for an engine change. Then the 20th Air Force reported it subsequently made a three-hour test flight, was thoroughly inspected and found in good condition.

The answer might be found on Kwajalein, mid - Pacific aerial crossroads where the plane originated and the pilot made his flight plan for Oahu.

Maj-Gen. Ralph Wooten, commanding air forces in Hawaii, said a board would make an investigation.

"All that was known was that the pilot advised by radio shortly after 11 p.m. Saturday that he had only 20 minutes of fuel left, and estimated he was 20 minutes from land. Actually he was slightly farther out, but the margin of disaster was tragically thin.

Final Message.

He later reported two of his four engines had failed, though short off in an effort to stretch the flying range, but at 11.30 p.m. (5.30 a.m. Sunday, EDT.) he sent his final terse radio message:

"It's time for me to hit the water now."

The survivors said he had warned them in advance and they had only minutes for his conduct.

Atcheson, they said, sat quietly amidships, silent but smiling faintly, as the crash neared. They said the fuselage broke on impact, and in the confusion in the rough, equally sea, they did not know how many life rafts were launched or who got out of the sinking wreckage.

Crew members of the Coast Guard cutter Hermes and the destroyer Haynsworth picked up the survivors and bodies, said the water was full of fuel and littered with Japanese kimonos — bright garments the Japanese wear on ceremonial occasions.

Sharks Present.

Members of the Hermes' crew, who picked up the survivors on a raft Sunday and rowed for three hours in the choppy sea said sharks were present right up against the boat.

"We were scratching sharks' backs with our oars," said Chief Boatswain's Mate Ralph E. Hall of San Pedro, Calif., who commanded the boat.

"When we got near, empty life jackets, floating shoes and Japanese kimonos were strewn over the water. Good-sized sharks were so thick they were right up against the boat.

"We bashed a couple with our steering oar."

Holland was dragged aboard the Hermes from the water with sharks all around him. Lieut. Kenneth Peterson of Long Beach, Calif., commanding the Hermes, said there was a "mass" of sharks that he was "surprised" to see Holland alive.

One of the bodies picked up had the flesh torn from the leg, apparently by a shark.

Colonel Huglin, in the water during the darkness, said he kicked repeatedly at sharks that muzzled him.

Complains of Food

Toronto, (CP) —A copywritted story in the Toronto Globe and Mail today described receipt of a letter smuggled out of Kingston penitentiary and mailed to the newspaper signed "Convict 9" (Mickey) McDonald. No. 8213, Kingston penitentiary."

Its arrival was, a matter of hours after McDonald and two other long-termers broke out of the big prison 160 miles east of here early Monday morning. The letter was dated "August, 1947."

The timing of the letter's arrival gave it prominence and "accidentally accorded similar missives with similar complaints— McDonald's letter said the prisoners were being starved by inadequate rations and said that "It's only a matter of time before we will be forced to do things we will later be sorry for."

Also in accord with the tenor of prisoners' letters of past years in many parts of the Globe was McDonald's statement that "the public never told me that my punishment would be bed every day and night hungry."

Gen. Gibson's Comment

The Globe obtained and printed along with the letter the comment of Maj. Gen. R. B. Gibson, Commissioner of Penitentiaries at Ottawa, who said he had not received the petition which McDonald in the letter said had been forwarded to Ottawa. The Commissioner said he would like to know how the letter was smuggled out of the penitentiary, and he added:

"In connection with complaints, I have visited the institution several times in recent months and heard no complaints about the food. They have a very good steward there. Food is always made a subject of complaints by dissatisfied convicts."

Steward Praises Food.

In a separate dispatch from Kingston the Globe quoted Bert Adams, chief steward of the penitentiary, as saying that "the food at the penitentiary is better than the men in the ranks (army) get, even in Canada. It is nearly as good as we served to the patients in the military hospital overseas."

Anyway, the letter claimed by MacDonald said that the food given prisoners "is a disgrace to our country when there is plenty." For breakfast he said there is porridge with skimmed milk that "nine out of ten don't like," and one slice of bread until noon hour when the men get a stew. He called this stew "a disgrace."

The letter enclosed a petition supposed to have been signed by 700 convicts at Kingston. This petition said that prisoners are compelled to beg, "even steal," ingredients to fill an all-time low of basic recipes.

It said that as a result of the poor food "convicts are sinking into a hopeless lethargy. No longer casting a flicker's dam how bad conditions become.

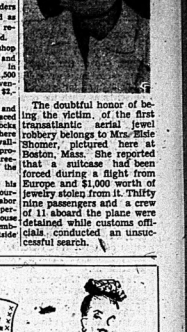
REPORTS AERIAL JEWEL ROBBERY

Cement-Block Homes Ease Hamlet Crisis



Namur, Que., (CP)—This little village 90 miles from Montreal has a novel means of overcoming the housing problem. For $12.50 a month you can become the owner of a cement-block house, valued at $3,000, in 20 years.

Namur is the centre of a sawmill industry, but the builders prefer cement blocks, colored as they are made in molds and resembling cut stone when dried.

A small wood-working shop turns out window frames and the villagers take a hand in pouring cement — 1,000 to 1,500 blocks per house. One seven-room house was put up for $2,500.

When the blocks are up and the roof on, tar-paper is placed on the inner side of the blocks to keep out the dampness. There is no plastering. Heavy wallboard is used. Insulation is provided by the two or three-inch air space left between the blocks and the wallboard.

A home builder, wielding his own saw and hammer and pouring his cement can keep labor costs to a minimum. A co-operative could put up a house in a month. Wiring and plumbing, of course, call for outside help.

The doubtful honor of being the victim of the first transatlantic aerial jewel robbery belongs to Mrs. Elsie Shomer, pictured here at Boston, Mass. She reported that a suitcase had been forced during a flight from Europe and $1,000 worth of jewelry stolen from it. Thirty nine passengers and a crew of 11 aboard the plane were detained while customs officials conducted an unsuccessful search.

Course of Freedom for India

Just over 100 years ago, Sir Henry Lawrence, one of the great Englishmen who have served India wrote, "We cannot expect to hold India for ever. Let us so conduct ourselves as when the connection ceases it may do so not with convulsions but with mutual esteem and affection and England may then have a noble ally, enlightened and brought into the scale of nations under her guidance and fostering care."

Last week the Dominions of India and Pakistan became full members of the British Commonwealth, free to continue or to leave it for independent existence outside. Britain has so conducted herself that the changeover has been effected "without convulsions and with mutual esteem." The new situation is the culmination of a long series of legislative enactments marking the progress of India towards full self-government.

It is nearly 350 years since Queen Elizabeth gave a Royal Charter to the merchant adventurers who formed the East India Company. Their object was peaceful trading and traders they were for almost a century and a half. Dutch, French and Portuguese were there too and while it was probable that the British would become involved in the internal affairs of India with the break-up of the Mogul Empire, they were forced into them by the fact that Britain and France were repeatedly at war in Europe and war in Europe meant war in India.

The French and British began to align themselves with this or that party in the Indian conflict, not to fight Indians but to fight each other. The French were finally defeated and at the end of the conflict the East India Company found itself not just a trading company but the ruler of the vast territories, in conflict with the great Indian princes who had divided up the heritage of the Moguls. By the beginning of the nineteenth century the Company held sovereignty over almost the whole of India. Clive's victory at Plassey in 1757 had made the Company master of Bengal and British public opinion began to view with concern the transition of the Company from trading to kingship.

Gradually the Company ceased to be a trading concern and a board of control was set up in London to supervise its political activities. By 1813 it lost most of its commercial activities. In 1858 Queen Victoria announced that the Crown would assume direction of the Government of India. The 1861 Indians were admitted to the membership of the legislative councils of the Viceroy and of the Governors of Bombay and Madras. In 1917 the Secretary of State for India announced that "there would be an increasing association of Indians with every branch of administration and a gradual development of self-governing institutions with a view to the progressive realization of responsible government in India as an integral part of the Empire." The India Act 1919 provided for provincial governments each consisting of two parts. In 1935 the Provinces became fully autonomous.

The U. K. Government authorized the Viceroy to reaffirm the offer of Dominion status after peace was restored after the Second World War. By 1946 came the Cripps mission to India with two main principles, that no limit be set to India's freedom to decide her own destiny and that this could only be achieved by a constitution framed by Indians, with the provision that any province not prepared to accept the new provision retain its existing position. The Cripps offer was rejected by all parties and the problem was still unsolved at the end of the war. New elections gave sweeping majorities to the Congress and the Moslem League and so the stage was set for a settlement.

In February 1946 a Cabinet mission was sent out but again no agreement was reached. The issue between the Indian parties was the unity or division of India. The Mission proposed a constituent assembly elected by the provincial legislatures, the states to send representatives and the Assembly to decide the future constitution. Unfortunately differences in the Assembly Indian parties prevented the Assembly functioning as a fully representative body. Then the United Kingdom Government made clear its intention to take the necessary steps to effect the transference of power into responsible Indian hands not later than June 1948. Lord Mountbatten succeeded as Viceroy and initiated further talks. Partition was decided and the boundaries of the two areas defined. Britain introduced legislation for the transfer of power.

So came the Indian Independence Act, creating two independent Dominions, India and Pakistan, 80 best though not both. After the Crown assumed responsibility for government of India, the Crown hands it back to the people of India, to two great Dominions with populations of 337 millions (India) and 99 millions (Pakistan).

Accident in Pacific

The world has been shocked by the accident in the Pacific which befell the United States Army transport at sea while bearing U. S. Ambassador George Atcheson, Jr., and three ranking officers from General MacArthur's staff. The plane was carrying a party of ten to Washington to discuss preliminaries to the peace treaty with Japan. Five in all were missing, the others being rescued.

Ambassador Atcheson had an intimate knowledge of the Japanese situation. He had served as chairman of the Four-Power Allied Council for Japan and was a veteran expert on Russia and the Far East.

The cause of war bear heavily upon all sections of the people and in these days of negotiations leading up to peace treaties the world has this example of a tragedy befalling a statesman.

No New Revelations

It was not expected when the Lincoln papers opened several weeks ago were examined, there would be anything new about the Great Emancipator. So deeply did Lincoln impress himself upon everything he said and did that the world has had, especially the United States, a very intimate knowledge of his life and character. Whatever is in the newly opened papers bears the signs of true Lincolnism.

For Lincoln was a fully rounded man, the human touch being marked by his many-sided personality.

If there is any mystery about Lincoln it can only be on the score of the universality of his mind and outlook on life. He impressed his age as he has impressed succeeding periods and the peoples of other nations.

The study of the life and work of Lincoln has enriched the people of his own land and is a very real sense he has long since become a world figure with an appeal to every heart and imagination.

Meatless Days Past

Meatless days in public eating places have come to an end and the disappearance of the restrictions has been expected. People like the freedom which the removal of restraints affords. It is thought that there may be a slight increase in the consumption of meats as a consequence of the change.

American tourists as well as Canadians who dine in these public eating houses have welcomed the change.

One lonely article is still not quite free. That is sugar, which has long been on the ration list. Inevitably it will likewise become free and unrestricted. Sugar plantations in the Far East suffered during the war and will be brought back into cultivation and world trade while best sugar growing land has been fostered.

Demand for Trees in West

There is a much bigger demand for trees today than the forestry stations at Indian Head and Sutherland, Sask., can provide. As a result the Indian Forestry Association is asking the Dominion Department of Agriculture to secure more land adjacent to these stations to enable still more trees and shrubs to be grown. The association is also urging that greenhouses be provided so that research in tree hardiness and in tree pests and diseases may be studied, says Lethbridge Herald.

GOLFERS' PROGRESS

The taxi'st time—all golfers know—
Is paid when due from year to year;
Through various ages all must go.

From first to last the signs are clear.
Time was when youth and strength were mine,
And had my score been high or low,
I'd say: "Let's play another nine!"
But that was years and years ago.

When young, I played through rain and snow
And took the weather with a grin;
But that was also long ago.

Now, when it rains I hurry in.
The course seems longer every year.

I find much tougher is the rough.
Oh, can it be the day draws near
When nine holes kill be just enough?

Seven Toronto Men Held On Vagrancy Charges

Toronto, Aug. 19 —(CP)— With seven Toronto men held on charges of vagrancy, police today had a dragnet out for others, although they looted the safety deposit boxes of the Royal Bank of Canada at Dundas and Chestnut Streets over the weekend.

Only one-third of the deposit boxes were rifled, but total value could not be estimated. Securities taken was unofficially placed at more than $100,000. Bank officials said, however, that only the exact loss cannot be determined until all boxes are opened by their owners.

Those held are: Jack Garvie, 24; Clifford Blanchfield, 32; Eddie Gutler, 28; Harold Cowan, 24; Jack Hardy, 19; Victor Chernick, 20; and his brother Harvey, 36. Garvie also faces a charge of possessing an unregistered revolver.

The robbery was discovered yesterday morning when a worker found a hole three feet square pushed through two brick walls which separate the bank and a basement laundry.

Meticulous planning of the burglary led police to believe it may be thatwork of the notorious Nuremberg Gang, so called because they address each other by number instead of by name.

The thieves used the thugs to deaden the noise of sledge-hammers and a pedlock and chain to gain entry to the furniture store was replaced by a new one to delay detection until the last possible moment.

The Nuremberg Gang are also blamed for the $250,000 robbery of another bank on Sunday. Three here last April and a $200,000 burglary at Cayuga, Ont., where access was gained to the vault by smashing through a 15-inch brick wall. Police say the present differs from the two previous raids in that no explosives or acetylene were also taken yesterday.

DON'T WANT RIGHTS

L'Islet, Que., Aug. 19 (CP)—Hon. Louis St. Laurent, Minister of External Affairs, said here at a political rally yesterday, that his colleagues at Ottawa "will never agree to accept the slightest restriction of our rights."

The Federal Minister said that the Federal government is satisfied with the financial relations the government which during the past 10 years has "given good results."

He told his audience that he regretted the absence of Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec to antagonize the Federal government.

IT TAKES MORE FOOD TO SATISFY ONE WITH B DEFICIENCY

Why, oh, why do so many fat folks continue to eat so much when they know that overeating is what keeps them overweight or oversize?

Give me your close attention and please don't fall asleep. Fatty, and I'll tell you how to break the vicious circle that keeps you eating more than you can burn day by day, the excess piling up as superfluous flesh.

Thanks to the excessive per capita consumption of refined carbohydrate (mainly white flour and white sugar or syrup) in the United States, most of us, fat or thin, worry along on less than half of the daily intake of vitamin B complex, particularly B1 (thiamine) and B2 (riboflavin) required to keep one in fine fettle, trim, fit. This in not just my opinion but the dictum of millions of authorities who know.

Therefore I advise everybody who consumes the average amount of white bread, rolls, cakes, sweets, sugar, syrup, ice cream, candy etc., to eat a daily ration of vitamin B complex to supplement his or her vitamin - poor diet.

A familiar complaint of the individual who has overindulged is: "I just can't seem to get enough potato, bread, cake, candy or sugar. I crave more and more for such things."

In the first place these refined carbohydrates are available everywhere and are relatively cheap, easy to eat because they require little or no mastication, and as easy on the digestion to digest and as quickly available for energy purposes that the tired, fatigued or exhausted. The pure sugars are 100 per cent. energy calories, but virtually no vitamins or minerals.

One function of vitamin B-1 (thiamine) is to maintain good tone of the intestinal muscles, the voluntary muscle, such as that of the heart, arm, walk, and such and intestinal walls. If an individual's daily intake of B-1 is not what it should be, the tone, elasticity, firmness of intestinal muscles is lost, the exact loss cannot be determined until all tests are made by their owners.

Famous case: Jack Garvie, 24; Clifford Blanchfield, 32; Eddie Gutler, 28; Harold Cowan, 24; Jack Hardy, 19; Victor Chernick, 20; and his brother Harvey, 36. Garvie also faces a charge of possessing an unregistered revolver.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What is meant by the Kilkenny cats?

The Kilkenny cats were two pugnacious felines that, according to an old Irish story, fought until nothing was left of them but the tips of their tails.

To fight like Kilkenny cats means to fight as a horse pulls until both parties to the contest have lost everything.

During the Irish rebellion of 1798, says the old tale, the town of Kilkenny in Leinster was garrisoned by Hessian troops. One of their recreations was to set two cats to tie two cats together by the tails, bang them face to face over a clothesline in the barracks and then watch them bite, claw and scratch each other until one of them was dead.

The officers, learning of this barbarous pastime, decided to put a stop to it, and accordingly instructed one of their number to keep a close watch on the men with a view of catching them in the act.

Several of the Soldiers while engaged in cat-fighting heard the officer coming up the stairs and one of them quickly cut down the cats by severing their tails with a single stroke of a sword. The cats escaped through an open window but their bleeding tails were left behind as damning evidence.

When the officer demanded the meaning of these he was told that two cats had engaged in a fight so furious and savage that they had completely devoured each other all but the tips of the tails.

This story is characteristically Irish and some authorities believe it was originally a parable based on a long and destructive feud between Englishmen and Irishtown, two separate municipalities that finally were merged into the present Kilkenny. Englishtown was founded by the British while Irishtown was a native village, and during the 17th century the two towns fought and wrangled over their respective rights until both were nearly ruined.

The earliest reference to the "Kilkenny cats" recorded by the Oxford dictionary is dated 1853.

Indications Three Escaped Convicts Had Outside Help

Ottawa, Aug. 19 (CP) — Maj.-Gen. R. B. Gibson, Federal penitentiaries commissioner said last night he has investigated a petition reported received yesterday by Mrs. Gordon Gissler and one of three long-term prisoners Mail from Mickey MacDonald who escaped yesterday from Kingston penitentiary.

Gissler, he said, received a copy of the petition, said to have been signed by 700 convicts, asking for a quantity of food in the penitentiary be sent outside "on the ground" for complaints of inadequate food.

"I have visited Kingston two or three times in the last month or two," he said. "I investigated and has appeared satisfactory. The present steward seemed to be doing a good job."

He added that "inadequate food is usually the complaint of men when there was a prison disturbance or break."

Earlier yesterday, the commissioner said there were indications that the three escaped convicts had "outside help in the preparation for their escape. The fact Messrs. Gissler, Mickey and Nicholas Minille of Ottawa and Ulysses Lamothe of Montreal, Que., had escaped with the help of saws and rope indicated assistance from the outside. However there had been no indication of outside help after they had made the jailbreak.

He also said the lapse of time between the break and its discovery — from 3 a.m. to 6 a.m. — was under investigation. He cleared the penitentiary staff of any suspicion of having facilitated the break, but indicated the question of negligence was being checked.

Whitby Buildings Hit by Lightning

Toronto, Aug. 19 —(CP)— A lashing rain storm, with hail, driven by a strong northwest wind, took an erratic path through Southern Ontario yesterday, flattening crops, uprooting trees and disrupting hydro services at a number of points.

In the north, Sudbury district felt the full blast of the gale, while at Whitby two buildings were hit by lightning. Electrical wires were torn down and traffic brought to a halt by a half-hour's blinding rain, before the storm moved out over Lake Ontario.

Neither of the buildings hit was seriously damaged, but grain and hay valued at $1,000 in all were flattened. Oshawa, Cornwall and other points also felt lesser effects of the summer freak.

WillRepair Roadfrom Highway 62 to Coe Hill and Purdyville

A contract has been signed and tenders requested for the repair of the county road from Highway #62 through #37 through the village of Coe Hill to Purdyville, Fred Wilson, M.L.A., Hastings West announced today. New culverts will be installed and the grade will be built up.

The road is the only county road north of Madoc township, Mr. Wilson said and due to the more or less isolated district it has been difficult for Hastings County Roads and Bridges committee to keep it in repair. The Department of Highways however will spend a large sum of money on it but it will not lose its county road status.

The entire strip of road will be repaired with the exception of the short stretch between Greene's Corners and Purdyville.

The road itself is a continuation of that which runs from Highway #62 to Madoc. This part has been kept in good repair and it was felt that the section included above should receive some consideration. After many discussions with the Department, Mr. Wilson succeeded in getting a contract signed and tenders requested.

The road, Mr. Wilson pointed out, is well-travelled one over which a great deal of northern county traffic runs. It will be a great boon for Hastings and should pay dividends.

Princess to Omit Trousseau

London, Aug. 19 (AP)—Princess Elizabeth will do without a trousseau for her marriage to Philip Mountbatten, Nov. 20 in Westminster Abbey, Buckingham Palace announced.

"This austerity note to Britain's wedding of the century was made public along with the announcement that the Princess, wearied somewhat by one of Normal Hartnell's designs for her wedding dress.

"The trousseau will be omitted "in accordance with her parents' wishes and owing to present-day conditions" the palace statement said.

"Present-day conditions" means that clothing is stringently rationed and highly expensive. The idea seemed to be that Elizabeth, although the most-feted not worry her and extra "rations" could be here for the asking, wanted nothing less fortunate brides couldn't have.

Besides, she has a fairly large wardrobe left over from the Royal visit to South Africa earlier this year.

Details of the wedding gown will be kept secret until just before the wedding.

Family Meet For Birthday Party

Mrs. Elizabeth Simpson, 14 Bay Street was guest of honor on Sunday, when twenty-three members of the family gathered for a birthday dinner party at six o'clock p.m.

The table was artistically decorated and made doubly attractive with a birthday cake holding 66 candles in pink and white, and with matching party "crackers" at each place.

From her children and grandchildren, Mrs. Simpson received a great variety of useful gifts, and games were played until almost midnight, when the guests took their departure wishing her many happy returns of her natal day.

Fashion Flashes

OLD-TIME charm marks some of the newest clothes. Pure silk black taffeta is used for a handsome dress made with shirred, basque bodice, the curved hem of which is marked by a narrow roll of the fabric. Tiny self buttons down the bodice set off a tiny demure collar. In contrast, is the full circular-cut width worked in the finest of pleats that overlap each other.

NICE WAY to learn geography is by studying a dry goods. It is a big square of pure silk printed in many colors, depicting a map of the United States, with famous buildings and landmarks marking the wide border.

NEW IMPORTANCE attaches to accessories in the new fashion pictures. Very handsome is a long, double bex-bag and flared cuff gloves, both of black suede with a beautiful hand-painted design of lacy flowers done in white silk.

ONE GIRL we know is having fun flashing a lipstick case that has a tiny watch on its top cover. The novelty is said to be coming on the market soon, done in colorful enamel, large enough to hold the average lipstick.

EFFECTIVE for the fine, slim figure, is the dress that sleekly covers its curves from high collar to hem of long-line skirt. Black satin is used for one such dress made with tiny standing collar, above a softly-snug, plain, long-sleeved bodice, belt-less waist. There's a low-placed buckle-bow in back.

TRANSITION hats that bridge the gap between late summer and early fall, are wardrobe peppersippers. Black rayon satin is used for one such hat, a smart little, way-back-on-the-head sailor, with cloche brim, trimmed with an upright, swirling algrette feather fancy and a navy black veil. Nice above a sheer frock or a silk suit.

INFANT BORN ALIVE

Windsor, Aug. 19 —(CP)— An infant whose body was found Saturday wrapped in newspapers in a downtown alley was born alive and died to death, Dr. H. Bruce Hough, who performed the post-mortem examination, said Sunday. He placed the time of death at "somewhere between eight" and said the child, a full-term female, apparently lived about an hour.

"What dopes! The light isn't burnt out . . . it's just LOOSE in the socket!"

The Mixing Bowl

Hello Homemakers! The world belongs to the harvesters these days. With so much work to be done and such a short time to do it in, our-men should have meals provided on the "dot" and the best meals we can prepare.

Finally, if we remember to put strangers at ease in a cool, dining room or kitchen, we probably won't want for help next harvest.

Amounts required for 12 servings:

Soup—Three quarts
Veal or Beef—Eight pounds as purchased
Potatoes—Four quarts, prepared
Vegetables—Three quarts, prepared
Lettice and Cucumber Mix—Three quarts prepared
Bread—One loaf
Open Face Pies—Two pies
Applesauce—Two quarts
Drop Cakes—Two dozen
Tea—One-quarter pound

ORANGE TEA BISCUITS

3 cups sifted flour, 6 tsps. baking powder, 1 tsp. salt, ½ cup shortening, 3 tbsps. orange rind, 1 1/3 cups skim milk.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt; sift again. Cut in shortening. Add orange rind to milk and sprinkle into dry mixture until a soft dough is formed. Turn on slightly floured board and knead ½ minute. Roll one-half inch thick and cut with biscuit cutter. Place on slightly floured pan and bake in electric oven at 450 degrees for 12 minutes.

FRESH BLUEBERRY PIE

1/3 cup flour, 1¼ cups sugar, ½ tsp. salt, ½ tsp. nutmeg, 3 qts. blueberries, 3 tbsps lemon juice, 1 tsp. lemon rind, 3 tbsps. butter.

Plain Pastry

Line 3 pie plates with plain pastry. Flute on an edge as for a lemon pie; cut strips of pastry for placing across the top. Chill pastry in electric refrigerator while the filling is being prepared. Mix together the flour, sugar, salt, nutmeg, sprinkle one quarter of this mix on the uncooked crusts. Blend remainder with lemon juice and grated rind; fill pie shells; dot with butter. Lay on strips. Bake in preheated electric oven, at 425 degrees for 45 minutes.

DUTCH PLUM CAKE (12 servings)

1 cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 tsps. lemon rind, 4 eggs, unbeaten, 2 cups sifted pastry flour, 2 tsps baking powder, ½ tsp. salt, 2 doz. blue plums, 2/3 cup white sugar, 1 tsp. cinnamon.

Cream together shortening, 1 cup sugar and lemon rind; beat until fluffy. Add eggs one at a time; beat well after each thoroughly. Add sifted dry ingredients; beat until smooth. Pour half batter into greased pan. Cut plums, remove stones and lay pieces on the batter. Cover with remainder evenly. Mix sugar and cinnamon together and sprinkle over batter. Bake in preheated electric oven at 350 degrees for 1 hour. Cut in squares and serve warm.

TAKE A TIP

1. Do not prepare potatoes more than an hour before cooking, because they lose nutritive value and they may also become sour.
2. You may double a cup of salad dressing by the addition of an egg and a cup of milk. Beat thoroughly.
3. Set the table for the harvesters well in advance and pull the shades, put flowers in the room and open the doors to keep out excess heat.

THE SUGGESTION BOX

Mrs. T. B. says: If your rubber gloves prove accordingly dry, rub off the gummy part with kitchen cleanser.

Mrs. J. R. says: A vegetable peeler is worked in the cut. It saves time, nutritive value and increases convenience.

Mrs. M. B. says: To remove buttons without ripping the fabric, slide a comb under the button and cut thread with a razor blade.

Mrs. D. O. says: Garden tools will stay rust-free if stacked in a box of sand moistened with old crank-case oil.

Breast Feeding Is Advocated

Ottawa, (CP)—The number of babies dying in Canada today may not be as high as it was 20 years ago but, according to health and welfare department official, the present infant mortality rate isn't anything to brag about.

Dr. D. V. Huton of the department's child and maternal health division, and Canada's representative last month at the International Congress of Midwifes in New York, isn't at all proud of the fact that Canada still has its baby-dying out of every 1,000 born.

And rubbing shoulders at the convention with delegates from Sweden and New Zealand—two countries with the lowest infant mortality rates in the world—didn't make him feel any easier about the Canadian situation.

Certainly the Canadian rate has dropped considerably—from 102 to 53 in the last 20 years—but we still stand eighth on the list, Dr. Hutton said in an interview here.

Sweden and New Zealand lead the world with a low of 29.

Climate Counts

"Perhaps New Zealand's even climate accounts partially for its low rate, but the difference is in the system of pre-natal care," said Dr. Hutton. "Under this set-up each mother has the benefit of supervision from the time of conception right through to confinement."

"And once the infant is born every effort is made to feed the child breast milk," he said. "In New Zealand 90 per cent of the mothers breast feed."

This situation isn't the same in Canada where in certain eastern provinces less than one per cent of the mothers breast feed, continued the health department official, adding significantly that in these same sections the infant mortality rate has been known to soar as high as 138.

And in the hot weather diarrhoea and enteritis are the diseases most likely to snuff out infant lives. Dr. Hutton said it was a "recognized fact" that breast-fed infants stand a better chance diseases in nearly the same proportions as youngsters put on formula after the baby age. And, if they did, they rarely died.

Dr. Hutton referred to the department's Ruby Tinkiss, now on loan to the Saskatchewan health department and the Canadian Red Cross. Miss Tinkiss is setting up Canada's first breast-milk bank in Saskatchewan. The idea isn't new—New Zealand has had Brownsville banks for years. But it's new for Canada—and a step in the right direction.

Threshing Starts In P.E. County; Yield Not Heavy

Point Traverse, Aug. 19 — Threshing operations are beginning to get into full swing in nearly every section of Prince Edward County at the present time; Mr. Herbert Jeffrey of Royal Hay Queen, one of the reports only a fair turnout of grain this year.

Mr. Jeffrey has recollection of years when there were heavier crops of grain reaching the farmers' bins, and then of the lean years when the harvest was very light.

"This many years is it that you have been in the threshing business," he was asked. "This season makes it my 46th," he replied. He began threshing when the old time horse power outfits were just going out of use. He does not remember the number of separations he has had during his time, but stated that he had used many makes, even to the old McCluskey type of machine, which is not built anymore. Mr. Jeffrey's father, Frank Jeffrey, threshed for some 33 years. After doing threshing by the horse power method, he later owned the first steam engine in Sidney, Ont.

Mr. Jeffrey has a desire to equal the record set by his father.

Summer Visitors to Eire Highest on Record

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Dublin, Aug. 19. (CP)—Eire has more Summer visitors than ever before. Streets and street cars, shops and restaurants are jammed. Hotel rooms are reserved for weeks ahead.

The unofficial estimate is that by Autumn there will have been 2,000,000 tourists in this country of 3,000,000 population.

Some 10,000 cars with foreign license plates are said to be on Irish roads, almost all of them British.

Hundreds slept in their cars at Galway race meeting which set attendance records. The Dublin Horse Show this month attracted 152,000—more than 20,000 above the previous top.

Tourists from tightly-rationed Britain stand on street corners exchanging tales of four-course breakfasts, luscious barbecues and "real" ice cream. Relaxation of Eire's export customs regulations has brought a rush for clothing, cosmetics and other personal goods in Dublin stores.

Eire is an export market for Britain. British visitors can find here countless products which were made in their own country but can't be bought there.

Anglo-Irish Trade

Most of the Summer visitors in Eire have been on holiday, but not all. There are government buying missions from many western European countries. Buyers from France, Switzerland, Holland, Belgium and Britain all are after Irish livestock.

The continentals are reported to have offered up to 85 shillings ($17.00) a hundredweight for fat cattle compared with offers from British dealers of 75 shillings ($15). About 2,000 cattle a week are going to Belgium alone.

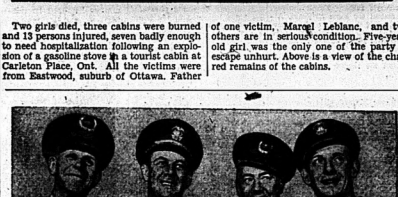
Irishmen generally are not overly happy about the situation. Already the cost-of-living has gone up more than 70 per cent and the pressure from foreign prices is threatening to increase prices still more. And Irishmen are looking for greater trade with Britain, potential source of the coal, fertilizers and agricultural machinery which Eire needs.

The promise of Anglo-Irish trade talks given recently by John Strachey, British food boss, was widely welcomed.

Feelings toward Britain are warm—if the views of a few ex-treme Republicans are put to one side.

Significantly, the Irish Independent, largest-circulation daily in the country, has been advocating that Eire fulfill her part in world affairs by active membership in British Commonwealth of Nations.

Dollar Shortage



Eire's economy is bound up so tightly with Britain's that the dollar shortage across the Irish Sea is bound to be felt here. Eire's dollars have been coined from the common pool administered by Britain for the whole Sterling area.

Mutual arrangement to reduce Eire's spending in the United States is anticipated. A reduction in imported foodstuffs, gasoline allowances to motorists and American movies is anticipated.

STOVE EXPLODES, TWO DIE IN SUBSEQUENT FIRE

Two girls died, three cabins were burned and 13 persons injured, seven badly enough to need hospitalization following an explosion of a gasoline stove in a tourist cabin at Carleton Place, Ont. All the victims were from Eastwood, suburb of Ottawa. Father of one victim, Marcel Leblanc, and two others are in serious condition. Five-year-old girl was the only one of the party to escape unhurt. Above is a view of the charred remains of the cabins.

GIANT COLONEL ON TRIAL

Dachau, Germany, Aug. 19 (AP) —Otto Skorzeny, giant S. S. Colonel who rescued Benito Mussolini for Adolf Hitler in 1943, went on trial Monday with nine members of the Ardennes spearhead battalion. They pleaded innocent to charges of killing American soldiers taken as prisoners of war.

There was every indication the prosecution in the United States military court would demand the death penalty.

Russian Church Damaged by Fire

Windsor, Aug. 19 — (CP)—St. John and Divine Russian Orthodox Church was almost destroyed early Monday by fire of undetermined origin.

The basement hall was not greatly damaged, but the rest of the building was ruined. Fire Chief Hedley Coates said the blaze appeared to have started in an attic and that defective wiring may have been the cause. But District Chief W. C. Girard, who said he installed the wiring 31 years ago, said he believed it was in good condition.

Rev. Lukian Sieciuk, on the scene shortly after firemen arrived, said he knew of no person entering the church since the close of Sunday's service at 1 p.m.

The roof collapsed soon after the firemen arrived. Chief Coates kept his men out of the building until the tower, holding three bells, the heaviest weighing 500 pounds, toppled. The bells fell in the centre aisle.

The main floor remained intact and water cascaded down the steep, stone steps into Drouillard Road.

The church was built 30 years ago. Father Sieciuk said that only a small part of the loss was covered by insurance.

Duckskin Handbags Chic in Australia

Sydney, Aug. 19. (CP)—Ducks now are making their contribution in the Australian fashion field, in the guise of ladies' handbags.

When experimental handbags of duckskins were shown recently at the federal conference of poultrymen in Adelaide, South Australia, members agreed that skins suitably treated and dressed were both attractive and marketable.

Ontario Will Not Deal on Taxation Basis With Govt.

Montreal, Aug. 19 — (CP) — Premier George Drew of Ontario said Sunday in a shipboard interview that his province will not deal with the Dominion government on a taxation basis only "because there are too many other fundamentals which must be discussed and agreed upon before reaching an agreement on taxation."

The premier, returning to Toronto from a two-weeks vacation through Labrador province, said that Ontario was "always ready and willing to resume discussions" with the Federal government "but there must be a complete and open discussion on all points and not only on taxation."

Mr. Drew, accompanied by his wife and their two children, arrived in Montreal aboard the cruise ship Quebec. They left Montreal by car for Toronto immediately after the docking of the Quebec.

Union Labels Price Increases "Profiteering"

Detroit, Aug. 19 — (AP)—Vice-president R. J. Thomas of the United Auto Workers (C. I. O.) labelling automobile price increases "puny and simple profiteering," Saturday urged Attorney-General Tom Clark to investigate the industry's price and profit policies.

His demand came as Chrysler Corporation announced price boosts of from $45 to $143 on passenger cars and trucks, the sixth automobile firm to increase its price tags this month. It followed a similar act by General Motors, Nash- Kelvinator, Kaiser-Frazer, Packard and Hudson.

Only Ford among the major producers has yet to increase prices in the latest upward spiral.

In each case, manufacturers have pleaded mounting labor and materials costs for the boosts.

Thomas contended that $50 a unit was considered "a good profit" before the war "when industry sought high volume through reasonable prices." Today, he charged, producers make a profit averaging $222 a unit.

$50,000 Fire At Sydenham

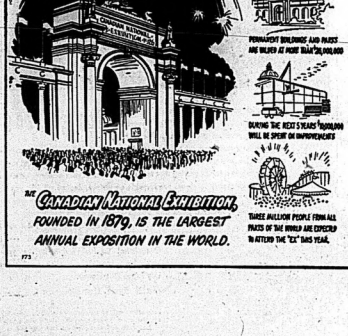
Sydenham, Ont., Aug. 19—(CP) — Telephone lines were burned out and hydro poles in the heart of this village 16 miles north of Kingston were set afire Saturday night in a spectacular blaze which destroyed a box and lumber factory, a grist and feed mill and a saw and planing mill. Loss was estimated at $50,000.

Of unknown origin, the fire for a time threatened homes and other nearby buildings.

"There was no wind; that's the only thing that saved the other buildings near the factory," said James Blakely, secretary of the Sydenham fire department. The fire levelled the three factory buildings in less than two hours.

The fire is believed to have started in the box factory, which, with the saw and planing mill, was owned by Frank Anglin. Fred Oliver was proprietor of the grist and feed mill. The combined factory and mill employed between 20 and 30 men.

As the flames enveloped nearby telephone poles, the telephone lines fell, cutting off communication with all points north of Sydenham. Repairmen worked Sunday to restore the lines.



Welland Canal 'Out of Bounds'

Port Colborne, Ont., Aug. 19— (CP) — The area of the Welland canal was "out of bounds" yesterday to all except canal employees as Royal Canadian Mounted Police clamped down non-admittance restrictions which recalled war-time security measures. The move gave rise to rumors in this area that strike action by the Canadian Seamen's Union was imminent.

Shortly after termination of the Second World War, the wire gates at approaches to canal locks were opened, giving free access to the canal.

The Mounties, who took similar action in patrolling the harbor at Cornwall recently, were reported acting on orders from headquarters at Ottawa.

TORONTO AUG. 22 SEP. 6

BY SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The best part of bridge is the nice people you meet playing it. The highlights of my tours are the invitations to party bridge after each lecture. Aren't folks the most wonderful persons.

At a recent gathering, I was west against a couple that held this pair of partnership hands:

SOUTH
♠A 7
♥J 3 2
♦A K 2 5 2
♣A K Q 3

NORTH
♠A J 10 5 4 2
♥Q 4 2
♦Q 10 8
♣6 3

Their bidding went like this:

South	North
1 D	1 S
3 C	3 D
4NT	5 D
Pass

The one spade response by north promised more trouble than two tricks. It may be only three. The three club jump by south is inviting try at slam game. Below par rules, three diamonds did not show more tricks.

With his own eight, south never saw a count of more than 11 tricks in their pair. However, if partner happens to have the right cards, there may be a slam lurking or waiting to be plucked.

So, the south four-bid trump bid was practical even if it bucked the rules. It was the best way for asking partner how many aces and kings he held. The reply would determine where to stop.

Answering four-no-trump, five diamonds, as Kibitzer and I saw one ace and no kings. With one ace and two kings four known to be in the hands of opponents, slam was unwise.

In the Kibitzer convention, we show not only an ace at the five level. But also how many kings. Some prefer the Blackwood convention, in which lack of kings is not discovered until they reach six. By then it's a bit late to turn back. If this makes it good, include me out.

Few words are as sad as too late and too bad.

MILK PRODUCTION DOWN

Toronto, Aug. 19 — (CP) — With pastures beginning to turn brown from the prolonged heat spell, milk production in Ontario has begun to decline, the Department of Agriculture reported yesterday. In the week's drop reports with haying completed throughout most of the province and harvesting of grain in full swing, a disappointing yield of fall wheat is reported from many sections, with returns ranging from 20 to 45 bushels. The spring grain crop in Halton is one of the lightest on record.

Corn, potatoes and apples, however, are benefitting from the hot weather.

TWO FISH ON ONE PLUG

Brockville, Aug. 19 (CP) — Another Brockville fisherman has caught two fish on one plug. The trick has been turned the second time this summer by George T. Pulford, who landed a two-pound black bass and a rock bass at the same time.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 19 (AP) — Amid the sour notes caused by the slashing of budgets at major studios comes a lost chord, the serials. They are carrying on as calmly as ever, untouched by revolutions in the industry.

While their big brothers, the feature films, face slimming of some of their more expensive trappings, the serials are actually expanding. Republic is planning to make 19 serials. Worried about the British, tax levy? Nope —because Britain never went for serials anyway.

This industry-old form of entertainment faces one of its greatest periods of prosperity. With a small quantity of B pictures and short subjects being made, theatre-owners are turning to serials to fill out their bills. These films are popular in Mexico, South America and the Philippines.

"Down there they show all the chapters at once as a feature picture," explained producer Mike Frankovich. "It runs 3 1-2 hours long."

Mike is Major Domo of Republic cliff-hangers. He makes four a year, 13 chapters apiece, at a cost of $150,000 to $250,000 a serial. This sometimes returns a healthy profit, as with one "Lone Ranger" which corralled $2,000,000.

Lost Battle

Warner Brothers has lost the battle of the "Dammit."

In an effort to save a vestige of the peppery language in the stage "Life With Father," Warners got special permission from the censors to include a final "Dammit" by William Powell. Evidently the men with the scissors reneged after the film was completed.

In the last scene, father mounts the carriage and spouts his famous line (which I won't spoil for you by repeating). But a jumbling of the sound track has whitewashed it; the "Dammit" has risspeadred unspoken. Nice try, Warners.

Sighs and Sounds

Shirley Temple watching husband John Agar in his first screen role in "Far Party" ... Frank Sinatra having a scene ruined by a low-flying airplane and commenting, "that Crosby will try anything" ... Jane Russell in a bustle for "The Paleface" (tussle with Russell in a bustle?) ...

Director John Ford calling "cut" because a dog picture on the next stage was making too much racket ...

Brief Review

"Black Narcissus" (Rank) is one of the better English offerings. A tale of English nuns who try to start a mission in primitive India and fail, it is told with less reverence than American movies. Bizarre backgrounds, a competent cast (headed by Deborah Kerr) and, wonderful color make up for a rambling plot.

Driver Released On $8,500 Bail

Blind River, Ont., Aug.-19 — (CP) — Albert Ceccolini, Sudbury bus driver charged with manslaughter, was remanded in Magistrate's Court here yesterday and released on $8,500 bail.

Police say Ceccolini was driving the Greyhound bus which collided with an automobile near Spanish, Ont., Saturday, resulting in the death of two Americans and injuries to four others, all passengers in the car.

The bus was en route from Sault Ste. Marie to Sudbury. Spanish is about 65 miles west of Sudbury.

Killed were Edward Johnston, a dairy employee, Sturgeon, Mich., and his seven-year-old daughter Lois. In hospital here, condition of two other of the Johnston children, Lorraine, 13, Leonard, 10, and a niece of the dead man, Verna Sturges, 12, was reported as satisfactory. Condition of Mrs. Johnston, who suffered multiple injuries, was said to be "grave." Charges were laid against Ceccolini Saturday and he was held in jail over the weekend.

EFFORT TO OVERCOME COAL CAR SITUATION

London, Ont., Aug. 19 (CP)— In an all-out effort to overcome the adverse balance of coal cars existing between it and the U.S. the Canadian National Railways for the weekend pushed a total of 383 open-top cars through London on their way to the border.

Prexy Believes Feller Will Help From Here In

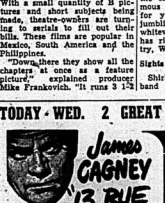
Cleveland, August 19. (AP) —Despite recent public criticism of Bob Feller's pitching form and his post-season barnstorming plans, the Cleveland Indians' President, Bill Veeck, declares he believes his ace fireballer "will pitch some great ball from here in."

The ailing tribe president was in a philosophical mood as he awaited a conference today with Feller, whose recently-announced decision to pitch in the Cuban Winter League was vetoed by Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

"If Bob had talked with me about the Cuban gig," said Veeck, "all the unpleasant publicity would have been avoided. I'd have suggested that he clear it with the commissioner before announcing his plans.

"I have no comment on Bob's outside activities. I don't know whether they've hurt him or not. But I do know this. The great maj'rity of the people of Cleveland think they've hurt him.

"You can walk into any building in town and ask the first 20 people you meet: 'What's wrong with Feller?' Every one of them will say, 'He's worried about making money in October when he should be concerned about winning games right now.'



"Now, that diagnosis may be wrong," Bill admitted. "It may be unfair. But it's what the people think. And what the people think, if you want my opinion, is what has been bothering Feller.

"I don't care who you are," the tribe prexy concluded, "you can't take that Looing without it affecting you."

Gallantry Ends Marriages Fail

Barking, Essex, (CP)—At a service for 1,000 couples how to make a success of married life, Dr. Dean Inge, Anglican dean of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, has stated that when you have won a heart you have not to work to keep it. Many marriages fail because gallantry and the desire to please end soon after courtship is thought to be unnecessary afterwards.

"Many couple go wrong through not bothering to keep their behavior up to pre-marriage standards.

Us fellows were talking and arguing around the letter box, and Sam Cross said, Oh boy, there he is, rite on our front steps, and he's got a bomb all ready to blow up our house, just like he said he would.

Meaning some man with something big and round — roped in brown paper ringing the Crosses doorbell, and Sam said, It's darn lucky nobody's home, he's just waiting for somebody to open the front door so he can throw the bomb in.

So me, what would he want to do that for? I said, and Sam Cross said, For revenge, that's what for. Hey, I when one of you fellows would go over and tell him nobody's home, he said.

Why dont you go and tell him yourself? Puds Simkins said, and Sam said, Because I look too much like my mother, that's why.

Aw, what's that got to do with it? Sid Hunt said, and Sam said, It's got plenty to with it. That man was what my mother to marry him before my father came along and married her, but my mother wouldn't marry him because she didn't like his looks, so he warned her if she ever married anybody else he'd come around with a bomb and throw it in her house. Good night look what he's doing. He's leaving the bomb on the steps and walking away, he said.

Aw, that's no bomb, it's just one of your big lies, Skinny Martin said, and Sam Cross said, Oh is that so? Well if you dont believe it's a bomb I dare you to go over and pick it up. I dare anybody, he said.

Which nobody did, everybody going over and getting pritty close to it but not very, and then Sam Cross's mother came home, saying, Oh, the man came with the fish aquarium, Samuel, why didn't you take it in the house? She said, and Sam said, Oh, I thought it was that other man with that other thing.

What are you talking about? his mother said, and went in the house with the package. Sam quick going in after her trying to look innocent.

Dodgers Out of Danger Zone By Winning Two from Cards In Crucial Series at Brooklyn

Hop on Two Top Southpaws of Cards for 7-5 and 12-3 Victories

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Brooklyn Dodgers, fresh from two triumphs over St. Louis Cardinals hope to administer the coup de grace today to the pennant ambitions of the Red Birds in the third game of a four-game series that no longer is "crucial"—as far as the National League-leading Brooks are concerned.

Having blasted the Cards' two top southpaws, Howie Pollet and Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, 7-5 and 12-3 in a day-night double-header at Ebbets Field yesterday to stretch their lead to 6 1-2 games, the Dodgers now are out of the danger zone for the important set.

A total of 66,504 fans, watched Vic Lombardi and Harry Taylor stop the Red Birds.

Lombardi, who pitched despite the fact that only hours earlier, big wig underwent an emergency operation for a burst appendix, allowed eight hits before tiring in the ninth of the opener. He was relieved after by Hugh Casey who retired the side on three pitches. Bernis Creger, a pinch-runner for Casey, was caught off second and Red Schoendienst banged into a double play.

Robinson Homers

The Brooks jumped on Pollet for two runs in the first on Jackie Robinson's ninth homer, a walk and Edwards' first triple.

Pollet blew up in the fifth, the Dodgers pushing five runs over on two walks, two singles, Bruce Edwards' second three base poke and a fly out to sew up the game.

Another five-run uprising sunk the Cards in the nightcap. Entering the third inning on the long end of a 2-1 count, the Dodgers pounced on Brecheen for a quintet of markers to put the game out of reach of the flounder-ing Missourians.

The twin-bill was the only regular action in either the National or American Leagues.

A number of exhibition games were played. The New York Giants downed the American League's pace-setting New York Yankees, 4-1 at New York and the Washington Senators blanked the Philadelphia tail-end Philadelphia Phillies, 3-0 at Washington and the Pittsburgh Pirates eked out a 7-6 victory over the Boston League's Albany Senators at Albany.

PITCHING AND BATTING STARS

Vic Lombardi, Dodgers — Although needing help in ninth, received credit for Brooklyn's day game 7-5 victory over St. Louis and then came back with a three-inning one-hit relief chore to preserve 12-3 victory in second game which was played under the lights.

Bruce Edwards, Dodgers — Smashed two triples and batted in three runs to pace Dodgers to first game triumph over Cards and drove in three runs in nightcap out of Red Birds with a double and single.

Above is seen one of the starry House of David nine who will stack up against a Belleville Baseball Association all - star squad at the Fair Grounds next Monday evening. The bewhiskered gentry are diamond artists of the first water and one of the outstanding teams of the USA. The game is being sponsored by the Kiwanis Club and Canadian Legion, and should prove a fine attraction for baseball lovers.

MOST-VALUABLE HONOR MAY GO TO ED HEUSSER

Mound Ace of Montreal Royals Wins 16 Games for Loop-Leading Team

(By The Associated Press)

Big Ed Heusser, veteran mound ace of the league-leading Montreal Royals, not only is on the way towards topping the International League in pitching but also is among the running for the circuit's most-valuable honor.

The 30-year-old former big leaguer has recorded 16 victories as against two defeats in the Royals' bid for their third consecutive triumph. His won - lost percentage of .889 is the best in the circuit among regular hurlers.

Heusser, enabled the Royals to widen their precarious lead over the runner-up Jersey City Giants by pitching the Royals to an 8-3 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs last night while the Giants blanked Newark Bears 1-0.

Home runs by Walt Sessi and Ed Stevens highlighted the Royals' 10-hit attack on three Toronto pitchers. Heusser, who recently had a 22-game winning streak halted, was worked in six shutout innings as the Leafs scored two runs in the eighth on three straight blows.

The Jersey win increased the Giants' margin over the third-place Chiefs to seven games. The Chiefs dropped a 5-4 decision to Baltimore Orioles in the ninth inning.

In addition to the setback the Chiefs will be without the services of Hank Sauer indefinitely. The Syracuse big gun suffered a fractured rib in the game.

Rochester Red Wings shaded Buffalo Bisons 3-2. Ningy Jones broke up the game by doubling home Charley Marshall with two out in the ninth.

Sports Roundup

By ALLAN MERRITT
(For Hugh Fullerton, Jr.)

St. Louis, Aug. 19 (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals repeat by coming from behind to snatch the National League Pennant from the Brooklyn Dodgers, all the howls that go up in mound city won't be for Pete.

Last fall after the Cardinals-Dodgers playoff there was considerable hue and cry over the fact that only about 12,000 reserved seat World Series tickets were left for sale to the general public for them at Sportsman's Park. This time, unless it develops that such speculation is entirely unfounded only about 8,000 will be left for the public.

Main reason for this situation is that the Cardinals have sold some 20,000 ticket books this season, about double the number sold in 1946. Each holder of two of these books is entitled to a set of World Series tickets if the Redbirds win — and that's a moot question.

A Slaw Prophet, Dyer

Cardinal manager Eddie Dyer's prediction that the pennant chase sounds end in another bruising battle between the world champions and their old Brooklyn foes, with Boston and New York close behind, is remarkable in that he made it early last June when Redbirds were giving their all to get out of the loop's dungeon. Dyer's faith in the club doesn't justify the standings and the original forecast still stands.

Turnstile Tabulations

The hapless St. Louis Browns are making money away from home, having played to 953,054 fans in 48 road contests, but at home it's a sadder story. Up to their cufrent home stand, the Browns had drawn only 264,000 paying customers in 42 games at Sportsman's Park.

Now We Know

BOXING SUFFERS THIRD FATALITY IN SEASON

Glenn Newton Smith, 23-year-old Negro boxer, of Philadelphia, is shown just before he was knocked out by Sherry Baroudi in the ninth round of their scheduled 10-round bout recently, by blows which proved fatal. Smith, who collapsed after the fight was stopped, was rushed to the North Adams hospital where he died early Saturday morning without regaining consciousness. An inquest has been ordered. This is the third fatality in the ring this year.

CHIPS
OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK
By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

A sweat-streaked figure trapped a streaking fly ball in the Memorial Arena yesterday afternoon issued some terse orders and a heavy welding machine swung slowly into place. He was Harry Williams of the Williams Welding Company, Toronto who is here to weld the piping for the artificial ice plant.

* * *

It's true. At least one load of glistening twenty lengths of pipe arrived at the Arena yesterday and operations were rushed to get the weld-ing under way. According to Mr. Williams, between 7 1-2 and 8 1-2 miles of one and one-quarter inch steel pipe will be necessary to supply the refrigeration for next, winter's ice surface. He intends to weld the piping into sixty-foot lengths. These in turn will be welded when laid on sleepers of wood. The pipes will be protected by a fill of sand.

* * *

It will take 2,400 welding operations to complete the job and Williams states that he is good for 200 a day!"or when I get down to the 250." He figures that the job should be completed in two weeks if he gets the necessary help.

* * *

All of which means there is a strong possibility that wrestling may have to find its last fling for the current season. At the present time plans for next week's card have been held up and a decision will be reached on night or tomorrow. It all depends on the progress of the pipe-laying operations.

* * *

And so with the actual starting of installation of the new artificial plant a new hockey era opens for this village. No more we hope will intermediate and junior squads trek to Kingston to practice. No more shall they have to step on ice against teams which have the benefit of fie for weeks before schedule time starts. Wake up there in the arena of the hockey mighty at last and maybe the hockey outlook in this district's been crying in the wilderness for the past few years two will take on a different tone.

* * *

At least a tone which should command a little more attention from the mighty moguls of the Ontario Hockey Association. With these new industries coming here and a farm team of the Philadelphia Rockets also doing its stuff here next winter, Belleville should be on the hockey map, and Peterboro and Kingston had better look to their laurels in the future. That redsweatered warm may have reached the turning point, and the haughty outsiders who delighted in dunking the colors of the red ship — which they did with damning consistency when the chips were down, may be on the receiving end very shortly.

* * *

And while on that subject since this village will be in a position to field a good junior "B" squad, why not a grouping with Kingston, Peterboro, Oshawa and Port Hope or other teams with the eastern district. There should be strong pressure brought to bear on the OHA to eliminate the grouping of 2 Belleville "B" team with "C" squads from the outlying districts. We have the ice, we hope to have the players and it should be the right of Belleville to be recognized with the company it meets in the playdowns.

What should be one of the baseball classics of the season and an acid test for Speedy St. Louis Kiwanis Juniors will get under at the Exhibition Grounds here Wednesday evening. The Kiwanis youngsters meet the highly-touted Kingston Juniors in the first game of the two of three series in the first round Junior OSA playdowns. The game is scheduled to start at six o'clock and will get away right on the minute.

* * *

The Kiwanis kids have been hitting their stride in the last half dozen games after a wobbly start when the first games of the season saw their war clubs practically impotent. They couldn't hit the west, side of a cow with a shovel but lately they have regained their batting eyes and have been pounding the best hurlers in the city league.

* * *

But according to our operator down Kingston way, these Kingston beachless buckaroos are rated more gunkins with ball and bat in their home town. They are reputed to be a powerful hitting squad which will bring that odds up with the best. Their pet hurler is Joe Lay-whom, they tell me, can fire the apple across the plate like a bullet leaving. So all in all Wednesday night's game should be a thriller, and the locals will go all out to cop the important first game.

* * *

Tonight under the arcs at Exhibition Grounds starting at 8.30 the Batawa-Latta semi-finals series will get under way. Both teams are reported to be at full strength and the game will mark a continuance of the rivalry that has existed between them during the season. Coach Jack Carson is confident his kilts crew can take the measure of the Shoemen, but Gordy Muffitt and his gang have other ideas. Tonight will tell.

* * *

Point Anne Wings turned back the Picton threat to the third round of the intermediate "C" series at Ox Point last night behind pitcher Petty chucking by Fat Marsale and some clouting done by his mates. The swarthy chucker had the soldiers down with seven hits three of them coming in the first frame when he scored a brace of runs. Picton batters failed to come through with hits meant runs but the game was one of the better ones seen this season. The Wings won the series in two straight games and now go on to meet the winner of the Tweed-Frontenac County set.

Picton brought a large crowd of supporters with them and have been a long time since the Point dismond rang with such vocal support. The Point squad wasn't lacking for friends either and the ribbing added a lot of color to a good game.

* * *

The Army lads have a well-balanced squad and know a lot of the softball answers. Their fielding was good although they committed a couple of bobbles at a crucial point of the game. Their hitters appeared to be able to clout the pill but Pat Marsale's fielding was a little too much for them. The Peninsula had the advantage of playing against Intermediate "A" hurling all summer while the Picton crew were up against strictly "C" opposition all season. However, the lads in khaki while defeated were not disappointed and deserve a lot of credit for their fine showing.

Point Anne Wings Defeat Picton Team 5-3 for Second Straight Win To Take Intermediate "C" 1st Round

Timely Hitting Behind Marsack's Good Pitching Gives Pointers Slight Edge; Wings Meet Frontenac-Tweed Victors In 2nd Round

Pat Marsack's fine hurling backed up by some timely hitting in the clutches gave Point Anne Wings their second straight victory over the Picton RCA softball team at Point Anne last night and the right to enter the second round of the Intermediate "C" playdowns. The scores 5-3 victory defeated Picton 10-3 in their first game of the two-out-three series in Picton on Saturday night.

Point Anne now awaits the winners of the Tweed-Frontenac County series in the second round of the series.

Marsack and Noseworthy the respective hurlers both of whom went the route hurled fine ball both allowing seven hits. Fine fielding featured the game although the attendance was low and evidence of the fielding is seen in the fact that Marsack struck only three Picton hitters while Noseworthy struck out five. The Picton pitcher, however, settled down after a wobbly start when the visiting got to him for three hits and two runs in the first inning but when Hopper and Young drove out consecutive singles after a Point Anne error filled the bases in the second Picton run with the third hit of the batting after two were out.

After that Marsack was practically invincible. He allowed only four clouts for the next eight innings two of them coming in the fifth when the soldiers scored their third and last run off him by Young and Mason.

The Point bunched two hits in the third for two runs and again in the fifth they scored the remaining three off so many clouts Marsack, Finlan and P. Marsack connected safely in this bast and a bad overthrow by the Picton centrefielder accounted for two of the markers. Noseworthy had the situation well in hand after that, blanking the Pictons for the rest of the game.

Noseworthy did a fine job in a good cause. Besides hurling a neat job he drove out a triple and a single. Mason and Young donated two hits each for the army. Finlan chipped out a double for the Point with Marsack, Whalen, Everett, Pat Marsack, Green and Vollick getting the rest of the seven hits.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By JOHN BEAMAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, Aug. 19 — (CP) — Signing of Frank Filchock by Hamilton Tigers, finds Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson extending a welcoming hand to the family problem. Ferguson signed his team's most valuable player of last year, quarterback Glenn Dobbs from the New York Giants on a claim that Dobbs had report ed attempted bribe.

Fergie is of the mind that Filchock deserves a new deal when the National Football League disbarred him and thinks Canadian sport fans should give him a fair trial. He warns baseball against lifting a snooty nose, pointing out that it has had at least one experience of letting in the "mental" ship. "There is no such record against Filchock . . . The worst that can be said of the player is that he failed to report an alleged bribe . . . that he participated in such under-cover chemanigans was never proven. And in the game he played under protest, he gave a great performance."

We don't know whether Fergie has seen Filchock play but we can assure him that mistakes are a scarce commodity in the Filchock repertoire. Back in 1946 when covering Washington Redskins we had the chance to see Frank in operation.

For half a dozen years he was a man under wraps with Redskins due to the presence of Slingin' Sammy Baugh. There wasn't room on the team for two men with such similar abilities to let them both give out fully and Baugh's traffic track with owner George Marshall found Filchock on the bench more than he liked. It was only last year when sold to the Giants he had the opportunity to prove what many Washington fans already believed, that he was a star in his own right.

After his disbarment last year Frank put himself up in business in Washington by opening an ice cream store only four blocks from the Canadian Embassy. Local sportswriters who asked him regarding his future plans in the sports world received a "no comment" answer and he apparently settled into a forgotten niche.

Lots of fans figured he was sold short by the league but did not see what he could do to get back in sport. They probably welcome with Fergie this new chance for him and it is a safe bet that the yearns who welcomed it most are rankle who really likes football.

CHAPTER 10.

Kris had said, "Six dozen!" very happily, and Tony had exploded. He had talked a lot in German and called Kris all kinds of dreadful names.

Kris had said, "Whenever you get off the soap box, you Wiegar Schnitzel, you can get the flood out of the cave" and Tony and Sandro had spent the next 10 minutes unpacking boxes.

Kris told Sherry what had happened.

He had met the man who was in charge of the technical end of the trade-picture, and the man had told h[im] what he might as well start the next day as there was a lot of preliminary work to be done. The salary was $150 a week, and Kris had simply floored him for the first week's pay.

They had had a dreadful time finging enough vases and milk bottles to hold the long-stemmed roses, but it was in a fragrant yellow bower that they had celebrated Kris's good fortune.

The boys had wine and there was caviar for Sherry, and cream and imported chocolates. Even Tony had laughed about the comfort.

A month later Marcia had come back and had had a fit because the boys had not told her that Sherry was ill. She had matter-of-factly taken over the managing of Sherry's routine, and still slept at Hidden House every other night, which gave the boys a rest.

Finally the day had come when Dr. Drexel had said Sherry could get up, and from her new throne, the davenport, she had given a party. There were only the boys and Marcia and Peter, but it had been fun, and Peter had said something sentimental about Sherry's being the only girl in the world for him.

Now Sherry lay quietly and thought about it. A little breeze had sprung up from somewhere because it was getting evening and she drank it in.

She loved, really and truly hoped, that Peter had not meant that. Or at least that he had not meant it very seriously. After all, it was pleasant to have people say nice things to you, but she did not want Peter Barton to be in love with her.

It was nearly a week later when the boys took her to Henri's one night.

Sherry had to have chocolate ice cream instead of coffee, and the boys had had wine because it was a celebration.

After a while some studio people joined them and Sherry began to look a little tired. The boys decided that they had better take her home.

When he stopped the car in front of the house Sherry hated to get out. She had her head back and gazed up at the still treetops and the low stars and the warm pink glow that always hung over the boulevard.

"Couldn't we go for a little ride, Tony?" she wanted to know. "It's such a gorgeous night."

Tony said indeed not, that she should be in bed right then; and Sherry sighed and got out.

She could feel the heat pressing gently against her as they crossed the still court. Tony opened the door to Hidden House and felt for a light.

Sherry said, "Don't, Tony. It's nice like this."

"But you'll go right to bed?" he asked, and Sherry said she would.

"Then good night, sweet, sleep well," Tony said, and Sherry lifted her face for the usual kiss.

Their lips met suddenly. Sherry felt a queer warm surge, and her breath stuck. She drew her lips away quickly because she was surprised, and buried her flushed face on Tony's shoulder. He held her close.

Sherry thought this was too queer for words when Tony had kissed her at least a hundred times before. But because it had felt so nice, and, because she wondered if it could possibly happen again, she lifted her face to his.

For a moment their lips clung and Sherry felt Tony's arms about her tighten.

Suddenly Tony stopped kissing her, and said, "Good night, sweet" rather huskily, and went out and closed the door.

Sherry's head whirled and she wanted to run after him and make him hold her again, but she could not move. She held to the doorknob and sank to her knees.

"Tony," she said, "Tony."

When Sherry woke up the next morning she did not remember at first. She knew she was ecstatically happy, then she thought of Tony. She pulled the sheet for a moment to recapture a little of last night's magic, and then she saw the time and got up.

She flew through her bathing and dressing, and hummed a little Viennese love song that Tony had taught her. When she got to the boys' house for breakfast Tony had almost finished.

Sandro said, "But you are looking very well this morning," and Sherry said, "I'm happy," and looked at Tony.

Kris said, "Then don't look at him; he'll turn milk sour."

Tony said, "Hello."

Suddenly Sherry felt a little shy and self-conscious. She sat down at the table.

"Gosh knows what's eating him," Kris told her, "but he kept me awake all night smoking cigarets. Then he couldn't get any hot water this morning."

Tony said, "And you've used all my razor blades. You'd think you could afford a new one every now."

Sandro said, "It is your liver. You should drink water, Tony," and Tony said, "Oh, shut up."

Sherry was puzzled. Was it possible that Tony was unhappy about last night? Why on earth?

But Unless—

She felt a little stab of pain.

She stole a look at his lean, handsome face and felt a small poignant thrill at the sheer perfection of the lines of his jaw. Yesterday there had been Tony and Sandro and Kris. Today there was just Tony.

Now he was getting up, and something tightened around Sherry's heart. She could not let him go like this! She could not be that miserable for a whole day!

She said, "Sit down around to the car with you."

Tony said, "All right."

They walked through the court in silence.

When they reached the garage Tony got in the car and started the motor. Sherry thought she could not bear it. She put her hands tightly on the car door.

"Tony. You're not angry — or anything, are you? I mean — at me?"

Tony stopped fussing with things on the dashboard and looked surprised.

He said, "Why, of course not, Sherry!" as though such a thing was impossible.

Sherry knew he meant it and tears of relief sprang to her eyes.

She said, "Oh, I'm glad."

Tony looked at her for a moment, then he slowly waved to make sure of something. Then he smiled very tenderly.

"You're sweet, Sherry," he told her. "I was afraid you might be angry at me about last night."

She looked at him very earnestly.

She said, "But why, Tony? Why ever should I be?"

Tony stared back at her as if to make very sure of what she had said. Suddenly his face relaxed and he looked relieved and happy and as though something very wonderful had happened.

He smiled and said, "Never mind why, sweet. You wouldn't understand."

He leaned out of the car and kissed her lightly and drove happily away; and Sherry stood and stared after him.

Sherry went back to the house. Sandro said, "Your eggs have become cold." And Kris was just leaving and kissed her goodby.

With her mind on Tony, Sherry ate her breakfast and talked about what to get for dinner. Then she helped with the dishes and sorted the laundry, and as Sandro had a 10 o'clock call she took the clean things to be sorted over to Hidden House.

Marcia took her to lunch at the Ritz Whistle.

After they had ordered, she leaned to Sherry.

"Well, why this business, infant? Out with it. Is it Tony?"

Sherry had to laugh at that.

She said, "Honestly, Marcia, I must want something. I think about right on my face," and then she told her everything that had happened.

When she was finished Marcia said, "Well, I don't see what you have to worry about, tools. He's obviously a gentleman — and how!"

Sherry said, "But don't you see, Marcia? I'm in love with him and he thinks he's in love with me at all!"

Marcia looked at her for a minute interestedly. Then she said, "Well, you're trouble with you, little one, is that you've got an inferiority complex."

They had an ice, and talked about Tony some more, and Marcia said, "Now you take my advice, tools, and leave him alone. Let him go on thinking you don't know what it's all about, and you'll find out sooner how he feels."

Sherry felt a lot better after their talk, and Marcia asked her to come to dinner with her and Peter and who was talking but Sherry did not want to be a third, but Marcia insisted.

"It won't be exciting," she said, "but it'll give Tony a chance to miss you for a change."

That won.

Mr. Brennan was pleasant and the drive in the cool of the evening refreshing. Dinner was nice, too, in an attractive little place with a shaded roof and candles on the tables.

After dinner they drove slowly home and Marcia and Mr. Brennan talked about mines. Sherry sat in the back and was blamed an airy attitude toward the boys.

At the court she thanked Mr. Brennan for the lovely dinner, and he and Marcia went on to a movie.

Sherry was excited as she walked toward the boys' house. She wondered if Tony had really missed her, and was glad that she had taken Marcia's suggestion. Through the ocean windows she could see them moving about, and decided it would be fun to slip around the side and boo at them. She smiled to herself and walked quietly.

Tony was saying, "You know as well as I do that she can't work for months yet."

Kris said, "Well, we've pulled her through this far. I guess we can manage another few months."

Tony said, "As long as we're working," with a meaning air, and then, "But that isn't the point. We can't keep her in bed now. She'll start going out with other people pretty soon and she's too doggone attractive to these heels."

Kris chuckled. "Oh ho! I begin to see a light."

Tony said, "Don't be such a fool."

Sherry knew she should not be listening, but now she was afraid to move, afraid some little sound would tell them she had heard.

Kris was saying, "You sound like an anxious father," and Tony snorted.

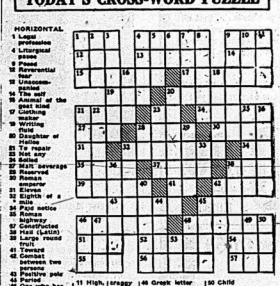
"Well, we're responsible for her, aren't we? he wanted to know. "She can't go back to her family when they haven't any money. Besides the climate's better for her. She hasn't anybody but us."

Kris said, "So what! Are you planning to propose to her?"

Sandro said, "I will be glad to marry Sherry," very seriously.

"Oh, shut up. What are you do for her?"

I could send her to my mother and—"



But Tony interrupted.

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

"Old at 40, 50, 60?"
— Man, You're Crazy

Prove your age! Thousands are young at 70 . . . and they're strong, full of pep! Why be tired, rundown, feeling decrepit in body or mind at 40, 50, 60? Don't accept it as your age! Try Ostrex Tonic Tablets as over-many have. Try Ostrex! Get it today. No risk! Only 75c. For sale at all drug stores everywhere.

SOLID GASOLINE

Jean Pathus-Labour, French scientist, recently returned to Paris from the U.S., has discovered a new process to solidify gasoline. Important feature of the discovery is that in pill form the gasoline is non-inflammable without losing any of its explosive qualities. M. Labour holds a piece of the solidified fuel in his Paris laboratory.

Picton

Four Remanded On Theft Charges

Picton, Aug. 19 — Three Trenton and one Belleville young man were remanded here yesterday when they appeared on charges of breaking and entering. They were Herbert Doyle, 22, of 467 Front St., Trenton; driver of the car; Harold M. Burke, 21, of 577 Front St., Trenton; Donald F. Gosleigh, 19, of 437 Front St., Trenton and Charles B. Fairweather, 38, of 163 Pinnacle St., Belleville. The charges were laid as a result of breakins at the Brummell service station at Bloomfield and at the Shannon-Hamel garage on Wellington road early Sunday morning.

Loot at the Brummell station included about $1.50 in small change and some service cards. Mrs. Rod Vader noted a car near the station and her screams scared the intruders off. Later, Elliott Shannon noted a car leave his garage and gave pursuit without using his headlights until he was able to secure the licence number. Returning to the garage, he noted his loss and notified County Constable Earl Marvin of Wellington, who gave chase and made the capture near the village of Hillier. Some of the money was recovered at the scene of the arrest, having been thrown from the car.

Taken from the Shannon-Hamel garage were $50 in cash, 25 packages of cigarettes, two fog lights, a rear view mirror, package of brake lining and two tins of cleaner. Excellent work on the part of police is credited with the quick capture of the suspects.

God-Fearing Cumberland Miner Led Two Companions to Safety

By STUART UNDERHILL
Canadian Staff Writer

Whitehaven, Cumberland, England, Aug. 19 — (CP) — John Birkett, God-fearing Cumberland miner, led two companions to safety after the blast which killed 104 of his mates in the William Pit Friday. But the three survived only because 36 brand-new air disregarded Birkett's advice to follow him.

Birkett, 42, looked among his fellow miners for his deep religion, found a pocket of fresh air where James Weightman, 24, and Harold Hinde, 40, and himself could live until rescuing gangs cleared.

But if the other 36 had done as Birkett suggested, veteran miners said today, the whole party would have died. There was not enough oxygen in the pocket to keep all 39 alive.

Today the three still rested in hospital, where their condition was reported good. All refused to see newspaper men but Birkett gave details of his experience to a few intimate friends.

As soon as he heard the explosion and felt a wave of hot air late Friday afternoon, Birkett said, he realized gas would drift toward the shaft, overtaking anyone who fled that way. But he knew from long underground experience that cool air would concentrate in the vacuum created by the blast and give them time to reach a dead-end on higher ground.

"I took my Davy lamp and headed into the pit with Weightman and Hinde," he said. "On the way in, we passed these 36 lads rushing out.

Bodies Huddled Along Road

"'Come with me', I shouted. 'Nay, marra (mate), we are going outside, they said. When we came out nearly 21 hours later their bodies were huddled along the road."

Birkett led his companions into the cul-de-sac and some fresh air remained. They dozed a bit but never slept deeply and their only food was "sucking a sandwich of bread and cheese."

"I kept sticking out to sniff the air," said Birkett. "At last when the air got a little clearer, I went out with my Davy lamp. I had to make several trips because the gas was so concentrated that the lamp could not burn.

"We went through gas in the main haulage, where we felt a current of fresh air and realized we would be able to get out. Then we saw lights in the distance and knew the rescuers were there.

"We asked them the way out. 'Ay, it's all right this way,' they said. 'What party are you with?' 'You see, they thought we were in another rescue team.

"'I'm marra, we've been in since the start,' I said.

Empress of Canada Sails for England

Montreal, Aug. 19 — (CP) — The liner Empress of Canada, carrying 975 passengers and more than 3,100 tons of cargo, most of it food for Britain, sailed for Liverpool Saturday on the homeward voyage of her second postwar civilian Atlantic crossing.

Her passengers included Senator W. B. Davies, publisher of the Kingston Whig-Standard, Sydney Scott, managing editor of the Vancouver Daily Province, and Maj.-Gen. Sir Percy Thomlinson, honorary physician to King George.

Senator Davies said most of his business overseas "will be private" but that he hoped to discuss with press officials there plans for an Empire press union conference to be held in Ottawa in 1950.

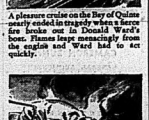
Mr. Scott, travelling with his wife, will attend a conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations at Stratford-on-Avon.

Man Quells Boat Blaze, Saves Wife, Two Children

WINS DOW AWARD

DONALD WARD
OF PICTON, ONTARIO

Averts tragedy by quick, gallant actions



It was June 26th. Donald Ward, his wife and two children were enjoying a pleasant cruise on the Bay of Quinte. Their destination, Northport, Ontario, by only a mile ahead. Suddenly a shout of flame flashed from the engine. In a manner of seconds the boat was burning so fiercely that the wood-panelled cabin was the only escape. Ward quickly lowered his wife and children over the side, where they clung precariously to patch of bushes and so empty oil can while he turned to battle the blaze.

Lacking a bucket, Ward took off his shoes and used them to bail water onto the fire. Many times he was forced to expose his bare hands to the fierce flames, and consequently suffered severe burns. But his gallant fight was not in vain, for he finally succeeded in extinguishing the blaze. He then went to the rescue of his family, and managed to drag them back on board to safety. He was just in time, for exhaustion had almost forced them to give up their flimsy support.

We are proud to pay tribute to the bravery of Donald Ward, of Picton, Ontario, through the presentation of The Dow Award.

A pleasure cruise on the Bay of Quinte nearly ended in tragedy when a fierce fire broke out in Donald Ward's boat. Flames leapt menacingly from the engine and Ward had to act quickly.

Believing his boat doomed, Ward covered his wife and two children into the water, then battled the flames single handed.

THE DOW AWARD is a chosen for outstanding bravery and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. Winners are selected by the Dow Award Committee, a group of citizens of leading Canadian daily newspapers.

New Light Shed on Temple Ruins Nearly 6,000 Years Old

By MUSA HABIB

Baghdad, Aug. 16 (CP)—The sandy wastes of southern Iraq, where evidence of the biblical flood was reported found in 1929, have now revealed ruins indicating to the Iraqi antiquities department that the ancient Babylonians knew a good deal about architecture and religious ritual nearly 6000 years ago.

Remains of a large temple, formally planned and well built of rectangular mud bricks, have been uncovered by the department's excavators at the site of the ancient city of Eridu.

Eadu was believed by the Sumerians to have been the oldest city on earth.

Beautiful, painted pottery and other objects found in the temple date the structure in the period at the beginning of the fourth millennium before Christ, an official announcement said.

Fuad Safar, the headquarters for the ancient people of Babylonia who took possession of the Mesopotamian marshland, created when the Persian Gulf receded at the end of the fifth millennium B.C. The region over which the waters of the gulf once rolled now is desert. The once great city is only a remote and isolated mound bearing the Arabic name of Abu Shahrin.

Fourteen miles away are the ruins of Ur of the Chaldees mentioned in the Bible as the home of Abraham, "father of many nations". It was at Ur in 1929 that Sir Leonard Woolley, finding a bed of wonderful clay eight feet thick separating layers of ancient burials, concluded that the clay could have been left only by the great flood described in Genesis.

Hill of Heaven"

Excavators working under the direction of Sayid Fuad Safar found the temple of Eridu beneath the foundations of a colossal tower built by two kings of the third dynasty of Ur, Ur-Nammu and Bur-Sin. This tower was called the Ziggurat, which has been translated as "the Hill of Heaven" or "The Mountain of God".

The discovery of the temple may affect theories regarding the origins of the Sumerians, who believed they came into the country with their civilization already formed, bringing with them knowledge of agriculture, metal working, and the art of writing.

Primitive reed huts and painted pottery of what were believed to be the older inhabitants of Babylonia were discovered in the 1920s at "Al 'Ubaid" in a little village, Al 'Ubaid, 20 miles from Eridu.

After his excavations at Ur, Sir Leonard believed that these older inhabitants had been drowned in their mud-hut villages by the great flood; but that some of the Sumerians, who he thought had come into the country and built their cities on high mounds with walls of burnt brick, had survived to develop their great civilization.

In this way he explained what had been one of the puzzles of south Iraqi archaeology, "the sudden and complete disappearance of the painted pottery which at one time seems to have been universally distributed over the southern sites."

Discussing the implications of the new discovery of Eridu, the Iraqi antiquities department said "During the prolonged study of Sumerian origins, which occupied archaeologists during the decade preceding 1939, a large section of opinion tended to dismiss the 'Al 'Ubaid' people as immature predecessors of the Sumerians possibly of a different race, and to detect the first traces of the genius which laid the foundations of our own civilization only in the succeeding, or 'Uruk,' phase of prehistory, when it was supposed that monumental architecture and sculpture first appeared, simultaneously with the invention of writing.

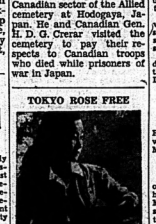
"This theory now seems likely to be modified by the latest discoveries at Eridu. In the earliest stages of the excavations, it became clear that the mound represented a temple-precinct, repeatedly rebuilt on a magnificent scale, to perpetuate the sanctity of an ancient shrine.

"It was this shrine which the Iraqi excavators had the good fortune to encounter beneath the foundations of the late Ziggurat; a temple dated by the beautiful painted pottery and other objects which it contained to the 'Al 'Ubaid period at the beginning of the fourth Millennium B.C."

RIDE ON RUNAWAY TRACTOR INJURIES TWO

Owen Sound, Aug. 19 (CP) — John Walker, 53 and his niece Mary Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walker are patients in the Owen Sound hospital here as result of a ride on a runaway tractor.

The accident occurred when Walker started the tractor at the top of a hill overlooking a creek. Instead of moving forward the tractor plunged down hill into the creek.



Mr. Walker suffered a broken back in two places while the little girl suffered a fractured skull. Both are reporte di nastisfactory condition.

Federal Govt. Must be Leader

Geneva Park, Lake Couchiching, Ont., Aug. 19—(CP)—The Federal government must be the bandleader of any series of programs played in harmony by the nine provinces and the Dominion, Prof. Henry M. Cassidy, director of the school of social work at the University of Toronto said Saturday at a meeting here of the Canadian Institute of Public Affairs.

His subject was the "Federal and provincial impasse" and he directed his speech as a reply to reports that "certain provincial leaders desire to hold and increase their powers."

Commenting upon an earlier suggestion by M. J. Coldwell, National Leader of the C.C.F., who recommended "social security across the country," Prof. Cassidy replied, "I'm sure that eight provinces would be agreeable to federal leadership."

Mr. Coldwell replied, "Yes but its the ninth province I'm worried about and so is country, also."

The crowd immediately chorused, "Tory Ontario — Tory Ontario and Drew."

Prof. Cassidy maintained that vital issues such as old age pensions, and health legislation should be planned on a national scale.

"There must be a leader," he declared, "and it is obvious that this role must be filled by the Dominion government."

SEEKS SAINT'S REMAINS

With a mine detector similar to those used by G.I.'s during the war, the Rev. James A. McEnerney seeks the burial place of Saint Rene Goupil, who was killed by Indians in 1642 near Auriesville, N.Y. Father McEnerney believes that the saint was buried with a metal crucifix and that the mine detector will pick up traces of it. With him is the Rev. Thomas J. Coffey, director of the shrine near Auriesville.

W.I. MEETING

The August meeting of the Bay of Quinte Women's Institute was held at the summer cottage of Mrs. F. Boulton with the President, Mrs. John Reid, of Trenton, in charge. Each convener gave a paper as follows: Mrs. Fred Wilson, on Home Economics; Mrs. B. Boniateel, on Agriculture; Mrs. Glen Meyers, on Social Welfare; and Mrs. Ritchie Ketcheson, on Publicity.

Mrs. Casey Ketcheson then presided for a social time of riddles and contests. The roll call was answered by each person bringing an old photo. A prize was given for the person guessing the most names.

The grandmothers tried to show that they were still young and energetic by carrying beans on a knife for which Mrs. W. H. May was the lucky winner. The hostess and her assistants served refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Young were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Percy in Frankford.

Sunday School at White's Church was held in the morning, Mr. W. A. Jeffrey, the superintendent, gave a talk on "The Sower" illustrating his story by the use of pictures on the flannelgraph.

134 BODIES ARE RECOVERED AFTER CADIZ EXPLOSION

Total of Casualty List May Reach 200 But Death Toll Could Be Nearer Thousand

Cadiz, Spain, Aug. 20—(AP)—With 134 bodies already recovered rescue workers dug today through the wreckage left by Monday night's naval torpedo and mine factory blast two miles from the centre of Cadiz in a search for additional victims.

Mayor Francisco Sanches Conde and acting civil governor Antonio Fernandes Perula estimated the death toll probably would reach 200, approximately half the earlier estimates. But one man, rescued down when it developed that only about 30 men were working in the plant when the explosion occurred, instead of 300 as first feared.

The information agency predicted last night, however, that the death toll might reach 1,000. The Reuters agency said the number of bodies already had been removed.

The city morgue early this morning held 90 bodies and an additional 44 were counted in hospitals in and around this city of 100,000 population. Approximately 3,000 persons hap been injured.

Unofficial estimates of damage was as high as $10,000,000.

Electric power service was restored in the city late last night and gas, water conduits also were repaired. Five more temporary cement planes arrived with medical equipment and supplies.

Generalissimo Franco's government banned publication today of casualty figures in the Spanish press and there was no official explanation as to the cause of the blast, which wrecked a hospital, a tobacco factory and a small factory for silk explosives, attributed to the civil war five years ago. Seville said a gas engine in a factory near the arms plant had exploded and ignited off flames which spread to the torpedo plant and destroyed the mine. Then the big blowoff which shook the city so that residents ran into the hills in quakes had struck.

Two shipyards and many ships were destroyed.

Street in Dieppe Named 'Avenue des Canadiens' On Fifth Anniversary

Dieppe, France, Aug. 20.—(CP)—A street in this quiet little coastal town today bears the name "Avenue Des Canadiens" in tribute to the men of the seven Canadian regiments who stormed its shores five years ago yesterday in one of the epic raids of the war.

The anniversary was observed with day-long ceremonies which opened with the unveiling at the flag-decked city hall followed by religious services in the "traditional Cimetiere des Vertus" on the outskirts of Dieppe.

An official luncheon was held in a patched-up beachfront hotel where Col. Maurice Forget, Canadian military attache in Paris, spoke in place of Hon. Brooke Claxton, Canadian ambassador to France, who now is on a holiday in Canada.

"If ever there was a 10th Province added to Canada, I presume ally would like it be Dieppe," Col. Forget told the gathering.

Gen. J. H. Roberts, commander on the Dieppe raid, said Henry Bainbridge, Sarnia, Ont.

ATTLEE REPORTED READY TO RESIGN DUE TO HEALTH

Said Prime Minister Would Name Foreign Secretary Bevin As His Successor

London, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Because of "deteriorating" health and "nervous exhaustion," the Daily Mail said this morning, Prime Minister Attlee intends to resign his post as soon as the British-American loan revision talks in Washington have passed their most critical stage.

The Mail's front-page story, first flat report published in Britain that the Labor party leader might quit, declared Mr. Attlee's health was said in usually well-informed circles" that Attlee would nominate Foreign Secretary Bevin as his successor.

Neither the Prime Minister's office nor Labor party headquarters would comment on the report. Attlee was in Wales vacationing and a spokesman at 10 Downing Street, his official residence, said he was resting there in bed.

Asked about the Daily Mail report, the spokesman replied:

"I'm afraid there's no comment at all in regards to that."

Labor party headquarters said only:

"That has been going on for some time."

Bevin apparently referred to recurring reports hitherto unpublished that Attlee was about to quit. Last week the party's official spokesman denied the final denial that the prime minister's resignation impended.

Under Heavy Fire

Attlee has been under heavy fire inside the Labor party for his handling of the British economic ailing. Winston Churchill, opposition leader, broadly suggested on the floor of the House of Commons Aug. 11 that Attlee might resign if he lacked "a majority in favor of some other reason."

The Mail said Attlee suffered early season last Sunday, about which all cabinet ministers have been silent since. Some authoritative informants said it was because he took the Washington loan revision talks.

Nervous Exhaustion

"Mr. Attlee's health has been overstrained," the Mail's story said the Mail's story, "While delegating' faithfully to others, Attlee has insisted on doing a tremendous amount of work. This is the result—nervous exhaustion.

"Without doubt the present uncertain world has affected him and his inability to placate the would-be rebels in the past few weeks have reinforced Mr. Attlee's decision to heed medical advice."

Prime Minister since July 27, 1945, left Britain Aug. 7 for a vacation in Wales. He is 64 years old.

The Mail suggested that if Attlee does resign and choose Bevin as his successor, Hugh Dalton, chancellor of the Exchequer, will become foreign secretary and be rewarded for his present post by Sir Stafford Cripps, president of the Board of Trade.

Police Call Off Search in Quebec For Escaped Men

Convicts Believed in Area But May Have Got Out

By GEORGE RITCHEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Chapeau, Que., Aug. 20.—(CP)—The hot, 24-hour zig-zag chase over mountainous country roads for the two escaped Kingston penitentiary convicts petered out today as squads of Ontario and Quebec Provincial Police, armed to the teeth and with orders to "Shoot on sight," called off the search.

At day-break reinforcements which converged on this Alumette Island town across the Ottawa River from Pembroke on the tip of a service station attendant packed away their fire-arms. Of the scores of police who covered all roads yesterday only four were on duty today.

The quartet, under Sgt. Gaston Garceau of Hull, Que., started a slow, final check-up over the 15-mile road to Hull, stopping at gasoline stations, farm houses and country general stores.

The police withdrew with this remark: "We think they have left the area, but they may have got out."

Centre of the search yesterday was an olive-green Ford sedan of 1940 vintage, a stolen car in which the trio was believed to have escaped from the penitentiary.

Late by nightfall, rumors were soaking through this rugged country faster than the police themselves. These rumors placed the fugitives, Ulysses Lauzon, Donald (Mickey) McDonald and Nicholas Minnelli, in Ottawa, at Britannia, an Ottawa suburb, on the road to Smith Falls, Ont., and at Qyon, Que., about 30 miles east of here.

One rumor had the desperate men shooting their way out of a roadblock at Britannia. But by daybreak all of the rumors proved groundless.

Strongest report came in Ontario Provincial Police at Ottawa early today. It was to the effect that a car answering the description of the stolen vehicle had been found near Shenstone, a borough, 10 miles west of here. However, a 14-mile chase in the district disclosed the car suspected was actually that of an American tourist.

Jailed Down Number

Touching off this series of activities was a report by Jack Dalton, Hull service station operator here, who said a green car whose occupants "didn't look right" passed at his station at 7.15 a. m. yesterday asking directions to Waltham, nine miles east of here.

Soucie Gagnon, Hull police chief, motor licence number — 73-7-21 —and about two hours later found the same number on a Pembroke newspaper report of the escape. He immediately notified police.

Subsequently reports from Waltham that the same car had been seen there at 2 p.m. yesterday and had then headed back to Ottawa. Thereafter, the full police force believed the convicts were somewhere in the bottled-up 9-mile stretch between the two towns. However, the night's search proved fruitless.

Position of British Railways Seen 'Dangerous' Next Winter, Say Unions

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 20 —(CP)—Shortage of labor and coal threatens Britain's railway rolling stock will make the position of British railways "dangerous" next winter, particularly if there is a severe winter, trade unions in 1946-47, the railway unions said in a report for discussion at the Trades Union Congress.

One locomotive in every five and at least one freight car in eight are out of service for repairs and lack of labor and coal, the report stated. Since Sept. 1, 1946, 20,000 railway workers have left the industry.

"The state of the permanent way is also a cause of anxiety," said the unions. "Concrete sleepers are being used on some stretches but the general condition of the lines has necessitated a deceleration (slow-down) policy on many routes."

The unions suggested three remedies:

1. A "central clearing house" for distribution of repair parts, and greater use of government-owned ordnance factories to make components.

2. Quicker turn-round of freight cars, possibly by increased demurrage charges "since some firms consider the existing charges inadequate to make warehouse space."

3. Raising of the maximum recruiting age for railwaymen above the present 30 years, and reducing the medical qualifications.

The unions' findings confirm the statement some weeks ago by Herbert Morrison, Lord President of the Council, that dearth of coal and labor made a risk next winter of "a certain measure of slowing down in our basic industrial activity and in building."

Three Are Dead, Six Injured In Buffalo Fire

Buffalo, N.Y., Aug. 20. (AP) Three persons lost their lives today in a fire which swept through the three floors of their rooming house.

Six others were injured, two critically, and two more suffered heart attacks after fleeing from the blazing wooden structure.

Dead were Jean Szymanska, 22, Andrew Jezinski, 53, and Delores Preske, 12.

In critical condition were Mrs. Theresa Szymanska, mother of one of the victims, and Francis Falchek, 23, who dived from the fire escape to hear attacks were Daniel Mosher, 38, and Mrs. Mary Cummins, 55.

Fellow said the building housed 21 persons, 20 of whom were in the building at the time of the fire.

Several of the occupants reached the street by the front door but police and firemen took several others from the front porch roof.

Lieutenant Wm. Kelly with his foot hanging out a third floor window, had watching a fleshlight. Miss Szymanska was dead in the room next door and the 12-year-old girl was found lying near the head of the burned stairway, police said.

PUBLISHER OF U. S. NEWS KILLED BY LIGHTNING

Darien, Conn., Aug. 20 — (AP) — Daniel A. Ashley, 53, of Darien, vice-president and publisher of the United States News, a weekly newspaper published at Washington, was struck by lightning and killed last night during a severe electrical storm which caused considerable damage.

TWINS BORN 12 HOURS AND 43 MINUTES APART

Charlestown, W. Va., Aug. 20 — (AP) — Twins born 12 hours and 43 minutes apart were "getting along nicely" today in hospital. The hospital said a baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Happiger at her home in Sickney, W. Va. A baby boy was born to the mother 12 hours later in the hospital.

Princess Margaret "Cute as a Cuff Link" Will be 17 on Thursday

London, Aug. 20 (AP)—That pretty little girl who sometimes steals the show at her big brother, Princess Elizabeth, turns 17 tomorrow, and the realization is dawning on the people that Princess Margaret isn't a little girl any more.

But she's pretty still right.

"Cute as a cuff link," was the way an American lieutenant put it after last handshake with the King's younger daughter at a Buckingham Palace party.

Cares of state—she's second in line to the throne—seem to rest lightly on Margaret's shoulders, and she seems perfectly content to remain in the shadow of heiress-presumptive Elizabeth, drenched in publicity over her engagement.

What Margaret wants is for "Daddy and Mummy" to recognize that she's grown up and should be allowed all the dances, dates and other diversions dear to the heart of teen-agers.

Little by little, the persistent little Princess is getting her way. Last January she went to a "grown-ups" party at the Dorchester Grill, the first she had attended without another member of the Royal family. More privileges and responsibilities—are ahead.

Next Oct. 21 she is to fill her first public engagement on her own, christening a 25,000-ton passenger ship at Belfast. Other invitations are trickling more and more, with 21-year-old Elizabeth busy getting married, Margaret will become a public figure in her own right.

She's already that, in a shadowy sense, being Margaret sometimes fails to check an impish grin or a boisterous laugh at the wrong time turns up in newspaper photographs while the rest of the family in the background.

Her normally public behavior is a model of decorum at Royal garden parties. For example, she refrains off with the King in one direction while the Queen and Princess Elizabeth move in another, and no one could be friendlier and more charming than Margaret.

It's behind the grey walls of Buckingham Palace, with nobody looking, that the teasing, fadget-collecting, music-loving girl in a skirt and sweater appears—the one who would be prettiest in her sorority, and probably a cheerleader, if she attended a Canadian or American high school.

Once (they say in court circles) she went to 2 children's party dressed in satin and scrolling prop wings.

"What dear," said the Queen, "you will have to be very good now that you are dressed as a lovely angel."

Margaret: "Oh, no. You see, I'm a holy terror."

TWO U.K. OFFICERS SLAIN IN RIOTING IN AMRITSAR

First British Victims of Bloody Warfare Between Religious Sects

Lahore, Pakistan, Aug. 20 — (AP) — An official announcement said today two more British Army officers had been slain during communal rioting in Amritsar — first British victims of the bloody warfare between India's religious sects which has been raging intermittently since August, 1946.

The officers, whose names were withheld pending notification of relatives, were said to have been shot to death Monday night. First reports indicated they might have been ambushed.

The shooting occurred a short time before a bitter outbreak of rioting on a Moslem village near Amritsar, Holy City of the Sikhs, in which 24 men and women were reported slashed to death.

Westbound Track Open for Traffic After Derailment

Chatham, Aug. 20 — (CP) — Westbound traffic was moving over the Canadian National railways line today past the scene of a wreck of a locomotive and five cars of an eastbound freight derailed yesterday and where one man was scalded to death in elevator operations.

Railway officials said it was expected that eastbound traffic over the line would be resumed by not more than a quarter of a mile in the wreck, would be resumed later today.

No statement was forthcoming from C. N. R. officials, but Chatham, based on a broken driveshaft of the No. 5 locomotive, the motive which threw an engine and 22 cars, mostly loaded with grain, from the track and toppled some.

No one was hurt in the wreck itself but as railway crews toiled to clear the line yesterday Lorne Ashby, 54-year-old London fireman, was scalded to death by escaping steam when he was on a flat car toppled while attempts were being made to lift one of the wrecked freight cars.

NO BOTTLED BEER

Toronto, Aug. 20 — (CP) — Deliveries of bottled beer to hotels having facilities to serve draught beer has been temporarily discontinued in the Toronto area, it was learned here today. The suspension, attributed to heavily increased demands by draught consumers in the last few days, is expected to continue, until the weekend.

DISCOVER ARMS STORE

Jerusalem, Aug. 20 — (Reuters) — British paratroop and police discovered an underground arms store in a school in the Jewish Montefiore quarter of Jerusalem during a search of the area today.

The haul included 18 rifles, about 4,500 rounds of ammunition, 400 Mills grenades, 23 pistols and two Hallan - made machine-guns.

DR. KARL BRANDT, AND SIX OTHERS WILL BE HANGED

Convicted for Conducting Medical Experiments on Camp Prisoners

Nuernberg, Aug. 20—(AP)—Adolf Hitler's personal physician and six other defendants convicted of using Nazi concentration camp prisoners as guinea pigs in inhuman medical experiments by fatal experiments were sentenced to death by an American court today to die on the gallows.

Five other men convicted yesterday on the same charges were sentenced to spend the rest of their lives in prison. Two others were acquitted.

Seven doctors who faced the court during the 132-day trial were sentenced.

Hitler's doctor, Karl Brandt, an S.S. general and chief of the Reich's medical branch, was found guilty of conducting high altitude and freezing experiments on prisoners, as well as carrying on mustard gas, sea water and sterilization tests which brought death to countless victims.

The seven executed defendants were brought in one by one this morning to hear the death sentences read by Judge Walter Beals, head of the American military court in the case.

The sentences in the order in which they were handed down:

Oskar Schroeder, chief of the Luftwaffe medical service, life imprisonment.

Convicts Believed in Area But May Have Got Out

By GEORGE RITCHEY

Taken Over on Ferry

So far as could be learned, the trio had crossed over on the ferry linking Smiths Falls and Pembroke. Capt. T. L. Smith, skipper of the ancient ferry at Buchanan, reported he was sure he had taken the men across from Pembroke to Desjardins Landing on Allumette Island, at about 7 a.m. yesterday.

Classed as four of the most dangerous criminals at Kingston penitentiary from which they escaped shortly after noon Monday, the three all had long prison records and were serving lengthy terms.

The three were said to be seeking a $120,000 cache said to be buried by them of $250,000 looted from banks in the windsor area.

It was understood police reinforcement squads were en route here from both Ottawa and Montreal.

One report that kept police busy in Ottawa late last night was that a car answering the description of the stolen car had been seen entering Ottawa. Police found the car in question, but the owner proved to be innocent.

Not Safe For Motorists

Ottawa, Aug. 20 (CP) — With the search centred in this district, it just isn't safe any more for owners of 1940 model olive green sedans.

At last one owner found this out last night when he returned to his automobile, parked on a street in the central district of Ottawa. There under the wheels lay armed cordon of police.

The police, searching for just such a vehicle in the pontiac county area on the Quebec side of the Ottawa Valley in their search for Ulysses Lauzon, Donald (Mickey) MacDonald, and Nicholas Minnille, spotted the car entering Ottawa by the Lower Park Bridge across the Ottawa River near the city outskirts. Two officers on motorcycles gave chase, but lost the trail.

Later, finding the car empty by a city street police installed in the shadows, waiting for the owner to return. This he did, the surprised individual — whose name was not disclosed — found himself the centre of interesting centre of attraction. It was nearly half an hour before he could explain his way out satisfactorily.

Also "captured" by police because of the car's description was an unidentified American tourist who passed into the U.S. at miles north-west of Chapeau, Que., where the search centred. Questioning was only to find the tourist was not their man.

FIREMAN ON THE SCENE

Philadelphia, Aug. 20 — (AP) — When James Brown discovered a fire in the rear of Valley Inn which he was a passenger, the situation proved no problem.

Brown, a Philadelphia fireman, instructed the restaurant owner to call him as Brown's eldhouse was the fireman extinguished the blaze, paid his fare and reported for duty.

While visiting her sister, Mrs. G. V. Scanlon, 41 Forin Street, Belleville, Mrs. Ethel Hamilton, of Toledo, Ohio, suffered a relapse of her health this morning and was taken by the Martin Ambulance to her home in Toledo. Mrs. Shaughnessy has been in ill health for several months.

It is believed that this trip is one of the longest one ever made by an ambulance from Belleville.

ROBBERS SCARED AWAY FROM BOOTH PLANT

Intervention of an unidentified person probably saved loss of goods to the Booth Footwear Factory, at 105 - Pinnacle Street last night.

Portland Intruders were busy trying keys in the door when they heard footsteps approaching. Apparently becoming frightened they made their getaway down an alleyway before the stranger could get to them. Police are investigating the affair.

GAMES POSTPONED DUE TO STORM

A brief but sharp electrical storm accompanied by heavy rain swept over the Belleville area last evening. Vivid flashes of lightning illuminated the sky and the whole land one house was burned on the Thomas Road, Roslin.

The storm was of short duration lasting about thirty minutes but then swept on its way in an easterly direction.

Heavy rain fell in the city shortly before 6 o'clock and continued intermittently all evening causing postponement of a number of baseball games in the district.

There are 100 rinks entered in the tournament from the United States and Canada and the 16 greens at the Whitby Bowling Club will be used to accommodate the bowlers. The Belleville rink will likely play their early games on the Whitby greens.

Workmen Start Installation Of Arena Ice Plant

With the arrival in the city of Mr. F. D. Hudson, engineer with the Canadian Ice Machinery Company, Toronto, who is in charge of the installation of the refrigerating plant at the Memorial Arena, work on the project will be rushed to completion as soon as possible.

It is expected that installation will be completed and the plant ready for operating by September 10th.

Welding of the twenty-foot lengths of steel pipe has already been started under the supervision of Mr. Harry Williams of the Williams Welding Company, Toronto. Approximately eight miles of pipe will be necessary to provide the ice surface of the arena.

The pipe is being welded into sixty-foot lengths and after testing laid will in turn be welded together. The pipe is of 1¼-inch dimension.

All machinery with the exception of the motor has been installed and the brine pump with fixtures has arrived in the city and will be placed in position immediately.

Max Kaminsky, business manager of the Philadelphia Rockets of the American Hockey League, who will undergo a month's training at the arena starting September 15th, passed through the city last night, and being informed of the progress made, voiced his satisfaction.

Mr. Cliff Maffett, assistant engineer, is busy today levelling the floor of the rink surface in preparation for the laying of foundation boards, upon the sleepers which the pipes will be placed. Approximately a depth of four inches of sand will be placed between the sleepers.

Lightning Causes Loss of Home Near Roslin

Roslin, Ont. (Special)—Lightning ripping from miles thunder heads in a brief but severe electrical storm which swept over this district early Tuesday evening, struck and almost completely destroyed the home of Oras Canning, farmer residing 1 1-2 miles south of this community.

The bolt torn through the attic and within a few minutes the adjacent stone structure was ablaze. Heavy rain was falling at the time and the blaze made slow headway. Neighbors raced to the scene and failing in their efforts to douse the flames, their attention to salvaging the contents of the house.

All furniture was taken successfully from the lower floor of the house and later fire-fighting efforts were successful and the kitchen was saved.

The family was at home at the time the storm struck but no one was injured.

No estimate of the loss was available at time of going to press and it was not ascertained whether the loss was covered by insurance.

AMERICAN LEGION'S CAMPAIGN AGAINST RED PROPAGANDA

Washington, Aug. 20 — (AP)— The American Legion announced last night a "multi-million dollar" campaign for 1948 to fight communistic propaganda in the United States. Paul H. Griffith, national commander, said at least 10,000,000 American men will receive a booklet each month telling the facts about some fundamental advantages of democracy.

Prize Winners At Carnival

Despite the bad weather that prevailed during the week, many Belleville and district residents were on hand at the Kiwanis Kazoo Klub to see the fireworks and to enjoy the games. Several valuable prizes were drawn for during the evening and the winners are as follows:

Mrs. Clayton Bowers won the floor prize of a pair of electrical all-wool blankets. Mrs. McCutcheon won the dream donated by Wotten's Miss Bushaw of Belleville won the blanket donated by the Children's Shop.

An out-of-town flavor was added to the festivities as several prizes went to residents from distant points. Mrs. Helen Thorne of Toronto won the fur scarf with the compliments of Delaney's Fur Store. Mrs. S. Maubach, Orono won the sterling pin presented by the Georgia Sailors. Mrs. M. Sine of Holloway won the jewel pin, also donated by the Georgia Sailors.

Mr. Colhoff will wear the Grenville jacket donated by Mr. Le quire for Men Store. Mrs. R. Brunsen, and Mrs. A. Kelly each won a bottle of cologne presented by Latimer's Drug Store. Mrs. Orvill Wood was the recipient of the cosmetic kit donated by Latimer's Drug Store.

Picton Lightning Strikes County Hospital, No Damage Done

Picton, Aug. 20 — As a blinding flash of lightning and a crash of thunder dazed residents during an electrical storm early last night the fire alarm sounded. For a time most simultaneous and in fact was at the lightning set off automatic alarm at Prince Edward County Hospital. The alarm is connected directly with the fire hall here. No damage was done to the hospital as the flames were a trace of where the lightning struck. A few minutes afterwards there was a tremendous downpour of rain which lasted for 20 minutes. Rain followed at intervals but the only damage was that of food proportions, the street becoming like a river.

The rain was general and will be of great benefit to canning crops which have suffered badly which has fallen for three weeks.

Many Large Fish Caught.

Prince Edward County's lakes and bays are now yielding usually fine catches of muskinong, pickerel and bass. Fishing has improved considerably in the past few years. Catches of muskies this week include a 17-pounder and one taken in the Bay by Mrs. C. A. Jones of Picton, while another of a single hook with a June bug and worms; German Vandevoort of Wellington, an 18-pounder from West Lake; Roy Peeling of Utica, N.Y., an 18-pounder from the Bay of Quinte east of Picton. Ross Furness of Toronto was pleased with a nine-pound pickerel from West Lake. Many fishermen are getting their quota of bass. Interest is increased by the fact that really big ones are getting away and ardent fishermen hope to land them.

News Briefs.

The Junior "B" OBA playdowns open at Wellington late Friday afternoon with Wellington Juniors playing Canadian Legion and game is at Gananoque next Wednesday.

Bloomfield will represent Prince Edward county in the district Intermediate "C" playdowns OBA. They will meet the winners of Lennox and Addington.

Belleville C.N.R. Vets and Picton Army will play the baseball game here Saturday night with proceeds for the Crippled Children's Fund.

Playoff in Picton softball league awaits a game tonight between Rt. View and Bata to decide third place. Semi-finals begin Friday night.

IMPORTED FOODS RELEASED TO JAPANESE

Tokyo, Aug. 20 — (AP)—Gen. MacArthur released to the Japanese today a huge amount of imported food which the top rationing expert predicted would take housewives out of the black market. MacArthur made distribution of 974,000 tons of imported food in September and 286,000 tons in October as the result of substantial quantities of imports recently from the United States.

CORNERSTONE

Santo Domingo was the first permanent settlement in the New World.

One may find out what's new in Glocca Morra, but that would be a rather rough job in Fintona Junction, Ireland. Nothing is new there. The railway train — affectionately known as Dick — uses one horsepower locomotion, and is so harmless that even the chicks aren't afraid. They know that Dobbin will not trample them. The railway makes connection with the Sunkiskilleu-Omagh train in North Ireland. Time may be marching on the world over, but it becomes petrified in Fintona.

Charge of Murder Laid Against Circus Hellriver

Rimouski, Que., Aug. 20 (CP) —Police laid a formal charge of murder against "Hellriver" Jimmy Hazlitt of Texas and Oklahoma Tuesday, outgrowth of a circus grounds scuffle last Sunday during which Edouard Dolron received injuries from which he died.

It was announced that Hazlitt, 42-year-old cowboy who leads a troop of automobile "death drivers," would appear in court for preliminary hearing before Judge Aimee Caron next Monday.

Hazlitt, with no permanent address but a native of Palestine, Texas, was held in jail here in his Gaspe town where there were angry mutterings among the populace aroused at the death of the 35-year-old Dolron, an electrician from St. Florence Que., who went to see the circus Sunday at nearby Causapcal 70 miles north of Matapedia, Que. Hazlitt's wife, said to have been a central figure in the altercation between the captain of the "Amerigan Hellrivers" and the Quebec circus-goer, remained at Rimouski hotel to be near her husband.

"I can't say anything at this time," she said, when asked for her version of the Sunday brawl in Causapcal. She spent the afternoon having her hair dressed at a local beauty parlor.

But the police story as pieced together from witnesses, was that Jews wanted to take Mrs. Hazlitt's photograph and she objected, sought out her husband finding and told him Dolron was bothering her. At that, so police said, Hazlitt knocked the unfortunate man down and kicked him about the head and body.

An angry crowd gathered and threatened the American circus of the smoke it produced.

impressario but before harm could come to him police took him under their protection as an important witness, held in protective custody. Last night the coroner's jury held him criminally responsible for Dolron's death.

At that time—the inquest was held from the lowerpeople showed their feeling when, to the number of about 600 they took part in muttering groups outside the courthouse but dispersed without demonstration when the jury formed of the verdict.

Charles Lajoie, publicity man for the show, said Mrs. Hazlitt, whose parents live at Edmond, Okla., had joined her husband with the show though she travelled with it on the train with her husband. She was taking tickets at the gate when Doiron appeared and struck Doiron, pictures.

Lajoie said testimony at the inquest was to the effect that Doiron had been drinking and he gave this version of the incident: Mrs. Hazlitt told Doiron to go away, saying she was married.

"The married too, so it doesn't matter," said Doiron.

The woman left the gate at an intermission but Doiron kept bothering her and she went for her husband who told Doiron to keep away. Doiron continued to follow the Hazlitt's and, said something in French after which Hazlitt struck him in the face and the electrician fell, apparently striking the back of his head or neck on a stone.

A doctor was called. He saw Doiron's condition and a priest was summoned to give the last rites of the church. Doiron died about six minutes after he was stricken.

The show, which features trick automobile stunts and rides, has been closed down pending outcome of Hazlitt's preliminary hearing Monday.

Andy Clarke May Open Local Fair On Sept. 22nd

There is a strong possibility that Andy Clarke, well-known radio figure who broadcasts "Stirling News" a fifteen-minute survey of happenings in rural Ontario, every Sunday morning over a national network, will officially open the 1952 edition of the Belleville Fair, in addition, Mr. Clarke may conduct his weekly broadcast from Belleville on Sunday, Sept. 21.

The special invitation to Mr. Clarke to open the fair and conduct his broadcast from here, has been extended by Mayor Frank Foltwell. Along with the invitation, to Mr. Clarke to perform these official duties, goes another to bring his fishing tackle with him—first for a fishing trip will be President Elmer Sandwick of the Agricultural Society here.

If Mr. Clarke accepts the invitation, he will open the Fair here at 8 p.m. Monday, Sept. 22nd.

Firs and Spruces Invaluable To Britain

London, Aug. 20 — (CP) — Douglas fir and spruce, native to British Columbia, have become stalwarts of British forest resources in the last 50 years and now predominate in some plantations established under government supervision.

One forestry official said the spruce has been "invaluable" in both peace and war — it can be used in airplane construction — and tests have shown it will produce pulp of a quality native British spruce fells. Timber-starved Britain can thus extend her wood-ed areas.

About 1,500,000 acres now are under control of the forestry commission, 500,000 suitable for forests. About 500,000 have been planted, an official said.

"In several new forest areas the Canadian trees predominate," Canadian foresters filled heavy stands of Douglas firs in northern Scotland during the Second World War. A tree of this variety which reached nearly 300 feet in Montgomeryshire has been regarded as the highest tree in the United Kingdom.

The first Douglas fir seeds were sent to Britain in 1826* by the Scottish botanist, David Douglas, who tramped the Rockies in pioneer days studying plant growth and suggesting trees which might be suitable for development in Britain.

*1826 is correct

USE OPEN FIRES

Toronto, Aug. 20 — (CP) — With electric power cut off by a storm early yesterday, nearly all of 20 infants at Winston Hall emergency shelter accommodation at nearby Malton — used fires to open fires outside last night to heat bottles for their children. Winston Hall houses 83 families with about 300 children. 187 of them of pre-school age.

Stirling Council Passes All By-Laws For Wartime Housing

Stirling — Reeve Wm. C. West presided at the regular meeting of the village council, all members of council were present. Communications were tabled from Frank E. Hockaday, Trenton, re entertainment committee, Mr. Mitchell Malloy re a pig killed by stray dogs, Bonar Motor Sales re fire fighting equipment and the Boiler inspector's report. All were received and filed.

On motion of Messrs. Bailey and Elliott, Reeve W. West was authorized to have the necessary by-laws drafted in connection with the Wartime Housing Project.

Reeve West tabled a request from K. P. Mayhew local jeweller to erect a large electric clock in the theatre. On motion of councillors Wells and Bailey permission was granted providing the clock is installed at Mr. Mayhew's expense and subject to the approval of Mr. F. A. Sprentall, theatre manager.

Request Referred

A request from Arthur Reid for a survey of his water service with a view to lowering the cost of same was referred to Wm. Cairns, water superintendent.

Councillor Brooks reported complaints received about the dust nuisance on several streets. The rain had washed away much of the first application of calcium chloride and it was decided to give the street another application as soon as the necessary equipment for the job could be procured.

No further communication having been received from the Bata Shoe Co. relative to the rental of the fire engine it was presumed stated Reeve West that they were returning the engine within sixty days of the abrogation of the contract.

On motion councillors Elliott and Bailey the reeve was authorized to issue a proclamation proclaiming Labor Day, Sept 1st a public holiday in Stirling. The next council meeting will be on Monday Sept. 8th.

Several accounts were presented for payment.

Youths Catching Some Fine Bass Near Footbridge

An ill wind may blow nobody no good, but a high water brings the bass to some unexpected places.

Lately the youthful anglers of the city, armed with nondescript fishing tackle, have been hauling some nice specimens of bass from the Moira River from a perch on the city footbridge.

Yesterday two of the baby-faced fishermen hauled three nice fish from this part of the river which tipped the scales ostewn two and three pounds.

The lower stretches of the river sees many of the youngsters lucky enough to secure a boat, retaining both sides of the stream with trails and fishing poles. Hauls are said to be good.

Cash is Taken From Butcher Shop Register

Forcing entry through a screen window at the rear of the premises, persons at present unknown broke into the White Butcher Shop on McAnnany Street sometime last night and escaped with between $10 and $12 in cash.

The money, change left in the cash register overnight for next-morning use, consisted of one two-dollar bill and the remainder in silver.

The intruders smashed their way through a small screen window but no other damage was caused. As far as is known at present nothing other than the contents of the cash register was taken. The register, left open, was undamaged.

The window through which entry was made is approximately two or three feet square and this leads to the belief that the robbery was committed by small boys. City police are investigating.

R.R. Hannah, Cooper, Observes 88th Birthday

Mr. R. R. Hannah, formerly of 373 Charles St., city, spent his 88th birthday quietly at his home at Cooper.

For the past seven years he has been residing with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Rollins. Until a few weeks ago when he underwent an operation in Kingston Hospital, Mr. Hannah enjoyed good health and was very active. His friends and neighbors wish for him a speedy recovery to his former state of health.

Mr. Hannah's father, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Reynolds, John and Gerald of Cartwright, Mrs. and Mrs. Frank Reynolds and Mr. Bert Blair called on him during the afternoon.

Mr. Hannah always enjoyed the hunting season until a few years ago made his regular trip to the hunting camp. Since then he has been content to hunt the woodchucks on the farm. Up to the time of his sudden illness he had shot forty-one of the pests and no doubt if he had kept his usual health he will have many more to add to his score before the season is ended.

"RIDING THE RODS" 16,000 FEET UP

The distinction of being the first man in history to "ride the rods" on a transatlantic airplane from Lisbon to Natal, Brazil, belongs to this young man, who is showing here how he did it. He is Francisco Carvalho, a young Portuguese, who clung to the landing gear of a Dutch airliner on the 32-hour flight over the ocean. Carvalho was quoted as saying that he saw the ocean only twice during the trip and the "cold bothered me more than anything else." Airline officials said it was a miracle that he was not crushed by the gear or shaken into the ocean en route.

Probe of Disease

Poliomyelitis is to be studied in Canada, insurance companies of the Dominion having agreed to payment of the cost of the research work to find out what causes the dread disease and how it is spread from person to person. The investigation will be carried on by the Hospital for Sick Children staff, Dr. L. N. Silverthorne being in charge.

Polio, so dreaded today, requires study for while mankind has become all too familiar with its havoc, there is a deep mystery about the malady which has kept secret its origin and its means of spreading. The opinion is that if it is discovered how it spreads, in not too long a time means will be found to prevent its development.

Finding of the cause and the method of spread of the disease will be one of the triumphs of history when it comes. That it will be made to reveal itself seems natural for with concentration and organization of effort, facts of importance are bound to be exposed to man's gaze and understanding.

Everyone will wish success to the investigation because success would be a major event of medical history and mark man's triumph over disease.

Men of science, backed by governments and agencies looking to the welfare of men, are bound to break through the shell which keeps disease a mystery. The brightest minds are determined to make poliomyelitis reveal its source and its methods of propagation.

Two New Dominions

Two new nations, yet old in time, have come on the scene out of the former India, namely, the Dominions of India and Pakistan. They came into being at one of the momentous periods of history when the world has passed through two devastating wars and there is a world consciousness of events in an age which has striven for unity of outlook and for peace but with their ideal of unity of outlook not yet what before the end of the last struggle men looked for.

Pakistan and India have the unique position. They will continue to be under the world's gaze to see how they will solve their problems and all in all, while having great issues before them, they have also the supreme opportunity not many states have had in good guidance and in receiving so great a benefit in freedom.

Leaders of the new Dominions have expressed their determination to prevent and put down disorders such as have been reported in the past. It is their determination that the liberty they have achieved will be used to the highest purpose, the expansion of freedom and the fullest development of their national life.

These great states, which have come out of the India that has a history going back to the most ancient of times, stand in the forefront of the world and have the opportunity of making before the eyes of all men an impressive picture of freedom and its uses. Britain has shown the faith she possesses in democracy and the training the two Indian nations have received in the ways of freedom.

Lord Mountbatten, whose record of service in World War II called him to many posts of danger and honor, has added to his reputation as a commando head, sailor and as leader in the great victories in Burma, the proof of his gift in statesmanship in the task of bringing about the present development of the two new Dominions. As a Viceroy his name will live in India and Pakistan, the new Dominions, which will be proud to have had this brilliant young leader and diplomat associated with the history-making outcome of the negotiations. As a tribute from the U. K. Government he has been raised to an earldom for his service to Britain, the new states and the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Training for Health

Since it is essential that an informed adult opinion be created in Canada which will be favorably inclined to support studies and research aimed at ultimate elimination of causes of illness, public health authorities are aware of the importance of health education for children.

Leaders in Canada's national health campaign point out that it is never too soon to learn. Youngsters, they feel, must be impressed with the importance of an organized and sustained effort against disease.

The great art of learning is to understand but little at a time. — Locke.

Home and School

An appeal to parents to co-operate with educational authorities, issued from Ottawa, is based on the need for continuation in the home of class room training in such matters as punctuality, team-play and discipline.

At school, children learn that they must abide by accepted rules of social behaviour, for their personal profit as well as for collective well-being. Parents can further this type of training by ensuring that principles of sportsmanship and co-operation are honored in the home.

At the Bar at Last

The Krupp boys are in court at last — and thousands who follow their trial will regard them as more evil in intent, worthier of punishment, than the first gang of hoodlums to face the new justice here.

Only one of the dozen accused bears the familiar family name so long associated with the wholesale, legalized death.

The others are key-men of the organization, however, and none the less suspect of plotting war for profit because they are Krupps by association, rather than birth.

For more than a century, the Krupps waxed fat on the blood and suffering of the battlefield. The job of their present prosecutors is to prove that they created business when none was immediately in prospect.

They are accused specifically of stimulating the armaments market of the 1930's by helping the late Herr Hitler organize war on the grand scale. — Montreal Herald.

Loveliness of Waters

The waters of the earth have lent it much beauty. Shy brown pools, cloistered by branches, catching only now and then a truant ray, bring a touch of the wild.

Brooks, meandering through grass and marshlands, wander gypsy-free; streams, babbling over pebbles, swirling in eddies and falling in sparklinb tumults, chatter like happy children.

Rivers, a statelier form of nature, flow in their appointed courses with faces to the sky. In their journeying they pass through canyons, prairies, forests and mountains, giving back the images of trees, hills and many-colored rocks.

But the ocean is greatest in its gift of beauty. Who has not felt the loveliness of moonlight on breakers, the enchantment of starlight and mist? And who has not responded to the ocean't many moods — its mystery, its fury, its faint note of sadness and its deep undertone of comfort? — Montreal Gazette.

Hay Fever Season

Every year a new remedy for hay fever is heralded. Every year some new pill or injection is supposed to be the latest discovery and all victims will be cured. And, every year the sneezing goes on just as violently as it has been doing through the centuries. There are some remedies that give partial relief to some people, and even some remedies that give almost total immunization to some. But, the average hay fever sufferer tries this one and that one and usually ends up with a spell of disappointed sneezes.

Some day a benefactor of mankind will find a cure-all for hay fever. In the meantime, victims will have to grin and sneeze it. — Windsor Star.

A London historian announces that the art of handwriting has been on a steady decline for four hundred years. But the art of reading it has certainly been developing, Hamilton Spectator remarks.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

(Copyright, 1947, Edgar A. Guest)

BRAVE WAY

Behind his weather-beaten face
He seemed to hide his care,
As if he had a secret place
Within himself, somewhere—
A little nook that none could find
With prying eyes to go,
So deep that what disturbed his mind
His loved ones couldn't know.

He left the burdens of the day
In hiding to remain.
"Tomorrow's soon enough," he'd say,
"To take them up again.
With joy I'll sit me down to dine;
The busy day is done;
And never shall a sigh of mine
Spoil anybody's fun."

Oh, happier the world could be
If all our cares could hide
So deeply loved ones couldn't see
When we are trouble tried.
If hidden where they cannot show
We kept our worries small,
With fewer frowns the day would go
And fewer tears wuold fall.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Does it take more posts to fence over a hill?

Whether more posts are required to fence over a hill or over level land depends on how the fence is built.

Suppose a fence is built along one side of a piece of land one mile square. When rolling or mountainous land is surveyed fos division purposes, it is treated as a plane surface and the surveys are made exactly as if the hills or mountains did not exist. Although there are more actual square rods of surface area in a section of hilly or mountainous land than there is in a section of level land, both contain the same area from the surveyor's standpoint.

Therefore in the case supposed the fence is one mile long regardless of hills and valleys. No more posts or pickets are required to build the fence if the line traverses hills than if it traverses only level land, provided the posts are placed parallel to one another and the same horizontal distance apart.

The ground distance between two posts is greater than the horizontal distance and forms the hypotenuse of a right-angled triangle one side of which is equal to the ground distance between the posts on level land. Accordingly, if only ground distance is considered, fewer posts are required to build a mile of fence over a hill than are required to build a mile of similar fence on level land, because on the hill the posts are not placed at right angles to the ground.

When horizontal distance across the field is considered the number of posts is the same whether the ground is level or hilly. However, when a fence is so constructed it is often necessary to use longer posts on the hillsides, especially if the decline is decided. Sometimes in building fences over rolling ground the posts are set more or less perpendicular to the surface, in which case the posts are not parallel but are slightly closer together at the bottom than at the top.

More posts or pickets are required to build such a fence over a hill than are required to build it on level land.

With the wire it is different. In both cases more wire is required to go over a hill because it follows the curvature of the ground and a curved line connecting two points is longer than a straight line between the same points.

DISGUISE IT

Since many children do not like milk, health authorities suggest it be included in their diet by serving milk in soups, puddings, sauces, cereals, mashed potatoes and other foods with which it mixes well.

Letter to the Editor

ABOUT NEWFOUNDLAND

Belleville, Ont.

Editor, Ontario Intelligencer—

Many years ago the United States of America bought Alaska from Russia, and paid good money for it.

That was before gold was discovered in Alaska, and Alaska seemed a barren, frozen country, and valuable only for its strategic position.

The wisdom of this purchase has been abundantly proven, and is realized now more than ever because of Alaska's strategic position.

Many years ago the U. S. A. bought Louisiana from France, and paid good money for it. This purchase unified and solidified the territory of the U.S.A., and kept a foreign power from strengthening its foothold within the natural boundaries of the U. S. A.

No one now doubts the wisdom of this purchase, or begrudges the spending of so much money for that purpose.

Geographically, Newfoundland and Labrador should be a part of Canada.

For the future welfare of Canada no foreign power, however friendly at present, should be allowed to occupy this strategic position in the center of our main gateway, and thus have the right to obstruct this gateway later on with their fortifications.

If Canada's present rulers do not seize upon this present opportunity to make Newfoundland a part of Canada forever, and thus unify and solidify its territory, and protect its main gateway, all future generations will curse them for their penury and lack of foresight.

Canada should buy Newfoundland, at any price.

All future generations will then unceasingly honor and bless Canada's present rulers for their wisdom and foresight.

Canada should buy Newfoundland.

J. Arthur Marsh.

26,000 Pheasants To be Released At Ont. Points

Brantford, Aug. 20 (CP) —The Ontario government's pheasant re-stocking program aimed at releasing 26,000 birds is well under way in western and southwestern Ontario.

Next shipment is to go to Sarnia and birds for that consignment are being banded now at Normandale in Norfolk County and at Codrington in Northumberland County, sites of the two hatcheries operated by the Lands and Forests Department.

Already 7,500 pheasants to replace those killed in the past by hunters, have been released in Essex. Kent, Middlesex and other western Ontario counties. Now the distribution will move east until every county in the Niagara peninsula is covered.

In previous years the birds have been wing-banded. This year the bands will be slipped to the leg. Each numbered band asks the hunter to return it to the department with a notation about where the bird was shot. Thus the department hopes to determine how far the birds roam from the spots where they are released.

In charge of the two pheasant farms are the Mound Brothers. Stanley and Ted. considered two of Canada's leading pheasant men. They watch over the brooders, tend the fledglings and then arrange for transportation of the young birds by truck to the counties and townships that have open seasons.

In keeping with the expansion of the re-stocking program, 30 new brooders were built this year at the Normandale farm. Despite a bad hatching season due to wet weather, about 14,000 pheasants, an all-time record, were raised there this year.

ARE YOU A WISEACRE OR A YAHBUT?

Please suggest laxative that will give bulk. (Much touted "all vegetable" nostrum) seems to cause excessive mucous.

(G.S.W.)

Friends advise me to visit one of the several specialists in our city who give colonic irrigations. ...troubled for forty years with constipation ... nervous... always careful about my diet ...

(S.M.)

The only answer I can give these two unhappy people is "No."

You see, I hestitate to offer them any advice lest they prove to be not only Wiseacres but Yahbuts.

A Wiseacre is a person who thinks he or she knows as much about certain fields of physiology, hygiene and pathology as an "ordinary" doctor does—and in wiseacre belief an "ordinary" doctor is one who does not bid for sucker trade by calling himself "specialist," by calling his shop "clinic" or by pretending to know about remedies other than "pills and potions."

From long eperience in dealing with Wiseacres I have found it most satisfactory to clam up when they ask for advice, for the chances are that they'll reject your suggestion as hardly suitable for their needs—in other words Wiseacres who have gone through the big clinic and tried a variety of "specialists" become Yahbuts and a real doctor should have no truck with 'em.

G.S.W. says the "all vegetable" nostrum seems to cause excessive mucous. Mucous what? This Yahbut doesn't know quite as much as he or she thinks he or she knows, even about the English language.

S.M. says he or she has been troubled for forty years with — never mind the words S.M. uses take my word for it — interference. Originally some nostrum monger, fishwife or ignoramus persuaded the poor geek that some kind of damned mischievous interference with nature's regulation of the digestive function was a daily requirement, lest that dread autointoxication ensue from retardation of any part of the digestive function. So the poor goof has cultivated the physic habit, conditioned himself to one or another daily cathartic, and probably most of the symptoms of which he complains are the by-effects of the cathartics.

If I seem unduly tough, unsympathetic or sarcastic about this, never mind telling me or chiding me for it. I know I am. I'm trying to teach young people how to keep well—not old chronics how to cure themselves.

No, I shall not suggest a laxative that will give bulk. Instead I suggest that everybody eat a substantial proportion of plain wheat (in place of refined white flour) every day and that young people, even infants a few months old who are not thriving, eat plenty of well ripened banana every day.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Acne

Son, now 20, has had an obstinate acne since he was about 14. He doesn't seem too morbid about it but probably it is a handicap. (S.H.A.)

Answer — Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet on acne — Blackheads and Pimples.

Infection in Waiting-Room

Took my eight-months-old baby to the doctor ten days ago. Sitting in waiting-room ten minutes before I noticed child across from me had whooping cough and coughed all over the place. The doctor said the baby may catch it, but there was nothing he could do. He didn't think whooping cough vaccine would make any difference now. (Mrs. R.L.B.)

Answer — In crowded, stuffy waiting-rooms a great deal of disease is spread from one person to another. What the moral is, I don't know, but a lot of doctors merit censure for their carelessness about it. Prompt administration of whooping-cough "vaccine" (bacterin) after a child has been exposed may at least make the illness much less severe.

Anoci-association

You told of something doctor or dentist could give in advance so patient would go to the dentist's chair in a calm condition without fear. (K.H.R.)

Answer — Even if it were safe to name the drug you couldn't get it without prescription. Any dentist or physician can give you the drug which will put you in a reasonably indifferent state before the operation and any good dentist can use local or general anesthesia so that you will suffer no pain. Fear of the dental chair is obsolete—there is no sense in it today. If the dentist is worth his salt he can do whatever may be necessary without giving you any more than discomfort.

PRINCESS

were dancing, stepped out on the balcony for a breath of fresh air.

Elizabeth: "We'd better be getting back now."

Margaret: "You can go back and take care of your Empire. I'll take care of myself."

It was to this "junior miss" type, along with her sister, that the King awarded a high honor on his last birthday; the Imperial Order of the Crown of India. He may make her an army colonel when she's 17. The Queen, Elizabeth and other relatives already have that honorary rank.

One honor is assured. Sprightly Margaret will be maid of honor at Elizabeth's wedding Nov. 20 in Westminister Abbey.

Bet you anything she giggles.

SUBTLE BRIBERY

Riding around and around the block gets kind of tiresome — after you've been around on your tricycle about 500 times. So Vernon Zubris, age three-and-a-half, decided to adventure further afield. He skipped over the back fence of his Chicago home recently, hiked to a nearby station and boarded a train. Eighty-five miles farther on, at Ottawa, Ill., the conductor found him wandering through the train, turned him over to Ottawa police. The minions of the law filled the stowaway with ice cream and communicated with Chicago. Now here he is back home and bribing mom to forget the whole thing in the same way little boys have been bribing moms since the world was young.

Late Grain Crops In Ontario Need Rainfall Badly

Ottawa, Aug. 20 (CP) — Too much rain on the prairies and not enough in the central provinces is having an adverse effect on crops in both areas, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports.

In the slush of a series of 11 telegraphic reports on conditions throughout Canada, the bureau said late crops in Ontario need rain badly. Pastures are dying and the flow of milk is beginning to decline. With the exception of local thunderstorms in south-western Ontario last weekend, the weather for the last several weeks has been dry and hot.

Late-sown fields of grain in Ontario are ripening too fast and are expected to yield poorly, although haying is nearly completed and cutting of oats and barley is becoming general. Yields of flue-cured tobacco, now being harvested, are presently good, while prospects are promising for potatoes and early peaches are being marketed.

Dry weather in Quebec has resulted in similar conditions.

On the prairies, dry weather is urgently needed in southern Manitoba. Elsewhere in the west the rain is benefiting late crops.

The problem is not so pressing in Saskatchewan and Alberta, but warm, dry weather is needed there also to start harvesting operations.

CUT DOWN ON TAKING LAXATIVES THIS WAY

See How Regular You Can Be Every Morning

Try taking Carter's Pills this way: Start with 2 and eat a definite time every morning. When you get regular every morning cut down to 1. After a few days, try 1.

Then try taking Carter's every other day. You may even find you can keep regular without any pills.

You see, Carter's are so tiny you can cut down to one, even 1 in 7—to fit the needs of your individual system.

Without laxative discomfort!

Thousands can cut down on laxative taking the Carter way. Ask for Carter's Pills by name to get the genuine at any druggists—Etc. Start the Carter graduated dose method tonight, and jump out of bed tomorrow feeling good.

TOO MANY WIVES — EIGHT AT ONCE

Gerald O'Neill, who doesn't look like a dashing Lochinvar at all, is shown in Los Angeles court during the big-amy hearings where he was held for trial on $5,000 bail. O'Neill is said to have married eight times and to have wed at least four of his wives without the formality of obtaining a divorce. Four of his wives were in court.

Pilot Waited Nine Days To Be Rescued

Halifax, Aug. 20 — (CP) — Although his light plane turned over making a forced landing Aug. 10 in the rough country near Lac Aubin, on the Quebec Gulf shore, Pilot J. B. Mutton of Pickering, Ont., escaped injury and waited nine days for rescue planes.

Sighted from the air yesterday by an American search plane, Mutton was picked up and taken to hospital at Gaspe Bay, Labrador. Details of the crash began seeping back to search and rescue units of the R.C.A.F. here today.

Mutton, alone in the light Fox Moth plane, took off from Rapide Lake, Que., Aug. 10 en route to Goose Bay on a photographic mission.

Yesterday a search plane sighted the wrecked Moth and Mutton was noticed nearby. The plane landed on the lake and Mutton was taken aboard, looking well-fed and unharmed. Officials here said food supplies in the plane supplemented by berries, would give Mutton a good food supply.

Meanwhile, the search for a Fleet Canuck aircraft with two men aboard which has been missing since Aug. 8 has been abandoned.

Aboard were Pilot John MacLean of Hopewell, N. S., and Norman Crewe of Waverely, N.S.

SHORTAGE OF LABOR

Woodstock, Aug. 20 — (CP) — There is a definite shortage here of skilled and unskilled labor in all kinds of work, R. E. Pete, manager of the National Employment Service Office, said yesterday. And it is unlikely that the situation can be remedied until the housing shortage in Woodstock improves enough to attract outside workers, he added.

Continue Probe Into Death Of Stramford Youth

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Aug. 20 — (CP) — Niagara Falls police and offices of the district attorney for Niagara County today continued investigation into circumstances surrounding the death of Harold Wattam, 19, of Stamford, Ont., after Dr. James W. Neary of Niagara County last night found the death a "probable homicide" by a person or persons unknown.

The decomposed body of Wattam, a sporting goods store clerk, was recovered from the Niagara gorge last Friday, six days after he was reported missing. Douglas Till, 20, of Portage Road, Stamford, alleged companion of Wattam during the evening of the tragedy, originally was held on suspicion by Niagara Falls, N.Y., police. He was permitted to return home after the inquest.

Following the non-jury hearing indicated Wattam, Till and Laurier la Marche — of Niagara Falls, Ont., visited several taverns in Niagara Falls, N.Y., area earlier in the evening. Till testified that the trio later obtained more liquor and went to a section near the gorge.

La Marche left soon, but Till and Wattam remained, Till said. He added that he and Wattam, both wrestling enthusiasts, engaged in a tussle near the brink of the gorge. He was unable to give a clear account of what happened thereafter.

Dr. William F. Jacobs of Niagara Falls, N.Y., Niagara County pathologist, testified that Wattam's death was caused by multiple fractures at the base of the skull. He said it was unlikely such injuries could have been caused by the fall because there were few rocks at that point. The autopsy was inconclusive because decomposition prevented any determination of external injuries. Wattam's body was fully clothed when brought out of the gorge.

Lunchroom Customer Smashes Glass and Assaults Two Men

Baltimore, Aug. 20 —(AP)— The customer definitely was in a bad humor. Mrs. Emma Sullivan, a lunchroom waitress, told police a man ordered a hamburger and she asked "how do you want it?"

"Never mind how I want it, just cook it," was the reply. Then, police were told, he:

Picked up a bottle and smashed the glass top of a cash register.

Smashed a glass pie case.

Picked up a seated patron and tossed him on the floor.

And before getting into an automobile and driving away, it was further reported, the disgruntled customer struck another man outside the restaurant.

BECOMES FATHER AND GRANDFATHER ON SAME DAY

Kansas City, Aug. 20 — (AP)— Dave McMillan, 46, became a father and a grandfather on the same day.

Boys were born to McMillan's wife and to their 21-year-old son's wife yesterday in the same hospital.

"I've been a father three times before and a grandfather twice before," McMillan said, "A fellow might as well do them together."

WEDDINGS

MURPHY—O'NEILL

The church of St. Charles Borromeo at Read, was the setting for a pretty wedding on Saturday, August 16th, when Miss Helen Margaret O'Neill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent O'Neill, Roslin, Ontario, became the bride of James Gerald Murphy, only son of Mrs. Murphy and the late J. Murphy, of Kingston.

Rev. Father Francis J. O'Neill, brother of the bride, performed the ceremony. Miss Rita O'Neill, another brother of the bride, and Samuel Hunt were ushers.

Gladioli, ferns and Summer flowers adorned the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin featuring a full skirt of fine silk net over satin, a fitted bodice with long tight sleeves and long sleeve ending in points at the wrists. Her handkerchief train was veil fell gracefully from the Parisian coronet of seed-pearls. She wore a single strand of pearls a gift of the groom, and carried an arm bouquet of American Beauty roses and baby's breath.

Miss Vera O'Neill was her sister's maid of honor, wearing a floor length gown of blue taffeta, on princess lines, with matching shoulder length veil. Her arm bouquet was of pink roses and baby's breath.

Master Elliott O'Neill was the bridesmaid. She wore a gown of white taffeta, cut on the same style as that worn by the maid of honor. Her shoulder length veil was of matching blue and she carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and baby's breath.

Mr. Howard Murphy was his brother's groomsman. The ushers were Mr. John O'Neill, brother of the bride, and Mr. Harold O'Sullivan, cousin of the groom.

The wedding music was played by Mr. William Hanley who also sang "Ave Maria". Solos during the wedding Mass were rendered by Misses Betty and Theresa O'Neill, sisters of the bride, and by Miss Barbara Whalen, cousin of the bride, on the hymns being "O Sacred Heart", "On This Day O Beautiful Mother", and "O Lord I Am Not Worthy".

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The guests were received by the bride's mother, Mrs. O'Neill, assisted by the groom's mother, Mrs. Murphy.

Mrs. O'Neill wore a gown of figured silk jersey, with black accessories and a corsage of red roses. Mrs. Murphy wore a figured black and white jersey dress with black accessories, and a corsage of red roses.

For travelling to Niagara Falls and Buffalo, N.Y., the bride chose a dress of navy sheer with white accessories. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Murphy will reside in Kingston, Ont.

'Fall Fashions' by Three City Stores Feature of Kiwanis Karnival at the Armouries

Wottens, Children's Shop, Esquire for Men Display Latest Styles for Women, Children and Men; Furs Shown by Delaney and Jewellery by Georgia Salon

The stage in the Armouries, with its flag-draped back drop, was the setting last evening for a showing of "Fall Fashions" sponsored by the "Kiwanis Karnival being held in Belleville this week. The "three-in-one" show included an attractive array of children's clothing from the new shop on Front Street, recently opened by Mrs. Vanover, gowns and togs from "Esquire for Men" and ladies' wearables from "Wotten's Women's Wear" in conjunction with gowns from "Georgia" and costume jewellery from The Georgia Salon".

Mr. Basil White welcomed those attending, Mr. Charley Wotten was master of ceremonies and Mr. Jimmie Corradi supplied a background of piano music.

Mrs. W. C. McCutcheon introduced the children's and ladies' modelling clothes, and described the outfits, pointing specials, hats, furs, jewellery and accessories which were shown.

Mrs. Wannamaker escorted the tiny tots across the stage to display the "cowboy" suits being shown for the very youthful members of the family. Other styles were for school-agers in the junior sizes. The girls' styles displayed included dainty party frocks and cunning summer suits, brother and sister combinations, school togs and out-of-door garments, with matching caps for the laddies and bonnets for the lassies. Parting shots were the latest in rain coats and the winter play-suit, with fur-faced parka, in a lovely shade of green.

Children Enjoy Show

The children evidently enjoyed the show "from the stage" and their "public" debut. It is a success for the interested people using "out front".

Modelling the beautiful gowns, "adult" suits and intriguing hats for the ladies were Mrs. Wotten, Jean Conrad, Vera Armstrong, Martha Lynn, Mrs. Corradi and Mesdames Madelena Seymour and Ray Wotten, and their pick-up was "Dorothy Grey" with shades suiting every complexion, and a fascinating assortment of wigs. Stole Suits are as usual, to the forefront, "leaders" in fall fashions, whether for sports wear or for the "dress-up occasion.

Particularly attractive for the "co-ed" is a grey campus suit, with a pleated skirt and g-blazer, the fronts, reverses and cuffs accented with white braiding in braid. With this was worn a bright red, hip pocketed sweater matching hat, gloves and shoulder bag, highlighted by shining silver jewellery.

The "Out-door" girl will appreciate one of the latest of Deacon Bros., ski suit models, featuring designs from Switzerland, lands of the Alps and skiing yodellers. For skating or Winter street-wear were garments made from the famous Aero Pile fabrics.

Black bengaline was used for one of the Autumn "musts", the skirt a little longer, the lines new and very enticing. A matching jacket, of the box-hat and fancy in one of the new Fall shades, completed the ensemble.

Shortie Coats in Vogue

"Shortie" coats are still in vogue, one finger-tip length model in black with full back, making a useful cover-up garment for a fuchsia afternoon frock, with side drapery, a new patterned sweater, and, augmenting the beauty of contrast in line, sparkling clips and bracelet.

Another coat with "swishing" lines was of dark green, topped by a contrasting hood, which may be allowed to fall forward across the shoulders when in dismiss.

One of the "better" dresses was evidenced by Peter Pan corsage with moire trim, perfectly tailored for street wear but very acceptable for the "tea party" when worn with a "chic" feather-trimmed chapeau.

"Paradise" frocks in fine wool are setting the pace for late Autumn dresses, both for style and comfort. One worn with a stone martin neckpiece was particularly alluring in a soft tan shade, with gold button trim.

Black Nylon Dress

Among the beautiful "best" climbe dresses was a really thrilling dinner gown in black nylon, delightfully cooled from one of Hollywood's most recent screen models. It has just arrived here and is absolutely perfect for a formal dining followed by an evening at the opera.

Evening gowns were on display also, from which we selected a sophisticated model in black satin, with a back neck and bodice in the Junior Miss a lovely gown in a delicate shade of mauve, featuring a bronzed flower head and full nylon skirt. This with a pearl necklace, would be very suitable for a bride's attendant.

One really striking gown was shown in chamille blue jersey, designed for a matronly figure, size 42, with long sleeves and an all-round accordian pleated skirt. The belt was silver sequin trimmed and the accompanying jewellery included a sparkling necklace and ear-rings.

Last but not least was a beautiful negligee of black satin, with snuggly fitted waist and roomy sleeves, to wear over the owner's nicest lounging pyjamas. Removal of the sash revealed long black satin "trousers" with a deep band of shirred black lace, featuring a swallow-tail back, and in turn, its removal revealed the mauve lace blouse matching the trousers.

Many Fur Styles.

Styles in fur coats from Delaney's included box back, pull-up full sleeves, tuxedo fronts and small collars, as well as collar and cuffs. One black Persian Lamb coat was outstanding because of the unusual over-cuff sleeve, and the lariese model with a two-button closing.

A three-quarter coat of Canadian beaver featured full sleeves, ripple back and tuxedo front; while a beautiful brown seal, full length coat had a full flare, tuxedo styled with large sleeves, and ripple back.

Colors of fur coats were the grey and black, with silver and steel grey striped of beaver, the champagne of Persian Lamb and the soft brown of natural Alaska Seal. Plenty of choice in style and color to suit milady's personality.

Young Men Model.

Mr. Bill Stovin introduced the young man section of the show "what's new as found at "Esquire," namely Bill Bamford, Ian Gregory, Stanley Carefoot, Don Grant and Doug. Reid.

"Harris" tweed was used in a two-button grey coat worn with a lighter shade of flannel trousers, slipe slacks, and another similar combination was in the popular shade of brown. Two fine suits, one in dark brown and the other in blue grey, were modelled to show to advantage the longer, double-breasted coat with peaked lapels.

Overcoats ranged from a light weight "Churchill" ulster in gabardine, to waisted-back grey coats in black and seal brown, motiphoned and showerproof which featured bright plaid linings.

Sports Wear Exemplified.

A navy blue, double-breasted velour overcoat worn with a "Biltmore" grey hat and grey sleeveless golf vest will make a fine addition to any man's wardrobe. For the Collegiate youth a fine navy flannel blazer, with regimental buttons and an embroidered crest was worn over grey flannel slacks, and a regimental tie added the finishing touch to this combination.

Sportswear for men was exemplified by a winterized jacket (from Deacon Brothers) with a disappearing hood, made of removable lining, which was worn with a grey patterned sweater.

Climaxing the showing of men's wear was a fine tailored combination of an apple green jacket, with a navy pale shade of trousers. Something of "Junior" may wear to the Collegiate commencement.

At the conclusion of the fashion display the usual dance was played until the midnight hour.

Mrs. Helen B. Anderson Honored By Her Many Melville Friends

The friends and neighbors of Mrs. Helen B. Anderson of Melville had a picnic in her honor on her birthday August 19th, at Wellington. Owing to the fine weather, the picnic was held there, arranged in the United Church Sunday School garden, instead of in the park.

As the guest of honor entered the room, the friends joined in singing "Happy Birthday to You", when a shoulder bouquet was pinned on by Mrs. Arthur Kinnear.

About sixty guests enjoyed a sumptuous banquet. Two beautifully decorated birthday cakes, with lighted candles, were placed on the head table. Among those present at this table were Mrs. Anderson's sister, Miss Blakely of Wellington, and her sisters-in-law, Mrs. Fred Anderson of Brighton and Mrs. James Morton of Colborne.

Mr. W. H. Morton, in his usual artistic manner, proposed the toast, asked the company to sing "Nearer to the Heart Divine" after which Mrs. Anderson blew out the candles and made the first cut in the cake. Mr. Morton's delightfully descriptive remarks mentioned that the purpose of this gathering was to honor a lady who has brought fame to Prince Edward County by her poems and other contributions to Canadian literature, and also the fact that she is leaving Melville to take up residence in Wellington in the near future.

Rev. J. W. Shier of Picton, a former pastor on Hallowell circuit, and other friends briefly addressed Mrs. Anderson, in which she spoke of her as "Lady of the Lake". She has many times described the beauty of Consecon Lake and the country.

On behalf of the Melville community and former residents of Melville, a presentation was then made of a table lamp and an electric clock by Mrs. Ross Crulckshank and Mr. Arthur Kinnear.

Mrs. Anderson, in her gracious manner, made an appropriate reply in which she voiced her appreciation of the honor being conferred on her. She mentioned that this was her first birthday party. After leaving Ottawa Normal School she taught in Methodist and Church, and did she think then that she would spend the most of her life there. Her roots have gone deep into the sands of Consecon Lake and it is hard to pull them up to live elsewhere, but she is not going far away and asked her friends to come to see her at her new home in Wellington.

One of Mrs. Anderson's poems, "The Old Farm" was read by Miss Marion Mikel. Rev. J. F. Ham then read a letter, parts of which he welcomed Mrs. Anderson to Wellington. Another poem by Mrs. Anderson, "My Lady Hoallyhock" was read by Miss Muriel Cook of Picton. Marion sang one of Mrs. Anderson's delightful poems, which had been set to music by his aunt, Mrs. Reid of Woodstock. A number of those present were called on for a few remarks. These were short, but all the guests' remarks were put in a book and handed to Mrs. Anderson as a keepsake.

This pleasant event was arranged by the following committee: Mrs. W. H. Morton, Mrs. and Mrs. Fred Morton, Mrs. and Mrs. W. H. Morton, Mrs. and Mrs. Lewis Wallbridge of Wellington, Mrs. Frederick Shank, Mr. and Mrs. A. Carley and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kinnear.

WOODLEY'S 43RD YEAR IN BELLEVILLE

THE GREATEST

AUGUST FUR SALE

IN YEARS CONTINUES

AT WOODLEY'S

Really; fur coats cost so much less than last year, that customers can hardly believe it. This is because the prices for raw skins in the winter of 1946 and Spring of 1947 was considerably less than in the previous year. In the last two weeks raw skin prices have jumped again and this will reflect in fairly low cost coats. Right now during the present August Fur Sale in years, is when you should decide on your fur coat, if you want to save money.

South was a declarer at five diamonds. West took two top hearts and south ruffed the third round of that suit. With only five trumps in opponent hands, the rest looked easy.

So, a round of trumps was pulled with dummy ten of diamonds. When east showed out at once, west was marked with having started with all five unseen trumps. Already he held more than declarer.

Now this is not a very comfortable feeling for a player in the declarer seat. It is bad enough when an opponent has more trumps than expected. But for him to have more than either of your hands, wow.

To meet such an adverse holding, south carefully planned his future. Before west could get a chance to sluff any spades, dummy spade ace was cashed for a trick.

Now three top clubs were taken and a fourth club was led. If west ruffs this fourth club, dummy will overtrump. A trump return from dummy can then be overtaken by south and all trumps pulled. Or a cross-ruff will do.

When south leads the fourth club, west may throw his last heart. If so, dummy sluffs a spade and the rest is even easier than before.

Expected holding of five unseen trumps is three and two in the opponent hands. It is customary to plan the play of a deal on such a split. Until it is discovered the division is otherwise.

Sometimes five are four in one hand and one in the other. Here the holding was even more unusual. But all's well that ends well. Only the losers yell: "For whom."

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 20. AP)—Enmy fire held no fear for Joe E. Brown when he entertained United States troops on battlefronts, and now he faces a graver danger—picking the ten funniest men in film history.

Currently playing his first serious rolesin "The Tender Years", Joe has been able to view the laugh-making business from the sidelines. So, with scant regard to the consequences, he came up with this list of the ten men who have made him laugh most (alphabetically):

Fred Allen, Robert Benchley, John Bunny, Charles Chaplin, Jimmy Durante, Bob Hope, Harry Langdon, Harold Lloyd, Groucho Marx, Red Skelton.

Joe said it, and he's glad. Furthermore, he thinks Skelton could be the greatest of them all, if given different material.

Danny Kay, Jack Oakie, Frank Morgan, Jack Carson and others were considered by Joe as "character comedians" and hence eliminated from consideration. He deems Ed Wynn the funniest actor he has ever seen, but the elder Wynn never clicked on the screen.

Joe thinks Frank Fay, who also cavorts with "Harvey" on the stage, would be one of the screen's greatest comics if he had stuck to low comedy instead of sophisticated stuff. "I've played with Frank when he did slapstick, and I know what he can do," added Joe.

The comic is preparing to shove off again with "Harvey". This season he'll take the six-foot Bunny to Toronto and a number of American centres.

Record Notes

Since Phil Harris recorded Tex Williams hit, "Smoke, Smoke, Smoke", Tex is going to wax some Harris numbers. They are vocal twins . . . current and listenable: Peggy Lee, "Old Love of Mine"; Count Basie, "South"; Beryl Davis, "Mother, Mother, Mother?" Delta Rhythm boys, "Come in Out of the Rain"; Tommy Dorsey, "I'll be There."

Rainfall Helps Bring Forest Fires Under Control

Halifax, Aug. 20 —(CP)— In the Acadian village of Cheticamp, on Cape Breton's west coast, almost 400 refugees thought of returning to their former homes today after hearing that forest fires that put them to flight were beaten.

The raging flames that laid waste 20 homes and 40 square miles of the island's northern forests came under 10 hours of steady downpour yesterday.

Last night it was reported that only sub-surface fires were burning in roots and deadfalls and a fire ranger said: "it appears the danger is over."

In the army-operated colony at Cheticamp the residents of the razed villages of Pleasant Bay and Red River waited to hear how much they had lost to the flames. Most fled from their homes, half of them burning, on Aug. 9 when the fire made its first sudden sweep down MacKenzie Mountain.

For the refugees' future, Red Cross officials contemplated a provincial appeal for aid. The Cape Breton labor council last night appealed to the provincial government to take steps to provide for the more than 100 homeless from the stricken villages.

On the Nova Scotia mainland and in the Moncton area of New Brunswick the rain also did its work and fires there were reported under control.

HITLER'S VOLKSWAGEN TO BE EXPORTED TO BELGIUM, HOLLAND AND SCANDINAVIA

Hamburg, Aug. 20 — (Reuters) — The German Volkswagen, 10-horse-power rear-engined people's car developed during Hitler's regime, is to be exported to Belgium, Holland and Scandinavia as part of the export drive launched by the British and United States military governments, it was learned at the opening of Germany's first trade fair in Hanover.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma went to the movies with Mrs. Hewes to see a ladies picture, and I was finishing my lyberry book on the living room floor, and pop was smoking in back of his newspaper, saying, Time martches on, including bedtime.

Aw G, pop, ma said I could stay up till I finished these last 3 chapters, I said.

So she did, so she did pop said.

And pritty soon he said, What's the name of your book?

It's called "The Supersonic Adventure or Above the Stratosphere," I said, and pop saio, That's quite a complicated title. Do you think you'd finish it quicker if it had a shorter name like "Full Speed Ahead" or perhaps even shorter, such as "Full Speed,", or maybe just simply "Speed?" he said.

Well jimminy, pop, what difference would that make? I said, and pop said, I don't know, I was just wondering. Then you dont think it would really matter? he said.

Heck, pop, it's the inside of a book that takes time, I said, and pop said, I see what you mean.

And I kept on reeding, and pritty soon pop said, If they left all the periods and commas and dashes out of a book, it might shorten the reeding time considerably, what do you think?

Aw, G, pop, I dont know, I'm just up to the most intristing part, I'm trying to reed, I said, and pop said, Do you mean you've heard enough to give you a general idea of the effects of asking useless questions?

Being what he claims I'm always doing, and I said, Yes sir, and pop said, Well then in that case I wont go on with my intention of asking you if you think you'd get twice as mutch reeding dione by reeding 2 books at one time, one in each hand.

Cards Serve Notice They're Still In Fight for National League Flag by Beating Dodgers 11-3

Boston Braves Continue to Close Quietly on the Leaders

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

St. Louis Cardinals' ability to come off the floor has highlighted their play in the past and apparently the 1949 season will be no exception.

The Cardinal Birds served notice yesterday that they are still not out by coming back and slaughtering the Brooks 11-3 at Ebbets Field.

Manager Eddie Dyer picked gamester Murry Dickson to face the Dodgers and he came through in an attempt to square their four-game series. Ralph Branca, a 17-game winner, was nominated by manager Burt Shotton to oppose Dickson.

While the Cards were socking extra base hits all over the lot yesterday, southpaw Al Brazle held the Dodgers at bay on eight hits until he wilted in the ninth.

Meanwhile the Boston Braves continued to close quietly in on the leaders. They moved within seven games of the Dodgers by coming from behind to nip Pittsburgh Pirates 7-5 in a night game at Boston.

Bob Elliott, former Pirate, turned defeat into victory with a three-run homer with two out in the ninth.

The Giants bowed 8-1 to the Cincinnati Reds in a night tussle at the Polo Grounds. It was the Reds' fifth straight straight loss.

Shortstop Eddie Miller led the Reds' assault batting in six runs as Johnny Vander Meer whipped the Giants on eight safeties.

Drop Both Ends

Chicago Cubs dropped both ends of a twin bill to Philadelphia Phillies, 8-1 and 8-2. Ken Heintzelman and Schoolboy Rowe stopped the Cubs in the first game.

Harry Walker of the Phils increased his league-leading batting average five points to .353 with four hits in the twin bill and also stretched his consecutive game hitting streak to 17.

The American League leaders, New York Yankees, opened their final tour of the west dropping a 2-1 decision to Detroit Tigers.

Hoot Evers broke a 1-1 tie with a homer off Allie Reynolds in the sixth inning. Stubb Overmire stopped the Yanks on seven hits.

Boston Red Sox crushed the Browns 9-5 in a night game at St. Louis.

Rapping out 31 hits, Cleveland Indians trounced Washington Senators 13-2 and 3-1 in a twilight doubleheader at Cleveland to extend Washington's losing streak to nine games.

The Tribe won the opening with an eight-run eighth-inning rally while Red Embree breezed home in the finale.

At Chicago, Joe Haynes halted a four-game Philadelphia winning streak by blanking the Athletics 4-0 on nine hits.

FORMER CAPTAIN OF U.S. TENNIS TEAM WORRYING

Walter Pate Claims Aussies Will Be Hard to Beat In Davis Cup Play

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Aug. 20 (AP) — Back from Montreal where he watched Australian tennis players crush the Czechs, Walter Pate, retired American Davis Cup captain, is far from complacent about the challenge round against the Aussies on Aug. 30-Sept. 1 at Forest Hills, N.Y.

"It could be a lot closer than it was the last time," he said. "The Australians are going to be better, and I'm not at all sure we will be as good."

Pate, a keen student of tennis form, chaperoned the United States cup squad which flattened the Aussies 5-0 in Melbourne eight months ago and brought the big trophy back to the United States for the first time since 1939.

Dan Patrick, perhaps to an unpleasant squabble which occurred after Pate had confidence back. He won't be easy to beat.

"This Jaroslav Drobny of the Czechs is a real good player—left handed, the best, has a big service and he gets to the net. But on the last day at Montreal Hartwigwick after him and beat him to death. I was surprised.

"Not only is Jack going to be tough for our boys to take, but he and Colin Long are a much better doubles team than Bromwich and Adrian Quist were at Melbourne. The pair gave a tremendous exhibition against the Czechs.

"As for Dinny Pails who, supposing, will be their second singles man again, I don't believe he is as good as he was last year,..."

OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE E. CARTER, Sports Editor.

Tonight's baseball tilt at the Exhibition Ground where the Kiwanis Juniors meet the fast-stepping Kinsmen team in the first game of the first round ORA Junior playdowns, will attract a large crowd, according to reports, among the fans of this city. They recall the double A effort staged forth by the kids last year when they defeated some of Ontario's best including Fairbrough and Oshawa, and went on to defeat the then entry Ottawa Wrightvilles (Hull to some guys) to three games before bowing to the mighty French Canucks, in the Ontario semi-finals.

The game was originally scheduled for three o'clock but in order to give those fans who aren't till five, o'clock a chance to see the game the Kiwanis management has the game put forward to six o'clock. They were some complaints about the three o'clock idea with the busy in the down-town being the loudest holler. However all has been settled and the game will get under way at six sharp and better not be late. Those fans who overstay are getting shorter and shorter and the game must be started on time. The stands are to get in nine innings before Old Sol calls it a day.

While news from Kingston regarding their Junior pride is scarcer than Sunday suds, our perspective has it that the Limestone laddies hung a defeat on the strong Napanee squad a few weeks back. The Kingstonians boast a strong squad, as the last Intermediate and tonight's chiller should be one for the Junior book. And according to things at the Rialto, a bumper crowd will be on hand to witness the So better get there early and grab yourself a seat. And remember, the game starts at six o'clock sharp.

Looks as though the ugliest Looks as though the quietest has been put on the shelf, shows here for the current season. Yesterday the engineer in charge of installation of the pipes in Memorial Park arrived on the job and things got under way immediately. Pipe is being welded in place by it being rushed to completion. As matters stand it might be a nip-and tuck affair if the ice is to be ready for the Philadelphia Rockets who are supposed to arrive here for a month's training on Sept. 15.

In the diver-digging circles continued interest high them days for the fourth annual exhibition mile the Exeter Men Tweed is running slowly this year, petzi brush. Up to date three of the four seasonal matches have been shared between rolling representatives of the Bay of Quinte Country Club the Belleville Golf Club, the Trenton Golf and Country Club and the team from the RCAF.

The final game of the series will be played next Sunday and a large gallery will likely be on hand for the kill. The team scoring indicate the closeness of the play and equality of ability of at least the first three teams. At present with three games in their bags the Belleville Golf Club is leading with a total points tge 1934; Rod of Quinte has 1914; Trenton Golf, 83, with RCAF trailing with 27 points.

A golfing event that is attracting the attention of lovers of the game from Toronto to Montreal is the Second Annual Bay of Quinte Amateur Tournament which gets under way at the Bay of Quinte Country Club Links on Sept. 9th. The event which conveys amateurs from two provinces is expected to attend the tournament and club officials are combining to make the affair one of the outstanding golf functions of the district.

It is expected that brand new trophy will be presented at the conclusion of the tournament as well as numerous other valuable prizes.

Turf Luck

Two veteran horse-players who, together, had not missed a day at the track in years set off the trails and were about to trudge in through the gates of the race-track to begin the afternoon's combined torture and exhilaration, when one turned to the other and said:

"I hope he heaves I break even today. I need the money."

"What do you do for a living?" asked the judge.

"I am night orderly at the hospital," said the prisoner.

"Thirty days for pan-handling," said the judge.

London, Aug. 20 (CP) — The greatest woman tennis player of all time was the late Suzanne Lenglen, brilliant French star of the 1920's, says H. C. Selwill, secretary of the British Lawn Tennis Association, and adds emphatically: "No question about it at all."

Selwill was stumped slightly when reporters asked him about the men. "This is a difficult question to answer," he replied, "for the game and its technique has changed considerably over the years. But I suppose Fred Perry was one of our best."

The veteran official — he's been secretary since 1912 — doesn't doubt that Britain shortly will find another Perry to bring court glory back to this country.

"Supremacy in international tennis goes in cycles," he said. "First France; then Britain; then Australia; now the United States and it may be our turn next.

"I sincerely believe there is no dearth of talent but only a lack of first-class teachers to bring out the best in our youngsters. Fortunately we have fully qualified coaches all over the country we shall see results."

That's where Sabelli differs with Dr. Nevil Leyton, noted Harley Street physician, who said in a letter to the Medical Journal:

"We do not feed our representatives specially, we shall be unable to compete as regards physique with the world although however we may compare in technical skill...

"Anyone who has run himself out in a mile race, or played hockey at international level, tennis, or an hour's intensive squash will admit that it cannot be done without long and regular training if the body is to be fit again next day or next week...

"We fed our representatives specially in any way, why not, once again, in peace?"

Britons should take such a matter-of-live-and-death view of a few sports defeats. Under the Daily Telegraph editorially after United States contestants cleaned up at Wimbledon.

"Nobody will grudge our American cousins — to mention only our more successful invaders — their triumphs," said the newspaper, "for success stems solely to the formidable quantities of beef included in their athletes' luggage.

"No fundamental or congenital lack of science has afflicted British athletes as compared with American, nor, it may be added, British orchestras as compared with French. The partial eclipse of our men, women and horses in the sporting heavens may well be only temporary.

"In any case, it is infinitely more important that we should continue to enjoy the SHRDLU continue to enjoy our games than that we should invariably win them."

(For Hath Pullerton Jr.)

Los Angeles, Aug. 20 (AP) — June in January is taken for granted in California, but December in August is a new switch.

In short, the football virus is in the air right even in the United States. Three major professional tilts, the Rams here, sweating through workouts in this sector for nearly a month and the colleagues break out the moleskins in short 10 days.

So grab a blonde or a pennant, whichever's handiest, and take a whirl.

The Football Merry-Go-Round

Los Angeles Rams, bolstered with Tom Fears to help the peerless passing of Bob Waterfield, plus a new halfback, Bob Sprinkle, figure to be one of football's crowd-pleasingest teams.

Buck Shaw, personable Jimmy Conzelman's remark that the Rams have the best roster in pro football—even more talent than the 1946 Chicago Bears."

The Yoolers

The rival downs of the all-America Conference may have come up with a worthy rival for Cleveland Lou (The Toe) Groza in Sbn (the Toolers) Agapanian. The Armenian place-kicking specialist, who lost the toes of his kicking foot in a childhood accident, booted two conversions and a field goal for the winning points in the Dons' 17-16 exhibition triumph, over Brooklyn Sunday.

Down in the Mouth

Washington Redskins' Jack Jenkins was down at the heels. Now he's down in the mouth. The sandy fullback had been suffering from sore heels and trying everything to ease the ailment. The Skins finally sent him to a dentist—ah, bum tooth! Jenkins hopes there's some connection.

Proving It's Still Summer

Bobby Locke, the South African non-pareil, put his shots on display Sunday. He'll team Sunday afternoon against veterans with Earl Martin against veterans Ollie Dutra and George Fazio at Inglewood Country Club. It will be Locke's first California visit.

Winnipeg, Aug. 20 (CP) — The 1947 football season has yet to start but the first casualty between the east and the west has already been touched off with Jim (Toronto Globe and Mail) Coleman igniting the initial fuse.

In a letter to Tony (Winnipeg Tribune) Allen and reproduced in Allan's column, Coleman, giving a number of reasons why Toronto Argonauts can't miss winning the upcoming exhibition series against Winnipeg Blue Bombers on all football honors this year, . . .

Coleman is quoted as saying "prepare your Winnipeg readers for the worst. What's going to happen to your poor old Blue Bombers I couldn't begin to say . . . don't worry too much about the kind of stuff that Teddy Morris (Argos' coach) is going to throw at you. He has 93 new players on top of which Joe Krol or Royal Copeland can score from the 50-yard line."

He goes out of his way to praise Bombers' boss, contending "Fog players and fans, adding much oil as "flineflam, big" Well one of them wears the Argonauts. Certainly the Argo end runs can be stopped, but when you step 'em, the Argonauts start throwing those forward passes. If you stop the passes they'll run the ends."

In reply Allan wrote: "We sometimes wonder whether the system of boring from within is all that it's cracked up to be. Take the case of comrade James Coleman one of our best underscover men operating in Eastern Canada."

"Ostensibly working as a columnist, for the Toronto Globe and Mail, this agent renders valuable service in the cause. However, his more recent denial reports have aroused suspicions. The latest, reproduced herewith, clearly shows that Coleman has been exposed too long to the subversive influences. Obviously he's now peddling the Toronto propaganda line."

MORE U.K. HOMES

London — (CP) — Housing returns for the month of May showed the number of dwellings built was the highest yet recorded in any month since the war. "Just under 13,000 were built, which beat the previous figure by more than 1,750.

FRANK FILCHOCK BEARS NO LOVE FOR NEW YORK

Suspended Player Claims He Was "Dealt One Off the Bottom of the Deck"

Toronto, Aug. 20 — (CP) — Frankie Filchock, who will wear the uniform of Hamilton Tigers of the Big Four this season instead of playing football for New York Giants, bears no love in his heart for New York, scene of his suspension last fall for allegedly failing to report a bribe offer.

He said in an interview here yesterday that he feels as blitzkrieg toward the Big Town that he began the Brooklyn Dodgers didn't beat out the St. Louis Cardinals for the National baseball league pennant.

"I never played in New York after ball games," said Filchock, "nothing! Not a bit of night life, hi-links at the time he and fellow-backfielder Merle Hapes were suspended. "I used to drive home every Sunday after a game."

He said he felt that in his "indefinite" suspension on grounds he refused to report immediately a bribe offer of gambler Alvin Paris he was "dealt one off the bottom of the deck." Paris now is in prison for trying to "fix" a playoff game between the Giants and the Chicago Bears.

"Ida McGuire (Hollywood dancer who was one of the key witnesses in the investigation), admitted she knew me slightly," he said. "But she told the district attorney I hadn't been at any of Paris' parties."

He carried a letter signed by Eddie Emmerson, president of the Ottawa Roughriders football club which shows that the Roughriders tried to lure him to play football for them before the Tigers signed him. Ottawa is one club said to be interested in the blond blue-eyed Filchock playing in the Big Four.

Filchock played with Washington Redskins, where he was understudy to Slingin' Sammy Baugh, from 1938 to 1941. Right after Pearl Harbor he enlisted in the United States navy and rose to the rank of lieutenant, junior grade. On demobilization he returned to Washington and played through 1944 and 1945 until he was sold to the Giants.

CANADIAN PUCK STARS BARRED IN SCOTTISH LOOP

No Transfers Sanctioned Until Feud Between Bodies Settled

Toronto, Aug. 20) (CP) — Canadian puck chasers won't play with the Scottish Ice Hockey League next Winter, it was disclosed at an executive meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association here last night.

The executive told Claude Newley, representative of the S.I.H.A., who sought transfers for some 40 Canadian players, that no transfers would be sanctioned until the current feud between the Scottish League and the British Ice Hockey Federation has ended.

The one-year agreement under which the Canadian body allowed Newely to import Canadian players last season is therefore terminated. Players will be suspended if they cross to Scotland for the coming season, C.A.H.A. President Al Pickard, of Regina, said.

"We are not without sympathy for the Scottish League," commented Mr. Pickard, "but there is nothing we can do until the two factions make their peace."

With Tom Lockhart of New York and Walter Brown of Boston sitting in for the Amateur Hockey Association of the United States, the group planned strategy to be followed by Brown and C.A.H.A. Secretary Dudley, of Midland, at the meeting of the International Ice Hockey Federation in Zurich, Switzerland, Sept. 4-5.

Out of this meeting will come Canada will have a representative at the Olympic Hockey Championships. Also to be decided is the broader issue of whether the International Federation will forego the strict Olympic definition of an amateur and stage its own world tournament or reach a compromise with the League Internationale de Hockey Sur Glace which governs Olympic Hockey.

U.S. DAVIS CUP TEAM SELECTED

New York, Aug. 20. (AP)— The four Davis Cup players who brought back the tennis trophy from Australia last December— Jack Kramer, Ted Schroeder, Frank Parker and Gadna Mulloy —today were named to defend the cup against the challenge of the Australian team at Forest Hills, N.Y., Labor-Day weekend.

Announcement of the selections were made by Jones W. Mersereau, chairman of the United States Davis Cup Selection Committee, and the names were to be handed to the captain of the Australian team at Boston today.

FOUR PITCHERS CARRYING CHIEFS IN INT. LEAGUE

Account for 57 of the 73 Victories Turned in With Prendergast High With 18

(By The Canadian Press)

A four pitcher parade of the first-place slot occupied by Syracuse Chiefs in the International League standings today should be divided among pitchers Jim Prendergast, Howie Fox, Dixie Howell and Hern Wehmeier.

The four pitchers have accounted for 57 of the 73 victories turned in by the Chiefs and have suffered 40 of the Chiefs' 67 setbacks for combined won-lost mark of .588 as compared to the teams' .562.

Prendergast tops the circuit in wins with 18.

Fox and Howell trounced back Baltimore Orioles 10-3 and 12-2 last night to move the Chiefs to within seven games of the leading Montreal Royals who stopped Toronto Maple Leafs 4-1.

At Montreal, young Jack Banta yielded eight hits and fanned eight in gaining his 16th win in 18 decisions for the Royals. The victory increased Montreal's first-place margin over the runner-up Jersey City Giants to five at the decision to Newark Bears, to three games.

Home runs by Joe Collins, Jack Phillips and Art Cucciarelli, lifted Newark pitcher, spelled doom for the Giants.

In a slugfest at Rochester, the fourth-place Buffalo Bisons defeated the Red Wings, 13-8, as Jim Wasdell batted in five runs on a homer and double.

PITCHING AND BATTING STARS

Batting — Del Rice, Cardinals— Belted homer, two doubles and drove in four runs against Brooklyn.

Pitching — Stubby Overmire, Tigers — Scattered seven hits in beating Yankees.

Morris Taking 36 Players On Winnipeg Trip

The fifth and last test cricket match of the summer series between England and South Africa was in its last day of play today and England was in a strong position. England had 427 and 323 for six wickets declared in their two innings. While Sough Africa had 308 and eight for one wicket leaving the visitors needing 453 runs for victory.

A district appeal board of the UB bowling association at Stockton, Cal., yesterday lifted stringent suspensions against five harness sportsmen barred for an alleged "fixed" race. Those whose suspensions were lifted were Dr. W. R. Scott, William Hill, and drivers W. L. Taylor, Clarence Curtis and Dan Dennis.

Coach Teddy Morris of the Canadian football champions, Toronto Argonauts, says "two or three of the boys" won't be making the trip when the champs fly to Winnipeg for their exhibition series Labor Day weekend. But he's taking at least 36 players, including the well-known looking set consisting of Joe Krol and Royal Copeland. They have two games against the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, whom Argos beat twice in a row for the Dominion title.

Before thunderstorms halted the Canadian championship for blind golfers at Hamilton yesterday Dr. W.H. Oxenham of Toronto was leading with 104 for 13 holes. He was awarded the silverwood trophy, being five strokes better than Charlie Tooth of Hamilton.

CHAPTER 11.

"She'd enjoy the walk to France. She needs building up now, lots of food and rest. Do you want her to have a relapse?"

Sandro said no, and Kris looked thoughtful.

"It's nearly two years before I can go home."

"Yes, and she could die in six months," Tony told him.

Sherry thought they were terribly sweet, and the tears sprang to her eyes. She could not leave now. She had to hear Tony say that he was going to marry her.

Tony said, "Jerusalem! I'd marry myself if I had any say at all of taking care of her."

Sherry's heart contracted. She thought, "That isn't it, Tony! That isn't what you meant to say!" but Tony went on.

"No. We've got to think of something else while we're here, talk it over with Marcia."

Sherry could not stay there any longer. She crept away as stilly as she came.

So Tony would talk it over with Marcia. Tell her that something must be done about Sherry, and all the while Marcia would know that Sherry loved him and that he did not want her.

She let herself in Hidden House and closed the door. She could not bear the lights and she did not want to do anything. She was tired, too hurt, humiliated. She knelt beside the diwan and put her face in her hands and pressed her knees tightly against her sides. She felt shrunken, small.

The telephone rang. It was Peter Barton. He had returned from a week's location an hour ago and wanted, to come over.

Sherry said, "Yes, do, perhaps you'll take me for a little ride."

After she hung up she thought about it. She was not humiliated any more, nor resentful toward Tony. She had realized when the first wave of humiliation had passed that Tony could not know how she felt last night.

It would be simple enough to tell Marcia that Sherry thought she had been wrong about being in love.

When Peter came she wept in-stead him as though she had just turned off the lights before she left. She could sense his surprise that she was alone, and after the greetings, he asked where the boys were.

"Home," Sherry said, "but I've been out to dinner."

"Shouldn't you tell them you're out with me?" Peter wanted to know, and Sherry smiled.

She said, "If I'm not home they will know I'm out," very lightly, and walked toward Peter's car.

They drove out through green streets arched with pepper trees, and Peter asked her all about herself.

Sherry managed to keep her end of the conversation going but all the while she was thinking, Oh, Tony. Why did you have to do this to me?

After a while Peter said, "You'd better have a little something to eat or the boys won't trust you with me any more," and Sherry said, "I'd love it, thank you."

She thought of the Pig 'n While, but Peter said, "There's a nice little place in the Rosenstreet," and headed that way.

Sherry liked the quiet service and the colored china and the people, some of whom lived at the hotel. There were women and girls in net dresses and paste organdies looked nonchalantly expensive. There were some men in flannels, like Peter, and others in dinner jackets. Nobody was foreign or noisy, like Henri's.

Peter ordered her a thin sandwich and iced chocolate, and after the waiter had gone Sherry caught him looking at her very steadily.

He said, "I envy the boys being able to take care of you."

Sherry did not know just what to say to that, but a man called "Lo, Peter. Been on location?" so she did not have to answer.

Peter admitted that lots of people knew Peter, and that he spoke to them all pleasantly, but as though he was not very interested in them.

An important-looking man passed with a woman who wore diamonds.

"Coming over to play tennis Sunday?" he wanted to know, and the woman said, "We've just had the court rolled, Peter. Better come."

Peter said, "I'd like to, Elsie, if I can."

And then they were gone Sherry asked who they were.

"Jack Hilary and his wife," Peter told her. "He's a producer."

But Sherry knew who he was just by the name. She was a little impressed. It had not occurred to her that Peter was really so important.

They drove home slowly and he held her hand as though it was a simple, friendly thing to do. Sherry did not mind. It was rather nice; and now she was glad that Peter would be beside her when she had to face Tony and the light and gay and useless.

The boys seemed glad to see Peter and talked in a very friendly way, and made Sherry lie down on the davenport. She thought that she had a little tired, but really she felt rather sad and sick and she knew why. Then she and Peter had called she had had a tiny hope that Tony might be a little bit disturbed. He did not seem to mind. It all.

He said, "Did you have something to eat before you came home?"

Sherry smiled and said, "Only a sandwich."

Peter frowned very well. "But somehow she knew then that Tony had not minded at all.

He and Sandro and Peter talked for a few minutes, but Kris sat down beside Sherry and kissed her hair.

He said, "I missed you terribly, Sherry."

Sherry said, "How sweet of you to, Kris," and knew that she was going to cry.

It was Kris who had missed her; Kris who said the right thing in the right way, only he was the wrong person. She got up suddenly and said, "I think I'll go to bed."

She kissed all the boys and offered her hand to Peter.

"That's rude," he told her, "after I've fed you," and he kissed her too.

Sherry walked numbly across the court and let herself into Hidden House and closed the door. She was not unhappy, and but dully near her chest.

She went into the bedroom and lighted the lamp and pulled down the shades. The maid that she had darned for the boys were still in the basket on her table. She stood and looked at the neat rolls. Those gray ones had been like no other people pretty soon and, "We're responsible for her. She hasn't anybody but us."

But Tony was not in love with her.

It was March now, crisp and cool and bright, and Sherry had been married to Peter for four months.

Four months! she thought, it seemed like four years! Then she decided that the idea sounded rather unhappy. She did not mean it to be. She was quite content.

She stretched luxuriously and when she was finished she ran her hands appreciatively over the rich satin of the comforter that covered her. The large bedroom was pleasantly warm and the morning sun streamed in in slanting shafts.

Through the long windows she could see white houses with red roofs, and behind them the blue-green hills.

The view had had a lot to do with Sherry's taking the apartment in the Chateau, but Peter had liked the French Norman apartment hotel because it was new and smart and exclusive.

Peter always liked the thing that was smart and exclusive. It was funny she had not realized how studied his fastidiousness was before she married him. It did not seem quite strange somehow to want a thing only because it was conservative and expensive.

Peter was discriminating about people too. He was always pleasant but cagefully nonchalant to the impossible. This attitude seemed to interest them. Sherry felt now that it was deliberate and clever and she both admired and disliked it in him, although, of course, she spoke about it.

Sherry stretched again and regarded the bills. After a while Jenny came in with her breakfast. Jenny was fat and black and clean. She looked at the other twin bed with its bright satin comforter folded, at the foot and said, "Mister Barton away again, Miss Barton? You know, you shouldn't be alone so much, a young girl like you."

Sherry turned the pillow behind her to sit up, and said that Mr. Barton was on location and that she liked to be alone.

"Well, I wouldn't, Miss Barton," Jenny said. "If I was you I'd soonner stay away."

She let down the legs of the bed tray and settled it comfortably across Sherry's lap. Then she went out to do the lingerie.

Sherry envied her easy philosophy a little. She spilled her iced orange juice and thought about the lingerie. She would go to the shop in Beverly now, and was "Jenny," she called, "I decided that you had to stay in the house. You would be fun to stock it gently in warm suds. She would like to love them and make the buttonholes stand out and watch the pleats straighten. Then Mrs. Drexell had said she must take things easy for a year or so, and except for two mornings her hairdresser came to the apartment to "do" her hair and nails, Sherry slept until after 10. She was all well now and weighed the right amount, and she could swim and dance and go places if she did not get overtired.

Peter had been paying Dr. Drexell all along. She knew that now.

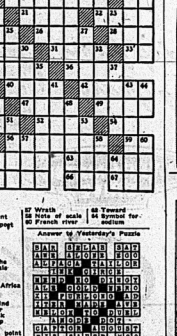
Sherry ate her egg and crisp toast and sipped her chocolate.

It was funny that the boys were the same. Three good friends that married or unmarried, she would have all her life. Things had not been so different after all.

When Peter had asked her to marry him she had told him that she was sorry but she did not think she loved him. Peter had not minded. He had talked it over with the boys and pointed out the advantages he could give her. They had all discussed it very sensibly.

Yes, Sherry thought, it was all very sensible, and he had certainly been the right thing to do all around. Her mother and father had been very happy about it and had written Peter a nice letter to welcome him as a son-in-law. Sherry had replied more than satisfactorily, and knowing their present position, Peter had thought Sherry send them a small allowance weekly. She was very grateful.

Sherry padded across the rugs spread here and there on the carpeted floor and went into the bathroom and started her tub. Then she went to her scheduled dressing room and laid back the mirrored doors.



Sherry paused for a moment and looked at her clothes. All new and perfect, with labels of them from the best places. Yes, it was nice to be married to Peter. Different from Sandro, comfortable, successful ones, mostly married. They had their homes and clothes, and their problems were changing. Pauline was always having to choose between so-and-so's dinner party and a fitting of such-and-such's new picture.

Predict South Ontario in For Hard Winter

Fort Erie, Ont., Aug. 19. — (CP)—Don't look now, but two Fort Erie district residents think that southern Ontario is in for a long hard winter.

George Mattinson, who watches weather signs as a hobby, bases his prediction on pig nuts—a nut is part of a pig's intestines.

"This year the nuts are as fat as can be," he said. "Building up a fat will during the summer is a pig's way of getting ready for bad winter.

Wake burdocks, too. They're building up a lot of bids on the west side, besides sure sign."

William H. Winternute, pioneer farmer on the Bowen Road near Fort Erie, see an early winter indication in the flocking of birds on his farm.

"They're fixing to go south," he asserted. "There's no mistake about that, I've watched them dozens of time and this is the earliest I've ever seen them flocking up. They're all ready to take off any day."

Warning Beacon 156 Years Old

Saint John, N. B., Aug. 20 — (CP)—Known to mariners around the world as Partridge Island, the historic landfall in Saint John harbor has been flashing its beacon every night for 156 years, a record exists as to the month and day, the beacon was first lighted in 1791.

The lighthouse, standing on the site of an old fort, is 127 feet above sea level. Beams of 100,000 candlepower are thrown by prisms in four directions simultaneously and normally visible for 17 miles but have been seen 25 miles away.

Partridge Island had the world's first steam fog horn, invented by Samuel Foulis of Saint John and installed in 1859. The steam engines were removed in 1920 and replaced by semi-diesel engines, with a two-tone diaphone producing the blast.

The keeper and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lauder, have been stationed on Partridge Island nearly 30 years. During the Second World War, when reliable assistants were difficult to obtain, Mrs. Lauder relieved her husband frequently in the service of guiding vessels safely in and out of the harbor.

A letter received here from Mrs. Elizabeth Cobb, Boston, former New Brunswick resident and authority on lighthouses, revealed that this year is also the 216th anniversary of the first lighthouse to be erected in Canada.

This was a wooden structure built at Louisburg, N. S., in 1731. It was burned and replaced by a modern granite building.

Workmen excavating the ruins of the first lighthouse found a pewter plate giving the date of its erection and other details.

Instructress Saves 5 Children From Possible Drowning

Toronto, Aug. 20. (CP)—Ruth Pullen, 16-year-old swimming instructress of the Lakeshore Swimming Club at nearby Long Branch, saved five children from possible drowning yesterday when she swam 500 yards out into Lake Ontario and helped them get their rowboat ashore during a violent electrical rainstorm.

Janice Pope, 14, one of those in the boat, jumped into the water and began pushing the boat ashore when wind-whipped waves frustrated attempts to row the craft. Miss Pullen sighted the youngsters in the boat and swam out to help them.

By the boat at the time were two other 14-year-old girls, both non-swimmers, and a five-year-old and Miss Pope said "they were sure scared for awhile."

FEDERAL GOVT. TO BRING D.P.'S TO CANADA BY AIR

Britain Partially Stops Conversion Of Pound Sterling

Takes Desperate Effort To Stem Run on Dollar Supply

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 21 — (CP) — A statement was expected today from Finance Minister Abbott which would throw light on whether the knotty problem of how Canada will be affected by an agreement announced yesterday between Britain and the United States whereby Britain suspended the free convertibility of sterling.

Whether the Britain-Canada would clear up the question entirely was not immediately clear. Some reports said Britain would seal chiefly with the position of Canadian exporters who have been accepting payments for their goods in sterling and then converting them into dollars.

But in any case, the British decision to suspend conversion of sterling into dollars appeared to affect the Dominion in two ways. Canada will be unable to convert her sterling into dollars in New York, and Britain might stop paying Canada half of the United Kingdom's dollar earnings in the sterling area to help balance trade with this country in U. S. dollars.

While unofficial financial observers here were inclined to agree with a Washington statement by the Hon. Wilfrid Eady, junior Deputy British Treasury Minister in Washington, that Canada would be hard-hit by the move, a top government official here last night expressed a more optimistic view.

Other Sources Claimed

...This official said that while the move might affect Canadian exporters, there would be "no important effect" other than that. He disagreed with a suggestion that the U. K. no longer would be able to spend her average trade balance with Canada in American funds.

"The United Kingdom has other sources of American dollars than Canada's exports," he said, without elaborating.

He also understood here the most important factor in the new move is the desperate effort now being able to continue to pay back the half of the Canadian trade balance in American funds.

If the balance had to be covered by Canadian exports from the $1,250,000,000 Canadian loan, the loan soon would be exhausted as well as Canada's dwindling reserves of American dollars. About half of the Canadian loan now has been withdrawn.

Financial observers here said Britain is under no obligation to pay Canada half her earnings in American dollars, but she undertook to do this when the Canadian loan meet an adverse trade balance with the U. S. The agreement totalled $488,000,000 for the first six months of this year — the highest in history.

It was considered possible here that the Canadian officials in formation regarding the negotiations going on in Washington on the effect of yesterday's move made him more optimistic than the Hon. Wilfrid appeared in his interview.

4,400 JEWISH REFUGEES HANDED AN ULTIMATUM

Britain Orders Them To Disembark at Once Or Be Transported To Germany

London, Aug. 21. (CP). — British authorities today handed an ultimatum to the 4,400 Jewish refugees off France: Disembark by tomorrow afternoon or be transported to Germany.

The 5 ships are aboard three British ships, off Marseille for three weeks. They tried to land in Palestine a month ago from the immigrant ship Exodus 1947, but were refused. Aboard the Bergen-Belsen displaced persons camp if the ultimatum is ignored, a spokesman for he International Refugee Organization said at Hamburg, is the British occupation zone of Germany.

A Jewish agency spokesman in Jerusalem called the news "shocking." He said disembarkation of the refugees in Germany would be "a crime against humanity."

The Jews said last night they would go on a hunger strike if transported to the Soviet Zone of Land.

The Jewish agency in Palestine characterized the latest British move as "a fateful political step." Leaders said it probably would provoke new impetus for terrorist activity in Palestine.

The foreign office announcement said the Palestine-Jewish agency provoked violent persons in the refugees, most of them Poles to land in France, but the agency spokesman in Palestine replied:

"The Jewish agency is unlikely to find any responsible Jews in Port De Bouc to try to encourage the refugees to resist by force. They well know what they are doing and the agency will not intervene."

The government source said it "must be understood that the decision to go to Germany was made by the Jews themselves, since they have refused all offers of asylum in France's offer of hospitality."

In Paris, the Hebrew committee of National Liberation called on the refugees to reject the ultimatum. A spokesman said: "It must be known to the world that the British persist in their plan to transport the refugees to Hamburg, soon, where people are the object being treated as a British colony and dumping ground."

U.S. Navy Regains Air Speed Record After 24 Years With 640.7 Mark

Muroc, Calif., Aug. 21 (AP) — A "stiff, wiry" United States Navy pilot flying a trim, stubwinged experimental airplane yesterday set an international speed record after streaking over a three kilometre (1.863-mile) course at an average speed of 640.7 miles an hour.

The mark was set with Lt. Comdr. Turner Caldwell, 33, of Arlington, Va., a former Pacific combat pilot, zooming travelling at a higher speed than man had yet attained, he shrugged his shoulders and said:

"It was a great relief from the paper work I've been doing in Washington. It's a great day and a great ship."

Caldwell beat the former world mark which had been set last June 19 by a United States Army pilot, Col. Albert Boyd who flew the same course at an average of 623.8 miles an hour in a Lockheed P-80-R Shooting Star. The flight had broken the British-held record of 616 miles an hour set by a Gloster Meteor IV plane in 1946.

The British mark was set by Group Capt. E. M. Donaldson of the R.A.F.

The tiny Skystreak, with a wing span of 38 feet and length of 34 feet, made four passes over the course, and the fastest was clocked at 653.5 miles an hour. Times for the others, were not announced at once, however, in fact it took technicians the entire day to calibrate the recording devices.

Caldwell made his runs at approximately 75 feet, following a black strip on the air strip, and setting his course between two clouds of green smoke marking each end of the runway.

EMPTY-HANDED POLICE ABANDON SEARCH FOR MEN

Quebec Officer Claims Trio Not in Pontiac County But May Have Passed Through

Ottawa, Aug. 21 — (CP)—Ontario and Quebec Provincial Police, dog-tired from a hot chase for three escaped Kingston penitentiary convicts, were unexpectedly handed today and some expressed doubt the dangerous trio had even been in the Pontiac county area they had combed.

Quebec Provincial Police Inspector Lucien Beaudoin, who directed the search in the Pontiac area, said: "I am convinced they are not in Pontiac County but may have passed through."

Ottawa, Aug. 21 — (CP)—Ontario and Quebec Provincial Police, dog-tired from a hot chase for three escaped Kingston penitentiary convicts, were unexpectedly handed today and some expressed doubt the dangerous trio had even been in the Pontiac county area they had combed.

Quebec Provincial Police Inspector Lucien Beaudoin, who directed the search in the Pontiac area, said: "I am convinced they are not in Pontiac County but may have passed through."

Beaudoin said he was informed by Ontario Provincial Police in Renfrew that a report of a Chapeau service station operator, Alex Soucie, that the car bearing Bourque and Coffin passed through that Alumette Island district on Tuesday. The licence numbers of only two of the five cars in the line licence plate 75-T-21 — of the car stolen from Kingston in which the trio escaped — were clear in their getaway.

Dangerous Criminals

The trio, considered criminals of the most dangerous type, are Clarence Coffin, 30, serving a 7-year sentence for breaking, entering and theft; Lucien Bourque, 27, serving a 37-year term for bank robberies, and Donald (Mickey) McDonald of Toronto, serving a 11½ year sentence for bi-lateral automobile theft and abducting the driver, and Nicholas Minden of Montreal, serving a two-year term on armed robbery charge.

With rumors as thick as flying saucers, Lieut. Donat Meyer of Montreal Det. Gustave Gauthier of Hull were kept busy yesterday and last night chasing down reports that automobiles carrying three men were stolen.

Gauthier said he had been informed by Ontario Provincial Police that two cars had been stolen from innocent persons such as tourists.

Meyer said Gauthier spoke a promising clue pertered out when a car, answering the description of one of the wanted vehicles, was found concealed behind a clump of bushes on the Lake Dore Cottage, about 50 miles west of here.

While police, with drawn guns stood guard over the car, search officers made a sweeping search only to find the car belonged to a man who was living with their three children, were enjoying a picnic on the shores of the Ottawa River.

Mother and Child Killed in Bathtub As Radio Falls In

Salt Lake City, Aug. 21. (AP) — A 25-year-old mother and her 14-months-old daughter were killed instantly when an electric radio apparently fell or was pulled accidentally into a bathtub in which they were bathing last night. A physician said Mrs. Norma Wagstaff was electrocuted, while the baby possibly died from a combination of drowning and electrocution.

Mining Engineer Strikes it Rich, Girl Comes into His Life in Odd Way

By HAL BOYLE

New York, Aug. 21 (AP) — Two important things happened to Mark Evans, a young mining engineer, during a vacation in Canada.

He found a vein of gold ore. And he fell in love with Kathleen McDingle.

When his miner's pick uncovered the yellow metal he had come to search for, he knew his days of poverty were over.

At night when the wind beat against the door of the abandoned cabin he had made habitable, he would stretch out in front of his fire and dream of what he would do with his riches.

He would travel, yes — see all the strange cities he had read of in his boyhood.

It was then that Kathleen McDingle came into his life in an old way. While cleaning debris from a shelf he found a scrap of newspaper apparently torn from the society section. It showed the face of a beautiful girl with dark hair but hung to her shoulders.

FRESH APPROACH SOUGHT IN TALKS ON KOREA, AUSTRIA

United States is Not Inclined to Consider Efforts Entirely Washed Up

By EDWARD E. BOMAR

Washington, Aug. 21 — (AP) — The United States appears ready today to write off two more of the "Big Four" conferences with Russia — on Korea and Austria — in favor of a "fresh" approach.

This impending development stands out against a Library of Congress report underlying the relations between the United States and the Soviet Union have not been materially changed.

With the case of Korea, Foreign Minister Molotov of Russia has failed even to acknowledge State Secretary Marshall's proposal for a re-examination of the deadlocked efforts to set up a united government for the country. Marshall set today as the deadline for such action. He reminded Soviet - American joint commission was created.

Meanwhile the chief American representative on the treaty commission, which has been trying even longer to fix boundaries and set up a treaty for Austria, was due to leave Vienna for consultations in Washington.

Ambassador A. J. Lovett, undersecretary of state, used diplomatic language to say in effect that Russia's "Iron Curtain" policy has called because the Russians were afraid of us.

Not Entirely Washed Up.

Despite the apparent breakdown of both talks, officials here said privately that the United States government is determined not to write off either entirely. Sums Up Kremlin Policy.

The library of Congress report on Soviet - American relations was prepared by the library's legislative reference service at the request of Senator Tom Connally (D-Tex), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

A compilation and analysis of various writings on Russia and Communism, it is designed to sum up the Kremlin's foreign policy in these words:

The summit of Communist hopes and aspirations is the rule of Lenin's time, a complete change in the world's political, economic, and social structure, accomplished and at the base of the Soviet foreign policy is the desire to make the world safe for Communism and Soviet Russia.

"In their efforts to achieve their goal, the Russians are prepared to play any card available at the time and which promises maximum success in a given situation."

PACKING UNION EXECUTIVE GIVES RIGHT TO STRIKE

3,000 Workers of Swift Canadian Plant Likely to Go Out Next Week

Toronto, Aug. 21 — (CP) — Three thousand members of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (C.I.O.) have been granted union permission to strike for higher wages at the plant of the Swift Canadian Co. Ltd. They seek a 15-cents-an-hour increase to bring the basic rate to 97½ cents an hour.

Publicity director John L. Lenglet announced last night that the U.P.W.A.'s executive board has given its permission for the strike after receiving a 2,250 to 37 in favor of a walkout. Union officials said the strike probably would not come this week.

Involved are plants in Toronto, 700 each in St. Boniface, Man., and Edmonton; 350 each in Jew. Sas., and 200 each in New Westminster, B. C., and Moncton, N. B.

The only Swift Canadian official who could be reached last night, secretary Norman E. Landon, declined to comment on the union announcement.

Mr. Lenglet indicated the way still is open for a settlement without a strike. He said the union has made several offers but neither wages talks with the company. Each time, he said, the company does not reply to the offer the negotiators will be notified.

Continue Negotiations

The U.P.W.A. is continuing wage negotiations with Canada Packers and Burns & Co. Ltd. Mr. Lenglet said the discussions with Canada Packers are "proceeding in a satisfactory manner."

"Swift Canadian has intimated that a wage increase is not justified," said Mr. Lenglet. At the same time, the company has suggested that a wage increase be guaranteed in our last contract, which expired Aug. 1. The union has consistently resisted the job rate would mean two cents an hour less. It would also affect seniority provisions and also cut the guaranteed work week from 37½ to 36 hours."

Union officials hinted that the next development in the situation may come from a meeting of the U.P.W.A. national wage committee to be held Sunday in Toronto.

Red Army Paper Charges Jugoslav Excesses in Austria

Vienna, Aug. 21 (AP) — The Red Army newspaper Oesterreichische Zeitung today in a headline "American Wild West in Vienna" charged that reports of what it termed "an increasing wave of excesses against the Austrian population by American soldiers." Oesterreichische Zeitung said it was possible to print only a small part of the flood of material available" and as attack with brass knuckles on a Roman Catholic priest by a man "an American uniform" and injuries suffered by civilians hit by "wildly racing American Jeeps."

Britain's Farmers Urged for More Food for Higher Prices

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Aug. 21 — (CP) — Farmers were pushed into the front line of Britain's prodigious effort to grow more food in return for higher prices and lower income taxes.

The governments new program for agriculture, drawn up in the midst of the dollar crisis, promises farmers priorities in equipment and supplies and offers incentives toward improved land and livestock and meeting increased cost of production.

"The emphasis has been definitely placed on dollar-earning crops," Agriculture Minister Tom Williams said at a press conference. Particularly important are pig meat, eggs, beef, mutton, cereals and linseed.

"The government's program is essentially one of reviving and expanding production of meat and eggs, restoring part of the wartime acreage of wheat and barley and adding to the crop area no less than 400,000 acres of linseed.

"Agriculture, in conjunction with coal mining and key workers in development areas, will be treated as highly essential and responsible ministers are taking steps to bring it forward to meet the needs of the industry."

The government drive calls on farmers to step out their output by £100,000,000 ($400,000,000) by 1951-52 over 1946-47 figures.

One step to aid the farmers will be the lending agency from beef bulls maintained by artificial insemination centres.

Williams eased the fears that many farmers had that the government contemplated nationalization of agriculture by saying bluntly: "Now had the greatest opportunity in their lives without nationalization to meet and beat the challenge for a country in desperate straits."

Project Expected To Be Launched End of September

2,500 to 3,000 Persons Will Be Brought Monthly

Production Below Peak

Woolwich Arsenal in England was turning out a variety of electrical products at the end of August, it was announced today. While Canada had nothing to compare with that great production centre, he felt the question was worth looking into.

As to production in Britain, Mr. Howe said it was below peak. The country was not turning out enough coal to keep industry going.

Also he said, the scarcity of consumer goods was tending to keep down labor's production. Ottawa, Aug. 21 — (CP) — Large-scale transfers of European displaced persons to Canada are going to be undertaken by the federal government this fall, Reconstruction Minister Howe said today on the first return from a four-week visit to Europe.

In a pre-dawn interview aboard an airplane as he flew from Montreal to Ottawa and the last lap of a Transatlantic flight, Mr. Howe said: The Canadian project for flying immigration project was expected to be launched soon after the end of September.

When the scheme gets into full swing, the minister declared, between 2,500 and 3,000 persons a month would be landed in Canada by the ships and planes would be landing in Canada monthly by both ship and plane and it was expected Federal government would assume responsibility for transportation of all such persons to the Dominion.

Mr. Howe said control would be touched off when Trans-Canada Air Lines received delivery of 30 large new planes for its Transatlantic service, the first of the number. The 40-passenger machines with pressurized cabins, will be flown by the T.C.A.'s trans-ocean capacity.

Mr. Howe said that in picking up displaced persons, government officials will have the planes' right in the continent and fly the immigrants direct to Canada.

Then they will be able to get them over just as fast as by ship," he said.

Visited Several Camps

At the same time, he declared he had been making extensive inquiries into the possible shipping space for the transporting of immigrants of all kinds to Canada, and he was hopeful that the accommodation would be enlarged.

During his trip, which took in Ireland and parts of Germany, Mr. Howe visited several displaced persons camps and he said the Canadian machinery for handling the selection of these prospective citizens was being extended.

Great numbers of workers of types that could be used in Canada are available, he said. He had been particularly struck by the number of Poles he saw from the Baltic states.

Mr. Howe said the Frankfurt report that homeless Germans might be permitted to emigrate to Canada, the minister declared this had been considered by the government last week and discussed such a plan was under discussion between Canada and United States occupation officials.

No Enemy Nationals

Mr. Howe said he did not think Canada would enter into a plan of this kind involving enemy nationals at least until the peace treaty with Germany had been signed.

Mr. Howe displayed no great concern over the Russian charge before the United Nations economic and social council last week that Canada and other countries were recruiting "slave labor" in displaced persons camps.

"They are protected by the Canadian labor laws," he said. "Their employment conditions will be the same as those of other workers."

One of the things Mr. Howe intends to look into shortly, he said, is the question of obtaining greater production from Canada's government arsenals.

He declared that what the Britons were doing in this line,

Commercial Signs Along Provincial Highways Banned

Toronto, Aug. 21. (CP)—Regulations for elimination of signboards along provincial highways appeared today in The Ontario Gazette, official publication of the provincial government.

The regulations prohibit erection of signs, except those in reference by the Minister of Highways and apply only to tourist signboards but to signs on fences, buildings, rocks or other structures.

Highways Minister George Doucett said signs painted on the sides of barns could be prevented under the new regulations.

Officials explained that signboards were prohibited on the basis of safe driving through distraction from the auto driver's attention from the road. Similar standards already are prohibited along the Queen Elizabeth Way and the same prohibition will apply to the new Toronto-Barrie and Oshawa highways.

BROKEN LIMB OF TREE BREAKS HYDRO WIRES

A large limb of a tree situated on Moira Street East near the residence of Mrs. Stillwell broke off in the storm yesterday afternoon and fell across the street, striking the hydro wires in its descent. Hydro was notified to the scene and repaired the damage, and a new limb was done by the broken ends of the wires.

WOMAN ANGLER GETS LARGE LUNGE

With her husband casting anxious eyes at the straining line, Mrs. Harwood, fond of Picton, waged a successful battle with a sixteen-pound musky in the Bay of Quinte the other day. Mrs. Wood was fishing for pickerel, using a June bug and worm on a single hook.

She landed the big fellow after a ten-minute struggle "all by myself." Friend hubby, however, assisted in bringing the fish into the boat.

Nervy Motorist Added Insult To Injury

The fellow had nerve, to say the least.

So think Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Fox of Prince Edward County, who had a narrow escape from possible injury while proceeding from Kingston to Picton on their way to other points.

Topping a rise in the road, Mrs. Fox, driving the car, became suddenly aware of an automobile coming from the opposite direction on the same roadway. Instead of keeping to the right, the driver of the other car swerved into the centre of the road, forcing Mrs. Fox to the side. Realizing that a collision was imminent, Mrs. Fox stopped the car, bringing it to a stop on the highway.

A minute later the owner of the parked car strolled to the window and, leaning over, asked Mrs. Fox, bewildered momentarily, "but my battery appears to be dead. Would you mind—" Needless to say she pressed the starter button.

Four Remanded Week on Breaking, Entering Charge

Picton, Aug. 31 — Appearing before Magistrate Wills here yesterday, Everett Hall, Harold Gosleigh, Harold Burks of Trenton and C. R. Fairweather of Belleville, were remanded for one week. All four pleaded not guilty to charge of breaking and entering the Bloomfield Garage, Wellington Road, last weekend. All are charged with breaking and entering the Rosemont Garage at Bloomfield, but only Fairweather was seized in the fire. Provincial Constable Alexander G. Wishart, stating that other members had been identified with police.

The Crown Attorney asked for the week's remand in order that further investigations might be made.

Last weekend there was a series of robberies in the district, with breaking and entering in Bloomfield Cold Storage plant, two places at Consecon, one at Carrying Place, a service station on Trenton-Belleville highway, and a shop garage at Bloomfield.

The quartet was not represented by counsel, Fairweather telling the Magistrate that "I can't afford one."

In Wednesday's court, Ross Wright of Wellington was fined $25 and costs for failing to report an accident in which a hydro pole was damaged.

Walter Crook of Hallowell was fined $15 and costs on a charge of careless driving.

Raymond Lavender, Wellington was fined $10 and costs on a vagrancy charge.

Celebrates 94th Birthday.

Mrs. Hudson Norton on Tuesday last marked her 94th birthday. She is active about the house but does not go out, eyesight good enough for reading. She had a number of callers during the day and received gifts. She has one son, Wilson Norton, who is 68. She resides with her son, Raymond Norton.

Money and Prizes Given Away At Kiwanis Karnival

Money and prizes galore were given away at the Kiwanis Karnival last evening for the third successive night. The large crowd took a keen satisfaction in carrying away the bulk of loot that the local service club seems to delight in giving away.

Mrs. Gingley won a pair of the beautiful blankets that are drawn for each evening as the door prize, Mrs. J. Hanson, and Roy Anderson each won a bottle of cologne donated by Lattimer's Drug Store. W. Asseltine won the buffet set that donated by Lattimers.

The dress donated by McNabb's went to Mrs. R. McMillan, Mr. and Mrs. Peacock were the grand slam winners of the evening with both of them holding lucky tickets. Mrs. Peacock won the men's shirt donated by the Esquire for Men store, while her husband took the fur muff donated by Ashley Furriers. Mrs. Peacock promptly traded the shirt for the muff.

L. Boyceford won the child's dress donated by Mclntosh Bros. Mack Manley won the Gruen watch donated by Mclntosh's Jewelry Store. Donald Hurst received the sweater donated by Quick and Robertson's clothing store.

Argument Over Division of Spoils Leads to Arrest

Stabbing is said to have taken place on the premises of a certain hotel on Front Street, when a gang of thieves who struck Belleville on Monday night, fell to squabbling over the division of the spoils.

But the Youngstown, Ohio, lawyer, Jones, is said to be experienced of their big brothers of the lighter-fingered gentry, and when the argument grew, the division of the spoils to their satisfaction became unnecessary.

On Tuesday night the boys gained entry through a screened window at the rear of the store and escaped with $15 in cash, consisting of one two-dollar bill and silver.

Apparently thinking the shop was a source of continuous revenue, and knowing that on Wednesday afternoon was a holiday and the place would be closed, the gang effected a daring daylight smash-and-grab entering this time digging a hole at the side of the shop and getting away with one dollar in coppers.

Mr. Joe white discovered the entrance and, on arriving at the store, turned to the store at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon to stock up some fishing tackle he had left there.

"They must have been watching us," he said later, "for we did not leave the shop until 1 o'clock and the entrance must have been effected between that time and three."

And here is the denouement of the affair—the arrest of the thief of Tuesday night, told Mr. Stan White that he heard some small boys arguing as to who would take the dimes or the quarters."

Acting quickly, Mr. White informed the police and, by the time they arrived, the thieves were taken to the police station with their loot. About ten dollars was recovered.

Joe Kirkwood To Exhibit Shots At Country Club

Joe Kirkwood, golfdom's trick-shot artist, is scheduled to perform at the Bay of Quinte Country Club this coming Sunday at 2.00 p.m. Joe Kirkwood, to give an exhibition here earlier in the season but he was retained out.

Several artistic promotionals will tour the course with Mr. Kirkwood, Charles Paul, Belleville, R. H. Green, Kingston, Hill Mcfaden, Trenton, and Joe Pidutti, Picton. Jack Mitchell of the Belleville Club will be with them also.

The group will play nine holes for the benefit of caddies after which Mr. Kirkwood will give a demonstration of skill and science in the royal and ancient game. He is the golfer who has had an exciting, and watches, fresh eggs, and noses. It should prove interesting.

Then he will address the gathering on some subject dear to the game demonstrating as he goes. As Joe is one of the foremost golfers on the golfing circuit he will carry plenty of weight. Local followers of the golfing art, time, and anyone interested in golf a treat by attending the exhibition.

Thursday Market

A carload of peaches appeared on the produce market this morning at $1.00 a basket. This was the first large quantity of peaches to appear here this year.

Local Resident Misses Death By One Plane Ride

Bill Whalen, C.N.R. employee residing on Church Street, had a narrow escape from a Detroit Holiday with a dramatic story of his thrill with the Grim Reaper.

Whalen and his wife were visiting relatives in the Detroit area, when a young lady cousin to an amusement park near the Detroit River, where seaplane pilots took passengers up for "flips" at a nominal fee.

Riding high above the river, Whalen and his cousin were so delighted with their first plane ride that they extended the tour, seeing the downtown section of the city. Returning they noticed a man, a boy and a young woman standing on the landing field evidently their turn for an aerial ride.

The two parties chatted for a moment then went their different ways. A few minutes later the seaplane crashed into Lake St. Clair killing the man, who was Alvin Rowe, former Toledo Privateer Pilot. Police officer, the boy, his son. The young lady, his fiancee, and the pilot were critically injured.

"Nervy," quoted Whalen as he related the story, "that one was too close for comfort."

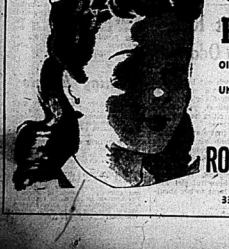
Reporters Can be Penalized For Reporting, Publishing Debates in Parliament

By JAMES MCCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 31 — (CP)—Reporters burrowing in ancient tombs to discover what can be done to punish newspapermen who break the Commons rules found that the House of Commons, by an order still in force, can be penalized for reporting and publishing House debates.

The 17th and 18th Century orders making the House powers secure from publication never have been enforced. Reporters of 100 years ago often relied on their memories rather than notebooks which would betray their profession and bring down the anger of House authorities.

Reporters and their unwritten privileges are of vital interest when a Commons committee found two Labor members had been guilty of a breach of the rules by giving newspapers information about private meetings of the Labor party. The House decision as to what shall be done with the committee's report still has to be made.



In 1875, the Commons, on the advice of Prime Minister Disraeli, rejected a proposal that it should refuse to consider any complaint about publication of House debates or proceedings, except when a specific order had been made for privacy or wilful misrepresentation was involved. Having upheld their rights, the members in later years accepted the advice of Prime Minister Baldwin: be content with the knowledge that the press whenever possible. His committee found, on experience, that the House never came out of such disputes "with any suggestion of credit to itself."

But, when prodded by prolonged attacks, the House can assert its massive power. The committee of privileges calls before it the person accused and he may not be represented by counsel. He is examined with the committee members acting as prosecutors and judges and, sometimes, as defence counsel as well. Often the committee permits the accused to examine witnesses and he is given facilities to state his case.

Proved guilty of a breach of privilege sometimes consoles himself with the thought that even if they are imprisoned — either within the House precincts or on outside jail — they will be freed when the session ends.

But in 1880 a man who had incurred the wrath of the Commons evaded arrest until the session was almost ended. The House did not think it had been sufficiently punished and he was returned to prison when the House resumed.

The House has not used its power to imprison offenders since 1880. Several members have been officially reprimanded, standing in their places in the Chamber and hearing the sharp condemnation the House stated by Mr. Speaker.

Only Frustration Marks Efforts To Halt Menacing Events in Balkans

By GLENN BABB
(Associated Press Foreign News Analyst).

The United Nations has come to the serious, deep end in its efforts to halt the menacing march of events in the Balkans. Once again the United States has been invoked to nullify the will of the majority of civilized mankind. The comparatively mild and inoffensive Australian and American proposals—they amounted merely to an appeal to the Soviet satellites to cease and desist in their campaign against Greece—were thrown out ruthlessly by Russia and Poland of the 11 Security Council members opposed them.

The atmosphere at Lake Success after this breakdown of the peace machinery was charged with gloom. The Security Council admitted its inability to go further. The United States and Britain already had said that his country would not stand idly by even if the United Nations were unable to act. But even that assurance of American determination to back Greece had small comfort significance for advocates of the United Nations and world peace generally.

May Work Outside

If it is carried into effect it means that once more the United States and its friends, in order to get effective action must bypass work constitutionally, even actually even abandon, the organization that was erected so hopefully in San Francisco as victory was being won on the battlefields.

How the United States and her friends can move to prevent the unjustifiable threats in the totalitarian state that has swept over most of southeastern Europe remains to be indicated. Any effective action would be plotted with the utmost care, for the consequences could be far-reaching and terrible. But the course of those who have worked to prevent a united effort to keep the peace in the Balkans is becoming clearer.

Familiar Device

The intentions are strong that the now familiar device of the puppet state is to be invoked at the next major step. It is hard to escape any other conclusion concerning the Friday declaration of puppet by "Gen. Markos" Vlfiades, leader of the guerillas defying the Greek government in the north, that he had undertaken to administer a "democratic government" until "provisional government" could be formed. News of the fighting indicates the Markos forces are consolidating a foothold from it may be difficult for the present Greek army to oust them. And behind them are friendly territories into which they may retire when too hard pressed and from which help will be expected.

The Greek government has been predicting such a development for some weeks: First, formation of a guerilla government and then its recognition as the legitimate Greek government by the states which are blocking United Nations action; third, direct and unqualified aid and support to such a regime by those states. They would argue that such aid was as legitimate as any given the Athens government by the United States or any other power. And then the battle lines really would be drawn.

KINGSTON WRITER COVERED CONCERT

The story carried in The Ontario Intelligencer on Tuesday with respect to the band concert given in Kingston on Sunday by the Belleville Municipal Band was written in its entirety by a member of The Whig-Standard editorial staff and only goes to prove what has been said of the band on many occasions, that it is one of the best musical organizations in Eastern Ontario. The band will complete at the C.N.E.

DERAILED BOXCARS DELAY TRAFFIC

Three boxcars of a westbound freight train became derailed last evening at 9.45 p.m. at the coal chutes east of the city, holding up the two sections of the Ottawa and Montreal flyers for an hour and forty-five minutes.

The cars became derailed on a cross-over from east to west, stated railway officials. No cause for the accident has been discovered as yet. The cars fouled both main lines here holding up rail traffic in both directions.

A crane from the Belleville yards was summoned to the scene and it removed the obstruction. Service was resumed at 9.15 p.m.

Body of Girl Not Identified

Brighton, Ont., Aug. 31—(CP)—Provincial Police said today that intensive investigation had failed to uncover the identity of the body of a teen-aged girl washed up on shore of Lake Ontario at nearby Presqu'Ile Point Monday, and that on permission of the Attorney-General the body has been buried in a cemetery here.

The body was badly decomposed and apparently had been in the lake for some time. Coroner Dr. F. M. Dare of Brighton said there were no indentifying marks or jewelry and it was not possible to determine if drowning had been the cause of death.

Described as that of a girl in her mid-teens and four feet seven inches in height, the body was discovered washed up on the beach by summer cottagers at Presqu' Ile Point who notified police.

MINING ENGINEER

The caption beneath the picture said she was Kathleen McDingle and that she was visiting friends in Montreal.

In the weeks that followed, Kathleen studied the picture more and more. In time he fell in love.

"By golly I'm going to marry her," he told himself one night.

When spring came Irving went to a leading mining company with his ore samples. In a few weeks he closed a deal with the firm that assured him of a million — and more. He left at once to find Kathleen McDingle.

The house was old and impressive. Mark felt timorous after ringing the doorbell. The door swung open and he found himself gawking into the face of a beautiful girl with long dark hair.

"You're Kathleen?" he stammered.

Tree Shade

Ottawa is a city of trees and the Journal recently made an appeal for replacement by saplings of trees which are cut down in the summer time of such temperatures as have ruled recently the value of maples and other trees as shade to tempering the heat has been emphasized in Ottawa and other places. Belleville is such a city with a wealth of maples which never fails to attract the notice of visitors for their beauty and their value in shade.

The Journal points out that a heat wave serves to recall that ranks of broad-leaved trees along a street lower the temperature through transpiration at night. Washington is a street where rows of fine lindens and sycamores cool the fevered and humid nights, so greatly that, on entering it, one steps into another and better climate. Such trees are as useful as they are ornamental.

"It goes without saying that trees don't live forever, that in a modern city they require more care than in a suburban or rural community and when damaged or over-mature they must be removed. There is no good reason, however, why they cannot be replaced with suitable species, right on the spot where they were cut down, at least somewhere in the vicinity."

The newspaper suggests that as there is at unparalleled demand for accommodation in new homes being built in all parts of Ottawa and its suburbs, an effort should be made to persuade every new householder to plant maples or other native species on his property and to give him all possible advice and co-operation to ensure that the trees will grow."

Many citizens of Belleville have no doubt remarked on the advantage of shade and of the tempering of the heat made possible by the leaves.

Burdens of Office

The strain which falls upon men in high office, especially in these days when matters of world concern press upon the attention of those in places of responsibility in the nations, is emphasized by the news that Prime Minister Attlee of Great Britain may resign his post on account of "deteriorating health" as one newspaper states. There is no official comment or confirmation of the story.

Never before in peacetime history have those in places of honor and responsibility had to shoulder such burdens as those who are directing the affairs of state of such nations as Britain, United States, and others. The new world of the twentieth century leaves little time to the man of state. The entire globe is within touch through modern science and what happens in one place today is immediately felt in lands remote. The leader must be in constant touch with a whole world.

That man is fortunate who in a situation of great responsibility has such possession of himself, such balance that he can serve the State and its fairest in himself and the office, take adequate rest and relaxation. Some men are naturally fitted for such a dual office but possibly most men have not that desirable gift.

In the war years the strain upon the leaders was of the heaviest character, unrelenting pressure of responsibility for the sake of the nation and the cause. While there is heavy today, the strain is heavy enough and too heavy for many. At the same time it may be true that there can scarcely be the unremitting support of the leaders as in the war days when the fire of patriotism and service in the national cause led many men and women to do almost superhuman deeds and achieve what is scarcely possible in a time of peace when at least the realization of the public in support of the leaders can scarcely match the universal urge of all to serve their utmost in days of war.

Nations own a vast debt of gratitude to those who lead them in time of war and also a great debt to those who serve in such days as these of the early post-war period, with its perplexing problems, the full answer to which is often not clear in a transitory period.

Men and women everywhere cannot but have a deep sympathy for those who carry the burdens of State on their shoulders and try to serve to their best ability the millions of their fellow-subjects.

Everyone will hope that the report of ill-health of the present British Prime Minister is unfounded.

Novel as History

That a good novel is the closest literary approach to truth we can have is the statement of the editor of the Hamilton Spectator and his reason is because it is an observant, gifted and conscientious individual's portrayal of what world which he has lived in and seen and known. Its appeal is that "it deals with human beings, their weaknesses, their passions, their virtues and limitations and after these traits have been dealt with, the historians, biographers and digesters can have all the leavings and be welcome to them." It adds that the most vivid of all genuine historical writing is the novelist's. He notes that "people who have never read 'War and Peace,' or 'Moby Dick,' or 'Tale of the Sea,' have missed a great adventure."

Must Restore Forests

In Ontario, three and four and five generations ago, they destroyed the magnificent hardwood and pine forests to get at the land. Where the pine was convenient to water transportation, it was also marked. The hardwood was mostly piled up and burned and little was retrieved from it except the potash in the ashes. The land was brought under cultivation.

Now, in Ontario, they are bringing back the forest and for three specific purposes, to provide the materials for a dwindling industry, to enable the forest to play on the land and to control the spring flood-water, which is getting out of hand. Major-General Howard Kennedy, chairman of the Ontario Forestry Association, told a pulp and paper industry convention at Petawawa of his plans for reforestation over the next twenty years.

British Columbia has a reforestation problem, but not so much for flood control and the restoration of farmlands — though it will do both these things — as to restore the forest for its own sake. We must restore the forest if we are to retain our largest and most profitable industry.— Vancouver Daily Province.

New-Mown Hay

The speed that the average automobile maintains across the Ontario countryside causes the farming motorists to miss many of the sights, scents and sounds which were enjoyed in large measure by the more leisured traveller of the days of buggy and buckboard. When the latter allowed to fall loosely over the dash, with the horse given his head going slowly up a hill road, the fortunate and bemused driver could savor the scents of hayfields, listen to the whetting of a scythe trimming fence corners, or which a hawk circling above a newly cut lot in search of a field mouse or garter snake that had lost a green lizard.

Today are not often found with pitchfork in hand, yet many a nonbucolic lad who never drove a hayrake has lyrically praised the new-mown hay. And with good reason. The fragrance of drying swathe or windrow, born across the field on a warm breeze, stands for summer as does no other natural scent. Skilled perfumers can bottle the rose and lilac with considerable accuracy, but a hayfield has always been too much for their distillation of synthesis.

Perhaps the best in hayfield sweetness comes at the end of a hot day. With the sun gone down with the sun, the slightly cooler air of a dewless twilight can weight the fragrance and hold it between stone walls. It cannot send the warm breath now cut across a dusty hill road that has not yet been turned to concrete. It stays to delight any one who leans back upon a haycock where grasshoppers rustle, timothy tickles and the ears and stars look down. — New York Tribune.

Few Know Tasty Fish

One fish dinner a week by every Canadian family would keep our fishermen prosperous, says St. John Times-Globe. Canadians don't eat enough fish. In a year the average Canadian eats tucks away only eight and one-half pounds of fish — one of the smallest quantities credited to anyone anywhere in the world. From the fisherman's standpoint, the brightest ray of hope in the picture is the fact that hundreds of thousands, perhaps millions of Canadians, have had little opportunity to enjoy good, fresh, tasty fish.

ON THE BEACH

Same old cry: "The water's fine!"
Same old sad exercises mine.
Grandpa now is much too old;
Thinks the water may be cold.
Yours is joy denied to him.
Grandpa never learned to swim.

"Take a belly-smacker?" No!
Should have done that long ago.
"Do the dead-man's float like you?"
Never learned that trick to do.
Now the dismal truth to state:
It is sixty years too late.
Glad to sit here in the sun
Simply watching you have fun.
Hearing shrieks of pure delight,
Everything is quite all right.
Grandpa! Pay no heed to him.
Happy he to see you swim.

Will Explore Sea's Depths In Steel Cage

(From The Magazine Time)

A determined scientist always has new worlds to conquer. Professor Auguste Piccard, who broke the altitude record in a free balloon in 1931, climbing to it was broken again in 1935 by Orvil Anderson, pilot, and Capt. Stevens, U.S. Army Air Corps, who went to 72,395 feet in a sealed, spherical gondola (the Piccard's, is nearly ready to try for the 75,000-foot record too. Last week 43-year-old Scientist Piccard told the Inter-American Newspaper Alliance about the "bathyscaphe" (from the Greek for "deep ship"), his submarine balloon which will descend into the sea suspended from a steel and aluminum "gas bag" full of lighweight gasoline.

Long planned, the bathyscaphe is now about completed in Belgium. Cast in open steel hemispheres, it is 6 1-2 feet in outside diameter. The walls are 3 1-2 inches thick at their thinnest point. The professor thinks that they will withstand nearly 6,000 pounds of pressure per square inch—the pressure to expect to find more than 12,000 feet below the surface of the sea.

There will be one door (a thick plate) and six windows, one of them set in the centre of the door. Instead of glass, the six quarts used by William Beebe in his record-setting (3,028-ft.) bathysphere, the windows will be Plexiglas cones with the narrow ends polished, inset in rubber. Piccard theorizes that the pressure will squeeze the cones' Plexiglas windows firmly into their sockets.

The steel sphere and its contents will be heavy enough to sink. To keep it from sinking right to the bottom of the sea and staying there, it will be suspended from streamlined aluminum containers filled with aviation gasoline which is considerably lighter than water and almost incompressible. Fully loaded, the bathyscaphe will weigh about 40 tons. Because of the window area, the steel ship cannot support this weight, the gasoline and half the ballast must be added after the bathyscaphe is in the water.

The cramped (141 cubic feet) space inside the steel-shelled cabin will be crammed with control apparatus, batteries and instruments. The bathyscaphe will carry enough oxygen to keep two men alive for more than 32 hours, and chemicals to absorb the exhaled carbon dioxide by their breathing. Powerful searchlights outside the cabin will light up the sea, and allow fish and other bathyscaphe to be observed and photographed.

Because time for note-taking will be short, a recording device will help keep Beebe's mind momentary on the dive. The depth ships experimental compass will be outside the cabin too, since the earth's magnetism will not interfere with the steel walls.

Since radio does not work well under water, the bathyscaphe will use a shortwave sound device, invented by the Belgian Admiralty, which developed it for communication between submarines. The descent will be made, if all goes well, in the Gulf of Genoa, off the Italian Riviera, sometime in September. First Professor Piccard intends to drop the command bathyscaphe into the sea with a pressure-controlled instrument on board to bring it up again when it has reached a certain depth. At it rises as he expects it to do, the professor himself will take the plunge.

THIRD C.N.E HELD AT COBOURG

Cobourg, Aug 21 (CP) —Toronto gets all the glory of the Canadian National Exhibition these days but local records show it was once held in Cobourg. The first C.N.E. was once held in Toronto, the second in Hamilton, the third at Cobourg and the fourth, in 1949 in Kingston. After that the big show remained in Toronto.

BRITAIN PARTIALLY

Whilst Sir Wilfrid's statement here left the impression that Britain no longer would continue to cover half the adverse with Canada, Administration officials in London last night said Britain was continuing the practice and that the future would be subject to negotiation.)

The convertibility suspension was accompanied by these other developments:

Other Developments

1. A British agreement to halt, pending consultation on new emergency steps, any further withdrawals from the U.K. "beyond those already notified." The loan, which already has dwindled to perhaps only slightly more than $700,000,000, originally was intended to tide Britain through 1949.

2. Disclosure by Sir Wilfrid that Britain has made such a "request" for another withdrawal. A treasury official in Washington said the figure at $450,000,000, which would leave about $300,000,000 of the loan.

3. Sir Wilfrid's belief that Britain may have to cut her imports even lower than those already announced.

4. A declaration by Snyder that the United States wants a "full understanding" of Britain's future intentions, thus: "Iodine! Which strengthens many bodies! Gives strengths". It would take an exceptionally well informed customer to stand up to that sort of sizzling right there in the devil's den and retain his reason. I wonder how wonderful! But we'll talk about that some other time. Just give me my ready-to-apply Mild Tincture of Iodine, U.S.P. and I'll leave you to play with your five strengths. For your information—as if you didn't know—this official preparation contains approximately 5 per cent of iodine and is the standard 'iodine' you should dispense when Dr. writes 'tinct. iod.' unless the customer specifies something different.

The United States Pharmacopoeia, revised every ten years, is a book containing descriptions and formulas of drugs, chemicals and medicines which have been by law as standard. If the drug, chemical or medicine is labelled U.S.P. it is of the required legal standard in purity and strength.

The latest revision of the U.S.P. tears it, so far as I am concerned, is the name change of Mild Tincture of Iodine, U.S.P. XII, to Iodine Tincture, U.S.P. XIII.

If every one, including of course the young children, regularly ate sea fish or shellfish three times a week few people would develop manifestations of iodine deficiency—goitre, endemic goitre in childhood, exophthalmic or "toxic" goitre in early adult life, or the various functional deficiencies of the thyroid gland. Parties, described in the pamphlet The Iodin Ra-

From the Editor's Desk

A STRICK OF THE TRADE

From the letter I get from readers it is pretty obvious that the general public, not a profession to be subject to regulation, knows the ins and outs of pharmacist's clerks, are fully acquainted with the kind and strength of iodine that is suitable for this or that purpose. The most familiar complaint of readers is that when one goes to the druggist and asks for Iodine the druggist or the druggist's clerk does not always produce the handy little vial of Mild Tincture of Iodine (U.S.P.) with applicator in the stopper—the preparation expressly introduced into the U.S. Pharmacopoeia 20-odd years ago to meet "an insistent demand for the germ conscious public for an efficient wound disinfectant for domestic use." Too often the request for some "iodine" elicits a grandiose exhibition of what professional knowledge or rebuff or questioning of the customer's intentions, thus: "Iodine! Which strengthens many bodies! Gives five strengths". It would take an exceptionally well informed customer to stand up to that sort of sizzling right there in the devil's den and retain his reason. I wonder how wonderful! But we'll talk about that some other time. Just give me my ready-to-apply Mild Tincture of Iodine, U.S.P. and I'll leave you to play with your five strengths. QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Follies in Sleeping Room

My experience may interest readers who are allergic to pollens. During the hay fever season I keep my bedroom closed to exclude pollens. Lately, after I grow a profusion of pollen free plants in earthen pots in the room. The air smells and feels like the blessed outdoors. The doctor says the plants are healthful. (M. C.)

Answer—Yes, growing plants in the sleeping room or in the living room are healthful to some considerable moisture is given off to the air by the leaves and by the transpiration. Many flowering plants absorb some carbon dioxide and give off some oxygen, but that is insignificant so far as the air in a room is concerned. I have a booklet, Hay Fever and pamphlet on Hay Fever and stamped envelope bearing your address.

Sat's Milk

Milk until sterilized here is either untested fresh milk or pasteurized milk. (Sat's milking for one minute). Use only pasteurized milk—milk heated to 60 degrees F. for twenty minutes. Infant mortality is highest where raw milk sals for infant, child or adult.

Coffee

Many persons enjoy coffee without apparent after-effects. I don't take coffee, one cup without getting nervous and having a restless or sleepless night.

(G. I. T.)

Answer—Don't take it late in the day or evening. Breakfast time is the best time for coffee. The normal effect of coffee is stimulation of nerves, heart, kidneys, circulation—mental stimulation is wakefulness.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Burton, Betty and Frank have returned from a motor trip to Toronto, Chicago, Ill., Gananoque, and Peterborough.

Miss Carolyn Lisle, Charles Street, has returned home after holidaying at Metcalfe, the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Patricia Timmer of Chicago, Ill.

Messrs. Bill Holloway and Bill Gilbert, from Toronto, are for a week's holiday in the Northland. They are fishing in one places of interest around North Bay, Temagami, South Porcupine and the Lake of Two Rivers, being held at the Mattagami club in Schumacher, a thriving town. They will visit Timiskaming, Lodge at Long Lac, Lindenberg in Quebec and at Ottawa.

Dr. and Mrs. G. S. Cruch, Catharine Street, returned yesterday after a month's vacation at Perth Road, Ont.

Messrs. A. Gilbert Stackhouse and W. Harold Cameron are among the well known legate attending the anniversary of the Manufacturers' Insurance Company in Toronto this week.

Capt. H. W. Thomas, Mrs. Thomas, Capt. L. Selbert, all of Toronto, spent Wednesday night with Mrs. Woodman Thomas, leaving this morning for their camp.

Mrs. J. H. Wetherill of Edmonton, left today for her home after a few months visit with her sister, Mrs. Woodman Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Bateman and son, Ivan, have been holidaying at their camp in Ralemgh Island in Lake Ontario.

Mrs. F. H. Jarrell, Grier St., is leaving today for a two weeks visit with her son and wife, Ford Derry, at Rosenath, Ont.

Miss Audrey Robson Feted At Miscellaneous Shower

Recently the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Robson, Corbyville, was the scene of a surprise party and miscellaneous shower in honor of their daughter, Audrey, bride-elect, and Mr. Don Brown, when approximately one hundred and fifty friends and neighbors gathered to present gifts and good wishes for the future.

Rev. J. C. Campbell was the chairman, and, with other duties by Mrs. Roy Sills and Mrs. Stan Hanson, a vocal solo by Mrs. Nelson Hall, with Mrs. Hall also by Miss Ida Ketcheson.

Miss Ruth Robinson read the address of presentation signed by Mrs. Ray, Mrs. Harry Ketcheson and Mr. Willet Casey.

The guests of honor opened the attractively wrapped parcels disclosing many useful and beautiful gifts of cut glass, linens and kitchen ware, for which they graciously thanked their friends and extended hospitality to be accepted in their new home at Hoard's.

Women's Activities

BETHANY W.M.S.-W.A.

The August meeting of Bethany W.M.S. and W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. Eaton, the worship service being conducted by Mrs. Hills, vice-president. The devotional lesson was read by Mrs. Hills.

A reading was given by Mrs. G. Sills "Lend-a Hand". This part of the meeting was closed with prayer led by Mrs. F. Walker.

The business in charge of Mrs. O. Baer, when a reading reading "Unanswered", was given by Mrs. E. Casey and one on "Christian Stewardship" was given by Mrs. Lloyd Hall, with Marilyn Eggleton "I Know My Saviour Loves Me" much appreciated by everyone. The Study Book circle was capably presented by Mrs. C. Eggleton, assisted by Mrs. Casey and Mrs. Cooley. The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

CHATTERTON W.I.

The August meeting of the Chatterton W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. E. Cadman with a good attendance. Mrs. Earl Kinder was in charge of the meeting which was based on social welfare, a reading was given by Lugo Prest "The Institute Pageant" and a paper by Mrs. A. Prest "The Community Whose Business?" Everyone joined in singing some old time favorites.

The guest speaker for this meeting was Capt. Ruston of the Children's Aid Society in Belleville. He gave an outline of the work that is being done by this society.

During the business period a donation was made to the Children's Aid Society.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem and the hostess served delicious refreshments.

Princess Margaret Rose celebrates her birthday today.

Overshadowed--Yet Second To Britain's Throne Princess Margaret Rose Is Growing Up

By HELEN GATHCART
(Special to the Ontario Intelligencer)

St. James's, London, England—Just seventeen years ago, at the espousal wish of King George V, Britain's Home Secretary Clynes hurried to the stately Glamis Castle, for the birth of a royal baby . . . and waited . . . and waited . . . A slight complication had occurred despite Harley Street's great doctors and Mr. Clynes' leave was kept waiting a month before the stork-call Princess Margaret Rose, younger Princess Margaret Rose celebrates her 17th birthday today, in only another year, in accordance with Britain's royal tradition, she achieves her coming-of-age.

What is she like, this outwardly demure Princess who, they say, is inevitably to play a leading part in the affairs of the Empire and Princess second second only to the throne? Four years younger than Princess Elizabeth, it is possible to imagine a tragic accident that could make her Queen of England, with Princess Elizabeth's marriage looming, her position gains new significance.

The world has come to think of her as following Elizabeth, Princess Elizabeth everywhere. The result is that Margaret Rose is rapidly showing a will of her own. The whole royal family goes to the races and Margaret's mysteriously fails to appear . . . merely because she does not care for racing. At public functions, where her sister is all smiles and graciousness, H. R. H. Margaret sometimes becomes known to yawn outright.

In South Africa, when an 80-mile motor-tour of the Cape peninsula was planned for the Princesses it was Margaret who insisted that one of the things of the King's Flight should take them up instead for a swift bird's-eye view of the whole area.

Again when Princess Elizabeth was publicly benqueted at London's traditional Guildhall, it was deemed advisable that Princess Margaret should not be present, and it was not allowed for in the arrangements. At the same time, the teen-age princess announced her intention of going. Officials were flustered . . . foremost politician had to depart surreptitiously in order to give the princess his place—and his rations—but H.R.H. had her way.

She is beginning to make her own friends, for Princess Elizabeth held her first private dance at Windsor and Margaret was only a child of 14, she refused point-blank to be sent to bed and miss the fun.

Nervous partners found they did not have to hold her at arm's length. They discovered she could invent crazy lyrics of her own to some of the dance tunes. At the Christmas staff ball at Buckingham Palace, the members of the royal family are supposed to dance with the servants. In practice this tradition is rather remote. Last year, while Princess Elizabeth chose as usual a household official, Princess Margaret lived respectfully with a footman.

Now she sometimes goes to the pictures with the higher hierarchy of the Palace staff or with her friends, the Stanleys and Cambridges, and is a regular patron of one or two West End cinemas. Her favorite stars include James Mason, Bob Hope of York. This recalls her childhood and her Millard, Lord Stanley, the young grandson of Lord Derby, one of Britain's richest peers, takes her — unaccompanied by other "royals" — to shows at the Savoy and supper afterwards in the Savoy Grill.

Gradually, in fact, her world is widening, and she accepts few invitations from the King and Queen attended the opera and occupied the royal box. Princess Margaret has her own choice as to the stalls. She has announced her intention of attending a Chinese dance-hall "just to see." Last year, when the Duchess were in Paris, Elizabeth mentioned that she had never been on a Ferris wheel. "Then I will," said Margaret "and I've always wanted to." Next day they both busied to Pyrahoth.

The older sister left the "bus afterwards. The younger Princess Margaret who went to the driver and said, "My sister and I have always wanted to ride in a 'bus. Thanks a lot!"

It is Margaret, too, who follows the radio programs and draws her sister's attention to star attractions. Much has been made of the fact that Princess Elizabeth dances the rumba in the West End's smart restaurants. But connoisseurs agree that Princess Margaret dances it better — and dances with more fervor.

Comparisons are inevitable. Today, aware that she has been overshadowed and a little submerged by her sister, the Royal Family is encouraging Princess Margaret to act on her own initiative. Children of the film studios at Pinewood and Denham are being accustomed to hurried calls from the Palace, "Princess Margaret is coming to visit you!" The Princess enjoys exchanging wisecracks with the studio workers, how to watch from back-corners without getting in anyone's way or holding up production.

From these expeditions she often returns to the palace with a few new slang words in her vivacious repertoire.

"Wherever did you learn such slang!" the King once asked his young daughter. "It's my mother's knee — or some such low joint," she responded. A hero worship she has amused her parents at times with witty impersonations of Prime Minister Attlee, Churchill, Herbert Morrison and other political visitors. She enjoys writing scraps of nonsense verse in the Lear and Lewis Carroll style, and recently she amused the King length till the tears ran down his cheeks.

Life at Buckingham Palace she once described as "life in a goldfish bowl." She has no latch-key, has never been allowed to travel in a taxi and is only beginning to face her first official duties. Yet while the King and Queen often weekend in Sandringham, she has been allowed to act as part-hostess to Princess house parties at Windsor Lodge was in the background of Lieut. Mountbatten's courtship and is perhaps has an outlook older than her years.

Any speculations about Princess Margaret's future husband would, of course, be premature. It seems probable that one day she will take over her mother's role of consort and can no longer be Princess Nothing.

WEDDINGS

POTTER—WADDINGHAM

The Palatine of Bethany Hill United Church was adorned by a profusion of cut flowers and ferns when Miss Ethel Waddingham became the bride of Mr. Bill Potter, Cliff, at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of August 28th, 1937. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. D. Seward. The bride was given away by her father, Mr. R. Merrick officiating and Mrs. Derward Waddingham, of Napanee, presided at the organ music. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Waddingham, of Marysville, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Potter, of Regina, Sask.

To the strains of the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin, the bride entered the church with the father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a fitted gown of ivory satin, fashioned a yoke of nylon sheer with long sleeves ending in points at the wrists. Her full length veil of embroidered net fell from a cap of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of Briarcliffe roses. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls.

The maid of honor was Miss Dorothy Weese, Reg. N., of Belleville, who wore a floor length gown of turquoise blue crepe, with floral headdress, and carried yellow roses.

Miss Helen Alexander of Peterborough, a cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid, wearing a gown of pink nylon with matching sheer overskirt and floral headdress. She carried a Colonial nosegay of mixed blossoms.

Jessie Mae Marilyn Waddingham, of Napanee, was her aunt's flower girl, wearing a quaint floor length frock and floral headdress, an identical model of that worn by the bridesmaid. She also carried a Colonial nosegay.

Mr. Norman Morris, of Kingston, ably supported the groom, and the ushers were Mr. Edward Waddingham, of Napanee, brother of the bride, and Mr. Allan Porter, of Kingston, brother of the groom.

The soloist was Mrs. H. A. Boyce, of Deseronto, who sang "O Promise Me" before the ceremony and "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, which was artistically decorated for the occasion in a color scheme of blue and white, Mrs. Waddingham received the guests in a navy ensemble with matching accessories, and wearing a corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by Mrs. Porter in a white suit with black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Immediately after the reception Mr. and Mrs. Porter left by motor for a two weeks' honeymoon at Muskoka and other points. For travelling the bride chose a navy flat crepe ensemble suit with white accessories.

The groom's gift to the bride was a set of luggage, to the groomsmen a pair of leather wallets. The bride's gifts to the bridal attendants were gold necklaces, to the ushers gold tie and fraternity bracelet, to the soloist, perfume, and to the flower girl, a glamor pin.

Guests were present from Kingstown, Perth, Toronto, Belleville, Shannonville, Kingston, Marysville, Selby, Napanee, Deseronto, Napanee, Peterborough, and Regina, Sask.

SHONIKER—ZEBEDEE

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel was the scene on the evening of August 28th, of the marriage of Cecilia Jackie Zebedee, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Zebedee, and the late Mrs. Zebedee, of Belleville, and Clarence Joseph Shoniker, youngest son of Mrs. Shoniker of Trenton, and the late Mr. Nicholas Shoniker. Rev. Father C. Baker officiated for the ceremony, and wedding music was played by Miss Fluery. The soloist was Miss Genevieve Tracy.

The bride made a charming picture in a floor length gown of white satin, fashioned on princess lines. Her headdress was of orange blossoms, from which her fingertip veil of French tulle fell gracefully. Her only ornament was a gold locket, and she carried an arm bouquet of deep red roses, sweet peas and baby breath.

Miss Josephine Buckley was the bride's only attendant, wearing a floor length gown of turquoise blue taffeta, with matching overskirt, a matching shoulder length veil, and carrying a Colonial nosegay.

Mr. Lorne Vieau of Trenton, ably supported the groom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mrs. G. Caldwell, Princess Street in Trenton, where the traditional color scheme of pink and white was used for the decorations. Mrs. Caldwell, a sister of the groom, received with his mother, wore a three piece length dress of poudre blue, with white accessories, and a corsage of pink gladioli.

For a honeymoon trip to Stratford, Ont., and Detroit, Mich., the bride chose a suit of grey zebardine, with black accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Shoniker will later reside in Cannifton.

Outstanding Fall Fashions Exhibited to Large Audience At Kiwanis Club Carnival

Dresses by Eldridge, Clifford's Dress Shop, Montreal, Men's Wear by Bowerman's, Jewellery by McKee, Hats by Campbell and Make-up by Lafleur's Bridge Hill Compliments.

A capacity audience filled the seating and standing room at the Armouries last evening at the Kiwanis Club Fall Fashions, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club.

Under the management of Mrs. Ross Wilson, directress, and with the music commentator, Mrs. W. G. Mikel, assisting, the styles, modelled from the dancing class of Mrs Barsbara Dimont gave a splendid exhibition of the latest styles, displaying to fine advantage the beauty of the models and the fashion lines. Store co from Trenton and Belleville were represented.

The theme, which modelling followed many a fine collection of women, was in black with long slimline dresses in wide gathered skirts, with similar jackets, with the exception along the opening of the right skirt from hem to knee.

A lovely soft blue material was developed into a gown with dainty embroidery in unusual effect in the same blue line, one piece princess dress displayed a bodice bounded in gold sequins with swaying side draperies on the fascinating floor length skirt. If any gown could be called "most" distinctive, it was a fascinating black dinner creation with long sleeves, fitted bodice, edged by bright rose and bolo neckline. A square neckline was another fascinating feature of the bodice, the skirt being completely covered with the delicate material of the beautiful sleeve arrangement.

Furs.

Coats for the ladies' selection displayed the fashionable Canadian furs, Alaskan and Siamese furs.

One model was developed in grey of rose, with a satin sheen, featured a very small collar, large cuffs and deep hem. Also in this were popular brown of Canadian muskrat, and in black was a very fashionable model, with style in fitted back, with flare from the front every stage to the bottom of the full length of skirting. Fashioned with very full sleeves ending in fairly long cuffs, fitting the wrists and around the fore part, fine protection against the wintry winds.

Hudson Seal was used for a great deal of garment with a very popular collar and matching wrist band, while a coat of Russian Pony was developed in a very fine model.

Versatility Features

Outstanding for sheer beauty was a fitted dress of black silk crepe combined with lovely lace, which fashioned the deep yoke of the bodice and added length to the softly gathered peplum skirt.

For the truly formal occasion effects the dress of velvet was developed, one in black with long slimline dress in wide gathered skirt, with similar jackets, with the exception along the opening of the right skirt from hem to knee.

Tips on Tipping in a Summer Hotel

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please advise me how, when, where and how much to tip, for a two weeks' stay at a summer hotel in the country. Thank you.

F. N.

Puzzling questions always, these tipping problems, tipping particularity, of course, about how much to tip. Since tips are not mandatory, personal discernment, the individual's budget, and the individual's reaction to "tipping" and his or her valuation of service rendered, seems that at best outsider cannot suggest the amount tips with very much accuracy.

Then, too, the question of tips and whom one tips vary with the class, and particularly with the type of hotel and the kind of service. For example, in a comparatively inexpensive hotel in the country or at the seashore, the chambermaid would be given from only one to two dollars a week, depending on what, I have mentioned above, if, as is probable, the hotel is on the American Plan, and you have the same waitress or waiter for all meals, she or he may be tipped from a total of $4 to $5 to two dollars a week; sometimes $6 is given (which is the largest one). Is reckoned as about 5 per cent of the bill. Similarly, if a porter (or bellboy) brings your trunk or other luggage to your room, he might receive from twenty-five cents; ten cents to a bellboy bringing his valise, newspapers, or a package to your room; or there is an extra charge of $1 a week in an individual operator's and small fees to any other attendant who may serve you. If this is a headwaiter, he might be given a dollar when you leave, or fifty cents a week.

When in town for a two weeks' stay, I suggest you give your taxi at the end of each week. Give a tip in a friendly spirit, and always with a "thank you" for the service.

When Wedding is at Home of Friends of Bride's Family

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a wedding is to be at the house of friends of the bride's family . . . the bride's godmother and her husband . . . should they, the hosts, or the bride's parents, issue the invitations? In either case, will you please give me the exact wording of such invitations? The wedding is to be a formal one in the large house of these friends.

Viola

These invitations are issued in the name of the bride's parents, and should read like this Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Smith request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter Viola to Mr. Robert Morris Well Saturday, the first of October at four o'clock at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Clark, Forty Park Road Center Hill, Ohio Seven Hillhowe Street Kindly respond

JAP SHIP BOMBED

Tokyo, Aug. 30 — (Reuters) — The Japanese transportation ministry stated today that it had received reports from Burma that unidentified planes had bombed the 970-ton Japanese ship Kanegawa Maru Aug. 1 at Haksta, a port on Kyushu Island.

Ten bombs were dropped but all missed the vessel by a wide margin, except one which landed 100 yards from its stern, it was added.

The planes were stated to have flown southwards the Ryukyus Islands.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Lesson Number One in the Texi-book of Love

Why it is that some girls seem to think they can get a boy interested in them by running after him as hard as they can is difficult to understand.

A boy's usual reaction under such circumstances is to run away faster than the girl can run after him. But even when it is perfectly obvious that this is what he is doing, some girls refuse to give up the chase. Sooner or later, they believe, they will be able to catch up with him and their reasoning seems to be that he will then receive the pursuer with open arms because she has managed to run faster than he could.

The girl who won't take no for an answer, whether that no is said in words or demonstrated by actions, is either defeating her own ends or making a complete fool of herself. Some girls succeed in doing both things.

One girl, for instance, who writes me that as a co-operative farm, where she recently spent two months, she met a 21-year-old boy for whom she fell with a bang, seems to be perfectly aware that the chap is not particularly interested in her, yet she insists on pursuing him.

"I liked him from the first minute I met him," she writes, "it was very hard for me to win him over. The last two weeks of my stay at this farm, he finally became friendly with me, and the last week we went out every evening and spent many hours together. He thought I was only a kid because I am 17 years old.

"We had long talks and he knows I love him very much. He doesn't love me—I know that—but he does like me. If he didn't would he have gone out of his way to spend all the time he could with me the last week I was there?

"Before I left for home, he told me not to be offended if he didn't write to me. I said I wouldn't. Now that I've been home for over a week I've written him every day, but I have not heard from him. I have faith in him, though, and know he will write to me when he gets around to doing so.

"I want to go back to the farm for a weekend this Fall, but my parents won't permit me to go back until I have finished high school next year. By that time, he will probably have gone somewhere else. I love him very much and I don't know whom to get him. It seems as if everything is against me. He does like me a little bit. Please help me."

Now could anything be stiller than for a girl to write to a young man every day after he had told her he was not going to write to her? Her object, of course, is to show him how devoted she is, but it seems to me he already knew that she had a crush on him, and he has acted as diplomatically as possible that he did not reciprocate her feeling. what could she possibly hope to accomplish by pelting him with a volley of middle-distance mails?

Seventeen is very young, it is true but it is not too early for a girl to start learning a few facts of life, and one of the most important of these is, in plain language, that men do not want to be chased by women. This is such an elementary fact, and one would think it such a well-known one, that it is hard to understand why a girl would not know it. But there are always those who believe that the laws of Nature, of which this is one, are going to reverse themselves for their particular benefit.

The "little bit of liking" that this girl thinks this young man has for her is not enough for her to build any hopes on. The fact that he spent so much time with her the last week at the farm could have been due—if the fact that he knew she was going away and that he would no longer be bothered with her he might as well be nice to her, or the fact that she fastened herself on him so tightly that he was unable to shake her off.

I advise this girl to learn Lesson Number One in the text-book of love gracefully. She is going to have anybody else the longer she puts it off, the harder it will be.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Get Your Beauty Sleep

Not so long ago, reducing was the chief topic of conversation the country over. Women talked over the bridge or tea tables. There is less of that now, because dieting is no longer new. Instead of learning about fat-free diets, we talk of how relaxed we feel and shaking their fats at obesity. How is dieting coming, dear? is everyone's question and what to do about it. The war is responsible for increased cases of insomnia. One doesn't sleep back quickly after years of anxiety, worry and hard work. Shaking nerves won't quiet them.

Any number of women, many of whom have never been greatly interested in religion, are finding tranquility and restful nights through prayer. It is not surprising that this method of wooing slumber works like a charm. The mind is filled with hopeful calming thoughts that crowd out worrying, harassing ones. With the mind at peace, the body relaxes, the nervous system settles down. Pretty soon sleep comes.

Disturbing physical conditions can keep one awake. The poor sleeper should have a light dinner, take a bowl full of crackers and milk at bedtime. Emotional upsets may bring hours of wakefulness. The poor victim of this bad habit relives, in her mind, the details of some argument or disappointment.

Some individuals sleep at three hour stretches, with an hour or two of wakefulness between. They can read until they get drowsy again, or they can just rest quietly. Rest is almost as refreshing as sleep. If they toss and turn and worry, they will not get up feeling wretched and worn.

If the bedroom is too hot, a nap during the day, they will have enough sleep. Their cases are not unusual. Any doctor will tell you that there are thousands of people who never sleep right through the night without awakening.

The one big thing is not to feel sorry for yourself. Troubles always seem worse at night.

In the bedroom there should be a current of fresh air. Fresh air helps to induce sleep. The room should not be too high. The mattress must be firm, so the body will rest comfortably. Bed clothing should be just warm enough for comfort, never heavy. When it is heavy, it interferes with free deep breathing.

Accordion Shakespeares, sleep is the "chief nourisher at life's feast." It is especially necessary for teen-agers who are growing rapidly. Nine hours are not too many; even ten hours won't do a bit of harm. High school and college girls, combining study and social affairs, make a grave mistake by keeping late hours. Youth is not immune to exhaustion, as it foolishly imagines.

Troubles are always worse at night.

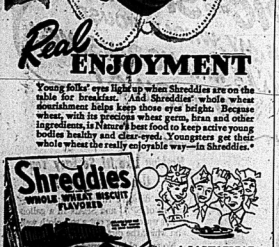
Fashion Flashes

BRIGHT BEAUTY on even the dullest, rainiest day, is happy gift of a raincoat of creamy-white weather-processed corduroy. It has a generous swing back, closes with three buttons on a deep yoke, has a detachable hood that buttons into the collar, and deep, square pockets.

Very few forward-posed hats this year, but all hats seem to go in for side width in some form. Wine-colored felt makes a wide, high-riding shallow breton, draped softly with beige velvet that boasts wine-colored cherille dots. A nice change after so much fuss and feathers!

Best buy in the inexpensive fur field, say professional buyers, is the black-mouton lamb coat. A three-flare back, a tab collar and parachute sleeves with fitted cuffs are accents of a smart 42-inch length mouton coat which, in black, is expected to appeal to the more mature women.

Accent on necklines as skirt hems go down. Palest beige fine jersey molded is used for a handsome dress. The high, flaring neckline is rounded in front, with two tabs in back, trimmed with gold metallic cloth. Same treatment for cuffs. Dress buttons in back to waist. Skirt is softly flared.



Very new looking is the very fitted, sharply flared tunic jacket worn with a long, slim skirt. An Australian two-piece has this type of tunic-jacket top in thin red and black wool. The slim skirt is of black faille, which is also used for the tiny collar and for the three rows of four buttons each for the top.

Much style and fashion knowhow is new knotted clothes that are made on machines operated by hand—a combination of hand and machine knitting that makes for interesting results. A boxy basket-weave pull topper knitted high at the back with a design row of crochet-covered buttons. Hand crocheted edge is repeated for collar, deep cloaking, pockets and cuffs. Nice with a slim wool skirt.

VEGETABLE LAXATIVE
For Inner Cleanliness

"Are you one of those persons who is not careful about having that time of the month? Then you may be the unfortunate victim of a lack of the necessary inner cleanliness. Many women have suffered severe, weakening functional disturbances because they neglected this. These sufferers may be inclined to irritability, nervousness, feelings of inferiority and a feeling of unfitness to cope with ordinary problems. Let a doctor be your adviser in such matters. Remember, it is Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills that are prescribed.

Flying Plane Easy Says Pretty Pilot

Montreal, (CP)—Anyone who can drive a car can fly an aircraft, she says. That is the pert Gloria Large, blonde 22-year-old Prince Edward Islander who, not only flies herself but is a flight instructor.

Miss Large, who arrived in Montreal recently from her home town of Charlottetown, is the first of five licensed women flying instructors in Canada. Another is the 24-year-old Montrealer Jean Gardner, who is also learning to fly. Although a Montrealer all that commercially early age she insists that good health is the only qualification necessary for a good pilot.

In 1942 Gloria joined the Air Transport Auxiliary, the wartime British ferrying organization, and after a period of advanced training flying Harvards at the R.A.F. Transport Command at Dorval she went to England. For nearly a year and a half she ferried all types of aircraft from factories to R.A.F. bases. For her seven years as a pilot her log shows over 1,000 hours of solo time.

Early this year the young aviatrix passed examinations for a commercial pilot's license and upon completion of tests in Halifax last month she was licensed as an instructor. She is presently teaching at the Laurentide Flying Service at Cartierville, the post-war successor to the R.C.A.F. pilots' training school.

"More women should learn to fly," says Gloria. "My mother cheerful hobby and any girl who can drive an auto can learn to fly. Airplane steering is easy."

The former A.T.A. pilot has a number of students under her training in two-place Canada sister craft. And, according to her boss, Jack Schofield, interest among non-flying ferry revived considerably since her arrival. Gloria hopes to own a plane herself one day, she says, but while she is enjoying every minute of her work.

Toronto, Aug. 30 (CP)—Two more restaurants were ordered closed yesterday in the city's "clean up or shut up" campaign. They were Lettor Lunch in North Toronto and Sam's delicatessen lunch on downtown Yonge St.

NOT WHAT THE PHOTOGRAPHER EXPECTED

As King Arthur sought the Holy Grail, he expected to see it torn to pieces. But news photographers devote their lives and this year, finds, took refuge behind a tree and began expending energies to seeking "something different." The author of this picture took a boy scout's trunk and chattered abuse at the phony. Then he ran to the Riverdale Zoo and tossed it into the cage with one of the zoo's giant pandas. The photog had to be satisfied with that. Maybe it is "something different" after all.

Ayrshire Cattle To be Developed On Bermuda Farm

Hamilton, Bermuda —(CP)— Canadian cattle are soon to soon be using Bermuda as the matching centre for pure-bred Ayrshire cattle in the western hemisphere.

Picked because of its geographical position — in close proximity to the United States and Canada — Bermuda is to be endowed with a brand new industry, breeding Ayrshires, if current experiments prove successful.

Giving details of the new project, Sir Howard Trott, one of the largest dairy farmers in Bermuda, said he had been presented with two pure-bred Ayrshire heifers by D.C. Watson and Sons of Drem, East Lothian, Scotland. The cattle are to be raised on Sir Howard's farm and a careful check will be made on their milk production and how they hold their weight under Bermuda conditions.

If these tests prove successful —and it is expected they will —many more Ayrshire pedigree stock will be imported for breeding purposes. On the results of this survey, therefore, depends the future of this industry as a cattle breeding country, and a local market for buyers of Ayrshires in Bermuda, Canada and the United States.

The heifers already arrived in Bermuda from Scotland and will remain in quarantine for 30 days, after having been reported to Sir Howard's farm on the eastern end of Bermuda.

New Industry

Sir Howard spoke enthusiastically of the possibilities of the project here.

"It will not only be a big new industry for this colony but will bring a great deal of Ayrshire cattle here. They are wonderful looking animals with tip-top pedigrees and are going to be a great asset to the island."

He expressed the belief that if everything went well —sure to bring out to Bermuda several of Watson's cattle, breed them and sell them in the United States and Canada.

Claiborn Watson, a member of the Scottish firm, who brought the heifers aboard Allan Line ship to Bermuda, said the two heifers he presented Sir Howard are worth about $1,500 each.

His firm owners of 650 pedigree tested Ayrshire cattle and is prepared to send at least 100 heifers to Bermuda.

He thought that "subject to the difficulties of getting the animals acclimatized and properly handled, there is a very good case for Bermuda starting a first-class business."

FLAK FOR BARBIE RETURNED

London, Aug. 30 (AP)—A London court refused a plea yesterday for a writ of habeas corpus for the release of eight babies born fathered by Nazis during which took 4,000 Jewish refugees from Palestine in southern France and now are anchored off Port De Bouc. The application included the babies were British citizens by reason of their birth on British ships.

What Makes Folks Left-Handed?

(From Newsweek Magazine New York)

From the yellowed pages of Thomas Cockle's diary (1671) comes a popular theory as to why the hand of the master in manual activity, the left heart is on the left side of the body. Clarke writes, he had to be protected in primitive warfare by holding that side from the opponent, and, as further safeguard, by holding a shield over it with the left hand. This freed the right hand for wielding a club or sword. It was also argued that those who did not use the last hand for shield engaging were eventually killed off. In later years, clubs for more frequent disposition of the left handedness were recognized and even exaggerated. Lombroso, the Italian psychiatrist, for instance, called it a sign of degeneracy because he found that the condition was present so often in criminals. Yet the contention of the word 'sinister' for left is derogatory.

Why a small percentage of human beings persist in using the left, or unconventional, hand has long been a challenge to scientists and educators. After ten years of research on the subject Dr. Abram Blau, New York University Medical College psychiatrist, has written an elaborate study, "The Master Hand", published recently by the American Orthopsychiatric Association. Blau's book discloses some unusual facts, many of which contest diet notions deeply rooted and widely held in medical and teaching circles.

The view most commonly held is that left-handedness is a hereditary trait. This, Blau declares, is not the case. Instead, the habit may also be acquired from a nurse, an older brother or sister, or a left-handed teacher.

Temporary physical injury to the right hand, from accident or illness, which causes the child to depend on the left primarily, even after the right hand regains its power, may establish deficiency, which may hamper him from learning normal use of the right hand.

"Emotional negativism," an active emotional resistiveness in early childhood—and the most common cause of left-handedness. The child who feels unwanted may become left-handed as a means of expressing hostility, resentment and aggression, in a conflict situation. Since his parents want him to use his right hand, he cries: "I'll spite you by using my left."

To be better equipped to live in the right-handed world Blau believes that all such children should be recognized. He discounts the idea that teaching a left-hander to write with the other hand may result in stuttering or other speech disorders. Stuttering, in fact, may be caused by the same sort of "emotional negativism" which makes a child left-handed in the first place.

GENIUS AT WORK ON ATOM RESEARCH

At the age of four, Raymond Schiff, of Pittsburgh, learned to play chess. While in high school, two years before the atomic bomb, he wrote an essay on the future of atomic energy. Today, at 21, he is working with scientists on nuclear experiments. He is shown here exercising his mental muscles at the target end of the giant atom-smasher in Pittsburgh. Schiff won one of the two top awards in the annual science talent search five years ago. Since then he has studied at Harvard under some of the nation's leading experts in atomic physics, and now ranks as one of the country's youngest nuclear physicists.

MEAT to help your baby build for a better future!

Mother! Swift's Meats for Babies meet these basic requirements of baby-feeding!

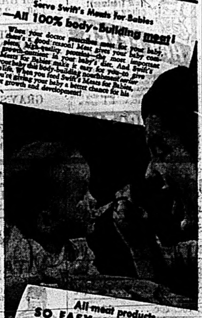
1. Good food for better growth

A small amount of meat in a mixture of foods does not meet baby's big protein needs. Your baby needs three to four times more protein, proportionately, than an adult! Swift's Meats for Babies provide complete, high-quality proteins, plus B vitamins and iron, for good red blood. Be sure your baby gets plentiful amounts of these vital nutrients . . . feed Swift's Meats for Babies—they're all meat!

2. Compact foods—for more nourishment, less bulk

Every bit of food baby eats must count—because he's building his body for life! Yet, baby can eat only a small amount of food. Swift's Meats for Babies offer a compact source of nourishment baby needs every day. Swift's Meats for Babies provide body-building nourishment—less bulk—don't waste precious space in baby's tiny stomach.

3. Careful control—for individual needs



Because your baby is different from every other baby, his food requirements are different, too. The best way to be sure your baby gets his food in the right amounts for him, is to control each food and balance baby's diet yourself. When you feed Swift's Meats for Babies you know exactly how much meat your baby is getting.

4. Variety—for good eating habits

Baby needs a variety of natural foods—meats, vegetables, fruits, milk and cereals. Right now your baby is forming eating habits for life. It's best to feed his foods separately—not all mixed together—to acquaint baby with different flavours and textures. Swift's Meats for Babies help your baby develop a taste for six wholesome, nutritious meats he will be eating all his life!

Serve Swift's Meats for Babies —All 100% body-building meat!

When your doctor prescribes meat for your baby, there's a good reason! Meat gives your baby complete, high-quality protein—the most important growth-nutrient in your baby's diet. And Swift's Meats for Babies make it easy for you—to give your baby this body-building nourishment earlier in life. When you feed Swift's Meats for Babies, you're giving your baby a better chance for his best growth and development!

All meat products SO EASY . . . SO THRIFTY to serve!

French-Canadian Pioneers Were Married in Style

(By Claire Lalonde in Woodstock Star)

Elaborate or simple, since very early days a wedding has been the occasion of importance—but rarely does the parents of the bride give up her youthful looks to assume social activities as did her ancestors.

Then, dances and celebrations for the bride-to-be and groom mean a farewell to the exciting activities that every young lady in French-Canadian rural districts flings used to be very different.

Great Event

Unless one was in mourning, a wedding was a great event, with friends and relatives invited to the celebration. The young husband was given a part of his father's farm (often with a mortgage on it) and there he built his home. Meanwhile, the lady in question was busy preparing her bedding chest. With most of the money used by farms in the family, the girl would be given instead a bedroom suite and her father's cow as a dowry.

The well lived mast ignored the formal demand for the hand of the bride-to-be. Instead, he was often sought out the old man when he was doing his chores and asked for the eligible daughter's hand. Later, he and the girl's father would meet, the couple would be arranged to have the banns called at high mass for three consecutive Sundays.

Bids For Help

The bride's father, mother and adult members of the family made the invitations. Of the many days visiting the grandparents and godparents will get the friends of the bride and bridegroom. Then the preparations of butchering, baking and cleaning. The horses were given extra oats and the sleigh, cart, whip was adorned with a bow of white satin.

On the wedding procession, the bride, in pastel colors with ecrin children or her that rode ahead with her future chief case the best man and bridesmaid, followed by young couples, with or without children. Bringing up the procession came the bridegroom and his father.

Most church ceremonies were simple, with no music or singing to accompany the Nuptial Mass. The newly-wedded couple led the procession on the way back, with a pause at the local hotel for a few drinks and square dancing.

Dinner was served at the bride's home where the long table had to be cleared and set many times. Each time, prided itself on serving the best food and drink and many times the noisiest banquet in the evening at the bridegroom's home. Dancing went on afterwards until the early hours of the morning.

Invitation an Honor

Few families then could boast of costly silverware, glass or rare flowers, but an invitation to share in a wedding festivity was considered an honor to be treasured and remembered.

Few couples took a honeymoon trip but went immediately to their new home and joined the ranks of other married couples.

With a mortgage to clear and implements to buy for the farm, many brides were their wedding clothes long after they were out of style. Babies came and with them cares and sickness so that the young mother hardly had time neglected before her time. Occasionally quarrels flared, then as now. If the young husband complained to his parents that his new home was not as perfect as his old one, he was reminded that for those who had been through the same hardships. His wife was the wife he married life.

Sometimes the young bride went home to her mother to pour out her sorrows but, although it was hard on the parents to see her in tears they sent her back to try again for a better understanding. Divorces and separations were frowned upon and they found that things usually came out well in the end.

They had sworn fidelity at the foot of the altar "for better or for worse" and, for the sake of their children, they often forgot their quarrels and tried again. Marriage was a sacred tie to them and, if the love of honeymoon days had been killed by the hardship of the life, they did not seek their relief in separation.

NEWFOUNDLAND MUSIC AND SONG SOUGHT BY CABLE

Canadian Radio Composer Collecting Treasure Trove of Old Melodies

By E. M. CHANTLER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Stone, Harvard Cabot, the brilliant Canadian composer, hears the siren call of inspiration for a hide-away home or an artistic attic atmosphere.

His slim packs pig bags, rolls his manuscripts, squeezes his pencils and sticks off for News Foundland.

His idea being simply this:

Like many Canadians, he hasn't read of recent speculation on the likelihood of an avalanche of entering Confederation at its 10th province. His composer's mind already planning a melodious setting of the Dominion's folk songs, was intrigued.

Wouldn't John Cabot's discovery be worth a timely melody?

Sure! So off he went—with Dr. Leslie Loring, conductor of the Bell Singers, celebrated Canadian choral group.

At present they are poring over illustrated documents relating to early culture and music-wares of Britain's oldest colony, and listening to the songs of the fishing villages—or the rugged songs of Newfoundland's toilers of the sea.

"Music by Cabb" radio fans will hear the result one of these days.

Oh, the woes of a disc-jockey! The other night Frankie "Mail-bag" record hour emcee at CKOC, Hamilton, Ont., blithely sang a cropper.

A merry wag at heart, Hal became a bit glum when he saw the sad tale: A certain local miss wrote him to request his disc "Tell Me Why" by Another Pal Like You" for her mother. Now, ever a glutton of punishment, Hal been misplaced and another submitted, since "Tell Me" needle Again." Not appeasing cried the local lady, enraged letter to Hal. You see, matter had just announced her second venture in matrimony.

Bubbling, vivacious Claire Wallace, now turned globe-trotting radio interviewer, is back from the Caribbean for a new series of "You, Wallace" broadcasts. Her surveys-voice casts will include Kingston, Jamaica and color in Puerto Rico, the Dominican Republic and Haiti.

If you would care to know: According to CBC radio statistics, listening licenses issued 1946-47 totalled 1,479,000, compared to 1,174,351 issued to Canadians during 1945-46.

And a United States research group announced there are 53,000,000 cars, sets in American homes plus 4,000,000 sets in business places and institutions—and 2,500,000 in automobiles.

A correspondent in "Manitoba Calling" has learned of a young couple in his check writer:

"Why are they such wonderful radio beautiful people are they? When I tune it's someone making love, or else it's one of those 'beautiful,' 'charming,' 'lovely,' 'delectable,' or 'sweet' singers whose beauty is certainly not in their voices."

To the barricades, chivalrous knights!

COULD USE IT NOW

Granville Farry, N.S. (CP)—One of the big attraction for tourists in this Annapolis Basin community is the Granville Ferry "Ice Mine" in a cave under the North Mountain. Even in mid summer it is as cold in the depths of the cave that water seeping through the rock freezes on the floor of the cavern.

DON'T BE HALF-SAFE!

Are you only half-safe? Some deodorants stop perspiration only half the time! Others only mask odor temporarily! Or are you getting the best of both?

Are your clothes only half safe? Some deodorants are pasty, greasy, gritty! Others rot fabrics, dissolve dresses and stop the perspiration with chemicals that merely clot—spelling a fabric disaster!

Is your skin only half-safe? Some deodorants irritate your delicate skin. Are you taking chances? A FINE deodorant should be gentle, safe!

BE ARRID-SAFE
Get this 3-way protection

1. Arrid really protects you from offending. Kills perspiration odor completely, safely, and keeps you safe by analysis tests.

2. Arrid is gently safe for clothes—gentler, milder, than soap preparations, so positively kinder to clothes, too!

3. Arrid is really safe for your skin. A pure, white, unstained vanishing cream. Does not irritate, leaves normal skin normal. Arrid does not rot clothes.

Don't be half-safe. Be Arrid-safe. Get Arrid—no more! 15¢, 30¢, 59¢

NO OTHER deodorant

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Until the end of time there will be bridge arguments. Bound to be. Never will it be possible to eliminate the human element. And who wants to?

However, a player should know what is correct. Or learn what is. Convincingly. After that, if he injects something wrong, he knows it is. And how much. And whose fault it is.

Knowing who is wrong and why, there should be no argument. An apology by the offender ends the matter. Unless, of course, he is a stubborn ox. Which he usually is.

In a spirit of adventure, a player often makes a wrong bid. To put a definite curb on this is not the intention of good rules. Rules only advise that a wrong bid is less likely to be profitable.

As dealer, I passed the hand shown here:

♠ 7
♥ A 8 2
♦ Q 9 7 6 5
♣ A 8 6 4

My partner was not pleased with this pass. He wanted to know why it was not opened with a diamond. He claimed he could see no sound rule or reason for not starting it off with some kind of a bid.

To open, I told him, a player should have better than average in all essential qualities in a pack. With 12 high cards available, average is three of them. My three high made average; not more than.

High cards are no-trump tricks, I continued. The bidding may end in no-trump. Responding bids in no-trump are based on the opener having more than average in no-trump tricks. Responder needs the protection.

My partner was kind enough to weigh these remarks carefully. He even admitted they were proof enough to convince him. Encouraged, this led me to add: "So can anything of mine be proved."

He considered this for a moment as if to think of an example. But he only stated: "Even if it is not a correct bid, a man must be dumb not to open it." He had me there.

AT THE BELLE—Ugly truth revealed—Brian Aherne is judged mad by Gene Raymond when he accuses Laraine Day of being a hopeless kleptomaniac responsible for the death of another man. Co-starring with this trio is Robert Mitchum in "The Locket" action-packed drama due today at the Belle Theatre.

AT THE CAPITOL—Columbia's "Blondie Knows Best" now at the Capitol Theatre, features the Bumsteads at their hilarious best. L. to r. are Ludwig Donath, Penny (Blondie) Singleton, Arthur (Dag-wood) Lake, Marjorie (Cookie) Kent, Danny Mummert, Larry (Alexander) Simms and Shemp Howard. On the same program Gene Autry in his latest musical western "Saddle Pals."

Macedonia Accents Youth, Cabinet Ministers in 30's

By DANIEL DE LUCE

Skoplje, Yugoslavia, Aug. 21—(AP)—In Macedonia's new republic, believe it or not, the most popular foreign song is "Chattanooga Choo-Choo."

The president of Macedonia, one of the six republics which make up Federative Yugoslavia, is only 33. His name is Slavic—Lazar Kolishevski—but his face is lean thoughtful and darkbrowed.

The stark, grey mountains here have been bathed in blood for centuries. Yet peasants are innately friendly and will share their last ear of corn with a hungry stranger, electric dynamos hum in the towns. Primitive water wheels grind slowly in the villages.

Shepherds tending their flocks in biblical simplicity gaze with awe at pasing jeeps.

In Skoplje, the capital, the dominant hill is covered with the teetering stone slabs of a Moslem cemetery. In the 4000-year-old mosque of Gazi Isa Beg dervishes slash their arms with swords at the climax of religious fervor. But Christians are attuned to a rare tolerance. A man may worship in a peace that his forefathers never enjoyed.

Macedonia has become a show-piece of Marshal Tito's statesmanship.

What Macedonia Is

What is Macedonia? The map reveals it as the southern salient of the new federative Yugoslavia bounded on the west by Albania, the south of Greece, and the east by Bulgaria. Before Tito, it went under the name of "South Siberia."

Ask the Macedonian-in-the-street and he will say he covets no foreign-ruled lands. He is a conscientious objector to starting another fire in the Balkan powder keg.

No consensus has yet been taken by the Republic, created in 1944 when German and Bulgarian occupiers were driven out. The population, however, is officially estimated at 950,000. Albania and Turkish Moslems are a minority of 300,000. The big majority is Orthodox Slav.

Five Year School Plan

One of every two adults does not know how to read or write. But schools are being doubled in number during the course of a five-year plan.

The accent is on youth in government. Virtually all cabinet ministers are in their 30's. President Kolishevski, who once was a clerk in a retail store, is among the youngest.

Macedonians are not quite sure how "Chattanooga Choo-Choo" rolled into their musical repertoire, but it has a definite eminence. Other old hits from tin pan alley are also heard at public dances.

93-YEAR-OLD BARN BURNED

Toronto Aug 21 (CP) — A 93-year-old barn on Dufferin St. North York, just north of Toronto, was destroyed by fire last night. Thirteen pigs died in the five-hour blaze and a number of chickens disappeared — some of them in the arms of onlookers. Owner Wilfred Anderson made no estimate of loss, which included 50 loads of hay.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 21 (AP)—Nothing seems to faze Susan Peters. Now she is planning an air tour to South America.

The actress will take a rest after she finishes "The Sign of the Ram," her first film since becoming paralysed. Then in the late fall she wants to take a trip south of the border.

Susan considers her experiment at picture making a success. She has borne up well under the strain of a highly emotional role and wants a rest only to to devote more time to her son. She won't do another film until next year.

$64 Question

Al Jolson and Columbia have completed a deal for the sequel to the sensational "Jolson Story." But the $64 question is whether they can get Larry Parks to do it. Al thinks so...

Susan Hayward will get a vacation and rest after she completes "Tap Roots" this week. She has made six pictures in a row with little time between and is operating on nervous energy. The doc said to lay off...

Barry Fitzgerald hasn't been able to click in pictures without Bing Crosby, but now he'll get his biggest chance since "Going My Way." He is reported joining Dick Haymes, Winnipeg-born Deanna Durbin and Vincent Price in "Up in Central Park"...

Lion Beckons

British offers are descending on Hollywood players. Apparently increased production is being planned in England to make up for the loss of new United States films in theatres there. Sydney Greenstreet and Claude Rains are among those who have received, and declined offers from abroad...

Frank Sinatra will sing in "Miracle of the Bells." His fans will be happy to know. The song is "Ever Homeward," taken taken from a Polish folk tune and Frank thinks it will as big a hit as "The Anniversary Song," whose minor key it resembles...

Ginger Rogers is holding script sessions at her house for her production, "Wild Calendar." But like many other independent films, it is being delayed until the British tax situation is ascertained...

Tommy Breen's screen debut has an interesting angle. He will give Jane Powell her first film kiss, in "Luxury Liner." Censoring the scene will be Tommy's dad, Joe Breen, Hollywood's chief censor.

Ossie Bluege To Call Meeting Of Whole Team

Washington, Aug. 21. (AP)—The Washington Post says Manager Ossie Bluege has called a team meeting of the American League Washington Senators in Detroit today with the avowed intention of quelling a clubhouse dispute over his leadership before it goes any further.

Angry at published reports that eight players consider his handling of his athletes "undiplomatic" and would prefer to play elsewhere, the Post says, Bluege told reporters in Cleveland last night:

"The time has come for a showdown. I'll read the players the newspaper article and if any or all eight of them admit that they made statement, they are through." He said they would be suspended immediately.

The story in question was published by the Washington Star yesterday.

Burton Hawkins, star baseball writer, attributed the criticism to five U-named regulars and three reserves. One of the first stringers was quoted as saying "If Bluege is managing next year I don't want to play with Washington."

She yields more when she's free of insects

• Clouds of tormenting flies and insects make cattle restless, affect their weight and milk yield. Shell Livestock Spray is the easy, safe, new way to keep cattle free of insect pests! Use it to clear the air instantly, morning and night at milking time.

Then spray it directly on the cattle, before putting them out to pasture and before bedding them down. Shell Livestock Spray repels insects 'round the clock before they bite! Yet it's guaranteed harmless to man and beast—absolutely safe to use. Be sure you have Shell Livestock Spray always on hand. $1.60 an Imperial gallon.

At height of fly season, spread SHELL DDT BARN SPRAY over inside surfaces, eaves and corners, walls and manure piles.

Forms an invisible 'film of death' which dries hard, stays put, won't blow away. Kills bugs before they breed. One spraying lasts a long time! $2.25 an Imperial gallon.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARTER, Sports Editor

Ole Jens Flaten returned to the wrestling wars after a long absence and defeated Jerry Meyers in two straight falls in Lower Gladstone, or wherever wrestling is held, Tuesday night. Flaten looked a lot better than he did in his previous appearance here. The old bloke dropped in suddenly during early afternoon and, after making the rounds, left sufficient ealing behind to smother a bull. He quietened on the Nazanene-Fiyers and Lotta-Bata baseball games.

However, if the gent with the mutton-whiskers remains away tomorrow evening the Expos will be left holding the sopaque here against the Flyers, and the Lotta crew fearing to Batawa. In conversation with Manager Jack Carson of the Lotta nine yesterday he stated that he hopes to play the postponed Tuesday game here on Friday evening under the arcs. No word yet when the postponed game will play their postponed joust.

The announcement that big "Zumbo" Geyer had been indefinitely suspended by the Ontario Amateur Softball Association did not come exactly unexpectedly. Geyer is alleged to have struck Umpire Jack Scott of Petat Sprang during the game between the CNR Veterans and the Point Anne Leafs for the city title, and thereby drew the suspension.

Opinions differ as to the cause of the suspension when Geyer after an altercation with the umpire knocked the mask of the official's face. No matter what the argument was it is alleged that Zumbo Geyer was right on the umpire was right, no player should go so far as to "take a sock" at any official no matter how much he needs it, in the opinion of the player.

Umpires are only human — like players. They make and mistakes at times — they would be out of this world if they didn't. But the umpire-in-chief at a baseball or softball game is monarch of all he surveys, and even if he doesn't survey correctly at times, he is still the boss man and his word is law. And parrel or capitalations in all sport stand solidly behind their official. That is the why it should be. And veteran players know it. It is alright to blow off a little steam if a decision irks a player, that is part of the spice of the game. But to go so far as to assault an official draws a suspension, and rightly so.

We are holding no brief for Umpire Scott nor for Player Goyer. Scott may have erred grievously. Some say he did — others the contrary. But the fact still remains that he was the umpire-in-chief and his word was final. Geyer in the heat of the moment apparently struck the official, something that the big fellow has never done before. He was probably sorry for it the moment his first started to swing. But that doesn't detract from the weight drew a suspension — as it should.

But on the other hand, the suspension does not affect Goyer as far as softball is concerned any more this season, at least. As it happened, the game was the last of the season and the last official tilt in which Goyer's team participated. In any event, he would not have played again this year except in exhibition games. But that is not all.

The Ontario Amateur Softball Association suspension of the big fellow for the balance of this season affects other clubs. If the old Ontario Softball Federation (which included Toronto) had been in all major sports in the province of Ontario instead of one, Goyer may find himself in deep water. The Softball affair, and an agreement that each member body would recognize the suspensions of other bodies. If this is the case Big Yorn may find himself out of baseball and football until the OASA lifts the suspension edict.

Thirty-five members of the Philadelphia Rockets will report here for training on September 15, according to latest information received here. They will be quartered at the Queen's and other hotels of the city during their stay here.

Speaking of the Rockets, when Abe Saperstein, director, Service Bureau, American Hockey League wrote Prince Wahid Anemberg, Philly publisher and radio station operator purchased the Philadelphia Arena and the Rockets, things have been happening in Saperstown, he knew perhaps of which he spoke.

Recently sports writers in National Hockey League centres, especially Toronto, have been directing more or less satirical jibes at the Rockets' new ownership. Even the Chicago Blackhawks, an N. H. L. franchise mooted for the city of Brotherly Love, are reported to be called the Maroons, and the interest of the brewers and wealthy Annenberg in the Rockets is causing the big boys some concern.

Andy (Toronto Star) Lytle after making some pointed remarks he is sure Annenberg acquired several of his many millions does on to say that Herb Gardner, erstwhile business manager of the Rockets resigns to join the Maroon interests. Jim Hendy states in a recent release that Gardner quit Rockets to join the Washington Club which will be back in action this fall, and was succeeded by Max Kaminsky.

Peterborough apparently is taking that professional baseball item seriously. According to Scribe Perdue of the Shemong sheet, an early meeting of the city council committee and citizens committee appointed to go into the pro baseball question in Peterborough, has been called. Dit Clapper, well-known Boston Bruins player-coach who has been appointed coach of the new pro club, points out what faces the committees. Riverside Park where the pro bucks will play, is badly in need of some quick touching-up such as grass plantfd, fences built, bleachers erected, stands repaired, and what not.

And Dit wants to know how far the council will go in aiding the project, on top of the $10,000 gift of the Toronto Leafs and the money city manufacturers are raising to purchase flood lights. His pre mment, Dit adds, should we say optimistically, would aid the minor baseball teams of the city financially.

That game last night between our Kiwanis Juniors and the Kinsmen Juniors in the first game of the 1st round Junior Hardyman was a honey to win and a heart breaker to lose, Kingston has a starry aggregation this year if they get by our prides should go a long way down the championship trail. Their infield is one of the best we have seen and if the small sample of Myles George Lay's flinging is a criterion, and with Frankie Dyer in reserve they have nothing to worry about in the pitching department.

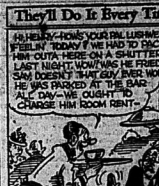
But, by the same token, if you can forget that first inning the Kiwanis Juniors turned in a fine effort. They couldn't do much with Mulholland and Lay's starts this time, but then neither did the Limestone lads after Bob Pringle got settled away. In our opinion the tall right-hander came through with a fine flinging effort somewhat in the pinches. He struck out six batters and served perfect knocks the for get with the exception of the 6th when they clustered two with no damage done.

Speedy St. Louis pinch hitters came through in fine style. Russ Boules lashed out a single and Gordy Donovan got two hits as well as pulling off a spectacular catch in the field. Art Wright was given the hero's role in the ninth when he batted for Hank Reaves, but Lay was too good for him and he singled through centre. He also fleetfooted as a giraffe fell at first base as driving out one of his hits. It would have been a double for the kid can pick'em up and put 'em down with the best of 'em.

However, tomorrow night's another game and the squads go at it again on the Kingston cricket field starting at six o'clock. It should be a thriller for the Kingston folks, discovered last night that the local are not pushovers.

Sports Roundup

By FRITZ HOWELL
(For Hugh Fullerton Jr.)



Vandalia O., Aug. 21 (AP) — Trapshoot topics:

Golfers done on long tales about the short putt, and fishermen will find more room here about the big one that got away —but you should hear these trapshooters tell it. Nobody about how they muffed a crucial target.

There are hundreds of ways of missing 'em, and Jack Mitchell of Bridgeport, Conn., has been compelled to listen to long stories about all of them. Listening takes a lot of time, so Jack has a stunt.

He has fixed up a long list of all alibis, excuses and reasons for missing targets, and has numbered. Some have substitutions, which are lettered. He passes them out to all the shooters, so all the marksman has to do to step up to Mitchell and say:

"Three, seven and nine" —and Jack has the story in a nutshell.

Mitchell is working on a "head-nodding device," to be worked from his pocket, which he'll operate as he listens to a short tale, thus slashing his listening time to practically nothing and allowing him to get some work done. Dins and Dots, indeed.

If they hadn't limited the 1948 American Bowling Congress to 7,000 teams and 60 days, it's hard to tell how many would have entered — for with 58 places allotted to Columbus, O., 72 teams have filed entries. And the event is seven months away ...Dick McGeorge, sports expert with the Toledo Blade for 20 years, has deserted the scribe ranks to take a job with Frankie Stranahan's dad ... Folks from around Las Vegas are predicting that their Col. Bob Baker, who couldn't make it to the 1947 Grand American Trapshoot, will cop the veterans crown here next year despite his 75 years.

Kingston Athletics Gain Edge In Junior O.B.A. Playdowns By Beating Kiwanis Juniors

Score is 2-1 and Defeat of Locals Can be Laid to Shaky First Frame

(By G. M. C.)

Kingston Athletics in a doubleheader game that featured a nine hitting duel between Sandy Mulholland and Bobby Runion, edged the Belleville Kiwanis Juniors at the Athletic Grounds last night to take a one-game lead in their two-of-three series in the first round of the Junior A.A. Ontario Baseball Association playdowns.

The second game of the series will be played at the Cricket Field in Kingston on Friday night.

Runion went the route after nearly five innings had actually decided the ball game when the Athletics pushed across two runs. After that the Bill Hightanger settled down and held the Kiwanis visitors to six hits, striking out eight and walking three. Mulholland a stocky righthander had the Kiwanis kids practically eating out of his hand for seven innings letting them down with one scratch hit. His weakness in the eighth when Belleville pushed across two satisfy for one run and the Kingston master-minds rushed their ace George Lay to the mound.

Lay Stifles Rally

Lay stifled the Belleville rally striking out the two remaining batters and the fourth man in Belleville threatened again after Donovan had made a clean single and gone to second on Bush's sacrifice, he settled down to strike out Bud Green and pinch-hitter Art Wright.

The first innings jinx that trailed the Kiwanis team down through the playdowns last year was again in evidence. Runion walked the first man to come to the plate, Aiken, second man up blasted out a single and then Runion let go with a wild pitch to score the first run up. Colman of Kingston shortstop walked and Aiken scored the second Kingston run after Rank, first baseman had sent a towering fly to left field pulling down almost impossible catches while Jackie Waedbaugh's work at third had the effect of clearing the bases.

The Kingston infield likewise was in two two minute ovations, scoring second against Mulholland and Lay. Waedbaugh was the batting hero for the visitors getting a double and scoring a single while Conway also got a single and scored a run.

Kingston has a perfect day with the batting getting two for two; Soules, Lay, Waedbaugh, Runion, Conway and Aiken. Belleville players by contrast stayed safely with the exception of Rank.

Guelph Royals Gain Victory Out in the Playdowns by Winning 2-0

(By The Associated Press)

Toronto: While in ballet around London these days at one of the best-hurlers-ever-to-don-the-major uniform, White took the mound before 3,800 home-town fans last night to blank Stratford Nationals ... keeping only four garrison hits in the Senior Inter-County playoff series 2-0 ... and give London a 3-1 advantage in the current best-of-seven series.

All Guelph, the Maple Leafs bounced Galt Terriers out of the contest and advanced to the semi final round by trimming the Terriers 7-2 in a six-inning game at the start by threatening drizzle and finally called by darkness. It was the fourth game in a best-of-seven series in which Guelph won the first two and Galt took the third. Guelph now will meet Kitchener Panthers who inflicted three straight defeats on Terriers.

Bill Leader, steady Guelph right-hander, held Terriers to 4 hits while his teammates hammered three Galt pitchers for 11 hits.

White was aided in his London triumph by snappy fielding. Majors committed only two errors and pulled off three double plays. Ken Lockington, Earl "Schoolmaster" Craig for only 8 blows—on a triple by Johnny Lockington in the first that led to a run—but they bunched them effectively, collecting 4 hits in the first, third and sixth frames.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

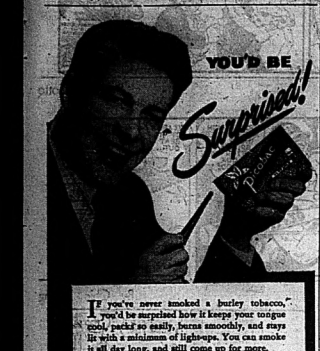
By LAURIE GRAHAM
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Edmonton, Aug. 21. (CP)—If you squint at the Sports' Calendar it should tell you baseball is on its way out for another year and that football is rapping on the door for the 1947 season.

In most sporting circles the talk of the day is "will the Brooklyn Dodgers win the World Series?" left for dead on July 4th of the pigskin sport the big question around these parts is who will field the toughest squad in the Western Canada Football Conference?"

Meanwhile Calgary's Dean Griffing is shaping up his Stampeders for Western championship and a crack at the Eastern winners and the Grey Cup. In Saskatoon, Regina and Winnipeg, the other two entries in the W.C.F.C., are readying their clubs for warfare.

Bob (Calgary Herald) Mamini in looking over the situation says reports from Winnipeg and Regina are that the Blue Bombers and Roughriders are slated to field strong teams with more than a share of American imports to back the attack.



In Winnipeg, sports writers are saying "it's this year or never for Bombers in the grid wars," while the Regina scribes are quoted as saying "unless the 'riders' hit pay dirt this year it will be a long, long time before there's another senior entry from these parts."

The Riders, Mamini writes, have toned everything but the city hall into "backfield." Serving on the squad this year, He adds, however, that there's a think of dissention in some Regina quarters, especially when the Winnipeg import list is scanned.

Winnipeg, he continues, has superior buying power and the cost of football comes high. However, reports don't always make a team great and in both Regina and Calgary the main football theme will be to stop the Bombers".

Speaking of the Stampeders, Mamini says Griffing's men plan to make this a title-winning year and have made quite an impression locally in pre-season scrimmages.

"The unexpected turnout of Frank Ramson has boosted Stampeders stock and the management —as the—believe he'll add a lot of power and deception to the club."

Today we Live in a Greater Canada

Not a dream of the future but a Present Fact!

TODAY Canadian manufacturing has reached record peacetime heights. It has gone far beyond anything attained in pre-war years. During the war we became the world's fourth industrial nation. Now, in peacetime production again, over 980,000 Canadians are employed in manufacturing—compared to 570,000 in mid-1939. And average pay has more than doubled!

For years pulp and paper ranked as Canada's most important peacetime industry—judged by wages paid, production value and exports. It is greater than ever today—with a 46% increase in employment over 1939.

Spurred by war demands, Canada became the fourth steel producer of the United Nations and manufacture of iron and steel products became the industry employing most Canadians. Today there are more than twice as many of us engaged in this industry as before the war.

The textile industry is our other great manufacturing employer. It, too, tremendously increased its output to meet war needs. Today is it, too, far greater numbers of Canadians are employed than in 1939.

CHARLES McNELLEN, in the years 1920 to 1924 was driving a truck for a Toronto electrotyping firm. During this time he studied the business and was appointed as salesman for the same company from the latter part of 1924 until April, 1931. His enthusiasm inspired other men who agreed to assist him in the founding of his own business. Today he is President of "Rotaprint"—one of the largest electrotyping and engraving companies in Canada.

MR. McNELLEN says, "Canada has been good to me. She will prove the same to those young Canadians who are ready to take advantage of the vastly increased opportunities she offers today. Here, within our own country, in every field of endeavour, successful careers await the talented and ambitious."

CHAPTER 12.

Sherry knew she looked well at these gatherings, and everybody seemed to like her. They said nice things about her, and that she was different. Sherry was glad of that. It made Peter more interesting too. He could show his success now by the way his wife was dressed and how she lived. Besides, a wife whom people thought was charming was naturally a social addition.

Was that why Peter had married her?

Sherry tossed a curl back impatiently, and chose a delph blue flannel sports skirt and a pair of gray suede oxfords. Stop snooping! she thought. Peter was very good to her and she was quite content.

Sherry took out a sweater to match the skirt and stroked the angora gently, with her cheek. Then she went into the bathroom.

She turned off the tap and sprinkled bath salts in the water. She wished Marcia was home; they would go out and do something. But Marcia would not be back until tomorrow. Still it was just possible!

Sherry put down the bath salts and hurried into the bathroom. She knelt on the chaise longue and dialed the number, then she lay back against pillows and waited. There was no answer. She hung up disappointedly, and the telephone rang in her hands. It was Tony.

"I saw Dr. Drexell yesterday," he told her, "and he says you can learn to ride now. What are you doing this afternoon?"

Sherry said, "But I haven't any habit!"

Tony said, "That's what I mean. We're going to take you out to Lambert's. Can you go this afternoon?"

Sherry said she could and after she hung up she smiled. She supposed the other half of the "we" was Kris. To the two of them no part of education was so important as riding, and they had talked of teaching Sherry for a long while. She was a little exhilarated.

She did not hurry with her bath though. The luxuriousness of it was still too new. She liked to lie in the scented water that was softened by a mechanical system; and from where she lay she could see herself in mirrors set in the rosy tile. A wooden bowl held cakes of soap in the shapes and colors of different fruits. Sherry chose a peach.

She dried herself with a huge, soft towel and powered with an enormous puff, and after she was dressed she touched her lips with an imported lipstick.

When she was pulling the delph blue hat to the proper angle Tony and Kris came in. They both wore riding clothes and looked romantic.

Tony said, "It smells nice in here," and kissed her. Then he picked up a magazine and sat down on the chaise longue.

Kris lifted up a curl and kissed the back of Sherry's neck.

He said, "My lovely one," and that was all.

"Are you going riding?" Sherry wanted to know, and Tony said no, as though there was not any reason to explain why they wore boots. Sherry supposed it was because they were thinking about habits and things, and said no more about it.

She put some perfume behind her ears and replaced the long stopper in the bottle. Kris took the bottle out to Tony.

"This is the kind I meant," he said, and they smelled the perfume and talked about it while Sherry got her gloves and put a fresh handkerchief and the lipstick in her handbag.

Kris said, "Let's take your car," and Sherry told him to 'phone for it.

Peter had got himself a Ford and had turned in his Packard for a new one for Sherry, and the boys liked to sit behind the wheel of it and feel important.

They spent a long time at Lambert's where Kris and Tony made sure that Sherry was outfitted just right. Then they all had black tea and crumpets and jam at the old English tea room next door.

They got to talking about how Sherry should have something to do, and Tony made quite a long practical speech on what she should do about her writing.

"Even though you don't have to work now," he said, "you ought to keep it up," and he went on to tell her how she should set apart a few hours a day for it.

Kris said, "You know Orville Merriman didn't pick any duds, Sherry. You can write if you want to."

"Oh, I will," Sherry said, "but I just don't seem to get to it."

They went on talking about it and little by little Sherry began to feel ambitious.

She thought, I'll get a typewriter—a pretty one—and really work for two or three hours every day.

She said, "I have a couple of ideas, but they're not suitable for pictures."

"Then write magazine stories!" Tony told her. "Anything so long as you keep at it!"

Tony suggested that they shop for a good riding stable after tea, and they spent the rest of the afternoon visiting stables, getting prices and looking at horses.

When Sherry got home the living room was dark. She lighted the lamps and stood looking at the room. It was beautiful, dully colored and rich.

Long velvet drapes hung in artistically correct folds to the floor. Sherry crossed to them and pulled the heavy cord. The velvet swung dramatically back and she could see the lighted windows and the hills and the cool night sky.

Sherry stared at the night and wished she knew what she wanted. But it was funny when you thought about it, she had never had a thing she really wanted! She had asked for nothing more in life than to live in Hidden House with Mona. Mona had gone away. Then she had really been going to write. Orville Merriman had died.

Then at last she had known. It had been Tony, to marry and love forever. Tony had not loved her. She told herself that everything she wanted was taken away. Maybe it was better not to want anything at all.

When Sherry awoke the next morning she was tired and depressed. Jenny brought the mail in with her breakfast tray.

She tore open a letter postmarked Big Pine.

"My darling," it began, "I worry about you when I'm away, and hope you are taking good care of yourself and getting a lot of rest."

Sherry smiled. Dear, kind Peter, always thinking of her health.

He went on to tell her about the location and a bridge game the previous evening in which he had won $120. "So buy yourself something with it as a little present from me," he wrote.

For the first time since yesterday afternoon Sherry thought of the typewriter. Peter would be pleased about that, and he would be proud of her when she was a success.

"It's lonely here without my beautiful little wife," Peter went on, "but I'd much rather know you're comfortable at home than have you living in tents the way we are here.

"Remember me to the boys and tell them that I still expect them to keep an eye on you when I'm away.

"Until Sunday then, darling, and all my love to you."

Sherry finished the letter and put it down to continue her breakfast. It would be fun when Peter would let her go on location with him, she thought. A wife's place was really by her husband's side, after all.

The telephone rang and Jenny answered it.

She said, "Yes, Miss Stone, Miss Barton's awake," and Sherry flew to the instrument.

She said, "Oh, Marcia! I'm so glad you're back!"

Marcia said, "I just got in, toots, and need a tub. Want to come over?"

Sherry forgot about buying the typewriter or starting a story, and bathed and dressed in a rush.

When she got to the medieval court there was smoke from Marcia's chimney. Sherry did not stop to knock.

The living room with its cheerful fire was welcomingly familiar, and Marcia came out of the bedroom looking as fresh as if she had just wakened from a good night's sleep.

She said, "You look grand, infant. Peter beat you yet?"

Sherry laughed.

She said, "No, he's away too often."

Marcia said, "That's the only way to have them—away."

After they were comfortable they told each other all the news, and it was almost tea time when Mr. Hartley dropped in.

Sherry had met him before and did not like him. Neither did Marcia, but he was a good promoter and they worked together sometimes so Marcia had to ask him to have a cup of tea.

They talked about mines and one thing and another and finally Marcia asked him how Lilly was. Hartley laughed his big booming laugh.

He said, "I haven't seen Lilly for months. She left me flat. Can you imagine that?"

Marcia murmured something about things like that happening and changed the subject, but Hartley wanted to talk about it.

He said, "That's the picture business for you."

Piles Go Quick

Here is a low cost, simple home medicine. It helps make it possible for you to get quick relief from the itching soreness and burning pain of piles.

It is a medical fact that piles come from causes INSIDE your body. They may need internal treatment. Hem-Roid is an internal medicine. Its medical action helps correct some of the internal conditions that cause such intense soreness and pain. Hem-Roid relieves constipation, wakes up your lazy liver and bile, eases the tormenting rectal irritation, and helps heal the sore, painful pile tumors.

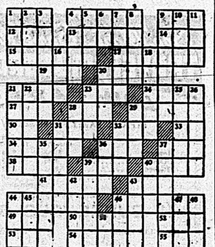
If you want quick and effective relief ask for Hem-Roid today at any drug store. It has helped thousands of pile sufferers. It should help you too. Try it now and see how quickly and easily you can relieve your pile misery.

"Entirely Relieved Stomach Disorders," Says This Man

Felt Fine for Long Time After Taking Short Treatment of Syntona. More recently Began To Feel Fatigued, Rundown—Tells of Same Good Results.

"Twice in the past few years Syntona has given me very remarkable results and I heartily appreciate being able to get this fine medicine when I need it," said Mr. Ernest Peterson, 1034 Barton Street, East, Hamilton, Ontario, in a recent report.

"Five years ago, I was having a bad time with stomach disorders. Indigestion, gas bloating after meals and souring of food had become so bad that I had lost my appetite and was feeling sick and miserable from day to day. Rheumatic pains set in my joints and muscles and I became subject to backache, headaches and dizzy spells.



"Reading about Syntona I got some and in a very few weeks the trouble was entirely relieved; the aches and pains went away and my food began to digest properly without giving me any distress afterwards.

"For a long time I continued in very good health having no trouble whatever. Then, a few weeks ago, I began to feel rundown and remembering how Syntona had helped me before, I began taking it again. Now, once more, this medicine has given me effective relief. My strength has returned, I am able to sleep better, and whereas I was feeling fatigued and wornout, I have now gained back my lost energy and can do my work without tiring as I did before.

You too, can rely on Syntona in times such as that described by Mr. Peterson. If your suffering is caused by common disorders of the stomach, kidneys, liver or bowels you have the assurance that Syntona has helped many others suffering in this same way. It is pleasant to take and results are quickly felt.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at Dolan The Druggist.

FOR SALE BY TENDER

Tenders will be received by the undersigned solicitors for the executor to 12 o'clock noon (Daylight Saving Time) on Thursday, the 28th day of August, 1947, for the purchase of the following valuable farm lands:

The north halves of Lots 7 and 8 in the 8th Concession of the Township of Hungerford in the County of Hastings, containing 200 acres of land more or less, and known as the Christopher J. Carlston Estate farm.

This farm is watered by the River Moira and two wells and is an ideal farm for dairying. Upon the premises are said to be a large brick dwelling, two barns and complete outbuildings. There are said to be approximately 100 acres of work land and 100 acres of pasture and valuable wood land. This farm is located near highways, schools and churches, and is in an excellent state of cultivation.

Inspection may be arranged with present tenants of property at any time. Possession can be given as of March 1, 1948.

Terms may be arranged if tender contains a substantial cash payment.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

DATED at Belleville this 29th. day of July A.D. 1947.

SHOT FOUR MEMBERS OF ONE FAMILY, SUICID

Carroll, Ia., Aug. 21 (AP)—Clayton Wessel, 46-year-old farmer died last night, becoming the third victim of a Sunday night 'ambush shooting.' Triple funeral services will be held for Clayton, his brother Elgin, 52, and his daughter, Lois Mae, 16. A coroner's jury decided the deaths were arranged for Lizzie Jason (Mrs. Clayton) Wessel, 45, who told authorities she committed suicide after shooting four members of the Wessel household. Mrs. Wessel's son, Donald, 13-year-old son, Donald, is reported recovering.

Interesting Talks Given on Holland And Trip to Canadian Rockies

Newton (Special) The August meeting of River Valley W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. John Kaag with more than thirty ladies present.

Mrs. James Thompson, of Stirling, a war-bride from Holland, gave a very interesting address on the Holland of the past with its dikes, its many industries before the arrival of the Germans and the devastation in May 1944, of three million acres of land, when water-powered factories were put out and electric trains were stolen.

The year of 1944 found Holland with no electricity for lighting, no telephones and no radios.

All that there was to buy was 2½ per pound, butter $40 a pound and petrol $10 a bottle. Rations consisted of one slice of dark bread daily, with no butter, sugar or meat. Women stood in line for several hours to get two pounds of potatoes and even then many were disappointed and did not receive their quota because supplies were exhausted. Many people starved to death, and others were sent for slave labor to Germany.

Canucks Warmly Welcomed

The speaker told of the enthusiastic greetings received by the first Canadians to enter the country, when at length Holland was liberated after five long years of despotism. She is grateful to the allies for their assistance, but said it was a terrible price to pay and several thousand Canadians lie buried in Holland cemeteries.

Mrs. Thompson gave a vivid description of the country with its bulbous industry and flowers. She said there are no large houses in Holland and that although the people are four million acres, but there are no slums and very little poverty. The children do not roam the streets but attend movies. She also found Canadians friendly and hospitable.

Most of Holland do not do as much home baking as most of their Canadian sisters, as they buy all their pastry. Giving them more time for the cleaning of their homes, which are always immaculate.

A book filled with pictures of her native land, and a doll dressed in one of the native costumes was passed around by Mrs. Thompson.

She also delighted her hearers with vocal solos and piano selections from the music of her native land.

Tells of Canadian Trip

A second speaker, Mrs. Earl Morrow, entertained the members with an interesting paper describing a trip through the Canadian Rockies. En route she attended a special institute meeting at Emerson, and visited relatives at Brandon, Man. A drive through Saskatchewan was hot and dusty, over almost level country with wonderful prairie sunsets. Near North Battleford the drive was very similar to one over the Oak Hills. In that section she found friends from Stirling.

In Alberta the Cathedral Range between Lake Louise and Banff is magnificent as are also the Rockies around Big Bend. At Revelstoke in the heart of the mountains she attended Harvest Thanksgiving services, viewed the irrigation system and saw sage brush at Kamloops, B.C. and enjoyed a one-hundred mile trip through Fraser Canyon.

Mrs. Morrow displayed a large number of snapshots taken during the trip some of which of unusual beauty. Showing parks with lovely flower beds blooming in October. The lakes, firs and cedars; holly hedges, rock gardens, the famous "Butchart" gardens and roses blooming in December in Deacon Hill Park, all pictured the enjoyment and beauty of the trip. Christmas was spent in Victoria, B.C., where the twilight recitals every afternoon, as well as the Yule log ceremonies and carol singing were most entertaining.

Spent Easter in Seattle

Easter found the party in Seattle, where 20,000 dozen daffodils and a large array of tulips were ready for shipment to other parts of the United States and to Canada. In February Mrs. Morrow attended the Spring opening of Parliament, with all its magnificence and pomp, when the Governors at the Crystal Gardens and at the Empress Hotel were a joy to behold.

At the W.I. Fiftieth Anniversary tea, real handicrafts were displayed including a spinning wheel and loom in operation. With the women in charge explaining all the working details.

The speaker visited the home of the salmon industry, where thousands of fish return to the place of their birth to spawn and die.

She closed her address with the thought — "As Canadians let us be proud of our homeland and give a welcome to the newcomers."

Thanks was expressed to both speakers for their interesting and educational addresses.

Mrs. Clarence Stuart, who arranged the program spoke briefly on Canadian poetry and Mrs. J. Sager contributed "Current Events;" Mrs. E. Kent presided for the business period and Mrs. Ralph Ulman was at the piano.

At the close of this very profitable meeting the hostess and her assistants served delectable refreshments.

Netherlands Will Retain Authority Over Rich Areas Of Sumatra and Madoera

VAN MOOK

By STANLEY SWINTON

Batavia, Java, Aug. 21 (AP)—Acting Governor-General H. J. Van Mook declared, Wednesday The Netherlands would retain authority over the rich areas of Sumatra and Madoera occupied by Dutch troops since July 21. "Areas that have been made safe shall remain safe," Van Mook said in a radio address.

Authority of the Indonesian Republican government over the Dutch-occupied regions of the 3 Islands, which flank the Island of Java, would not again be recognized.

Elected quarters in Batavia interpreted the address as indicating that the Dutch might be preparing a drive on the Indonesian Republic's capital, Jogjakarta, other fundamental violations of the cease-fire order halted.

The Netherlands army headquarters said today Dutch forces had captured 214 casualties from the Indonesian violations since the order, requested by the United Nations Security Council, went into effect Friday.

President of the republican govern- ment, attended a cabinet meet in emergency session at Jogjakarta to plan for removal of their capital, it was learned in reports of dispatch from that city said. The cabinet was understood to be considering full-scale resumption of hostilities with the Dutch.

The Dutch cabinet met at the Hague in emergency session to discuss Indonesia, it was learned yesterday in the United Nations Security Council.

Van Mook's address was the sharpest criticism he ever had leveled at the native republican government. He blasted the Jogjakarta regime for a record of "murder, arson and torture" from Aug. 9, 1945, when he said Japanese Field Marshal Terauchi from Saigon instructed Dr. Soekarno and Mohammad Hatta, currently president and vice-president, to establish an "independent Indonesia."

Constructive, idealistic Indonesia had failed in their efforts to overcome Japanese influences he said.

(As mentioned in Holland, Van Mook declared a federal interim government would be formed as soon as possible and that orders from the Indonesian government were no longer valid. He forbade Indonesians to obey such orders.)

TREE PLANTING URGED

Riotous Egyptians Demand Britain Withdraw Troops

Police Fire On Mob, Arrest 7 of Moslem Brotherhood

Cairo, Aug. 23 (AP)—Thousands of riotous Egyptians, some shouting "down with America" clashed with police in demonstrations of protest against the rejection of United Nation Security Council recommendations on Egypt's dispute with Britain.

Police seized seven followers of the Moslem Brotherhood.

The acting Prime Minister, Ahmed Khashaba, broadcast an appeal "to every sincere patriot to help the government maintain order." Prime Minister Mustapha Fahmy Nokrashy Pasha, is at Lake Success pressing for United Nations action.

The number of demonstrators swelled about 5,000 at one time in Cairo. They re-formed after they were scattered by police fire.

They demanded evacuation of British troops "or Egypt may flood."

"Down with America, the traitor!" demonstrators shouted. "Down with Brazil, the traitor! Egypt defies the Security Council. Egypt defies the whole world."

They called also for revenge on "traitorous Egyptian police." Some Moslem Brotherhood members were arrested.

More than 10 of the demonstrators injured were reported. Some police fire at officers struggled to bring the throng under control.

Mounted officers first stormed the crowd with clubs and whips. Ashar Mosque. Demonstrators dragged them from their horses and seized the reins. Then more reinforcements were called up and met the crowd at Bab-El-Hadid Farida Square, barring its way to the centre of the city.

The officers said only the police opened fire with rifles and shotguns, after them ignored warning shooting over the heads of the demonstrators.

Demonstrators, arming themselves with sticks from a passing truck, then began smashing the windows of street cars.

The demonstration, in which several thousands were engaged, came a few hours before the Security Council debate on Egypt was to take up again Egypt's demands for withdrawal of British troops from the Nile Valley and for an end to British participation in the administration of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

CLEARED OF CHARGE

Baltimore, Aug. 22 (AP)—Mrs. Irene Hough, 27, was cleared yesterday of a charge of murdering her baby, the 9-year-old daughter of her husband, Paul, who was shot through the heart at their home July 31. Judge Joseph C. Kozlovsky dismissed the charge after Mrs. Hough testified she acted in defence of herself and her one-year-old son.

Prime Minister King Officially Opens Exhibition

Toronto, Aug. 23 (CP)—The Canadian National Exhibition which opened here today is officially the 64th but actually is an anniversary of 75 fairs held in dozen Canadian communities since 1852, 150 years ago primarily to increase the quantity and quality of Canadian hemp.

Today all of Canada's industries — each a vital part of the country's self-sufficiency economy program — received a preliminary bit in showing their wares to the public. Over 1,000,000 persons who are expected to throng the 350 acres of exhibition grounds in the next two weeks.

The spacious parks and plazas surrounding the huge C.N.E. grounds today include the original site of Toronto, so named in 1749 for the Indian word meaning "place of meeting." The site stretches from Lake Ontario, here in the Niagara Agricultural peninsula, to the fringe of the improvement of hemp culture in 1792. Some 50 years later the Agriculture Act was passed for the manufacturing.

Exhibits where today radio and television are shown were a self-opening gate, a stump puller, cheese factory, and breaking machines. In ensuing years the exhibition was held variously in Hamilton, Cobourg, Kingston, Niagara, Brockville, London and Hamilton.

Prior to the official opening this afternoon, the 350 acres and buildings of the exhibition opened their doors this morning and several thousand persons were on hand to wander through the specially-decorated and renovated halls.

The official opening will be made by Prime Minister Mackenzie King in mid-afternoon with the ceremonies being conducted at the large bandshell surrounding Lake Ontario. Invocation will be pronounced by the Rev. A. R Beverley, Anglican Archbishop of Toronto.

At an evening ceremony tonight, the exhibits of the British Commonwealth will be opened at the Government's Building. Radioed addresses of good will are expected from Prime Minister Attlee, Prime Minister Chifley of Australia, Prime Minister Fraser of New Zealand and Union of South Africa Premier Smuts of South Africa. Messages also are expected from representatives of other Commonwealth Dominions, India and Pakistan.

Britain's Plan to Produce More Food To Beat Crisis Praised by Press

London, Aug. 22. (Reuters)—Editorials headed "forward to the Land," "Now or Never," and "Battle for It" reminded Britons today of the grievous determination of the days of Dunkerque as the British Press reacted sympathetically to the administration's plan to produce more food to beat the crisis.

Some fierce attacks on the government still persisted but the public opinion as reflected in the press was, in the main, determined to support the government's "battle for food."

Most comment indicated that one of the main issues in the crisis would be whether the Chancellor Tom Williams' plan to raise the output of farms by £100,000,000 (£400,000,000) in the next four years, though all newspapers carried editorials, would arouse reactions regarding Britain's decision to suspend convertibility of sterling into dollars.

The Times of London declared: "The dollar crisis is a sterling crisis. It can only be resolved, without a ruinous reduction in overseas purchases and the standard of life, by an increase in output and sales abroad sufficient to prevent this. For the rest of the non-American world the crisis has the same tale to tell."

The Manchester Guardian said it would be "touch and go whether the severance of trade between the western hemisphere our and the rest of the world will be severe enough to stop and break the rise in commodity prices which has added so heavily to our troubles. No doubt the price factor will help to cut the domestic effect of the drop in purchasing power."

The farm plan is big and, though it will take time, the Guardian could in time bring substantial relief."

In an angry mood, The Express said: "destroy the government. It is the root cause of the depression now, developing new sources of supply to take the place of the dollar purchases of the past.

"Our ministers are incapable of any sort of action. New methods require new men."

Other comment:

The News Chronicle, Liberal: "Even if there is about two years too late, but there is no use crying over non-existent milk. . . . From out of the good earth and under it Britain means to save itself."

The Daily Herald, Labor: "This is no vague appeal; it is an emphatic declaration of the nation's reliance on those who work on countrysides."

AMERICAN LABOR POLICY SWITCHED TO NEW TRACK

Taft-Hartley Act Now In Full Force Which Protects Rights of The Employer and Worker

Washington, Aug. 22 (AP)—The Taft-Hartley Act went into full force today, switching American labor policy to a new track.

At the same time evidence mounted of a deep-seated difference of opinion among supporters of the new law as to its basic philosophy.

This difference is between:

1. Those, like Representative Fred Hartley (Rep.-NJ.), who hold that labor unions should take full advantage of the law, and that it is up to them to protect their rights they are violating the "spirit" of the act.

2. Those, like Senator Robert Taft (Rep.-Ohio), who hold that while the law is designed to encourage free collective bargaining and peaceful relations, employers can make any agreements they please if these don't violate the letter of the Act.

Taft made his views clear when John L. Lewis and the soft coal operators battle with the coal operators over a new type of contract, but he had little comment on the Hartley law.

But Hartley told employers in an address at Chicago yesterday that they now have an Act which protects their rights, asking them:

"Aren't you willing to stand up for the actual language and the true spirit" of the Act, he will bring them to Washington and ask why.

Now just what the spirit of the law is proper is a question for strikes and breaches of contract, but a number of employers have agreed that it was unions that stifled which the unions don't authorize.

Meeting in convention of the union-busting Associated Employers, 80 days after Congress passed the law over President Truman's veto.

The Congress of Industrial Organizations and the American Federation of Labor had no immediate new comment. They opposed the law bitterly before its passage.

"The A.F.L. will determine its policies," was unions for guidance at the annual convention in Chicago September. CIO officers believe the CIO executive board will meet soon for the same purpose.

Just before the Act went into effect, the last-minute agreement was reached at Detroit between the Ford Motor Company and the United Automobile Workers (CIO) in which Ford granted a union shop to 107,000 production workers.

Gold and Copper Rush Under Way In Harricana Area

Noranda, Que., Aug. 22.—Gold and copper claims staked in the Harricana River area 200 miles north of Noranda, the latest mineral find in the district, the mining recording office here reported yesterday.

It was disclosed that close to 80 licences had been issued in the last five days, prospectors and mining engineers, reported to have been chartering planes at both Noranda and Amos for the run to the district. The area is said to be located near the junction of the Harricana and Nottaway Rivers.

Arrivals from Rouyn and Amos are droning northward taking prospectors and company representatives to the area, described as insensitives to the discovery of gold and copper.

Unofficial sources say a three-foot vein has been traced for 300 feet and that it carries gold assaying above the half ounce mark and that stringers off the main vein have been assayed up to a full ounce. They report that preparations for a magnometer survey are going ahead.

Credit for the strike goes to Edward Jardin and Jack Thurber of Anglo-Huronian Explorations Ltd. Larder Lake, Anglo-Huronian has had a long history in the area, since the spring, working along the Larder Lake belt.

RED NEWSPAPER SUSPENDED

Frankfurt, Aug. 22 — (AP)—The American military government in Bumen yesterday suspended until Sept. 15 the Communist party newspaper Tribune Der Demokratis for violation of military government directives regulating German publications. The suspension announcement did not specify the nature of the offence.

Dispute Settled Between Union, Shipping Firms

Ottawa, Aug. 22. (CP)—Settlement of the dispute between the Canadian Seamen's Union (C.L.C.) and Great Lakes Shipping companies was announced today by Labor Minister Mitchell.

The settlement, worked out at a series of conferences between the minister and opponents in the controversy, removed the threat of a strike that had been hanging over lake shipping for weeks.

The statement said the differences between the companies and the C.S.U. "have been adjusted and an agreement had been finalized."

Terms of settlement on the basis of "communists" or "Communist Agents" boarding vessels of the Canadian Seamen's Union, C.S.U. shore delegates before going aboard, sign a statement that they are not communists and that the Union itself give them a list of boats they may legally, to the best of its knowledge.

It was on this major issue that the strike threat has developed.

The C.S.U. claimed the companies involved — Canadian Steamship Lines, Paterson Steamship, Ltd., and Colonial Steamships, Limited — were violating their collective agreements by demanding that the C.S.U. agents sign non-Communist declarations before boarding vessels.

In return the union set up a strike withdrawal from its original position, the statement said, and the board released now with proceedings that would permit application of collective contracts shortly for the 1948 season on the lakes.

BUILDING COSTS HAVE PASSED PEAK SAYS MINISTER

Asserts More Houses Being Built in 1947 Than Ever, Likely Over 70,000

Ottawa, Aug. 22. (CP)—Reconstruction Minister Howe today asserted that Canada this year will build more houses "than ever before," but agreed that "difficult objective of 80,000 units may not be reached.

"We may not reach our objective of 80,000 housing units this year, but certainly we will pass the 70,000 figure," he told a press conference.

Approximately 20,000 units would be built this year under government-aided plans and from 50,000 to 55,000 units under private plans. Costs are "abating, under government plans had begun somewhat this year."

Building costs have passed their peak, "I think," said Mr. Howe, "and will come out a little higher but efficiency in building has gone up and there are less costly details in securing materials. In fact, that is the most favorable factor."

It was a trifle cheaper to build a house this year than last. For example, a house which cost $10,000 to build last year now could be erected for several hundred dollars less.

Boy Loses Life As House Burns

St. Sauveur, Que., Aug. 22 (AP)—Nicholas Gauthier, 3, Quebec City, was burned to death early today and his mother received serious burns when fire destroyed their summer cottage here. Chief Laurentide Montcalm said.

Mrs. Bastien's burns were received while she was helping her six other children to escape from the burning cottage, the fire-chief said. Mrs. Bastien was in hospital.

Police said the fire began when Mrs. Bastien attempted to refuel the lamp shortly after returning to the cottage after taking sun baths. An inquest is scheduled for later today.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Aug. 23 (CP)—Synopsis: The weather over Ontario is extremely variable this morning, with little change since yesterday. The extreme southeastern part of the province is blanketed with fog for which will clear by early morning. The weather map indicates little change in the general weather picture for the next day or two. Temperatures should rise slowly over all the province for the weekend.

Bomb Explosion Shakes City Hall In Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Aug. 22. (AP)—An explosion believed caused by a bomb shook Philadelphia's City Hall today and wrecked the first floor room of the Detective Bureau.

The explosion caused considerable damage. Glass partitions and doors were shattered.

Firemen said something exploded in steel locker".

Fire apparatus converged on the city hall and hundreds of persons crowded into the smoke-filled doorway.

Thomas J. Gallowe, director of Public Safety, was conferring with Judge Vincent A. Carroll in his office when they had the explosion.

The two lifted right off my feet by the explosion," Judge Carroll said. "I thought the whole of Billy Penn had toppled off the tower." (A statue of William Penn, English founder of the city, is atop the building.)

Detectives said the blast was centered in one of the Bureau's locker rooms occupied by the narcotics squad.

Detective William Leinhauser said the explosion blew a hole in the room, were dazed by the terrific concussion. Debris in building is block away—but escaped with nothing more serious than scratches.

Inside the room, a row of steel lockers was demolished. Several cabinets were wrecked and chokes of fumes filled the corridors. There was no fire.

BRITISH ACTION DOES NOT AFFECT CANADIAN TRADE

Finance Minister Abbott States Half Buying By Britain in Canada Paid in U.S. Dollars

Ottawa, Aug. 22 — (CP) — A secret, unwritten "understanding" that 50 per cent of the payments for British purchases in Canada would be made in U. S. dollars or gold, has left Canada appreciably in the clear as far as the British move to suspend the convertibility of her sterling is concerned.

This was disclosed yesterday along with statements by Finance Minister Abbott and high British government officials on the suspension, announced yesterday in London and Washington. Sum of the statements was that the British action would have little consequence to this country or on its external trade.

In a statement issued on behalf of the finance minister, it was indicated Canada still could depend on a badly-needed flow of United States dollars as part payment by Britain for her purchases of food and other commodities in the Dominion.

Canada's dollar deficiency adverse trade balance with the U.S. has been running far short of U. S. dollars herself.

Statement by Abbott

Commenting on the British move, while Mr. Abbott was in Washington with high British financial experts, Mr. Abbott said:

"To-day the British have taken action taken by the United Kingdom yesterday to restrict transferability of sterling between countries of the sterling area. This does not alter the financial arrangements between Canada and the United Kingdom under which part of Britain's purchase in Canada is financed from the proceeds of the Canadian loan and part by payment of United States dollars or gold."

Mr. Abbott said it is clear the British action "will not in any way" affect trade and other financial relations with British Columbia or other parts of the sterling area. Canada's trade and certain sterling in legitimate transactions with those areas can convert into pounds if they so desire into Canadian dollars.

The Canada-United British and Canadian officials had conferred in Washington and had agreed that Canada would be hard hit by the British action unless Canada could find the general dollar shortage rather than the sterling problem alone.

'Bomb Rendered Safe'

Portsmouth, Eng., Aug. 22 — (Reuters) — Although "bomb rendered safe" wrote an end to the all-night death parade in mild-channel by two British naval "bomb disposal" experts today.

The bomb, a German 1,000-pounder, had been hauled up from the sea one of the trawlers a dredger close to the berth of the Royal Naval Barracks, Queen Acquitans at Southahpton Tuesday.

Three hose, hanging by the stern-dest of threads, was 20 delicate balanced that the slightest possible to move the bomb from the dredger bucket without risking detonation. Two grappled and six liners berthed within 500 yards.

After the dredger had been towed into the channel, huge pumps were set into operation worked through the night until nose and detonator were removed.

Travelling Britons Limited to $20

London, Aug. 22 (AP). — The government ruled that after next Saturday travellers may take only £5 ($20) in sterling notes into or out of Great Britain.

The order, part of the British program to fight its way out of an economic crisis, supersedes a law under which travellers could carry £10 ($40) in or out of the country.

Two 'Pen' Officers Suspended Until Investigation Made

Commissioner Gibson Says No Charges Laid

Ottawa, Aug. 22 —(CP)— Two officers at Kingston Penitentiary have been suspended pending the outcome of an investigation into the escape of three long-term prisoners Monday, Maj.-Gen. R. B. Gibson, Commissioner of Penitentiaries, announced today.

The Commissioner withheld the names of the officers and their duties pending investigation. He said no charges had been laid against them.

Yesterday, Commissioner Gibson said that in his investigation into the escape, which through government officials on the suspension, announced yesterday in London and Washington. Sum of the statements was that the British action would have little consequence to this country or on its external trade.

In a statement issued on behalf of the finance minister, it was indicated Canada still could depend on a badly-needed flow of United States dollars as part payment by Britain for her purchases of food and other commodities in the Dominion.

107,000 Ford Employees Will Decide Contract

Detroit, Aug. 22 — (AP)—Officials of the Ford Motor Company and the United Automobile Workers (CIO) agreed last night on either of two alternative contracts and left the choice up to the union's 107,000 Ford production workers.

Signing the pact seconds before the Taft-Hartley Act became effective at midnight, the parties thus ensured extension of the union shop at five company plants, subject to membership ratification.

The new labor law provides that such a shop may only be established through a majority vote of a firm's employees.

Under the agreement, union members will be presented with a choice between:

1. A contract which includes a reported $300,000,000 pension plan, details of which were announced, a general seven-cent-an-hour wage increase and other economic benefits." The other contract included an additional wage increase of five cents an hour for certain skilled work.

2. A contract providing a 15-cent hourly wage increase following the Daugherty wage pattern of 11½ cents-an-hour increase plus six paid holidays vacations.

Each contract provided extension of the U.A.W.'s union shop at Ford plants, if ratification if accomplished Sept. 15.

The matter of a paid lunch period, reported to have been a last-minute snag in the negotiations, was to be turned over to the impartial umpire for decisions.

Both contracts were retroactive to May 29 when the new wage adjustments are concerned.

Ratification of either contract according to the estimate of one union official, would "shoot three weeks."

Reject Demand Of U.S. for Review Petkov Sentence

Sofia, Aug. 22 (AP)—Russia's representative on the Allied control commission today rejected the United States demand for a review of the death sentence of Nikola Petkov, top-ranking anti-communist leader.

Petkov was executed last Saturday to die as a conspirator against the communist-dominated Fatherland Front Government. No date has been announced for the hanging.

The United States denounced the trial as a farce today and four days ago the United States and Britain sought a review of the sentence.

The rejection was announced open, as was expected, by Ivan Lavrentiev Lavrentiev, Soviet member and acting deputy chairman of the commission.

Americans May Get Less Meat Next Summer Unless Rains Come Soon

Washington, Aug. 22 (AP) — Unless good rains break the mid-western heat wave quickly, American housewives may as well resign themselves to some meatless menus next summer, and possibly some higher prices for what meat they do get.

A special Agriculture Department report today said the drought that has cut crop weather has cut the nation's pasture feed to the lowest level since the severe drought year of 1936. And this year's corn crop will largely determine the size of the United States meat supply in 1948.

A smaller meat supply would hit consumers hardest in the summer since that is the season when livestock marketings normally drop to their lowest level.

The department said the heat wave, which has gripped the mid-western corn belt since July 4, has reduced the corn crop prospect to 2,770,000,000 on July 15 to 2,437,000,000 bushels by Aug. 15—a decline of 333,000,000.

The government's original corn goal was 3,000,000,000 bushels. And officials have said that amount of 2,770,000,000 bushels would be needed to maintain meat production at the present high level of 155 pounds a year for each person. Even if the last 10 years was 2,839,000,000.

Moreover, the weather continue unfavorable and reduces prospects still further, the government might find it necessary to trim wheat export goals and ask Congress for new authority to limit use of corn for making whiskey and other industrial products. It had such authority during the war and until July 1 this year.

BASEBALL GAME MONDAY CANCELLED

Word was received in the city late this morning announcing the cancellation of the Home of David versus Belleville "All-Stars" baseball game scheduled to be played at the Belleville Exhibition Park on Monday evening next. Mr. Walter Harden, of the Canadian Legion, sponsors the game, receiving a telegram this morning stating the entire personnel of the Home of David ball club had been stricken with illness in Western Ontario, apparently as a result of food poisoning and the team would be unable to play. As advertised date of August 16th. Patrons having already purchased reserve seat tickets for this game receive the full price refund on their tickets by applying at the place of purchase, Mr. Harden stated.

Toronto Man Given Suspended Sentence

"You have shown that you are capable of getting hold of yourself but not getting hold of yourself for the past seven years, and I am going to take this into consideration," Magistrate T. D. Wills told Archibald Sutton, Toronto who pleaded guilty to a drinking and driving and theft in magistrate's court today.

"For this reason, I am going to suspend sentence for a year with the understanding that costs of the case will be paid and restitution of the money taken to be made to the owners," the bench added.

Sutton, testifying in his evidence given by Police Sergeant Douglas Ellis was involved in a drinking party with a friend Enzie Fish, of Brantford a few weeks ago. Fish alleged that when he "came to," the car, still in each and Sutton were missing. later it was discovered that Sutton had taken the car and driven to the hospital, later returning it to a place near the original starting place.

"Both these men were apparently drunk and as you know Sutton may have received permission to take the car," Magistrate Wills suggested.

Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan read two convictions which had been registered against Sutton dating from 1923 to 1935. Since then, he said, Sutton had been gainfully employed and had gone straight.

With these facts in mind, the court imposed the above-mentioned sentence.

Training School on Radio Assembly Line Being Set Up in Tweed

By Stewart-Warner-Alemite Corp.

A new assembly plant and training school for radio and electronics division of the Stewart-Warner-Alemite Corp. of Canada, Ltd., Chicago, will be established in Tweed, Ont., Arthur Young, general manager of Stewart-Warner Electric Ltd., of Chicago, has announced.

The primary purpose of the establishment of the plant in Tweed of the company is a training school for a number of young women and girls of new residents of the company.

Following their course of instruction, the employees of the new branch will engage in actual assembly of radios under the personal supervision of members of key personnel of the Belleville plant who will move to Tweed in the immediate future.

Leases Fair Buildings

The Stewart-Warner Alemite company has leased the pavilion on the Tweed Fair Grounds for a period of one year, during which other operations will be carried on in a new building to be erected.

The first consignment of machinery for the new branch have already arrived in Tweed and operations will get under way, to get it into production as soon as possible. Young women and girls of the village and district will be employed providing they are not already working. Applicants must show their unemployment cards.

There is a possibility Mr. Young told Tweed officials, that if sufficient female help is available, if export markets are maintained and if conditions remain reasonably normal that an expansion project will be undertaken.

Picton New Canadian Record Achieved By Holstein Cow

Picton, Aug. 23—A new Canadian record for milk in the senior four-year-old division for Holsteins at three times a day milking has just been established by Iona Pride Ormsby Hengerveld, of Fairland here. The production record, which runs one half for twenty years, was one of 28,893 pounds milk, with 942 pounds butter fat. The butter fat is the sixth highest in Canada for the class.

As a three-year-old, the same animal produced 20,300 pounds of milk, making 48,093 pounds of milk in two years. This record was completed despite the fact that in the fourth month the cow suffered an injury to the udder and milked only three quarters for the remaining period.

In June the previous record was established in 1937—and was one of 27,681 pounds milk with 1,000 fat.

No special attention was given the new record holder. Brian Dodds, manager of Far Land Farms, Picton, this is a family affair and in addition to 35 to 40 pounds of grain daily, the cow is fed large quantities of hay and ensilage. She spends the summer in pasture with the other cattle but enjoyed the luxury of a box stall.

Far Land Farms with Hays Ltd., Belleville, have established a dairy herd of pure bred young stock. Manager Dodds, recently sold for $30,000 to the Canadian National Holstein Club at Courtland, N.Y. Mrs. Dodds is a Picton girl.

Picton Golf and Country Club was host to lady members of Peterborough, Belleville and Picton golf clubs, Wednesday afternoon. The Kingston team won the prize for low net score with 311. The Belleville team resided second with 563. The first low net score for players went to Mrs. E. M. Hodson of the local team, a score of 71. Mrs. George Faulkner of Belleville had 72 and Mrs. Hank of Napanee, 77.

Miss Betty Brown, president of the Picton Ladies' club made the presentation of prizes. Mrs. Devlin, Kingston; Mrs. Hank of Napanee and Mrs. Dolan of Belleville thanked the members for their hospitality and remarked on the beauty of the local course. A buffet dinner was served by the local committee. Napanee will be host to the club next July.

Flying officer Ray said the town yesterday and there were hundreds of them. These were the real thing as many persons picked them up. The idea of real fossil hunting originated with the RCAF at Trenton, at whose station a field day is being held next Wednesday. The plates carried advertising messages concerning this event and many of them had lucky stickers entitling the finders to lucky prizes.

Marmora 7-Year-Old Boy Lands Maskinonge Weighing 10 Lbs.

Marmora (Special) Aug. 22—The youngest fisherman in Marmora today is Jackie Black, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Black who landed a ten-pound muskie unassisted, last Wednesday afternoon. The young devotee of the Walton clan hooked the fiery beauty in the depths of Crowe Lake, near Marsh Point.

The fish put quite a struggle before it gave in to the young angler, who wrestled it into the boat in fighting fashion. Master Black hooked, fought and landed the fish without assistance.

Subduing the fish does not end in the boat was another matter. His sister Audrey, and Margaret Ann Smith, who accompanied him on his fishing trip, came to the rescue and the combined efforts of the trio were needed for Mr. Muskie.

The Black family also were adorned with fish steaks for Thursday's dinner, proving that the luck of the game runs to the girl who gets out there and flies.

Police Blotter

Pleading guilty to drunk driving a resident of Holloway Ont., was given seven days in jail, his car impounded for three months and his license suspended by Magistrate Wills in court today.

One inebriate pleaded guilty and took the usual ten days in jail through the courts, but no fine funds while another will spend the next three days in jail in default of payment of $25 for a second offence of intoxication.

All was quiet around the police station last night, merely two drunks being apprehended and given cell accommodation overnight.

HELICOPTER CUT COST MOVIE PRODUCTION

Hollywood, Aug. 23 (AP)—A motion picture studio yesterday rented a helicopter and sent cameramen and two stars aloft to film two chase sequences— one following a speeding automobile through a wheat field, the other hovering over a speeding car. Director William Ray said the stunt knocked -10,000 off production costs.

Police Promise Action Against Cyclists Who Violate Traffic Rules

Culmination of the receipt of numerous complaints from city and district people, the Ontario Provincial Police and the Belleville city police will join forces immediately in an effort to get some order out of the chaos caused by youthful and older bicycle riders who nightly throng the Bay Bridge.

"Several warnings have been issued," Chief Police Walter Probert said, "and this is the final one."

"We are not fooling and in future if the traffic regulations are not observed by these youngsters and oldsters, too, they will tell the story to the magistrate," added Provincial Police Sergeant J. Kay.

Several of the riders, it was pointed out, have not been observing the law regarding their bicycle equipment. Some have not been showing lights while re-

21 Muskies Caught In Little Lake At Peterborough

Peterboro, Aug. 22 — (CP) — If anyone happens to be a pretty good angler in this community he or she could nonchalantly cast his or her line out of any window and probably drop the bait into a fine fishing lake. So far this year, 21 muskies, 10 to 40 pounds, were caught in Little Lake, which is completely within this city's limits, and five blocks south of the business section.

WHISTLE BRINGS MORE GULLS AND DOGS

New York, Aug. 22 —(AP)— The city's outlying fruit reservoirs have been plagued by hordes of seagulls, so municipal fathers installed a supersonic whistle to give them an earache and chase them away.

The department of water supply today excitedly announced the result: More seagulls plus a representative turnout of the area's dogs.

C.N.R. Net Operating Revenue for July Lower

Montreal, August 23—Operating revenues for the Canadian National system, all-inclusive, for the month of July amounted to $36,029,000. Operating expenses were $28,413,000. The net operating revenue was $4,617,000. In July, 1947, revenues totalled $34,445,000; expenses $28,827,000; and net operating revenue $5,618,000. For the first seven months of the year operating revenues were $253,170,000; operating expenses $227,938,000; and net operating revenue $22,135,000. Comparative figures for 1946 are: revenues $220,502,000; expenses $196,483,000; and net operating revenue $25,150,000.

DROWNS SWIMMING IN PUBLIC POOL

It's Not the Heat, It's the Hostility

Chicago, Aug. 22. (AP)—It isn't the heat—it's the hostility —that's making people miserable during the midwest's prolonged hot spell, a scientist says.

And if it's too hot to sleep in your double bed, kick your bed-partner out of bed, suggested another sage, saying which partner.

By "turning hat into a mental obsession," heat-bexed people risk interference with their gastric juices and getting indigestion, said Dr. William S. Sadler, Chicago psychiatrist.

Fretting and fuming about the heat doesn't help—but only makes you hotter because it steps up the body's metabolism rate.

Col. Johnson Called "Back-Seat Driver of American Transportation"

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Aug. 23 — (CP) — Col. J. Monroe Johnson, director of the Office of War Transportation, who provoked a sharp "back-seat driver" comment earlier this week when he clapped an embargo on United Kingdom coal shipments over lines of Canadian National Railways, has been called the "back-seat driver" of American transportation.

He has been called a lot of other things since complimentary since April, 1941, when he took over the job of bossing United States railways, air lines, coastal shipping, trucks and, even private motor car drivers.

To make sure that the existing transportation facilities measured up to war needs it was necessary for Johnson to do many things in a dictatorial way.

He told the American public they could not drive above 35 miles an hour, prohibited special trains for football games and that sort of thing, limited the use of sleeping cars and at one time commandeered about all available space for use of returning war veterans.

He has told the American railroads what schedules they could operate and what kind of freight services they could give the general public.

Pretty soon he will be out of a job and a lot of people will be glad — including Col. Johnson, who will be 70 years old next May and is ready to retire.

Southern Africa

The late President Franklin D. Roosevelt set up the O. D. T. in 1941; a few after the Japanese plastered Pearl Harbor with bombs and blasted the United States into the Second World War.

Its purpose was to co-ordinate transportation policies to obtain the best possible war service from a system geared to peace-time economic depression. The first director, Joseph B. Eastman, died on the job and Col. Johnson, then on the staff of the Interstate Commerce Commission, took over.

He is a veteran of the Spanish-American war, the Mexican border skirmish of 1916 and the First World war.

He served through all American campaigns in France with Army of Occupation and returned home a colonel.

Born in Marion, S. C., Johnson started out to be a lawyer but switched to engineering and established a civil engineer concern in his home town when — it still is but small with 5,000 people.

He is a big, solid man with ruddy-seamed face under a thatch of gray hair. His speech is a pleasant southern drawl but sometimes his voice is like a steamboat siren.

This year Congress chopped his annual appropriation and the agency expects to go out of business about next March 1. That will be his last job, he says, he says.

He was full of hurt surprise when the Canadian government protested his embargo aimed at the C.N.R. "Above put lots of coal here on American railroads and theah newah was any fuss," he drawled.

That's how he's been operating in the O.D.T., sitting straight ahead to his objective no matter whose corns get trampled, and that is the spirit in the line outside about the international boundary and the niceties of international law.

Estimated 1,500 Persons Slain In India Riots

Jullundur, India, Aug. 23 — (AP) — Military authorities estimated today that 1,500 persons had been slain in the last 12 days by fierce Sikh terrorism who they said had swarmed through at least 150 small Moslem villages on this side of the Pakistan border, pillaging, burning and looting.

Women and children were numbered among those reported slain by the Sikhs, who apparently were engaged in a war of extermination against the thousands of Moslems trapped in the Hindu portion of newly-divided Punjab Province.

Military and political leaders were frankly worried last reprisals by the Sikhs provoke a new slaughter of Sikhs and Hindus stranded in Pakistan.

In New Delhi, the government of India moved to dispatch troop reinforcements to the Punjab, where military authorities said yesterday they lacked manpower to cope with the riots.

The government declared that the situation in the west province was "still grave" but that it was gradually being brought under control.

Hindus and Sikhs have been fleeing from Lahore, which is now in Pakistan, while Moslems have been fleeing from Amritsar, holy city of the Sikhs, which is in India.

All White Cheese Requisitioned For Export to U.K.

A telegram from the Dairy Products Board which stated that all white cheese made on and after August 19 was requisitioned for export to the United Kingdom, provoked some lengthy discussion on the Belleville Cheese Board last evening.

Mr. Heath, provincial president of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association, stated that he had received no word about the new order up to the time that he had left his office at 4:00 p.m. The salesmen had heard nothing official about the new order either. Mr. Hart left the meeting and returned with a copy of the telegram which was sent to Cook and Sons, cheese buyers, which clarified the situation. At the time on the message was 8:33 p.m. It was understandable why so few of the salesmen had heard of the government's new ruling.

In addition to stating that all white cheese would be requisitioned, the telegram went on to say that only buyers with export licences could purchase the cheese. Cheese now in the factory was included in the requisition order and factories were asked to discontinue the making of colored cheese. Small small cheese and special orders were cancelled by the new ruling. The price of the cheese was set also. First, second, and third grade cheese are to be sold at a flavor level of 22c, 24½c, and 24c, a pound, respectively. The order further stated that these prices applied f.o.b. factory "shipping point, or grading station shipping point."

This brought on further discussion concerning the payment of trucking charges. After lengthy debate it was decided that the cheese would be sold f.o.b. shipping point with the factory paying the trucking charges and the warehouse service charge to be deducted from the invoice.

Two lots of cheese were then offered for sale and the bidding was brisk. The total number of colored cheese, 856, was sold at 27½ cents, two cents higher than the price fixed last week.

A total of 2,833 white cheese was sold at 25 25/16 cents a pound. The factories offering their cheese for sale and the amounts for each factory are listed as follows:

Alleged Robbers Sent to Trial

Oshawa, Aug. 22. (CP)—Theodore Gregor, 19, of Toronto and Frank Polanski, 23, of Hamilton, were committed for trial in a higher court today when they appeared on charges of armed robbery in connection with the $14,000 holdup of the Pickering branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce August 13.

"If all goes well," Max, Ont., acting manager of the bank at the time of the robbery, and Eugene Quantrill, Whitby, Ont., teller, identified the two as the men who made the bank staff lie on the floor while they went through the tellers' cage and then had put them in the vault and fled in a car.

Two guns produced in court were identified as those taken from the bank at the time of the robbery, along with three dopekt slips which police said had been found on the pair.

Gregor and Polanski were arrested in the Toronto area shortly after the robbery.

Sweeter Maple Syrup Sought

Montreal, Aug. 22 (CP). — More maple syrup of a sweeter nature will be available in a few years, according to Dr. J. W. Marvin, botanist of University of Vermont, in Montreal for the annual meeting of the American Bot-anical Society.

"If all goes well, it will be possible in a few years to obtain a more abundant maple sap of a sweeter nature," he said in an interview. "Already we have succeeded in isolating a physiological race of maple trees whose sugar output is superior. The sap is more abundant and sweeter. Trees now is grown in a nursery. When it is multiplied, it will be possible to increase the sugar output of our maple trees through a gradual renewal of the trees."

DISPUTE SETTLED

The announcement said the companies agreed to a government-supervised vote to be taken as quickly as possible to decide if the majority of unlicensed personnel "do not want to be part of C.S.U. as bargaining agent.

"If the vote shows a majority in favor," said the minister's statement, "the companies will enter into bargain in good faith with the C.S.U."

The impartial vote would tend to forestall off-season growth of the Canadian Lake Seamen's Union, the C.S.U. rival that was formed by J. A. (Pat) Sullivan after he resigned the C.S.U. presidency on the claim that union was Communist-dominated.

Members of Sullivan's union last Monday rejected the terms of a proposed new contract, adherence to contract terms regarding "preferential hiring" and grievances to be settled under contract terms or through the commissioner.

Still remaining to be ironed out was the question of the wording of applications for union dockage passes to ships. If a satisfactory application form is agreed upon, the company will issue the passes within a week of receiving the application.

Verbal Pitfall Fails To Trap Constable

City police gave evidence today that a motorist overstepping parking in the city will be rigidly enforced. A city resident who decided to "fight" a double-parking ticket found to his financial sorrow that the police department means business.

And so in magistrate's court this morning he parted with $7.50 which included a five-dollar fine and $2.50 costs, this being the minimum assessment under the Highway Traffic Act.

Questing the officer who placed the ticket on the erring automobile, the accident defendant to know why a ticket was not placed on a truck which was parked directly behind his car.

"Did you put a ticket on that truck?" he asked.

"No," replied the officer, with a trace of a twinkle in his eye.

"Why not?" the resident persisted.

"Because I handed it to the driver instead," replied the police officer.

SHARE PART OF EARNINGS

New York, Aug. 23 (AP) — A. Ridgefield, N.J., paper company, at a meeting of its board today agreed a contract, called the first of its kind in the United States, giving workers a 30 1-3 per cent share of all the company's earnings above a fixed cost of raw materials and supplies. The Continental Paper Company and the United Paper Workers, Local 299, parties to the contract said the first payment under the plan made earlier this week and amounted to 30 per cent additional wages to each employee.

Bilbo Dies Before Dispute Over Seat In Senate Settled

Poplarville, Miss., Aug. 22 — Mississippians, who never deserted Theo G. Bilbo under the fire of caustic criticism of his racial beliefs, planned their final respects today for the state's most spectacular political figure.

The arrangements would have been to the liking of the 69-year-old Senator-elect who died of heart failure at New Orleans yesterday after a long illness which began with cancer of the mouth and began complicated by inflammation of the nerves, partial paralysis and a blood clot in the brain.

The body was to be brought to Poplarville to lie in state at Bilbo's "dream house."

A detachment of the Mississippi National Guard was ordered by Governor Fielding L. Wright to stand as a guard of honor for the man who served as State Senator, Lieutenant-Governor, twice as Governor, and who was elected to the United States Senate three times.

Tomorrow the casket will be taken into the nearby Baptist Church where funeral services will be conducted. Bilbo will be buried in the church cemetery, near his parents.

Bilbo's death ended without decision "the man's" last political fight—a drive to take his seat in the Senate despite bi-partisan opposition from those who charged that he was unfit for the post.

Flying Immigration

Not at the beginning of the war, nor even at the end of the last world struggle two years ago did the general public have any thought that immigrants would be coming into Canada in numbers by air before the year 1947 was out. But some weeks ago Ontario Province welcomed planeloads of newcomers from Britain who are going to make their home here and add their industry to the resources of Canada. Now the news has been announced by the Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Reconstruction, that some time in October there will begin the transportation of immigrants from the displaced persons camps of Europe to Canada and that transportation will also be by ship with the incoming new citizens brought by both air and sea numbering at the rate of between 2,500 and 3,000 monthly. Demands on shipping space have been very heavy and air transports are to have a place in the trek of these displaced persons to their new homes in the Dominion.

It is a far cry from the method of travel of immigrants to the New World from the earliest days and even from the world of a few years ago to the handling of immigration by air transport. The inventors and designers of planes could not have looked in the early days for such general use to which the planes are now put in expediting other services and in speeding up movements of individuals and groups of people.

These "displaced persons," who will make their way into the New World could not have foreseen even a short time ago that they would be hopping the ocean and coming down out of the air to the Dominion. A romance, to them it will be to be passengers on these great air argosies.

New Air Speed Record

One man has flown faster than any other being. Commander Caldwell of the Ingleby, Virginia, United States Navy pilot who flew over the three-kilometre course of 1,663 miles, attaining an average speed of 640.7 miles an hour. To the average man that speed means something far beyond his usual experience that he can not comprehend it. To those who have flown in international races for record it means everything, triumph of the spirit of courage, satisfying triumph of engineering and construction which went into the plane.

Commander Caldwell has inched up on the former holder of the world mark, Col. Albert Boyd, of more than 10 miles an average of 623.8 miles an hour over the same course. The previous record had been held by a Hilton, Group Captain Donaldson, at 616 miles an hour. Only three speeds indicate how much is involved in the flying and in the engineering in modern speed aviation. The increase in speed is not as much as compared with the difference between the speed of the motor car and the average plane's rate of flying. Man and plane make the unique and necessary combination adding to the rate of speed.

The future of the speed plane is intriguing. The world has heard much of the problem to be faced when flying attains what is called the super-sonic mark. With scarcely a day passing but something new being added to man's achievements, human interest is fixed on the plane which has come more and more into the lives of the people in getting from place to place and in carrying mail and other articles requiring rapid transportation.

International Festival

Britain is the mecca of thousands of visitors from overseas who will attend the International Festival of Music and Drama opening in Edinburgh on Monday. This is a cheerful note that is sounded at a time when there is so much discussion of economic straits United Kingdom Information Office says that "so great is the demand for accommodation that the list of private householders who have volunteered to put up visitors in case of need was being drawn up more than a week ago. Parties of young people are going to youth hostels and for weeks branches of travel agencies all over the world have been answering inquiries about this unique artistic event. It will be the largest and finest festival of its kind and is setting a precedent which may well become a tradition."

In a time of recovery from war, it was a happy thought to plan for a festival of almost every kind of music in a choice of 56 performances, ballet, plays and concerts. In its character the festival is international and artists from twenty different nations will take part.

Fleeing the Soviet

Occupied Germany reports a movement directly opposite to one which was taking place a few months ago. Then people fled the Soviet zone and smuggling themselves into the area controlled by the United States forces. This is because they want to escape the restrictions imposed on them by the Russians, and to get more food.

For a long time, Berlin was into the Soviet zone. The Russians were almost openly encouraging it, for they wanted the labor thus provided. To this end, they were maintaining rations at a higher level than those in the British and American sectors. They could do this, because they control the food-producing areas of Germany.

Apparently the Russians are no longer encouraging this activity, which probably means that they have to send more food home to keep their own people satisfied. Nor could they for long persuade the Germans it was better to live under a Communism at its regime. Some eyes are apparently being let right. — Montreal Gazette.

WHEN SECOND IS BEST

I would not quarrel with my friends;
I'd keep their faith in me.
Since friendship on good will depends,
Good-natured I would be,
But when a story I disclose
Of conduct strange or fine,
The second fellow always knows
A better tale than mine.

How many times, when dullness reigned,
I've thought to break the spell,
To keep the company entertained
A tale I've dared to tell.
But never have I run it through
Proved right in every line;
But what the second fellow knew
A stranger tale than mine.

I love my friends, but when we meet
I'll not be first again
Some startling story to repeat—
A follower I'll remain.
Let him who will his tale begin
Of triumph or mishap,
A better yarn I want to spin—
Just like the second chap.

INFORMATION BOUNDUP

Why are some girls called flappers?

"Flapper" in the slang or colloquial sense of the word in current type came into general use in the United States and Canada about 1920.

It occurs many times in Harry Leon Wilson's "Bunker Bean," first published in 1912. The author has Bunker say: "See how they skirts in the back? That's the Mimis and the new fashion. Every one's only a flapper, but the old one's a regular dame." The latter, later, according to the novelist, Bunker Bean "saw that she was truly accurate in describing a girl over eighteen, he was sure."

The term was further popularized in 1920 when "This Side of Paradise" and "Flappers and Philosophers," two books by Frances Scott Fitzgerald, were published.

"Flapper" originated in England and was current there and in America with a somewhat altered meaning. In England the term was applied colloquially to a young girl, a girl just "coming out," or an unmarried girl of present-able manners and appearance from about the years 1915-20.

Literally a flapper is something that moves with a loose, flapping motion. Accordingly, some authorities suppose that the term applied as a girl or a flapper from the large bow often tied to her hair, which flaps about as she moves.

It may be, however, that "flapper" in the relation was suggested by "flapper" in the sense of a fledgling bird. In British sporting slang a flapper is a young partridge, wild duck or other game bird that has grown to be old yet able to fly, being also merely to flap. According to the Oxford dictionary, the term has been used in that sense since 1711 at least.

During the 18th century "flapper" had been applied to young girls of questionable morals. For instance, in "Passing English of the Victorian Era," James Redding Ware defines "flapper" as "a very immoral girl; but a rare creature."

Before World War I the term was applied in Britain to a subdebutante, a girl not formally introduced girl. During that war it was employed to denote young girls who, in imitation of Mistinguett, bobbing their hair, dressing in boyish costumes, smoking cigarettes and substituting for men in driving trucks and doing other manly duties. It is generally supposed that flappers were so called in allusion to the flapping of their bobbed hair and the movements of their jaws while chewing gum. "Flapper's delight" was Tommy Atkin's name for inferior cigarettes or substitutes he prided themselves on their popularity with flappers.

In the United States the word was first applied to sophisticated, venturesome girls who go to extremes in dress and fashion, particularly in matters of dress.

Macedonians Hail Anniversary Of Independence

BY DANIEL DE LUCE

Skoplje, Yugoslavia, Aug. 22—(AP)—Hitch up your oxen, comrades, and celebrate Macedonia's "Independence Day."

Perhaps four years ago, a poet with fierce mustachios and a patriotic heart, led Macedonians in a revolt for Independence.

Turkish rulers crushed the revolt and killed the poet. The poet-soldier, but the spirit of liberty lived on in his people.

His mental remains are in all Macedonians. If you complain of life as cold as you can get it, it is all right to drink it that way before meals, after meals, between meals, when you are very warm or when the weather is very warm.

Put any ice in a pitcher or glass of water does not necessarily keep the water cold enough for drinking. It suits me best when it is thoroughly chilled or cold but not too cold for comfort.

In the bright sunlight of Independence Day Macedonian hospitality is almost overwhelming.

St. Ilias' church was washed white of brick and limestone in a walnut grove at the edge of the village on a special holiday target. Oxcard lumber all night to reach the feast. Women don their finest embroidered jackets and spangled kerchiefs. Men wear trays of sweet cookies, fruits and cheap toilet articles.

Gypsies are region in the teeming picnic grounds. A wilderness of tents in a scarlet dress whispers, "may your head not ache for long, brother," and sets to tell a fortune.

Macedonian Day sounds an air as oriental as Omar Khayyam and as limber as Fred Astaire. Dancers of silver coins dances here and there.

Men sit about on sheepskin blankets as mothers pause with nursing babies. A wandering minstrel slow simmers over dozens of campfires.

Inside the church, the faithful kiss the glass-covered icons and place little candles beside the altar. The floor is strewn with fragrant herbs.

There is no political oratory. The people simply have a good time.

WHEN YOU ARE THIRSTY

Why is it that nothing underpinned he says he never quenches a drink of water, almost entirely on what he gets in tea, coffee, fruit juices, etc. On the hottest day he takes a small drink of water in the course of a day's work as a duty. I don't understand it at all, for I drink water when I am thirsty and I drink a lot when I want water.

My question of drinking "ice water" is an individual one in all instances. If you prefer water as cold as you can get it, it is all right to drink it that way before meals, after meals, between meals, when you are very warm or when the weather is very warm.

Put any ice in a pitcher or glass of water does not necessarily keep the water cold enough for drinking. It suits me best when it is thoroughly chilled or cold but not too cold for comfort.

In very hot weather or when you are working or playing hard you should drink water in a heated atmosphere. It is always advisable to take small sips along with each drink of water — this is a physiological necessity. Incard lumber all night to reach the feast. Women don their finest embroidered jackets and spangled kerchiefs. Men wear trays of sweet cookies, fruits and cheap toilet articles.
